Mr. Ben McLean who has been spending the Christmas holidays, with friends in the city, returned yesterday to his home in Cleveland, O.

Miss Gertrude Cox, of the Normal School, Toronto, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cox, East City.

Mrs. Clarkson of Toronto, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Crane.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Rogers of Cooksville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rogers for the King's Daughters dance.

Mr. Leslie Kennedy of Chicago, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Thompson.

Miss Jessie Matthew and Mr. Jim Matthews of Toronto, attended the annual dance of the King's daughters on Monday evening.

Mr. Gerald Rackham of Toronto, was in the city for the dance on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Graham entertained very pleasantly in honor of their daughter, Miss Gladys Graham, at a jolly dance held in the dining-room of the Empress Hotel last evening. Guests to the number of one hundred and thirty-five present. Refreshments were served from a table effectively [illegible] a huge bronze basket, filled with illuminated poinsettias, and arranged with charming individual flower holders, holding delicate ferns and hyacinths. Music for dancing was provided by Paul Glidhon's orchestra Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Anna Golding, Miss Jessie McFarlane and Miss Wallace of Toronto, Miss Stewart and Miss Grace Ware of Montreal and Mr. Shaw of Toronto.

Mr. Shaw of Toronto is the guest of Mr. Fred Shannon.

On New Year's Day, a very enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Pringle, 225 George street, when friends gathered to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the wedding of their hosts. Guests from the city, from Tweed and Kitchener, were present, and enjoyed a sumptuous dinner and supper and an evening of music. Assistants were Mrs. J. Rutherford and Mr. Elgin Griffin of Tweed, the latter the best man, who cut the cake in a very able manner.

THREE-YEAR TASK.

OTTAWA, Jan. 2.—(Special).—A commission to revise the Dominion statutes will soon start a three years' work.

ACCLAMATION IN APSLEY VILLAGE

Little Interest in Nomination Day in the North Country.

APSLEY, Jan. 2. — Nomination day passed off very quietly in Apsley, so little interest being in evidence, that only about half a dozen people attended the meeting. The only nominations were for last year's Reeve and Councillors, who, therefore, were re-elected by acclamation. Of the Councillors, only one, Everett Hales, was present.

Chandos Township's nomination was quite a contrast, there being a number of aspirants for office. The following nominations were made: For Reeve: Robert Scott, Dave Campbell and Alan Caldwell. Councillors: Phil Tanner, John Jones, Lloyd Young, William Garrett, Albert Hall, Andrew Post.

Dave Campbell declined to run, so the Reeveship will be contested by Robert Scott and Alan Caldwell, with strong odds in favor of the former. Of the Councillors, Phil Tanner decided not to run again.

The watchnight service at St. George's Church on New Year's Eve, in spite of the storm, was attended by twenty-five people, one family driving seven miles each way.

St. George's Church has purchased a cinema, and gave a picture show on Wednesday evening in the Parish Hall, which drew a large crowd, twenty-seven dollars being netted. Stanley Windsor operated the machine, and the show went off without a hitch.

The Sunday School of St. Stephen's Chandos had their annual Christmas Tree and Entertainment in the school house on Tueday evening when a very enjoyable time was spent. Recitations were given by each of the scholars and two choruses were rendered very creditably by all of them collectively. Mr. Dean very kindly presented each of girls with a present besides a bag of candy and nuts for all the scholars. In addition each child received a gift for attendance, the average being very high. Phyllis an Josey Tanner shared the distinction of having attended every session throughout the year. Mrs. Dean was accorded a vote of thanks for her kindness, as also were the ladies for providing eatables. Rev. C. Spence presided at the function, and paid a warm tribute to Mrs P. Tanner, the teacher, for her untiring energy and zeal.

QUEBEC GOVERNOR DIED EARLY TODAY

Had Been in Office Only One Month--Taken Ill on Return From Montreal.

QUEBEC, Jan. 2. — (Canadian Press). — Lieutenant - Governor Brodeur, Lieutenant - Governor of Quebec, died at 8.15 this morning at Spencerwood, after being in office only one month. He was taken ill on his return from a trip to Montreal last Friday. He rallied slightly from time to time, but last night it was seen that the end was not far off, and the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church were administered.

He was born at Beloeil August 21, 1862, the son of Touraint Brodeur, one of the patriots of the Rebellion of 1837.

THREE MEN HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Broke Through the Ice on the Pickerel River

PAKESLEY, Jan. 2. —Herbert Killen, Leo Killen and Ed. Harrington, who are employed at a lumber camp near here, had a narrow escape from drowning when they broke through the ice on the Pickerel river. Leo Killen and Harrington were close to the shore but Herb Killen was some distance out and he struggled to get on top of the ice but without success. The other two men secured poles and extended them to where Killen was struggling in the water. Killen was finally rescued and is none the worse for his experience.

A BIG RUSH TO BUY GOOD WOOD

Hardwood Cut and Split at $11 and $12 Finds Brisk Demand.

Last week I advertised eight cars of heavy body hardwood cut in stove length and split at eleven and twelve dollars a cord, That the public generally appreciated this good wood value is evidenced by the fact that five of the eight cars were disposed of in a few days. The eleven and twelve dollar price will continue until the remaining three cars are sold and that will not be many days with the present weather. Orders will be filled in the order they are receive. It pays to burn good hardwood and save coal. W. H. Baker, Peterboro Planing Mill, Telephone 1452J. 1d

And So They Named Her

There are many ways of choosing a name. When the medicine man of the Glacier National Park Indian reservation called to fasten a title on this little daughter of Chief Crow Feathers, he found her astride this pony Thereupon, he called her "Carry Crow Feathers." And that was that.

POWER PROJECT WAS DISCUSSED

Co-operation With Canada Suggested by Governor of New York State

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Particular reference to Canada in connection with the development of Hydro Electric Power, was made by Governor Alfred E. Smith in his message delivered to the legislature of New York State here to-day.

The Governor suggested that co-operation with the Canadian authorities in matter of development of power of International streams should be affected through the medium of New York State power authorities. A public corporation to be composed of three citizens of the State appointed by the Governor. "Such an authority," the Governor said, "would be empowered to co-operate with the Canadian authorities and perhaps eventually to form a general commission with a similar group from Canada for the development of the Niagara and St. Lawrence Powers. The New York authority should function on all power projects and undertakings in this State.

OBITUARY

MRS. KATE MALSCH.

The death occurred on Monday afternoon, Dec. 31, at the residence of her sister, Mrs. E. J. Coles, 246 Prince Street, of Mrs. Kate Malsch, beloved wife of Percy Malsch, after a long illness.

Born in Luton, Bedfordshire, England, she leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, two sisters, Mrs. E. J. Coles, Prince Street, and Mrs. A. Church, of Edison Avenue, and a father and several brothers and sisters in England.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence, 32 Edison Avenue, to Little Lake Cemetery

DEATH RATE WAS LOWER LAST YEAR

Comparison of Vital Statistics for Year 1922-23

The vital statistics for last month as compared with December, 1922, shows a decrease of 11 births, a decrease of one marriage and a decrease of 6 deaths.

The births for the month of December, 1922, amounted to 60, while last month they amounted to 49.

The marriages in December, 1922, were 16, and last month there were but 15, which makes a decrease of one.

The death toll for last month was 25, and for December, 1922, it amounted to 31, which leaves six less deaths in December than a year ago.

Comparison of the year 1922 and 1923 is as follows:

	1922	1923
Births	584	578
Marriages	192	212
Deaths	359	355

MAKING MONEY MAKE

Brief but important Lessons in Finance. Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

A chain store has advantages when it comes to buying; an independent store has advantages when it comes to selling.

The main advantage of the chain store is that it can buy its goods cheaper. It can afford to buy in larger quantity and to hire highly trained men to do the buying. In short, it can be its own wholesaler. This does not eliminate altogether the wholesaling expense, though, because the chain store has to do the wholesaler's work. It is estimated that a chain store is fortunate if it can save one-third of the expense of the wholesaler.

The local store has the advantage when it comes to the selling. It is managed by an owner who is naturally more vitally interested than a hired man. His policies are his own; they are not laid down by some central office. He can change them to suit conditions whenever he wants to. In short, he can put his personality into his business.

NO REPRESENTATION FOR CANADA IN U.S!

OTTAWA, Jan. 2. — (Canadian Press).—The present Dominion Government has from time to time discussed the subject of a Canadian Minister to Washington, but, so far as can be ascertained, there is little likelihood of an early appointment. Following the practice of several years, the Canadian Parliament last year appropriated $80,000 for Canadian representation at Washington, and the department of External Affairs has a representative and correspondent in the American capital who keep the Government at Ottawa informed on matters concerning the different departments. It has been intimated that this office might be enlarged but there has so far been no official indication of the Government's intention to appoint a minister, at any rate, at an early date.

Since the present Government took office unconfirmed romour has associated the names of both Hon. W. Fielding, Minister of Finance, and Sir Lomer Gouin, Minister of Justice with the position. On his retirement from the Presidency of the Privy Council in 1920, Ron. N. W. Rowell was, it is understood, offered the appointment as Canadian Minister to Washington, but declined to accept it.

QUEENS OF HOLLYWOOD REFUSE TO REHEARSE DRAMA OF APARTMENT

Mabel Normand and Edna Purviance Won't Tell What Brought Chauffeur Armed to Oil Operator's Rooms — Police Believe Jealousy the Cause.

CHAUFFEUR DENIES.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 3. — (Canadian Press). — The mystery surrounding the shooting of Cortland S. Dines, Denver oil operator, by Horace A. Greer, chauffeur for Mabel Normand, film actress, in Dines apartment Tuesday night, still was unsolved last night, in spite of various statements by Dines, Greer, Miss Normand and Miss Edna Purviance, another screen actress, who were present at the time.

Officers handling the case declare themselves satisfied with the theory that Greer shot Dines in a fit of jealousy, despite the fact that Greer, who admits the shooting, says that was not the reason.

Greer says he pulled the trigger on Miss Normand's .25 calibre pistol, which, for some reason, he was carrying, because Dines appeared about to hit him with a bottle following the chauffeur's efforts to induce the actress to go home.

Dines says he made no motion, and gave no indication that he was going to attack Greer, but he fails to throw any light from his side on the automobile driver's motive.

Chauffeur Infatuated.

Miss Purviance and the police, the latter also reporting the former's alleged opinion, charge Greer with infatuation for Miss Normand and intimate that jealousy was the cause of the shooting.

Miss Normand, in retirement in her home, nursing what is described as an attack of appendicitis, is seeing no one and is refusing to talk. Miss Purviance likewise has gone into retirement, and Mrs. Edith Burns, companion and housekeeper for Miss Normand, has not been found. The police sought Mrs. Burns to question her in regard a telephone conversation she is said to have had with Miss Normand while the latter was in Dines' apartment.

As an offset to the theory that Greer was jealous of Dines' attentions to Miss Normand, is the report in Hollywood circles, and among Dines' friends in Denver, that he was engaged to marry Miss Purviance. Dines denied the rumor, saying he and Miss Purviance were only close friends. But Miss Purviance did not deny it last night and greeted Dines affectionately when she went to see him at the hospital. Dines is said to have a good chance to recover.

Will Arraign Greer.

Greer was questioned again yesterday and reiterated the main details of his part in the shooting. Police said a formal complaint charging him with attempted murder would be issued today.

"Mrs. Burns was in communication with Dines' apartment," Greer told the police. "She told me as I stood nearby that she had heard Dines say that Miss Normand could not come home. I went into a room where I knew she kept her gun, grabbed it and drove to Dines' place."

After arriving at the place, Greer told the officers, he was kept waiting for several minutes in response to his knock. "I was peeved and cold," said Greer. "When I got in the room I asked that Miss Normand come with me. Dines sneered and reached for a bottle which stood on a table in the centre of the room, and I fired. I didn't wait to see whether I had hit him, but rushed from the room, got in the car and drove to the police station. I did not see Miss Purviance at the apartment."

Questionable Friends.

Questioning as to whether his motive might have been through jealousy, Greer told the officers that he thought of her as the rest of her friends did. "I heard Mrs. Burns say she would be better off if she had fewer friends of this class, meaning Dines," said Greer, "and it was my purpose to protect her."

Greer said that his true name is Horace A. Greer and that his father is John Greer of 1486 Amsterdam avenue, New York. At one time, he said, he worked for a motor car company in Buffalo.

A later despatch says Miss Mabel Normand has been removed to Good Samaritan Hospital, suffering from nervous breakdown. Strain, excitement and worry growing out of the shooting caused the actress to break. She was not permitted to see anyone at hospital, where Dines is also a patient.

Before going to the hospital Miss Normand told the police her version of the shooting, which in many parts contradicted that of Greer. She ridiculed the idea of Greer being infatuated by her and declared that she treated him as she did other servants.

She stated that she was in the room with Edna Purviance when the shooting occurred. Miss Purviance was in evening dress, but it was not hooked up.

"I didn't want this chauffeur to see Edna with her dress unhooked, so I went in and said, "Edna, where's your powder puff?" Then all of a sudden I heard these terrible things. I thought they were firecrackers."

NEW LOW PRICE FOR THE FRANC

Lack of Demand Ascribed For the Re-action of Exchange — Sterling Drops Five Cents.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.-Lack of demand for British or French bills in the New York market influenced lower prices for Sterling and franc exchange to-day, the latter falling to 4.93 cents, a new low price for all time. Demand Sterling reacted to 4.27 1-4, a drop of nearly five cents below Monday's quotation.

Most of the other continental exchanges also fell lower in rather list less trading.

Foreign exchange experts declared they could find nothing in news development either abroad or in the United States to account for the heaviness of European exchanges. They said also that the volume of trading was unusually small.

Generally it was believed that buying of dollar exchange in London and Paris was the chief factor in the slump, but it was stated there were no unusual commercial requirement to meet at this time.

Record Collection of Edmonton Taxes.

EDMONTON, Jan. 3—More than half a million dollars ahead of the best previous year is the record of tax collections through the Department of Municipal Affairs for the year 1923, according to the Provincial Treasurer. When business was stopped Monday night, at the end of the calendar year the total collection stood at $3,710,000, which is about a million dollars better than last year and exactly $630,830 better than 1920, the record year heretofore.

MYSTERY OF LOST PETS SOLVED.

HAMBURG, Jan. 3.—(Associated Press)—Residents of Hamburg and the adjoining city of Altona have found the skins of so many of their pet cats and dogs for sale in furshops that the police have begun a general prosecution of fur dealers who buy skins from the general public. The charge made against them is receiving stolen goods.

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio, Jan. 3.—Canadian Press).—Four persons, one man and three women, occupants of an automobile bearing a Michigan license, were instantly killed last night when the machine was struck by a Big Four train at Huntsville, near here. Papers found in the man's pockets bore the name of Ernest R. Herron, of Royal Oak, Michigan.

NAME JUDGE FOR DELORME TRIAL

Mr. Justice Martineau Will Preside When Case Re-opens in February.

MONTREAL, Jan. 2.—Mr. Justice Martineau has been assigned by the Attorney General's Department to preside over the trial of Father Adelard Delorme on a charge of having murdered his half-brother Raoul Delorme, the Ottawa College student. The case will be taken before the Court of King's Bench next month. Official announcement of the selection of Mr. Justice Martineau as presiding judge at the Delorme trial was made to-day.

R. L. Calder, K.C., will prosecute for the Crown and the defence will be in the hands of Alban Germain, K.C. In order that the terms of the court of King's Bench shall be more evenly distributed over the year, it was decided recently to hold the forthcoming term in February instead of in March as has previously been the custom.

RUSSIA FIGURES ON INCREASED PRODUCT

State Planning Commission Will Increase Output At Reduced Costs.

By JOHN GRAUDENZ.

MOSCOW, Jan. 3. — (United Press).—The State Planning Commission has announced its plans for production the coming five years.

According to this plan the output of platinum will be put at 6,209 pounds a year, or 50 per cent. of the pre-war output.

The salt output is to be increased from 55,000,000 poods (a pood equals 36.1 pounds) to 88,000,000 poods.

Other products to be increased include:

Pig iron, from 25,000,000 poods to 75,000,000 poods; metal, from 230,000,000 poods to 520,000,000 poods; Chemical products, from 9,000,000 poods to 27,000,000. The production of electrical material will be increased from a value of 18,000,000 gold rubles to 43,000,000 gold rubles. Cotton production will be increased 250 per cent. The manufacture of woollen cloth will be increased about 70 per cent.

The plan states that under it the entire production of Russia's state industries will be increased from the present total of 1,062,000,000 gold rubles to 1,920,000,000 gold rubles. It is also stated that the cost of state industrial products will be largely decreased to consumers. With the increase in production.

Charges Against Liquor Dealers

REGINA, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press)—Cyril W. Morse and Vaughan S. Apedaile, suspended operatives of the Saskatchewan liquor commission, were yesterday committed for trial on three and four charges respectively of attempted false pretences and impersonating peace officers.

At the same hearing Morse was convicted of stealing one glass of beer and fined $5.00 and Apedaile was convicted on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and fined $25.00 all charges arising from visits made at several city hotel bars and shops on the night of December 22, when they are alleged to have demanded from proprietors $100 for guaranteed protection against raids for three months.

FINAL WARNING TO EGG DEALERS

Conviction in Edmonton For Selling Eggs That Were Unfit For Food.

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.— (Canadian Press)—"You will be fined $5 and costs in each case or ten days' hard labor and if you come up here again for putting out bad eggs for sale you will not get any fine, you will go to jail for a long term."

These were the remarks of an Edmonton magistrate last week in convicting Z. Moreau for offering eggs for sale that were unfit for food, and the offering for sale of eggs which were not marked, or improperly marked, according to a report which has just been made to the Dominion Livestock Branch here. A Dominion egg inspector informed the court that this man had been warned seventeen times. On one occasion the inspector found five dozen and eight eggs offered for sale labelled "New Laid." These graded 2 dozen and 8 firsts, 2 dozen and 4 very poor second, and 8 rots.

Similar charges were also made on the same day against Rodnunsky and Co. and Wainberg and Co. In each instance there were several charges against the defendants, the magistrate inflicting fines of $5 and costs on each charge.

The egg regulations under the "Livestock and Livestock Products Act 1923" have been effective since last July and altogether many infractions of this law have been made unconsciously or under misunderstanding of its meaning, it is now being evident that the Dominion Department of Agriculture is not prepared to excuse violations indefinitely. All charges made by the Dominion Department of Agriculture to date have been sustained and this should constitute a warning to those handlers of eggs who are not complying with the regulations in question.

Turkish Editors Were Acquitted

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press)—The Tribunal of Independence, or Counter-Revolutionary Court, yesterday acquitted the three Turkish editors arrested early in December and charged with treason for having published a letter from Aga Khan, of India, on the subject of the Caliphate. Aga Khan is spiritual head of the Mohammendans in India, East Africa and Central Asia. The editors are connected with the newspapers, Tannin, Idkam and Tevhid Evkiar.

The Tribunal which acquitted the editors recently sentenced Loufti Bey, head of the Turkish bar, to five years at hard labor on a treason charge for sending a letter to the Caliph telling him that his resignation would be disastrous to the dynasty and to the country.

BOATS USED TO CARRY FOOD TO INHABITANTS OF INUNDATED AREAS

River Seine Swollen By Fortnight's Rain Makes Muddy Venice of Whole Districts--Electric Power Plants Shut Down and Railway Stations Closed

STILL RAINING.

PARIS, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Paris and its suburbs, recovering from the effects of the New Year's frolic, awoke yesterday morning to realize that something serious was going on in the River Seine. The heavy rainfall of the past fortnight had brought down the waters into the river to such an extent that the aspect was one of seriousness. The officials at the Foreign Office, arriving at their desks after the New Year's vacation, found that the water was sweeping into the basement of the building, where important archives were stored. The fire department was immediately called upon and brought pumps to the building in the hope of clearing the basement of water and saving the valuable papers stored below. Fear was expressed that the rise in the river might bring about such a situation as prevailed in 1910, when the diplomatic staff of the Foreign Office had to go to their posts in boats.

Suburbs Inundated.

The suburbs immediately east and west of Paris are largely under water. They bear the aspect of a muddy Venice. Boats have been brought into use at Auteuil to move the inhabitants from houses which have been surrounded by water. In other buildings in various parts of the inundated area boats are being used to carry food to people who have declined to move out.

The great truck garden area lying along the river resembles a vast lake. Only here and there is there any vegetation showing above the murky waters. Army engineers are rushing foot bridge materials to numerous suburban towns in order to permit the people to circulate in the water-covered streets.

Stations Closed.

The D'Orsay Station, the chief terminals of the Orleans Railroad, which is reached by the underground line from the old station at Austerlitz, was closed yesterday, water having filtered into the subway, covering the tracks. The Invalides Station of the State Railroad Line also was closed for the same reason. The Saint Michel Station of the Orleans Line and many suburban street car lines were compelled to suspend traffic, some of them on account of the tracks being submerged and others because the electric power station has been invaded by water.

One of the greatest features of the situation is the lack of electric current, necessitating the shutting down of some important factors and the laying off of workers. The city authorities are still optimistic over the situation, basing their views on the opinions of the river experts who maintain that the crest of the present flood will be reached Saturday without having attained the level of 1910. This optimism, however, is based on the expectation that the rain will cease. Meantime the present outlook is for a continuation of the downpour.

Lesson Unheeded.

Quantities of sand bags and other materials are being conveyed to various points along the river to stop crevasses. Spectators at various points watch the workmen at their tasks and frequently make cutting remarks such as why the city of Paris in the fourteen years since the last great flood has failed to carry out its projects for preventing a repetition of the overflowing of the Seine. One of the plans the city had in contemplation was to cut a new channel across Paris from the Marne to the Seine, by way of St. Denis and the northern suburbs of Paris, and thus relieve the Seine of excess water pouring into it from the Marne. This project still remains on the blueprints in the city engineer's office. Some work had been done, however, along the bulkheads of the river, near Auteuil, which always is first to suffer from flood waters.

AN EXPLOSION KILLS THIRTY IN A FACTORY

Disaster in Starch Mills of Corn Products Refining Company -- Fire Still Raging.

EIGHTY INJURED

PEORIA, Ill., January 3 (Canadian Press). — Between 30 and 35 persons were killed, and 100 injured, according to estimates, in an explosion and fire in the starch buildings of the Corn Products Refining Co. at Peking, Ill., to-day.

Seven bodies, six of them identified, have been recovered.

At that hour two buildings of the big plant were in ruins, Building No. 33, the starch power house where the blast occurred, being reduced to a mass of smouldering debris, and Building No. 27, the starch house, is still blazing, its walls standing, but giving off a heat so intense that no efforts could be made to search for the bodies.

Eighty injured persons have been removed, and it is believed that more than thirty persons have lost their lives.

The explosion is said to have been in the dust in the starch plant, and to have destroyed that building.

Firemen, nurses, doctors, police, and ambulances cere rushed to the scene from Peoria, eleven miles away.

Rescuers could see the bodies of from 25 to 35 victims lying in the ruins, but the flames prevented all attempts to reach them.

About 250 persons were employed in the plant, which was the principal industry of Pekin.

TIME PAYMENT MAD SAYS STATISTICAN

Majority of Car Owners Earn Less Than $40 a Week and Pay on the Installment Plan.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3. — (Canadian Press).—America has gone time-payment mad, according to figures compiled by the statistician of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers. The majority of the wage earners of the country have mortgaged their incomes for years to come, he finds. In an article appearing in the National Retail Clothier, the investigator presents figures showing that, although there are only 4,000,000 persons in the United States who file income tax reports of over $2,000 a year, there are 14,000,000 registered automobiles in the country, of which 10,192,000 are passenger or pleasure cars. The deduction is that 6,000,000 persons earning less than $40 a week have automobiles, most of which are being bought on the time-payment plan.

Last of Lake Captains Died in Ogdensburg.

PRESCOTT, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press)—William S. Shay, 78, the last of the old lake captains, died yesterday at his home in Ogdensburg, following an illness of two years. During over sixty years of experience on the St. Lawrence river and Great Lakes, Captain Shay gained a wide knowledge of the channels. He was captain of the old Rutland Line for over 30 years, his first boat being the Governor Smith, an old wooden vessel. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. John R. Ryan, Malone, N.Y. and Mrs. Miriam Murphy Christobal, Panama.

Threw Bomb Into Crowd of Dancers

BUDAPEST, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press)—All the persons concerned in the recent bomb outrage at Chongrad, Southern Hungary, resulting in the death of three persons and the injury of scores of others have been arrested, according to an official report. The bomb was thrown among the crowd of dancers at a Jewish women's charity ball the night of December 28.

The report states that the missile was thrown by a farmer named Sinko and that the organizer of the plot was an acting first lieutenant named Piroskau. A large store of explosives and cartridges was found, the police announce.

PAY TRIBUTE TO DEAD GOVERNOR

Sir Lomer Gouin and Hon. Arthur Meighen Express Regrets at Quebec's Loss.

MONTREAL, Jan. 3. — Profound sorrow was expressed on all sides here yesterday when the news came from Quebec of the death of His Honor L P.. Brodeur, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province.

"I knew him for many years and esteemed him highly both as a public man and as personal friend," said Sir Lomer Gouin, Minister of Justice.. "He was one of the first men whom I came to know when I first arrived at Montreal. We were at the University together and practiced at the bar for many years, and in public life I was associated with him for quite a period. He was one of our ablest jurists and had a very distinguished career as Minister of the Crown and as a judge. He was an honour to his province and to his country and his death is a serious loss."

"Personally," added Sir Lomer, "he was one of the best friends, and I feel very deeply his departure."

Meighen's Tribute.

OTTAWA, Jan. 3. — (Canadian Press).—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen leader of the Conservative party last evening gave out the following tribute to the late Lieutenant-Governor Brodeur, of Quebec.

"It was with deep regret I learned this morning that Lieut. - Governor Brodeur had passed away. The press had been giving reassuring news of to his progress and his sudden death was a great shock. During his long career in the public life of Canada, his sterling character, his courtesy, kindness and fairness to those whose opinions might differ from his own, earned for him in no small measure, the admiration of his political associates and the respect of his political opponents. To all questions of public importance he brought a keen knowledge, careful study and sound judgment. His familiar figure will be sadly missed by his many friends throughout the country."

Ontario's Message.

On behalf of the Ontario Government and the citizens of Ontario generally, Premier Ferguson yesterday wired condolences to Lady Brodeur on the death of her husband, the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, and to Hon. L. A. David, Provincial Secretary of Quebec. To Lady Brodeur he wired:

"Midst the gloom of your great grief may I express the hope that it may be some slight comfort to your aching heart to know that you do not grieve alone. All Canada mourns with you and the Government and the people of Ontario extend deepest sympathy to you in your great loss."

NO ENTHUSIASM FOR RE-OPENING OF PARLIAMENT

Premier Baldwin Has Not Called Cabinet to Consider Speech From the Throne — Section of Conservatives Active Against Labor.

NO AGREEMENTS.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—None of the principal leaders of the three political parties is showing undue haste to anticipate the course of events when Parliament reassembles a week hence. The present Cabinet must draft the Speech from the Throne for the opening of Parliament, but thus far Premier Baldwin has not even summoned a Cabinet Council to consider the speech, which seemed to point to the probability that the document may be a somewhat colorless affair.

While, as has been previously explained, it will be practically impossible to carry on the Government without some sort of understanding between two or three principal parties, there is at present little evidence that the movement among financial men of London to bring about such an understanding in order to prevent the coming into power of a Labour Government has any very strong following, although it is widely boomed in certain sections of the anti-labour press.

Frustrate Labour.

The movement was started a fortnight ago by Lord Hunsdon, President of the Cityy of London Unionist Association, who wrote a letter to the Prime Minister, urging that a serious effort be made to reach an understanding with the Liberal party so as to prevent the Socialists from obtaining administrative control of the country. The executive of this association met again yesterday, but decided that correspondence with the Prime Minister must be considered private, and must therefore not be published. The executive, however, issued a statement, admitting that its aim was to prevent the formation of a Labour Government.

That any real alarm has been created in the minds of business people by the prospect of a Labour Government seems to be negatived by the fact that there has been no strong movement in stock share prices since the general elections, and this steadiness is due to the realization that a labour administration under present conditions would be an administration supported by only a minority of the members of Parliament, and therefore would be unable to propose any extreme legislation, like capital levy, or nationalization of industries, with any possibility of success.

No Overtures Made.

Sir Robert S.. Horne, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, who sailed for the United States yesterday for a short business visit and who is regarded in some quarters as a possible future leader of the Conservative Party, should he decide to abandon business for politics, humorously suggested, when questioned on the subject of political developments of the immediate future, that they should toss a penny to decide. It is generally believed that Premier Baldwin has made no overtures to the Liberal leaders for support to keep his Government in power and that the situation remains the same as when Mr. Asquith, the United Liberal Leader, publicly declared that he would not lift a finger to save Mr. Baldwin from defeat.

There is undoubtedly a large body of opinion in the country favorable to the policy advocated by Lord Hunsdon to "keep Labor out," but whether it is strong enough to make its voice effectively heard remains to be proved. Perhaps a more important question, on which there is much conflict of opinion is, whether the King would be entitled under the Constitution to refuse the request of Ramsay MacDonald to disolve parliament, should the Labour Government upon its accession find itself unable to carry on.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

THE ORIGINALS IN "RAPID FIRE."

There is one theatrical organization, visiting us year after year, that we never tire of, and that is the "Originals", that internationally famous band of funmakers who started first behind the lines in France as the Third Division C.E.F. Entertainers and which comprises the overwhelming majority of the Original Dumbells and some other artists of note.

The boys will be here again tomorrow night and Saturday matinee and night at the Grand Opera House with their entirely new production "Rapid Fire" said to be without precedent in the history of revues in this or any other country. It is an attraction entirely different from any other entertainment before the public and features a number of innovations in the manner of scenic and lighting effects, etc. Among the several distinct and novel surprises is a magnificent jeweled curtain containing thousands of small stones and especially imported from Paris. It is an exact replica of the one used in this season's revue at the London Hippodrome, and the first of its kinds to be seen in Canada. Special settings have been carefully arranged, with brilliant lighting effects, for all the big numbers, and the costumes worn by Arthur Holland, Fred Fenwick, and Gene Pearson are said to be very elaborate. There are two snappy skits in the show, one, staged behind the lines in France, is a riot. "Red" Newman, Bob Anderson and Ted Charter are all particularly funny in this number and some remarkably good effects are worked into the skit throughout.

What a unique and versatile Company the Oroginals have, with different members of the Company to work out and supervise the different ends of the shows it is truly a self producing organization. There are dances arranged by Alan Murray; Music arranged and costumes designed by Leonard Young, the Company's Managing Director; Scenery worked out by Ted Charter and Jack McLaren; Skits written by Fred Fenwick, Ted Charter, Charlie McLan and "Red" Newman; Lyrics by Bertram Langley; Musical arrangements by Jack Ayre, the Musical Director; Sketches by Bill Tennent, Bob Anderson, Jerry Concerted Acts by Arthur (Jock) Holland, Tom Young; while our friends Jimmie Goode concocts all his own line of unusual darkey humor; Gene Pearson, a popular new member of the Original Company, offers us a different conception of female impersonations and possesses a marvellous natural soprano voice.

Clever, correct, and ultra smart in its presentation, "Rapid Fire" is the smartest of revues. It contains everything desired in honest humor, tuneful music and artistic settings. It is put across with a maximum of skill and pep by an organization of artists who know how to entertain and it has met with tremendous success in every town and city it has already played. Throughout the programme of twenty-five numbers many of them are particularly noteworthy, opening with an Egyptian scene, a burlesque on King Tut and his wives, with "Red" Newman as the long dead King Tut. Many splendid concerted numbers including a brilliant one of the Mounted Police called "Monty of the Mounties," and a magnificent scene at the Court of of Catherine the Great in which Jock Holland appears in a Silver Sequin and Purple velvet costume designed by Renees, are but a few of the dazzling and humorous situations in the new Originals' revue. The finale is something the boys have never done before, each one in turn appears in everyday dress, thus giving the audience an opportunity to see their favorites as they appear ordinarily off the stage.

The forthcoming engagement is being looked forward to with the keenest interest and patrons are advised to make their reservations early as crowded houses will undoubtedly be the order of the day.

AT THE ROYAL.

THE BIG SPORTING MELODRAMA, "THE KNOCKOUT," OPENS AT ROYAL TO-DAY.

Patrons who remember 'The Sporting Earl,' 'A Royal Divorce,' and other Samuelson productions, will be pleased with the announcement that "The Knockout," another big special by the same producer, is scheduled for its Peterboro premier at the Royal Theatre to-day. Everyone with red blood in their veins likes a good horse race or prize fight and this film has both. The story follows the rise of Billy Burke, a young green grocer, to the champion middleweight of England. A blend of comedy, drama, spectacular and sporting events that has created quite a furore in England. This picture was held over for the second week at the Piccadilly Theatre, Toronto.

FAMIUS SCOUT AND GUNMAN WAS BRAVE "WILD BILL HICKOK."

William S. Hart Introduces Well-Known Characters in New Photoplay.

Of all the famous figures of the old western frontier, authorities are agreed that Wild Bill Hickok, most picturesque of all two-gun men, as a character of the daring, cunning and honorable class, stands alone.

Conspicuous as his remarkable escapades was his originality. Desperate without being a desperado, his nature was that of a fighter withal devoid of the disposition, which invites danger or craves the excitement of an encounter. He killed many men, but in every instance it was either in self-defence, or, in the pursuit of his duty as a peace officer.

Wild Bill has been called a necessary character in the far west during the period which marked his career. He was essentially a civilizer, in the sense that a vigilance posse is such. The law and order class found in him an effective agent for the prosecution of the lawless. He fought fire with fire.

As a fighter, Wild Bill had no equal; as a pistol shot none could excel him; as a scout there were none more faithful, daring and serviceable. An interesting description of Wild Bill by an old westerner, which indicates the contrasting qualities of his nature, pictures him as having a "disposition gentle as a zephyr, but with a determination stronger than a hurricane."

He was never a boaster, was always deferential to those who might differ from him in opinion, and was a man of strong friendships and who held little enmity.

Chronicling Wild Bill's life has been rendered difficult because of his secretive nature and extreme dislike to reciting his own adventures. However, from the most authentic sources has been gathered material for a romantic photoplay, which vividly portrays the more thrilling episodes in his life, "Wild Bill Hickok," which William S. Hart produced for Paramount and which will be the feature of the Royal Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

AT THE CAPITOL.

A special advance showing of the new Pickford picture, "Rosita," was given after the regular show at the Capitol Theatre, last evening and proved as one lady remarked to be a "diverting extravaganza" in the idol of the screen grows up. It is going to be rather difficult for movie fans to grow accustomed to the disassociation of the Mary Pickford they have grown used to, with her curls and plump legs and winsome little girl ways, from the lady who has put up her hair and lengthened her skirts and now appears as a member of the adult world. She still retains her pretty manners, however, and the little capers that her audiences have grown accustomed to still peep out in charming fashion through a characterization that differs immensely from her ordinary roles.

Rosita is the frolicksome daughter of a poor and greedy Spanish family. She dances her way into the hearts of the people of Seville, who applaud her singing and dancing and the fun she makes of their dissolute monarch a gentleman who resembles the great Napoleon in face and figure, but who spends the major portion of his time in philandering amongst the frail ladies of his court The king's role is played by Holbrook Binn in fine style. This actor, by the way, has just been chosen to enact the part of "Ben Hur" in a coming big production.

The queen, played by Irene Rich, is a dark-browed female of determined mind, who keeps a watchful eye on her husband, and contrives to checkmate his designs at every turn. On hearing Rosita sing in public a daring doggerel rhyme that reflects on his character, the king promptly becomes enchanted by her and proceeds to bestow on her a title a country villa and numerous beautiful jewels. Rosita trails her greedy family along with her and they have a wonderful time in the villa, where the children pay hob with the grand furniture and the fat mother hangs up the family wash in the magnificent bed-chamber, much to the horror of the aristocratic servants. The strain of comedy that plays about the fairy-tale atmosphere of the story is strong in the scenes where Rosita's family take the stage.

In the meantime, Don Diego de Alcala, (George Walsh) becomes enslaved by Rosita, and fights a duel in her defence that lands him in jail, with a death sentence over his head.

To bestow on his inamorata, who remains adamant to his suit, a title that she and her family crave for, the king orders the condemned Don to marry the lady and pass on to her his title of Count. They do this, both blindfolded. Later, when the execution draws nigh, a little matter of blank cartridges, in which the king, Rosita, and the queen take a hand in turn, complicates matters further. The finale is extremely satisfactory to all but the discomfited king, who retires from the scene in a very black mood.

It is an entertaining picture, showing the little star in an entirely new role, and beautifully screened, with the clear-cut photography of all the Pickford features. Romance and comedy walk hand in hand throughout the unfolding of the love story of a king and a street dancer and a noble gentleman, and there is plenty of reatistic acting in the mad pageantry of the carnival episodes. The music that accompanied this production in its New York and Montreal showings will be given with its screening here.

At the advance showing last evening, member of the newly-elected Council and Board of Education, Fire Chief Gimblett and Chief of Police Nehwall and other distinguished citizens were guests of Manager J. C. Kennedy.

Those present expressed themselves as greatly pleased with "Rosita" which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre to-day, to-morrow and on Saturday.

AT THE REGENT.

SHOOTING THE THRILLS FOR "OUT TO WIN."

By Denton Clift (Producer of the Film.

When "Out To Win" was presented in the West End two years ago, I saw the play and was tremendously impressed with its possibilities for a film.

Its greatest value was that it was Story through and through, from start to finish, with every element that goes to make a great popular film success. It gets going during its very first momen and builds up through a series of thrilling crises to the great punch near the end. I have never produced a picture that is so packed with story-value as is "Out To Win."

Shooting the big thrills of the picture afforded us as many thrills in the making as the audiences will enjoy on the screen.

The Greatest Adventure.

Perhaps the greatest adventure of all is the airship explosion and fire, when Barraclough, bearing the concessions worth millions, is seeking to return to London, followed by two secret agents.

The Minister of Mines in Bucharest arranges for his passage on an airship, and one of the villains secretes himself on the same airship ahead of Barraclough. At night the agent, Comberstone, tries to steal the concession in Barraclough's cabin aboard the airship; a fight ensues which is carried to the edge of the rail overlooking the English Channel 5,000 feet below. The shots from the revolver in the fight explode the petrol tanks. In a moment the gondola is a seething mass of flame. Barraclough narrowly escapes with his life and the concession by leaping overboard in a parachute; and the next moment the airship explodes in a sheet of fire.

Not Studio Tricks.

To make this great melodramatic scene we did not merely resort to studio tricks alone, but actually made most of the scenes in the gondola of an airship over 5,000 feet above the Channel.

We accomplished this important bit of realism with the aid of the French Air Ministry.

No inflated airship was available in Great Britain, so we journeyed to the little village of Saint Cyr, just outside Paris, where the French Air Ministry maintain an air base.

There we spent one day perfecting arrangements, rehearsals and signals, and the second day, when the wind was right, we ascended.

MANY CANDIDATES FOR CAMPBELLFORD HONORS

Mayor Meyers Opposed By W. J. Armstrong—Only Acclamation Was Accorded E. A. Caddy As Water and Light Commissioner.

TWELVE FOR COUNCIL

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 3. — There will be an election for every office in Campbellford next Monday iwth the exception of the Water and Light Commissionship. E. A. Caddy was the only nominee for that position to qualify and is consequently elected by acclamation.

W. J. Armstrong qualified for the mayoralty shortly before the time limit at noon Wednesday. This will be the first election held here for the office in four years, Mayor Meyers having been returned without opposition three years in succesion.

What Happened J. R.?

There are two candidate for the reeveship and two are in the field for deputy reeve.

The surprise of the day was the failure of Deputy-Reeve J. R. Wilkinson to qualify for re-election after the fighting speech which he made at the nomination meeting when he appealed to the electors on his record and confidently predicted his success. Mr. Wilkinson retired to his farm on Thesday and the last seen of him he was devoting all his energies to his agricultural presents.

There are 12 candidates for the council the largest number offering themselves for years. The majority of the various aspirants for office are busy among the electors and an exciting contet is in prospect. With 525 new women voters on the list even the most seasoned compaigner is at sea with regard to the outcome.

The Municipal Slate

The complete list of those who have qualified for the various offices is as follows:

For Mayor—A. J. Meyer and W. J. Armtrong.

For Reeve—J. L. Dorie and J. A. Burke.

For Council—James Cassidy, John O'Sullivan, W. J. Meiklejohn, George E. Morrison, Samuel ohnston, T. L. Diamond, W. J. Abernethy R J. Allan, Alex. McDonald Henry Redden, R. H. Cole, and G. A. Kingston.

For Board of Education——J. C. Birmingham, John Hall, D. W. Douglas, Dr. H. O. Richardson and J. A. Irwin.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odour, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% kerosene (coil oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

To the Electors of Otonabee

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

As it will be impossible for me to see you all personally I take this opportunity of thanking you for your continued confidence in my judgment in the past and would respectfully ask for a renewal of the same on Monday next. Starting at the bottom and gradually working up through the different offices through long years, an experience of municipal and county, work is obtained not possible in any other way.

If elected I promise a continuance of the same sound and honest administration of the affairs of the municipality as I have endeavored to give you in the past.

Wishing one and all the best wishes for a happy and prosperous 1924, I am,

Yours respectfully,

MAYOR MEYERS REVIEWS PUBLIC WORK EFFECTED

Six Miles of Concrete Sidewalks Built In Campbellford During His Administration — Sewers and Water Mains Laid.

TAXES KEPT DOWN.

CAMPBELLFORD, January 3. — The address of Mayor Meyers at the nomination meeting is regarded by the majority of those who heard it as an accurate statement of the progress made in Campbellford during the past three years. After a few introductory remarks, he spoke in part as follows:

The most of the citizens here tonight have lived in Campbellford long enough to know that our town has made more progress in the matter of sewer and sidewalk construction during the past four years than was made during the ten or fifteen years previous.

Before 1921 we had concrete sidewalks on our main streets and some of our subordinate streets, but the greater part of the town was still only served by wooden sidewalks, all in a very bad state of repair, and many of them so rotten that they were in a dangerous and unsafe condition.

To a great extent all these old sidewalks have been removed and replaced with concrete walks. There are still a few sections that require concrete walks and these will I hope be built very soon.

During the past three years we have built over six miles of concrete walks in Campbellford. It is no exaggeration when I say that if all the walks that we have built during the period were placed in one line they would reach from Campbellford to Meyersburg and beyond.

Now, Mr. Chairman, this is no small achievement with the money provided for that purpose; and of this money we have still $418.00 left, which will be used for sidewalk construction during the coming year.

I hope you will agree with me when I say that the men who inaugurated and carried out this work are deserving of yorr praise and not of your censure.

New Sewers.

Let us also consider for a few moments the sewers which have been constructed during the past four years. Prior to 1920 there had been one sewer built by the town. This sewer was built under forced conditions, and led from our schools down Bridge Street to the sewer wall. Since 1920 we have built 2,340 feet of sewer on Front Street and Rear Street, 1,190 feet on Bridge Street and Booth Street, 1,575 feet on Ranney Street, 1,682 feet on Wellington Street, Concession Road, and Richard Street, making a total of 6,787 feet of sewers constructed. During the same period our water mains have been extended over 6,660 feet.

In addition to this work, which has been completed, plans have been prepared for sewers on Rear and River Streets, also on Second and Cockburn Streets. In fact, the plans which are completed cover sewerage systems for practically all sections of the town on the east side of the river. On the west side of the river a survey has been made and plans are now being prepared by Mr. Hayes, the engineer on the work, for a complete sewerage system for Sebastopol Street and Hastings Road as a trunk sewer, with lateral sewers connecting into this trunk sewer for all that portion of the town on the west side of the river lying between Trout Creek and the height of land north of Sebastopol Street and Hastings Road. This plan includes the sewer on Inkerman Street, which could not be proceeded with until a complete plan for that section of the town of which I have just spoken was prepared.

I might say that with these plans and surveys made, we have the sewerage problems of the town well in hand, and we are prepared to go steadily on with sewer construction as fast as our finances will permit.

In regard to the sewer extensions I wish to say that those who have petitioned for sewers and those who expect to petition for sewers must have patience.

This sewer problem is a greater problem than most citizens realise. The proper planning of a sewerage system for every section of our town is an imperative necessity before even short sections of a system can be built. This planning has been done or is being done for both the east and west sides of our town. All these sewers will be built as they are needed and as our finances will permit. No Council can accomplish in two or three years, work which should have been carried on steadily and consistently during the past ten or fifteen years. Patience on the part of our citizens is a necessity.

By Day Labour.

While I am on the sewer question I would like to say that our policy of constructing sidewalks and sewers by day labour under the supervision of a competent town foreman has resulted in a saving of thousands of dollars to the ratepayers of our town. I do not think that there is any doubt in the mind of any reasonable citizen but that we have been able to build much more sidewalk with the money at our disposal than could have possibly have been done if this work had been let out by contract.

The same argument applies to sewers which have been built by day labour under the supervision of our town foreman. I will mention some of those sewers where considerable saving has been accomplished.

The estimated cost of the Wellington Street sewer was $7,028. This sewer was built for $6,526, a saving of $502. The estimated cost of the Ranney Stteet sewer was $4,300, and was built for $3,577, a saving of $723. The estimated cost of Concession Road sewer was $6,885, and this sewer was built for $5,370, including engineering fees, a saving of $1,515. The total saving on these sewers was $2,740.

In connection with the Concession Road sewer tenders were called for this work, with the result that two bids were received, one for $5,797 and the other for $6,770. These bids did not include the supplying and laying of the water mains, which was to be done by the town. The estimated cost of supplying and laying this water main was $942. If this estimated cost of water main and $300 engineering fees is added to the lowest bid, the cost of the work would have been $7,039. The actual cost of this work to the town was $5,379, so that considering the lowest tender, there was a saving of $1,669.

Those members of the Council voting in favour of building this sewer by day labour under the supervision of our town forman were Councillors Cole, Meiklejohn, Allan and Carter and Mayor Meyers. The result of this action as shown before was a saving of $1669 to the ratepayers of Campbellford.

Now I mention this to show the saving to our town by having experienced men on our Council. The Councillors who were responsible for over-ruling the Council had had experience in the work before and knew what could be done.

The High School.

Mr. Chairman, If you will bear with me a little longer I wish to say a few words on the High School Question and our tax rate.

I do not wish to dwell a grea length upon the controversy that as attended the proposal to provide Campbellford with this new High School. It has been long and irriatating to all of us. We all realize that this subject had aroused the interested ratepayers of our town to an extent which has not been equalled in many years. Much was said on both sides of the question which tended to foster a spirit of ill-will and ill-feeling. I only hope this will not result in blinding our reason and warping our judgment when dealing with the new problems which will confront us and which will require a unity of purpose among our citizens if Campbellford is to continue to progress and improve as she has done during the past three or four years.

I think the most of us know by this time that the Council of 1923 had no power to prevent the letting of the contract to build the new High School. The Council of 1920 who passed the by-laws to borrow $75,000 for the purpose of building a new High School, gave the Board of Education the power to enter into this contract and no power in Campbellford outside of the Board of Education could have prevented the step that was taken by the Board.

The Council early in the year refused to grant the extra money needed to make a complete building of the school and the Board of Education took the matter into their own hands and went ahead with the work of construcion, on modified plans.

The action of the Board of Education in signing a contract for a new High School which was not complete in any sense of the word, effectually settled the question of further delaying the construction. The question then arose, would it not be a great deal better for the community, if the Council would ask the Board of Education to complete the building as originally planned The Council might easily have taken the stand that if a great mistake was being made, they were not to blame; instead the blame was on the Board of Education;; but would such disregard of the ultimate results to the ratepayers of our town by fulfilling the sworn duty of the Council to protect the interests of our town as far as they were able. If it was possible by action of the Council requesting the Board of Education to complete the building originally planned and approved by the Department of Education in Toronto to ultimately save our town thousands of dollars was it not the duty of the Council to seriously make the attempt. I felt that it was.

Certain members of the Council were elected to office at the first of the year, pledged to oppose the granting of any more money to the Board of Education for the new High school, unless a vote of the people was taken on the question. Such promises were fulfilled by the action of the council up to the time of letting the contract. Such promises did not anticipate a situation as it existed after the work of construction was under way: and I personally felt that no reasonable ratepayer, considering the altered conditions of the case would ask to the councillors to continue in opposition to the proposal to make a complete work of the school, when by completing the school at once a saving of many thousands of dollars would be made for our town.

The Tax Rate.

I would also like to say a few words in regard to our tax rate. If you will remember the tax rate in 1920, while Dr. Hay was Mayor, was forty-two mills. Since 1920 we have built, as I said before, over six miles of sidewalks, 6,787 feet of sewers and over 6,660 feet of water main has been laid. Practically all this work has been paid for by debentures upon which yearly payments of interest and principal are being made, and this year the tax rate is no higher than it was in 1920. I would thinnk that this fact alone would prove that the business of the town is being carried on economically. In 1920 there was no Separate school, last year we contributed $2,050 towards the maintenance of a Separate school, and yet the same tax rate as 1920. I think this fact alone would prove that you have had an economical municipal government.

We have ended the year with a surplus of $2,412, after providing another $500 for the Soldiers' War Memorial.

In spite of the fact that we will have to provide for interest and principal payments this year on the new High school, I am going to make this statement, that with economical management, I see no reason why the tax rate should exceed 42 mills. I am also prepared to state that if I am Mayor of Campbellford the tax rate will not exceed 42 mills, and there will be no deficit at the end of the year.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen, I am going to be a candidate again this year for Mayor. I thank my mover and seconder for the nomination and I am also going to take this opportunity of asking for your support and at the same time, wish you and Campbellford a happy and properous New Year.

BAND CONCERT CAMPBELLFORD

Donation for the Muskoka Hospital — The Penny Bank in Schools

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 3.—The receipts of the band concert Sunday night amounted to $28.66. Of this amount $10 has been donated to the Muskoka Hospital for consumptives and the balance will be used for the purchase of new music.

Campbellford Public School pupils during the months of September and October deposited in the Penny Bank an average of 25 cents each. This places them near the top among the schools of Ontario. The total amount deposited during October was $168.35, an increase over October, 1923, of $100.70.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 3, 1924.

DECEMBER ELECTIONS.

By a large majority the voters of Toronto have refused to change the date of the municipal elections from New Year's Day to early in December.

At the same time other cities which have tried the earlier date declare that they would not think of going back to the New Year's date again.

Whether or not a change would be of benefit to Peterborough is problematical.

Certain it is that the vote polled in Tuesday's election was not as large as should have been registered, and it is possible that the holiday reunions and festivities had a good deal to do with the failure of many electors to express their opinions.

Not fifty per cent. of the eligible vote was polled in spite of the fact that the weather was not unduly severe, and there seemed nothing to keep voters away from the polls.

It seems to be the concensus of opinion in cities where the early December election has been tried that the results so far as the size of the vote is concerned are at least as good as under the New Year's system, and, in addition, the campaign is out of the way before the Christmas rush starts and there is no election excitement to interfere with the holiday celebrations.

The City Council might look into this question during the year and secure some definite information from the cities which have tried the scheme as to the results secured by the change.

MIGHT HAVE GOOD RESULTS.

A suggestion made by Mayor-elect Turner at a meeting the other night that representatives of such bodies as the Chamber of Commerce, the Local Council of Women, the Trades and Labour Council and the Owners' and Tenants' Association should attend the meetings of the City Council and study the proceedings, would seem to be a good one both for those organizations and for the city generally.

Bodies of this kind which have a direct interest in civic government should closely follow the deliberations of the city fathers, and there would be much to be gained if this plan were to be adopted and put into effect.

It would, for one thing, bring these organizations into closer touch with what is going on in civic circles, and there would be the chance, too, of the representatives becoming interested in municipal government to such an extent as to make them aldermanic possibilities.

Undoubtedly there is every need of a greater interest in civic affairs, and the size of the field of aldermanic aspirants in Tuesday's election shows also a dearth of good material—or rather an unwillingness on the part of good men to offer themselves for service on the Council.

The suggestion of the Mayor-elect might do something to correct this condition of affairs—it would in any event ensure that criticism of the Council would be based on first-hand knowledge obtained by the representatives detailed by the various bodies for the duty of keeping in touch with the civic administration.

NEW REGULATIONS.

The Highway Traffic Act of 1923, the short-title of the Act that simplifies, co-ordinates and consolidates the provisions of the Motor Vehicles, Highway Travel and Load of Vehicles Acts in this Province, is now in force in Ontario, and as there are many important changes Peterborough motorists should lose no time in familiarizing themselves with the new regulations if they want to save themselves much inconvenience and possibly a few fines.

The Ontario Motor League in outlining a few of the most important revisions points out that in a general sense the whole code of laws which regulates the operation of motor vehicles will be found in one sentence of the Highway Traffic Act.

By Section 25 it is enacted that any person "who drives a motor vehicle on the highway . . . at a speed or in a manner dangerous to the public, having regard to all the circumstances, shall incur a penalty."

One principle underlies this whole subject.

The law imposes upon everyone who uses the highway the duty of exercising at all times that degree of care for the safety and convenience of others which a reasonable person would exercise under the circumstances.

The rules of law which serve as a guide to conduct under all circumstances of travel are known as the rule of the road.

There are new regulations in regard to parking and spotlights, brakes must be in good condition and will be inspected by the authorities, and stiff penalties are imposed for infraction of the speed limit.

A new and most important provision is that any person who drives a motor vehicle on a highway at a greater rate of speed than 40 miles an hour, or who drives carelessly or negligently or at a speed or in a manner dangerous to the public, having regard to all the circumstances, shall incur a penalty of not less than $10 and not more than $200, and shall also be liable to imprisonment for any term not exceeding 60 days, and, in addition, his license or permit shall be suspended for any period not exceeding six months.

There are not a few drivers in Peterborough who will be flirting with a jail sentence if this regulation is vigorously enforced as it undoubtedly will be.

PAYING FOR STATISTICS.

Slason Thompson of the Bureau of Railway News and Statistics, Chicago, has issued a book which he calls an appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission to simplify the method now used by railroads in preparing statistics, says the London Advertiser.

That sounds rather prosy, but right out the cover of the book is an appeal which will get a second reading, "Why waste $100,000,000 a year on railway statistics?"

When Mr. Thompson says "why waste $100,000,000?" he stands in line to get a hearing.

His plea is that so-called experts and statistical fiends have so beckoned themselves into the railway business that a whole army of clerks is at work writing down figures, facts and records of value chiefly to the speculator in railway securities.

The Railway Commission has had a pretty fair record itself. Its employees have grown as follows:

1895	120	employees
1900	127	"
1904	327	"
1908	495	"
1911	771	"
1913	862	"
1917	1,019	"
1919	1,174	"
1921	1,700	"

Mr. Thompson's argument is that the clerical forces of the railroads are increasing too fast. With simplified accounting, typewriters, mechanical adding machines, etc., the work should be put through more rapidly. Yet between 1895 and 1920 there was an increase of 200 per cent. in traffic on U. S. roads, and in the same period an increase of 400 per cent. in the clerical staffs.

His whole claim is that there are all sorts of statistics collected, printed and sent out that do not increase the efficiency of the roads at all. Mr. Thompson strikes out for practical simplicity, and he puts up a pretty good case.

A NEW OFFENSIVE IN THE RUHR.

The struggle in the Ruhr and the Rhineland between France and Germany takes on a new phase with the announcement by Berlin that the franc will be recognized currency in the occupied areas. If this was part of the bargain between the industrial magnates and the French Government it looks as if Herren Thyssen, Stinnes and Co. have made a shrewd deal for themselves and a disastrous one for France. The Reichsbank announced on Christmas Eve that the paper currency issued during the last two weeks had far surpassed even the previous extravagant bounds and that the note issue in the fortnight had been quadrupled.

It was perfectly obvious that there could be no recuperation of the occupied territory, no large output in this most productive area of Germany if wages were to be paid only in the depreciated currency of the mark. Men who agreed to work at so much per day might find that the stated wage was barely enough to pay for their dinner when they emerged the same evening from the factory gates so violent are the fluctuations of exchange. If the question of legalizing the tender of the franc was only a convenient adjustment of exchange, it would not have any greater significance. There is, however, a much deeper meaning to it than this. The franc now becomes a political issue in the occupied territory. The depreciation of French currency during the last few days has alarmed some of the friends of France just as it must have given grave anxiety to French statesmen. If France cannot stop this depreciation, the country must face a serious financial crisis very shortly.

Germany has been unable to break the occupation of her industrial region by passive resistance and she sees little hope of mollifying its sting by concessions from France. She may, therefore, bend every effort to breaking the franc and in such an attempt the pouring in of francs as legal tender into the Rhineland would be an effective aid.

It is not so long ago since the mark was less than one thousand to the pound sterling. Today it exchanges at billions to the dollar. If Germany can break the franc as her own stupidity and the skill of her enemies has broken the mark, Berlin wins the battle of the occupied territory. If not, the plants and furnaces of the Ruhr will be busy for many decades before France withdraws.—Montreal Star.

WHAT WE HOLD.

A few days ago there came out of that bleak, inhospitable northland, where men dig deeply into the earth to uncover its great riches, a dispatch which stated that the mines of Northern Ontario possessed wealth sufficient to pay Canada's debt of two and a quarter billions of dollars, and leave a great margin, says the Hamilton Spectator. The statement was based on a calm estimate of the gold and silver mines there and was not colored and dressed to help in the promotion of mining stocks. Regarded in the light of dollars it is a stupendous thing, this wealth of an almost "undiscovered country," the surface of which has scarcely been more than well scratched.

But great as it is in a material sense, it is but a small thing when one's eyes range the northern half of this Continent and take even a cursory view of the resources of Canada. On either of the coasts washed by the world's greatest oceans are fisheries yielding vast sums of money. There are the coal and iron mines east and west with their countless wealth. The Prairie Provinces, with their golden showers of grain, flood a world in such quantities as to move its grain markets up and down as though they were listening to the command of a Caesar. There are older Ontario and Quebec, with their industrial, farming, timber and commercial wealth, and the great new country in the James' Bay district, which is expected to yield fabulous stores of riches.

With all these, with her trade rapidly expanding, and taking her place proudly, but modestly, at the table of the nations, Canadians may well say: "Yea, we have a goodly heritage."

It behooves Canadians to be worthy of it. Men of resource, energy and vision are needed to develop these riches and see that they are properly applied, and those who have in their care the training of the young people of Canada can do a great and patriotic duty by developing these qualities.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A study of the Toronto mayoralty figures indicates that Col. J. A. Currie must have been running merely for exercise.

The next aldermanic battle will be over the question of the chairmanship of the various committees.

The new Council will find plenty of work awaiting their endeavours. May they be successful in solving the problems that will come before them.

Toronto carried daylight saving by a large majority—Hamilton defeated summer time by almost two to one. The difference in opinion is difficult to understand.

The Guelph Herald is the latest newspaper to pass out. After a career of 76 years it has been absorbed by the Guelph Mercury.

Tommy Church has been given a mandate by the people of Toronto to attend to his duties at Ottawa—and they are important enough without any mayoralty side-line.

Which will last the longer, New Year resolutions or pre-election promises?

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Well, here's 1924 and many book agents still at large.

Very few things turned out as badly as expected in 1923, but this happens every year.

Let's spend 1924 pulling the hair of people who had the bad taste to abbreviate the word Christmas.

One thing we hope for the new year is that some insurance agent will sprain his jaw talking.

There will be 53 Tuesdays in 1924, if not prohibited by law.

Five pay days hath November, but is when summer clothes are due.

Five pay days hath November, but that is when winter suits are due.

This 1924 is Leap Year. The extra day comes on Friday, which is considered unlucky for bachelors.

Friday is fish day. Friday, Feb. 29, bachelors will be fish.

We could use this extra day in Leap Year learning how to tie a bow tie or blow smoke rings.

We might spend the extra day in 1924 learning why women still wear their shoes too small.

The extra Day we get this Leap Year could be used up wondering why picnics are a sure sign of rain.

On the extra 1924 day we could visit the laundry and ask why they like to tear buttons off of shirts.

Next Feb. 29 we could use to ask the company why street cars are usually going the wrong way.

The extra day we get this Leap Year might be spent learning why all bosses are so ignorant.

We could use the extra day in 1924 wondering why women are so foolish and why men are so foolish.

The new social seasons are promising. Cheek-to-cheek dancing will be done by those who have the cheek.

Styles for 1924 show many changes. These changes were needed to keep old clothes from being in style.

Business outlook is good except for those wanting something for nothing. They may get the nothing.

Reliable statistics show that by hard work all Christmas bills will be paid before next Christmas.

The baseball outlook is very bright even if the players are not.

The new year shows what became of the old pictures that once hung in saloons. They are on 1924 calendars.

Leap Year to some means they get to stay out an extra night.

The good year 1924 will be what you make it. Also, what you make.

Ask him to tie your shoe. Sit on his head until the preacher arrives. Sit still until married.

Hockey News

The first of the Trent Valley Hockey League games will be played on Friday evening on the local rink between the home team, and a team and a team from Stirling.

Gave Entertainment

The Methodist Sunday School repeated their Christmas Entertainment in the Town Hall on Tuesday night. A number of extras were added, including a hoop drill by twenty little girls from Miss C. Calder's class of the Presbyterian Sunday School also a drill and pantomime by sixteen young ladies from Mrs. McNeil's class of the same school. A very amusing additional number was a boy's chorus entitled "Barney Google" in which Mr. M. Minore took the part of Barney and Mr. Raymond Rogers, Mrs. Google. As the song was being sung Spark Plug and the jockey came meandering up the aisle and mounted the platform much to the amusement of old and young alike. Sparky was in very good spirits and danced a two-step around the stage. After kicking Barney and the pianist over, he took his graceful departure.

The proceeds amounted to about $50.00.

Held a Meeting

The W. M. S. of the Methodist Church held their regular monthly meeting in the Sunday School room on Wednesday afternoon.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—There were some good butchers' cattle for sale yesterday and F. Bailey paid $7.50 a cwt. for two steers weighing 1,230 lbs. each. For a load of mixed steers and heifers $7 a cwt. was received. Good handy weight steers and heifers were steady at 6¼ to 6½ cents a pound, and medium butchers' made about a cent under this. Few common butchers with a showing of fat were to be had below 4½ cents.

An odd heavy bullock was bought Choice cows sold well at 5 to 5 1-2 cents a pound and good cows went at 4¾ and 4½ cents.

Those with choice calves had this market all their own way and the tops were up again to 13 cents a pound. Good calves sold at 11 to 12 cents and mediums up to 10 cents a pound.

Lambs were equally strong and a nice bunch under 90 lbs. each from Cookstown were sold by Jack Cook to Alen Furlong at 13½ cents a pound for the ewes. Other mixed loads not nearly as even, brought 12½ cents. The average of the market was between 12½ cents and 13 cents. Dunn and Levack sold a straight load, fed by Whilton Bros. of Elmvale, at 13½ cents a pound.

Packers' bids were unchanged on hogs at $8.50 a cwt. f.o.b., but sellers were not tumbling over one another to get rid of the supplies at this figure and it was surmised that sales were being made at a quarter dollar higher than this.

WHEELS BROKE OFF WHEN CAR SKIDDED

Deep Snow Held Automobile Upright On Emily Road — Wedding Anniversary.

EAST EMILY, Jan. 3.—What might have been a serious accident occurred New Year's night, when Russel Fee and his sister, Miss Olive, were returning home from the concert in Omemee.

When they were coming home along the fourth line, near Mr. Deyell's they tried to turn out to pass some cutters and when the brakes were tightened the car skidded and turned around on the road and ran into the snow on the south side next to Wm. O'Connel's fence, breaking the two left-hand wheels off the car, but very fortunately the snow being deep held the car, so as it didn't upset or the occupants might have been seriously hurt.

Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Lowes celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary at their home in East Emily on Monday night when about forty-five or fifty of their friends and neighbors gathered at their home to celebrate the occasion.

A very pleasant evening was spent in music and dancing until the wee sma' hours of the morning when the guests all departed for home.

Building Permits In Guelph Were Fewer.

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press)—According to the building returns for last year as compiled at the office of the Building Inspector, there was a considerable falling off in building operations in 1923 as compared to 1922.

I 1922 the total amount expended in building construction was

In 1922 the total amount expend- year was only $571,484, a decrease of $393,324. It must be taken into account, however, that the permits issued last year for the construction of the Collegiate Vocational Institute boosted the permit total, the school costing in the neighborhood of $400,000. There were just about as many dwellings erected in 1923 as in 1922. The total permits issued in December 1922 was $24,165 and for the same month last year $24,800.

Two-Year Terms For Sarnia's Aldermen.

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press)—Final figures in the civic elections here revealed that the proposal to elect half the city council in future for a two-year term had carried by a narrow majority and also the proposal for earlier election in future years. This will, therefore, be the last year in which elections will be held on New Year's Day.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestents

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued, disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestents, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and without the slightest pain or discomfort. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get pure Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

MIDNIGHT SERVICE HELD IN LAKEFIELD

Holy Communion Celebration in St. John's Church As New Year Began.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 2.— A Midnight celebration of Holy Communion was held in St. John's church on New Year's Eve, Rev. Walter Cox was the celebrant.

Mr. Cox preached a timely and thoughtful sermon from the text, "I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the Last," stressing the point of beginning the year with Jesus Christ who is already to aid us.

The Annual Sunday School treat of St. John's Sunday School was held on Monday afternoon and evening. The children assembled in the afternoon and spent a couple of hours playing games after which a bountiful tea was served. Santa Claus, the ever popular gift giver, appeared and distributed presents and candy, oranges and apples to between forty and fifty children. Rev Walter Cox the rector, was present and entered into all the fun and assisted the corps of adults who spared no effort to make the affair go off well. The treat of St. John's Sunday School is always informal and jolly and the children have a thoroughly good time and this year was no exception to previous years.

TWO DROWNED WHEN ICE CRUSHED A BOAT

Fire Department Boat Arrived in Time to Save One Man.

DETROIT, Jan. 3. — (Canadain Press). — Leslie Knaggs, Londoff, Ont., was saved from a watery grave by the fire department boat last night when his launch, crushed by the ice, sank in the Detroit river. His two companions, George H. Willmer and Michael Blatmer, both of Detroit were drowned. The cries og Knaggs were heard by two sailors on the naval reserve cruiser Dubuque who tried to pull out to him in small boats but were driven back by ice floes. They then called the fire department. Three were enroute to Windsor with a motor boat engine to have it repaired, Knaggs said.

RUM ROW TURNS TO OTHER LINES.

Actively Engaged in the Smuggling of Diamonds, Narcotics and Aliens.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., Jan. 3.—(Associated Press).— State authorities claiming to have reduced to a thin trickle the flood of holiday liquor which has been pouring ashore from Rum Row, have set about checking the smuggling of diamonds, narcotics and aliens, is which the rum fleet and bottle fishermen are reported by residents to be actively engaged.

Colonel H. Norman Schwartzkopf, head of the New Jersey State Police, and Major Kimberling of the Trenton headquarters, declared that these complaints have become so numerous that they have planned to station State troopers here permanently.

Several Chinese are known to have been smuggled in at Perth Amboy recently. The authorities asserted also that many shore rumrunners were transporting narcotics to New York, Philadelphia, Jersey City, Trenton, Newark and other centres.

"We know diamonds are being smuggled into Highlands, Waterwitch and Atlantic Highlands," said Sergeant Tighe, assigned to this phase of the troopers' activities. "They are too cheap there. Persons suspected of being in the rum business are offering diamonds at ridiculous prices, and one of the biggest men in the trade is reported to have boasted—even to the police—that he can get diamonds duty free."

RED PIMPLES ON FACE 3 YEARS

Itched and Burned. Lost Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"My face was affected with pimples for about three years. They were hard and red, and festered and scaled over. The pimples itched and burned causing me to scratch and irritate them, and I lost many a night's sleep on account of the irritation.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample which helped me so I purchased more, and after using four cakes of Soap with the Ointment, I was healed." (Signed) Miss Martha Theusch, R. 2, Box 45, Vining, Minn.

CRUSH REVOLT SAYS OBREGON

Fighting Continues on the Mexican Front—New Developments.

MEXICO CITY, January 3 (United Press). — Three or four days will find an important new movement under way to crush the revolt against the Obregon administration, a high government official informed the United Press to-day.

Important developments, he predicted, might be expected, and the situation should change rapidly.

President Obregon expected to leave for the Guadalajaa front on Thursday (to-day).

Federal troops on this western battlefront admittedly met with a slight check.

In a skirmish near Pachuca this morning, Federal troops defeated a rebel force under General Marcial Cavazos.

Mothers know a dose of DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN Will keep them fit

'First Aid' For Sick Children

THE experienced mother is not alarmed when a child becomes sick. She knows that most of the ailments of childhood are trifling. If it seems serious she calls a doctor, but whether or not she calls him, she gives, first of all, a good laxative medicine. The doctor would advise that anyway. It is his "first aid." Such experienced mothers as Mrs. G. R. Paquette, Pierreville, Que., and Mrs. J. F. Beale, 325 Johnson Av., Winnipeg, always give Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at the first indication of sickness. Such timely doses have saved them much worry.

The Meaning of "Good"

All doctors agree that a thorough cleaning out of the bowels is of first importance for it removes dangerous intestinal poisons. They will also advise a "good laxative," and by "good" they mean one that is effective and yet harmless. They know that there are physics that never should be given to children — calomel, which is mercury and loosens the teeth; phenolphthalein, a coal-tar drug that causes skin trouble; salts, which concentrate the blood and dry up the saliva. They consider Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin safe for all ages as they know it is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. The formula is on the package.

Give Laxative for Colds

Adults should have at least one movement of the bowels every 24 hours, and children two or three. Failure to have it means constipation, then headache, biliousness, drowsiness, lack of appetite. Give a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at bedtime, and there will be health and good feeling by morning. A dose costs less than a cent, and a bottle can be had at any drug store. Colds and constipation come together, so if you notice coughing or sneezing stop it at once with Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

If You Want to Try It Free Before Buying

DEPOSITORS WILL LAUNCH CAMPAIGN

Home Bank Depositors Plan Dominion Wide Organization to Gain Their Ends.

TORONTO, Jan. 3. — (Canadain Press).—A wide field for action was laid out yesterday when the general committee of the Home Bank depositors met at the Bank Premises. Much stress was laid upon the announcement that the Dominion Parliament would meet on February 21 and it was decided to use all their strength between now and then to arouse thoroughly members to the necessity of recompensing depositors and shareholders for their losses. Meetingsc are to be held from Montreal to Vancouver at central points and members of Parliament are to be asked to address gatherings.

A draft of the petition to the Dominion Government urging recompensing of depositors was before the meeting. A delegation will go to Ottawa and present the petition to the Cabinet.

It was announced at a meeting yesterday morning that between $25,000 and $30,000 had been subscribed by depositors to meet the expense of the campaign on behalf o the depositors and share-holders who will lose heavily by the failure of the Bank.

TWO KILLED YESTERDAY ON A TOBOGGAN SLIDE

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Tate Shelley, president of the Shelley Company, of Saranac Lake, was instantly killed and his sister-in-law, Mrs. John Shelley, died an hour later of injuries she received yesterday afternoon when a toboggan on which they were coasting left the chute at a tremendous speed and overturned. The toboggan slide descends a 2,000-foot embankment to the ice of the lake.

A BIG INCREASE CUSTOMS REVENUE

Excise Tax Collections Record Largest Increase

OTTAWA, Jan. 3. — (Canadian Press).—The Customs and Excise revenue of the Dominion was nearly $40,000,000 greater in 1923 than in 1922. During the past year the total revenues derived from these sources amounted to $302,473,813, as compared with $262,377,468 in the calendar year 1922. The increase, therefore, was $39,096;345. By far the greatest proportion of the increase was in excise tax collections, chiefly derived from the sales tax.

From excise taxes the Dominion derived a revenue of $126,684,825 during 1923, which was $32,341,607 more than in 1922, when the total collections were $94,343,218. The Customs revenue accounted for $5,739,158 of an increase, the total revenue during the past year amounting to $135,860,374, as compared with $130,121,216 in 1922.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNUAL CONCERT

Wealth of Talent Displayed in Programme By the Methodist Sunday School —Orchestra a Feature.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 2.— The annual concert in connection with the Methodist Sunday School anniversary was held on New Year's night, the church being well filled with an appreciative audience for the occasion.

The selections given by Miss Pearl Newton, artist-graduate of the Owen A. Smity studio, Toronto, were the main feature of the programme, others assisting being Miss Ethel Richardson, soloist, and members of the Sunday School. This was Miss Newton's initial appearance in Millbrook and so popular were her numbers it is safe to predict that it will by no means be her last.

The superintendent, Mr.. F.. W.. Fallis, filled the position of chairman most capably, and the orchestra, under the leadership of Mr.. G. A. Duncan, adeed greatly to the success and pleasure of the entertainment.. Misses Ella Elson and Stella Hetherington were the accompanists of the evening, and the members of the orchestra included: Messers J.. Isbister, J.. L.. Byam, Lloyd and Billy Byam, G.. E.. Burnham, F. Rowe, A.. Richards, Misses Kathleen Isbister, and May Ryam, and H.. Janes.

The platform was prettily decorated with evergreens, and the C. G. I..T.. monogram in the group colors of blue and white, occupied a conspicuous position in the centre background. The programme was as follows:

PART ONE.

Orchestra Selection.
Motion Song, "The Big Round Sun," by the Primary children, Orville and Ethel Rowland, Jean Todd, Elwood Fallis, Bryer and Reg Edmunds, Mary Burnham, Gertie Richards, Marjorie McDowell, Elizabeth Raper, Leon and Dorothy Raper.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A box is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to express my views as a citizen of Peterboro in the way one of our polling booths were run. Yesterday, January 1st, at our Municipal election. Now the one I refer to, was at the corner of George and Perry streets, at the rear of Mr. Halpin's Grocery Store, there was absolutely no way of knowing that their was a polling booth within a mile away. Neither was there any one around to tell you if you happened to be looking for one. I have, no doubt, whatever that their was a number as I myself, went around the house twice looking for an entrance where one might think their was a polling booth but nothing doing. I was just about to leave when I saw a man come out of a rear door which opens into Mr. Halpin's back yard, off Perry Street. Had I not seen this man come out, some of our candidates would have lost at least one good vote. Thanking you Mr. Editor and hoping our next election will be run as it should be.

I am, Your truly,
A VOTER.

THE HIGHER CRITICISM

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER:

Sir:—In a recent number of "The Christian Guardian," the leading article is written by the Rev. A. D. Belden, B.D., upon "Evolution and the Fall of Man." In his opening words appears this extraordinary statement: "We have to explain the origin of this story (The Fall of Man) and since we no longer believe that it dropped readymade from heaven we have to inquire into the facts from which it springs."

You will note the flippant manner in which Dr. Belden speaks of the story's dropping ready made from heaven. This is not criticism, it is rank infidelity and impudence. It is not even unbelief but pure disbelief. And what must we think of a minister who retains the title which ministers give themselves that of "Reverend" and yet refers to heaven as if it were a factory of readymade garments. In a recent number of The Mail and Empire and also of The Globe, I ventured to point out that no finite being can "criticize" an infinite Being, that no creature with the limitations of humanity can logically set himself up to say what a God would or would not say and that, therefore, the whole of Higher Criticism or of any other criticism of the Bible is out of court—unless the critic denies altogether that the Bible is the word of God, ranks himself a common unbeliever, and assumes that since it is not the word of God he is free to say what he likes about it. I have received letters commanding my contention as "unanswerable" and whilst I would not venture to assert such a thing myself I do hope that my argument will afford some consolation to those who still cling to the old faith and the old Bible. My contention, briefly, is that if ministers no longer believe the Bible to be the Word of God, let them stop at that and live up with other unbelievers. But that they should continue to preach and try to drive out the old religion from the hearts of men and women is something that, they can have no excuse for doing either on the grounds of strict logic or of the obligation which they took when they entered the ministry and began to take their pay. Conditions are serious. Through out the English-speaking world we hear the rumblings of an approaching landslide. Suddenly as if a storm were approaching, we find the air becoming electrical and alarms being sounded everywhere. The conflict between the modernists and the old believers has become most bitter and far-reaching. As Bryan truly said: "Why don't they get out if they no longer believe?" And why don't they? Are they determined to wreck their will and their vengeance upon people who if they have not their old faith to cling to, are literally out in all the horrors of night and of the cold.

THE PULPWOOD COMMISSION

According to press reports the Royal Commission on Pulpwood is about to resume its peregrinations about the country which came to a halt a few weeks ago.

Considering the state of Canada's finances and the fact that the Government finds itself under the necessity of imposing a new and an increased sales tax on everything the consumer has to buy, the waste of money—to say nothing of the utter futility involved in the creation and continuance of this Commission—cannot be characterized as anything less than an outrage upon the public.

Any excuse which might have existed to justify the Commission, disappeared when the Government passed the now notorious secret order-in-council exempting pulpwood under contract for a period of ten years from the operations of any embargo that might be imposed under the recommendations of the Commission. This, together with the Government's pledge that wood from farm lands would also be exempt, removes the last vestige of possibility that the present Government can or will do anything to protect this great natural resource of Canada from foreign depredation, for the rate at which Canada is being depleted of her pulpwood amounts to nothing short of that. Trade returns show that for the first eleven months of this year 1,416,000 cords of pulpwood have been exported to the United States, an increase of 445,000 cords, or more than 45 per cent, over the corresponding period of last year.

The "evidence" already taken by the Commission emphasizes the farcical character of its proceedings, the great bulk of it consisting of monotonous repetitions by American pulpwood buyers and their representatives that an embargo would injure the business of exporting pulpwood—which is precisely the object and the justification for the proposed embargo. The so-fcalled "information" which the Commission is credited with gathering consists largely of extravagant misstatements of no value and not only misleading in themselves but whose propagation is seriously injurious to Canada's best interests.

But even the agitation for an embargo has had at least one good effect. It has brought into being no less than twelve applications for locations for new pulp mills in this country, which indicates beyond any doubt that if the American market for the wood is cut off there will follow a domestic demand sufficient to absorb all the reasonably available wood, and Canada will be benefited by the revenues derived from its manufacture in this country. Of course, if the Government persists in its policy of allowing the free export of the wood, these new mills will not be built in Canada.

But the expense of the Commission, the members of which receive from $25 to $35 a day each, and $15 additional for travelling expenses, is an inexcusable imposition on the taxpayers. Surely a country which bears the uneviable reputation of being the only one in the world, outside of Germany, whose public debt is increasing and whose national budget fails to balance, can find better used for the tax-Payers' money than in paying for the needless joyriding about the country of a useless Government Commission.

MODERNISM

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER:

Sir:—Those who have read the latest important work on "Conservation" (by the President of the University of Wisconsin) will see at a glance what the present madness called Modernism is leading up to. The book as its name implies deals with the conservation of all natural resources and with the co-related conservation and improvement of the human race showing how with the enormous development of modern medicine and mechanical science together with the approaching development of the human race by eugenics (in the same way as he points out our animals are improved) the population of the earth will soon become overflowing. Then having filled the earth with people by breeding and leading them by the nose the way we do our prize cattle we must conserve our other material resources or they will starve to death.. But the work comes, on this point, to an amusing conclusion. Important as the work is it runs up against a stone-wall. Even with the full development and proper conservation of both people, and food we are shortly to be up against the fact that the chemical constituents of both air and earth upon which we live are limited such as phosphates, iron, fuel, etc., and that as a consequence sooner or later we must find the world over-flowing with people and not enough to eat—a eugenised people in a dessicated world. And this conclusion ridiculous as it is nevertheless is strictly logical and quite enevitable. Of course, from one end of the work to the other he makes no mention of God or the soul of man. He is all for Social Service. As the Christian Guardian said, in a recent number, in future instead of doing all that thou hast to do to the glory of God, let it read "to the service of man and the glory of God." The success of material science in unravelling the mysteries of the universe whilst it has made humble if materialistic people, out of scientists, has had an awful effect upon the poor preachers who have dropped the gospel and have gone in for the compulsory improvement (called Social Service) of the human race. The p. p's having ceased to look profound over the few words of Hebrew which they learned at college have now enlisted as a corps of camel-drivers who having decided to hang on to the coat tails of scientists expect like Mickey Free's father to be pulled out of the hole they are in now—into a region where, with better pay, they will be still more absolute in their relations to their people. The new church is the outcome of this resolve. But, if we can credit the newspapers the congregations throughout the country now voting on it are kicking that proposition to pieces without mercy. The author of "Conservation" winds up with two notable observations: "The new movement for Conservation (including eugenics, prohibition, etc.) can no more be stayed than the tides . . ."

But "at the very best the outlook is not any too bright." Why? "That the problem of pinching economy will confront our descendants is beyond question."

So that the future of all these wonderful movements is a natural world unable to feed a population preserved and increased by us as if our eternal salvation depended upon it. He says truly we cannot "re-use the resources of nature without loss." But throughout his review of the future not one word of a religious world or of any world but one so clean and abstemious and medically preserved as to be sure finally of death from starvation of both body and soul, and no hope after that death. It begins to look after all as if God knew what He was about, doesn't it? Reforming God, God's word and God's creation is not so easy as many people seem to think it is. But one thing is sure, it will lead us to starvation. Even science agrees to that. If so, it may not be so popular.

MANY AUTOMOBILES TAKE TO THE DITCH

Peterborough Motorist Counted Eleven Wrecks Between Toronto and Peterborough.

F. L. Roy, who, with Mrs. Roy, returned home last night after a motor trip of over five hundred miles which commenced last Saturday, and during which they visited Toronto, Hamilton, Brantford, London, St. Thomas and Galt, reports very bad conditions on the road from Toronto to Peterboro. Mr. Roy, who reached home before the heavy snowfall which covered all routes with a white blanket, encountered eleven cars ditched, wrecked or in trouble on the road, from Toronto to Peterboro. Glare ice on the roadways had been utilized by children for skating purposes, with the result that the motorists' path from Toronto to Welcome was a succession of skidding intervals, alternated by snail-like driving. Burnt automobiles and others with all four wheels in the air were among the roadside exhibits.

Folks Back Home

Sketches by J. H. Striebel

By Robert Quillen

Will Baldwin

Will Baldwin was one of the big men in our church. He took no part in the public services, but he gave liberally to support the various activities of the church and brought his family regularly to worship. He was a proud, dignified and sensitive man and had the unqualified respect of the community.

One summer, years ago his eldest daughter was tricked by a man who promised to marry her and ran away to avoid keeping his promise. There was much talk in the community, as there usually is in such cases, and the officials of the church felt called upon to do something. They met in solemn session to discuss the matter, and the girl's name was erased from the roll of membership.

Old man Baldwin promptly withdrew from the church, taking his bitter and humiliated family with him, and not one of them has been back since.

Five years later, when plans were afoot for a new church building, a committee waited on Will and asked him to bring his family back into the church and begin a new life by making a substantial contribution to the building fund.

He listened to them, standing white and rigid in his doorway, and refused.

His critics say he is a hard and stubborn old man, unwilling to make peace with God, and that unless his pride is broken he will go to hell and take his family along with him.

Willie Willis

Some drug store loafer offered to buy little Willie Willis a cigar if he would smoke it. After Willie went to bed he told his mother he never again intended to say "Gee - whilikins" or "Golly Moses."

Famous Guys

BEN FRANKLIN: A maker of epigrams, now deceased, once struck twelve with the assertion that the way to learn all about a subject is to write a book about it. The second best way is to set the type to print the book.

All printers are shrewd fellows, with skulls full of good, hard sense, and it was in the study and practice of printing that Franklin's abilities developed and set him on the way to greatness.

His greatness has been so much proclaimed that moderns are prone to think him a freak, without fault or blemish, and thus to feel relieved of any obligation to follow his example. One may, for pride's sake, compete with mere men; but who will aspire to equal the gods?

Yet Franklin possessed the weaknesses to which human flesh is heir At times he appeared incapable of determining where thrift left off and greed began; and young lovers of today, being informed that he once selected a girl to wed and later gave her the gate because her parents would not come through with adequate cash, will not feel disposed to give three rousing cheers.

Nor will they cheer that other affair that sent him abroad, leaving his sweetie to marry another man—e'en though he returned and took her to wife when the other chap decamped.

Franklin was great, but he was human. His reasoning is practically faultless, but the same cannot be said of his conduct.

Aunt Het

The Butcher Boy and His Bride

Fate Deals A Hard Blow

"The girl and Hiram, scantily clad and so wholly surrendered to woe that tears could affod no relief, stood near our gate with their arms about one another and dumbly watched their dream and joy collapse in the flames."

The girl and the butcher boy have made their first acquaintance with tragedy. They had rushed work on their little bungalow across the street, in an effort to get it completed before disagreeable weather made further work impossible, and Monday evening Hiram bought a new stove and built a fire in the living room in order to hurry the drying of the plaster. At bedtime he put in another scuttle of coal, adjusted the dampers, and went back to the home of his wife's parents to spend the night.

At 2 o'clock in the morning our quiet street echoed to the clamor of a shotgun, and within a minute other firearms took up the burden of alarm and all of the neighbors began to appear on their porches, their night clothes fluttering in the sharp north wind.

The boys of the volunteer fire department appeared within five minutes, the little red jitney truck lurching from one side of the street to the other and making a brave clamor with its silver bell; but nothing could be done. The roof fell in even as they were attaching a hose to the hydrant at the corner.

The girl and Hiram, scantily clad and so wholly surrendered to woe that tears could afford no relief, stood near our gate with their arms about one another and dumbly watched their dream and joy collapse in the flames. We got them into the house after a time and thawed them out with hot coffee, but they were too completey stunned to feel or need or sympathy.

Mother, dear soul, drew the girl into her lap after a little while, and her own tears brought answering sobs from the girls and thus afforded the relief so sorely needed.

Hiram was very white, but he is not one to whine. "I had it insured for all I could get," said he, "but of course that won't cover the loss. I'll build again in the spring. I don't mind it so much on my own account, but it's mighty hard on poor little Mary, the fix she's in."

Poor kids! And yet not poor, either. A soft life doesn't develop hard muscle. Some hard knocks are necessary to develop character. And all of us like Hiram better, since he has taken his loss so gamely. As to the girl, she did all of her weeping at one time and Tuesday noon found her smiling and making a brave effort to joke about it. "I didn't much like the arrangement of that back hall, anyway," said she, "and now I can plan it better."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

THE MAID-IN-THE-GARDEN

Suddenly Missez Sprat sniffed. She smelled something! Bacon frying!

"My lands!" she cried, springing up from the floor like a bouncing rubber-ball. "Can I believe my nose? Do I smell bacon or do I not smell bacon, my dears?"

"Yes, you do," said Nancy. "I just had to try out some of the new tin things and the nice little stove. And as the Butcher Man just left a nice piece of bacon, I decided to slice some off and fry it in my new frying pan."

"I always did say Thursday was my lucky day!" declared Missex Sprat. "Would you mind putting on another piece for me?"

"No, indeed!" said Nancy, tying on her kitchen apron again. "I'd just love to."

"And may I inquire," went on Missez Sprat, "if it is quite, quite fat?"

"I'm afraid it has some streaks of lean in it," said Nancy, "but you can cut them out if you wish."

It was Nick who had the happy thought of sending for Jack Sprat himself to come and help the party out. He ran across the street and brought Mister Jack over in a jiffy.

They were all having a fine time, when a sharp rap sounded on the front door. Before anybody could answer it it opened itself, and there stood the Maid-in-the-Garden.

"Well, I declare!" she exclaimed. "Is everybody in the world eating all the time? I just left the Queen at home in the kitchin eating bread and honey and here I come and find you people at it, too! I do believe that if all the trees were bread and cheese and all the sea were ink, it would disappear in two bites and there wouldn't be any world left."

All this time nobody had said a single word. For that matter, no body got a chance. But there was another reason. The Maid-in-the-Garden had a bandage around her nose and a spectacle she was. Nobody could say anything for looking at her. Usually when one has to have one's nose bandaged, he stays in doors till it's off. I mean until the bandage is off—not the nose!

But then, dear only knows, perhaps the Maid-in-the-Garden's nose was off. The poem certainly said that the blackbird picked it off!

"I—I'm sorry that we appear to be so greedy," Nancy finally found her voice to say. "But we were just trying to be hospitable. We're new in Daddy Gander Land, you know."

"That reminds me of what I came for," said the Maid-in-the-Garden quickly. "Did Daddy Gander happen to leave his magic dust-pan around? I've swept up twelve times today after the Queen and my back is nearly broken. The magic dust-pan gets 'em all up in a jiffy the minute it touches the floor and I'm sure he wouldn't mind letting me have it."

"Of course he wouldn't mind," said Nick. "Here it is!"

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

COOKING FISH

Cod, smelts, halibut, haddock, turbot and scallops are at their best during the winter months. Smelts and scallops are only in season from October to March.

These are delicious, economical foods but too few housewives use them to advantage.

Scallops contain no waste and are easily cooked and served in the home kitchen. The sauce is the "thing" that gives the professional touch to most fish dishes because the actual cooking of fish is of the simplest fashion. Broiling, boiling or deep frying are the approved methods.

There is no simpler way to cook fish than in deep fat. This is very different from the ordinary pan frying of fish. The intense heat of the deep fat quickly cooks the coating of crumbs and eggs. This forms a sort of shell which protects the delicate flesh of the fish from the too high temperature and cooks it perfectly.

The serving of fish adds or detracts much. Broken pieces tumbled onto a platter rarely find much favor with the family. While neat, whole servings, garnished with slices or sections of lemon are most appetizing.

If you find it impossible to turn a whole or half a fish when broiling it, cut it in pieces that you can handle. These are really fillets of fish and nothing to be ashamed of. Fillets are always prepared for deep fat frying if the fish is of any size at all.

Fried scallops with tartar sauce are a delicacy that any housewife can enjoy at home as well as in a fashionable hotel.

Fried Scallops

One pint scallops, 1 egg, fine crumbs, frying fat.

Clean scallops and dry between towels. Season with salt and pepper. Beat egg slightly with one tablespoon water. Dip scallops in egg, roll in crumbs and drop in deep hot fat. Fry three minutes and drain on heavy brown paper. The fat should be hot enough to lightly brown an inch cube of bread from the soft part of the loaf in 60 seconds.

Tartar Sauce

Yolk 1 egg, 1-3 cup olive oil, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon powdered sugar, few grains cayenne, ¼ teaspoon powdered tarragon, 3 dessertspoons vinegar, 1 dessertspoon minced capers, 1 dessertspoon minced gherkins, 1 dessertspoon minced green olives, 1 dessertspoon minced parsley, ½ finely chopped shallot.

Mix mustard, salt, sugar, tarragon and cayenne with egg yolk. The egg and bowl should be very cold. Stir with a fork until smooth. Add oil, drop by drop, beating constantly. Add vinegar as mixture thickens. The oild may be added more rapidly when about half is used. Keep on ice until needed, then add remaining ingredients and serve.

If one-half cup of mayonnaise is at hand it is used instead of making the fresh dressing. The capers, gherkins, olives, parsley and shallot are added just before serving.

Smelts are a winter fish that are very popular with many persons. They are a small fish and easily cooked whole. The sauce in the following recipe is unusual and piquant:

Salted Smelts With Anchovy Sauce

Four large ("selected") smelts, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ¾ cup white stock, 2 teaspoons anchoby paste, juice of 1 lemon, 1 teaspoon minced parsley, salt and pepper, cream.

Clean fish and cut four diagonal gashes on both sides of each. Season with salt and pepper and lemon juice and let stand 15 minutes. Roll in cream and then in flour. Melt part of the butter in a frying pan and saute fish on both sides until a delicate brown. Remove fish to a hot platter. Add flour to butter in the pan and stir until smooth. Add stock slowly, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and stir in anchovy paste, lemon juice, remaining butter and minced parsley. When anchovy paste is thoroughly blended with the sauce remove from the fire and pour over fish.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY READY TO TAKE REINS ONCE BALDWIN IS OUT

Present Aim of Labor Party is to Educate Public Opinion — Baldwin Will Go Down Early in Session.

THE KING INVOLVED

In response to a request for a statement on the eve of the re-assembly of Parliament, January 8, when the Labor party is expected to defeat the Conservative Government and itself assume power, the Right Hon. J. R. Clynes, M.P., President of the Union of General Workers, and second in command to Ramsay MacDonald in the Labor Party, has written the following for the United News:

(By the Right Hon. J. R. Clynes, M.P., Written for the United News, Copyright 1924 by United Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 3.—The present aim of the Labor Party is to educate public opinion so as to secure consent to considerable changes in social and economic conditions.

There is a great deal of stupid talk about what a Labor Government would do. That is would, for instance, try to force through a capital levy.

No great change can be accomplished by Labor without a due measure of public opinion being behind it. It would be well if those who talk about a levy would talk about the National debt, the interest of which requires the payment of the largest single item in the National expenditure. That interest amounts to $5,000,000 a day.

The conditions arising from unemployment and insecurity have produced a state of social rot which is not only harmful to those who suffer, but is a menace to National order and constitutional government.

The immediate work of Labor would be to remove or diminish the worst of the wrongs from which millions of the people now suffer. Its ultimate worth would depend on the party growth and the degree of national approval which our programme may receive.

Has Cabinet Ready.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(United Press). Ramsay MacDonald has a Labor cabinet and program outlined and ready for royal command that he form a Government.

The leader of the Parliamentary Labor Party has been devoting his Scottish holiday which ended to-day to conferences with various leaders. Ont of these consultations he has framed the personnel of a cabinet and a tenative program of policies. All that remains is for the King to invite MacDonald to undertake formation of a Government and the greatest political experiment in British history will commence.

It is understood that the Labour plan is as follows:

Take office when requested by the King, probably immediately after Premier Stanley Baldwins first defeat in commons.

Start conversatively making no attempt to introduce radical legislation from which support of the Liberal Party would be withheld. Endeavor to restrain, so far as possible, the extreme left wing of the Parliamentary Labor party which is expected to be somewhat carried away by the sudden access of power.

Retain office three of four month, if possible to demonstrate Labors administrative ability.

Request a General Election when finally defeated and use Labors record in office to win votes and possibly a majority at the polls.

It is on this question of a General Election after the first defeat of the proposed Labor in the House that Ramsay MacDonald is prepared to take issue with even His Majesty if the necessity arises. MacDonald has forseen the possibility of the King's calling on H.. S.. Asquith or some other statesman to form a Government in preference to adopting the Labor suggestion that its parliamentary defeat be followed by a General Election. The belief is growing, however, that King George will accept MacDonald's advice when Labor suffers an adverse vote in the Commons, which, of course, is sooner or later inevitable.

Should the King refuse to adopt his suggestion, it might be construed as an indication of the British Crowns prejudice against Labor and lead to unfortunate results, which King George certainly desires to obviate. A cabinet meeting to-day discusses the terms in which the King's speech at the re-opening of Parliament is to be couched.

The present Government will be speedily defeated by a combined Labour Liberal vote on the subject, of the Prime Ministers to reply to the speech. Stanley Baldwin's resignation will follow forthwith.

Ramsay MacDonald will start formation of Britain's first Labor Government by January 19th.

PARLIAMENT OPENING MAY BE NEAR MARCH

OTTAWA, Jan. 3. — Canadian Press.—Parliament may not be called until the third week of February, possibly the 21st. Current gossip favored an earlier date, but there is doubt felt today if the necessary business could be ready before the latter part of next month.

The cabinet meets this afternoon however, when the subject is likely to be discussed.

HELD A RECEPTION AT THE ARMOURIES

Lieutenant Colonel Bradburn and the officers of the Peterborough Rangers, assisted by the ladies of the 57th Chapter, I.O.D.E., entertained a large number of their friends on the afternoon of New Years' Day in their quarters at the Armouries.

The commanding officer, assisted by Mrs .Colonel Clegg, received the guests in the main mess room. Delightful music was provided during the afternoon by an orchestra recruited from the members of the regimental band, under the leadership of Lieutenant Peryer. Three vocal numbers added much to the entertainment of the afternoon. Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park very kindly sang "If Winter Comes" in her usual artistic fashion. Major Maurice Park and Mr. R. A. Brown sang "The Battle Eve" in a rousing manner, and Captain Melton rendered "The Jolly Old Cavalier," in good style. Mrs. Harold Young was a most efficient accompaniste for all three numbers.

The catering was ably handled by Mr. Charles Cheverill. A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the presence of a goodly number of the ex-commanding officers and others of the old 57th Regiment, together with officers from different C.E.F. units and the cavalry, machine gun and artillery units of the city militia.

POULTRY SHOW EXHIBITS ARE A DRAWING CARD

Vocal Combat is the Order at the Armouries —Judging Continues Today.

Judging of the exhibits at the Poultry Show in the Armouries is progressing rapidly, and it is expected will be completed this evening. Red and blue and gold ribbons decorate the trim steel cages, some of them matching in hue the varicolored anklets worn by the classy fowl on view. Superintendent Paxman declares that the cool temperature of the Armouries in this weather is ideal for the birds, and that the present quarters, which have not been used for a poultry show for the last five years, are much better than the market building. "The fowl are all in healthy condition," he declared.

Vocal combat is the order at the big building. Every note in the scale is included in the barnyard diapason of sound that greets the visitor. The big African geese honk valiantly most of the time, their Emden brethren have a full-throated chorus that has an irritable note as the water-carrier loiters at his task, and they shake their heads and protest vigorously against too close an inspection by rude passers-by. A big chanticleer of the White Wyandotte breed was having a competition in voice production with his neighbor across the way, a fierce-looking White Rhode Islander, and one of the liveliest crows of the lot came from the throat of a small Rose Comb bantam. A barred rock lady plucked petulantly at the second prize ribbon affixed to her cage.

The little bantams of all sorts, from the white "silkies" with grey faces to the game birds with their high-water mark feet, occupy a small row of cages placed atop the big geese and the white gobblers, and are companioned by several small bunnies, in silky grey and white. A stand of pigeons is set nearby, where soft coos come from the grey carriers and homers, the placid-looking tumblers and the proud fantails, with burnished breasts. There are several nests of guinea pigs and guinea fowls in pepper and salt and white commence another line of cages.

Beautifully marked bronze and black Polish with their fussy top-knots companion the lordly Houdans and back of them were the silent Muscova ducks, that say never a word, even when their water pan is empty.

Mr.. James Gates informed the Examiner representative that he had better luck in the Poultry show than he had at the polls, his big White Wyandotte rooster having taken second prize.

An interesting demonstration of killing and plucking fowl takes place today, this evening, to-morrow afternoon and evening, in charge of G. T.. Stevens, of the Swift Canadian plant, Toronto.

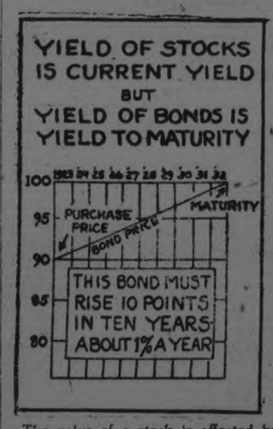
Among the exhibits is a showing of trussed fowl and egg collections, the latter in whites, pale buff and browns. There is a pen of five hens that qualified in the recent Canadian egg-laying contest, a number of T.. Barron's English Leghorns, and a large, attractive demonstration by the Dominion Experimental Farms, with illuminated sections, showing samples of laying and fattening rations, model houses and pens and egg-grading exhibit, that shows enlarged views of eggs as they appear to the candler, with various sizes of air-cells.

The Quaker Oats Company has an exhibit of bagged fowl mashes and grains ,of the "full o' pep" variety, and the Collins Never Fail Products show examples of various appliances for the poultry house and barnyard.

The show has some interesting and novel features this year, and a splendid variety of high-class fowl of every sort. It is well worth a visit from those interested in better fowl production. The exhibits are arranged in attractive fashion, at a convenient height for examination. Hot coffee and refreshments may be procured from Mrs. R. Bugg's booth.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.



The value of a stock is affected by the amount of bonds outstanding.

In the case of the two companies shown in the illustration, the only difference is in the proportion of bonds to stock. Both have the same total capital and the same earnings and equal earnings per share on the stock.

If earnings declined 25 per cent or $1,500 the earnings applicable for the common stock would have been decidedly different. In the first company there would still be $1,500 or 3 per cent for the stock after interest had been paid, but in the second company there would be nothing.

Interest is a fixed charge. If it is not paid, the bondholders foreclose and the stockholders might lose the money which they invested. Evidently then, the stockholders of the second company are taking a larger risk of foreclosure, so the stock is worth less.

This illustration shows how important it is to know the proportion of bonds to stocks in the capital of a company.

A merchant is able to cut his selling cost through advertising. This saving is reflected in lower costs of goods to the public.

The average person wants to shop around before buying goods. This means that several stores will have to give service for a sale that will only go to one of them. Naturally a relatively high selling cost will mount up for the storekeepers.

Advertising tends to cut down this waste service. A man or his wife can read the advertisements of different stores, and make a selection without running around and requiring service from many stores. This effects a direct saving to both the buyer and the merchant.

FORMS COMPANY TO BRING WELSH COAL

T. G. Mickles Will Introduce Welsh Anthracite in All Sizes This Year.

MONTREAL, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press). — Announcement was made to-day by Lovell G. Mickles, that he has applied for the incorporation of a company, together with the leading British Coal interests, for the introduction of Welsh anthracit, into the Canadian market.

Associated with Mr. Mickles will be Sir Alfred Mond, and it is the intention of the new company to instal a complete breaking plant in Montreal, so as to be able to lay down Welsh anthracite in Canada in all sizes required by the Canadian trade.

The plant will be ready to take car, of shipments of coal reaching Canada, immediately on the opening of navigation in 1924, thus making the coal available on the Canadian market during the coming summer and for the winter season of 1924-25.

THE LOCAL TEAMS ARE WORKING OUT

Good Ice at Brock Street Rink—Skating Saturday

The Peterborough intermediates held a very fast workout last evening at the Brock street rink on a very keen sheet of ice. About two hundred spectators were present to look over this season's prospects, which showed considerable promise.

The following players were out: Frank Collins, Biffer Ranger, Red Edgar, Scotty McPherson, Lackey, Snap Parker, Jimmie McMartin, Grover Halpin, Burgess, Walter Jackson and Mickey Murray. The latter will be seen in the North Toronto nets on Friday when the local intermediates will clash with the fast North Toronto aggregation. Both teams will be allowed to use as many substitutes as they wish in order to give all the players a chance to show their wares. All the Petes' team of last year, except Red Legon, who is with Queen's, will be seen in action on Friday, along with a couple of last year's juniors and several new players who will be new to the spectators. North Toronto will also have several new players on their line-up. A good game is expected and the Petes will be out to trim the team that put them out of the running last year.

There is now about two inches of ice on the Brock and if the weather keeps cold, another flood will be given to-night, which will put it in first-class shape for to-morrow night's game. There will be skating on the Brock street rink on Saturday.

The local juniors will be seen in action to-night for their first time this season. They have a large number of promising players to pick from among whom are several new ones.

Peterboro's 1923 Fire Loss

The total loss by fire during the year 1923 was $159,982.19, including the Turnbull fire which amounted to $83,917.40, and the Salvation Army fire which amounted to $40,000.00, totalling $123,917.40, which leaves $36,064.79 for the many other smaller fires. Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. — (United Press).—With Congress scheduled to convene at noon, some uneasiness was manifested in the early dealings in the main body of the stocks. Slight recessions took place in industrial leaders, like Baldwin, American Can. and Steel, but forward movements continued in individual stocks, in the face of prevailing irregularity. United States Cast Iron Pipe maintained its spectacular advance, reaching a further record high at 70 3-4, while Continental Can. was in demand at the best levels of the current advance. Corn Products was unchanged at 157, despite the explosion which caused $500,000 damage to the company's Pekin, Ills., plant.

Selling broke out the first hour. Continued heavy profit-taking by traders caused professionals to turn to the short side. The Oils were well bought on the re-action, reflecting the falling off of 16,500 barrels of the average daily crude output during the week ended Dec. 29. United States Steel directors meet on January 29 for dividend action and to pass on the report for the last quarter of 1923. It is the belief that between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000 against $47,000,680 in the third quarter for 1923 steel should earn $15 for the Common.

'THE COVERED WAGGON' IS SUED FOR MILLION

Famous Scouts Daughter Asserts Picture Disgraces Her

KANSAS CITY, Jan 3. — Mrs. Bridger Hahn seeks to collect $1,000,000 libel damages from the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and the Paramount Pictures Corporation, for alleged misrepresentation of the character of her father in "The Covered Wagon."

Mrs. Hahn, the only surviving child of the famous Western scout, plainsman and Indian fighter, declared the misrepresentation of Bridger in picture brings a disgrace to her name, and raises a question of her parentage.

In the picture, Bridger is represented as a drinker, and as having two Indian women as wives.

Many records presented with the suit for damages uphold Mrs. Hahn' scontention that her father was an upright, temperate and industrious man.

Mrs. Hahn contends her father was married but once—to a full blooded Ute Indian, and that the ceremony was performed by proper authorities.

MANTLE OF WHITE ARRIVED AT LAST

Winter Comes Into Its Own With First Real Fall of Snow.

Snow which fell in the city last night and to-day effectively covered the streets with the sleighing surface so long looked for by carters and other drivers of horse vehicles. From its composition, it is evident that this is a snowstorm ordered for Christmas, which has been delayed in transit. Clinging to trees and telephone wires inches deep, it formed this morning a really Christmassy scene.

Railroad officials report that it has not incommoded traffic to any degree, and trains were running on time. Several men who were anticipating work in the bush were delighted with the advent of the snow, which will open up operations in lumbering by providing a means of transportation for the logs.

A dejected looking awning on a George Street store bore mute testimony to the weight of the apparently feathery flakes which had piled themselves to a depth of several inches on it. The awning was torn from its anchorage and hung about six feet from the ground.

Ice completed its mastery of the city creek yesterday, to the delight of scores of children, who skated on every place where the creek leaves its tunnel under the city. Skating on the canal is reported good, and outdoor rinks are being put in shape for the greater winter sport. It seems to-day as though winter has come into its own.

VAGRANT HAD TOOLS IN HIS POSSESSION

Wandering Streets at 3 O'clock This Morning—Held by Police.

Frederick G... Snarr, aged 43, was found wandering the streets at 3 o'clock this morning and taken in charge by the police who brought him before Magistrate Langley on a charge of vagrancy. He had in his possession when arrested a collection of tools, including hack saws, which were not considered in good taste on a man parading the streets on a cold winter morning.

Snarr said he hailed originally from New Brunswick, but had been harvesting in the west. Since the close of the harvest season he had been in Buffalo and Toronto, and is now on his way to Ottawa. He had a little over $1 in his pocket. He was remanded until Saturday.

George Russell, alias P. Wilson, also appeared on a vagrancy charge and was remanded. His finger prints were taken and his record is being investigated.

LEAGUE TO SEEK AN AGREEMENT ON RIGHTS

GENEVA, Jan. 3.—(Associated Press) — Unscrupulous business and competition will be the subject of an international gathering called by the League of Nations to meet at Geneva May 5, 1924, when an effort will be made to draft an agreement for the respect of trade marks and patent rights.

The League of Nations has taken the initiative on the question by virtue of the league convenant whereby members mutually undertake to guarantee the maintenance of an equitable treatment of commerce.

Invitations have been sent to various governments to send experts to the meeting.

FALL FROM WINDOW RESULTED IN DEATH

VANCOUVER, Jan. 3—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. May Caffrey, widow of Lieut. Lawrence Caffrey, and a sister of Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines of Ontario, died in hospital here last night, from injuries sustained when she fell from the verandah of her apartment.

It is thought that Mrs. Caffrey, while leaning over a low balstrade of the verandah, slipped on the ice that covered the verandah, and, losing her balance, fell 15 feet to the ground. She suffered internal injuries, and did not regain consciousness.

PROPOSE SEVERAL TO FILL VACANCY

Senator Beique and Dr. Beland Conceded Most Likely to Fill Brodeur's Place.

QUEBEC, Jan. 3. — (Canadian Press).—With Hon. L. P. Brodeur, late Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, removed by death, rumor is already rife regarding his successor. A number of names are mentioned as to who will be the next Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, among these being Senator Beique of Montreal, Hon. Dr. Beland, Federal Minister of Health and Soldiers' Re-establishment; Hon. Judge Tessier, of this city; Hon. Adelard Turgeon, and Sir F. X. Lemieux, Chief Justice of the Superior Court in this city.

The choice for the appointment is said to lie between Senator Beique and Dr. Beland.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Voice of the people
To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I would like to throw out a few flashlights ot Monday's election:

1st. That our citizens elected a chief magistrate which our city may well be proud of from every standpoint, whether it is social, moral or religious.

2nd. That the citizens of our city have learned not to be carried away by any eleventh hour propaganda.

3rd. That the absence of good candidates in our aldermanic field is largely due to our present system of collective voting and two year term of such. The ward system and every alderman responsible to the electors each year would very much improve the stability of our aldermanic board.

4th. That the election of Board of Education gives a clear mandate of the electors that a combined technical school is proper, the whole slate being elected with the exception of E. B. Fowler, who from outside conditions maintained his seat, which was a credit to our citizens.

5th. The mandate of the people in regard to a combined school is so strong that when the by-law is presented to the electors it should be presented to the municipal electors as a whole, as the issue is of vital importance to the tenant as well as the owner. The tenant pays indirectly his share of the taxes and feels for his child with the same compassion as the owner.

6th. It is the duty of every citizen to make all criticisms constructive.

Thanking you, I remain,
Yours, etc.,
W. H. MERRILL,
Havey Street.

The nurse, the doctor, the judge - all agree

HEALTH authorities throughout Canada unanimously recommend rubbers and overshoes for fall and winter foot protection.

School nurses everywhere urge the children to wear their rubbers to and from school, and for out-door play.

In a Montreal court it was held that a person who had slipped on the ice and sued for damages, had not taken reasonable precaution because rubbers were not worn.

Active, scuffling, heedless little feet of boys and girls give rubber footwear its hardest test. All DOMINION brand rubber footwear is made with the wear quality and durability to withstand the hardest kind of wear and tear—to protect the feet and health of children and grownups.

Because of their splendid wearing quality DOMINION brand rubbers are the most economical to buy.

NET ESTATE OF A PETERBORO WOMAN GOES TO A NEPHEW

Died in May Last and Estate Has Been Appraised in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Elizabeth F. Croly, of this city, and Peterboro, Ont., left a net estate of $6,518.96 when she died on May 3, 1923, and was laid to rest at Peterboro, according to a transfer tax State appraisal of her property on file here in the Surrogates' Court.

Under her will, executed on September 4, 1912, this passes over to her nephew, Louis Croly, of the House of Refuge, Randall's Island, N.Y., he, without bonds, being also the executor.

The gross value of the estate left by the testatrix amounted to $7,988.14, and consisted of the following:

Cash, on hand, $20; with the Harlem Savings Bank, $1,525.28; with the Seamen's Bank for Savings, $2,146.32; with the Toronto Savings and Loan Company of Peterboro, $364.20; wearing apparel, $40; from the State Employees of New York Retirement Fund, $200; salary due from the House of Refuge, $34.61; 10 shares (common) of the Borden's Condensed Milk Company, $1,160, with dividends, $40; Dominion of Canada War Loan Bonds, $2,002.50, with dividends, $58.72; Dominion of Canada Bond, $50.75, with dividends $1.38; Canadian War Savings Certificates, $47.50, and United States Liberty Bonds, $295.82, with dividends, $1.06.

Appraised as being of no value were 2,200 shares of the Gayety Mountain Gold Mines Company of Warren, Idaho.

The expenses, $1,469.18, as charged up against the gross value, are as follows:

Thomas C. Freeborn, New York, undertaker, $386.35; Aaron Comstock, Peterboro undertaker, $44; expenses at cemetery at Peterboro, $30; carriages, flowers, etc., $18; expended for railroad fare and for living expenses in the supervision of the funeral from this city to Peterboro and return, $81.13; Joseph P. McDonough, special guardian, $60; Goodhue and Lynn, attorneys, $600, and executors' commissions, $249.70.

JAPANESE CABINET IS A DIFFICULT PROBLEM

TOKIO, Jan. 3. — (Canadian Press).—After announcing earlier today his inability to complete the ministry, Viscount Kiego Kiyoura, who was summoned Tuesday to form a cabinet, has reconsidered. At the further request of Prince Regent Hirohito he has accepted the task of forming a new cabinet.

The years best book by America's best woman writer

"BLACK OXEN"

by GERTRUDE ATHERTON

XXX. (Continued)

He explored every nook of those personalities of his, determined to discover if he felt any sense of inferiority to this woman who knew so much more, had lived and thought and felt so much more, than himself—whom he still visioned on a plane above and apart. No woman was ever more erudite in the most brilliant and informing declensions of life, whatever the disenchantments, and for thirty years she had known in varying degrees of intimacy the ablest and most distinguished men in Europe. She had been at no pains to conceal her opinion of their intellectual superiority over American men. . . .

He concluded dispassionately that he never could feel inferior to any woman. Women might arrest the attention of the world with their talents, change laws and wring a better deal out of life than man had accorded them in the past, but whatever their gifts and whatever their achievements they always had been and always would be, through their physical disabilities, their lack of ratiocination, of constructive ability on the grand scale, the inferiors of men. The rare exceptions but proved the rule, and no doubt they had been cast in one mould and finished in another.

In sheer masculine arrogance he was more than her match. Moreover, there were other ways of keeping a woman subject.

Did he love her? Comprehensively and utterly? Clear thinking fled with the last of his doubts? . . . And when a man detaches himself from the gross material surface of life and wings to the realm of the imagination, where he glimpses immortality, what matter the penalty? Any penalty? Few had the thrice blessed opportunity. If he were one of the chosen, the very demi-gods, jeering at mortals, would hate him.

And then abruptly he fell asleep.

XXXI.

He went direct from the office that evening to Mrs. Oglethorpe's house in Gramercy Park. During the morning he had received the following note from her, and he had puzzled over it at intervals ever since:

"Dear Lee:

"Will you dine alone with an old woman tonight—a rather bewildered and upset old woman? I suppose to the young nothing is too new and strange for readjustment, but I have hardly known where I am these last few days. You are the only friend I care to talk to on the subject, for you always understand. I am probably older than your mother and I look old enough to be your grandmother, but you are the only person living with whom I ever feel inclined to lay aside all reserve. Old men are fossils and young men regard me as an ancient wreck preserved by family traditions. As for women I hate them and always did. Do come and dine with a lonely puzzled old woman unless you have an engagement impossible to break. Don't bother to dress."

"Your affectionate old friend—

"Jane Oglethorpe."

"What's up?" Clavering had thought as he finished it. "Mary or Janet?"

It was an extraordinary letter to receive from Mrs. Oglethorpe, the most fearsome old woman in New York. To Clavering she had always shown the softer side of her nature and he knew her perhaps better, or at all events more intimately, than any of her old friends, for she had not treated him as a negligible junior even when he arrived in New York at the tender age of twenty-two. His ingenuous precocity had amused her and she had discovered a keen interest in the newspaper world of whose existence she had hardly been aware; no interviewer had ever dared approach her; and as he grew older, developing rapidly more and more unlike her sons and her sons' friends, they had fallen into an easy pallish intimacy, were frank to rudeness, quarrelled furiously, but fed each other's wisdom and were deeply attached. During the war she had knitted him enough socks and sweaters to supply half his regiment; and when he had left the hospital after a serious attack of influenza it had been for the house in Gramercy Park, where he could have remained indefinitely had he wished.

But in all the years of their intimacy never before had she "broken," given a hint that she felt the long generation between them. He found her more interesting in talk than any girl, except when he was briefly in love, and her absence of vanity, her contempt for sentiment in any of its forms, filled him with a blessed sense of security as he spent hours stretched out on the sofa in her upstairs sitting room, smoking and discussing the universe. She was not an intellectual woman, but she was sharp and shrewd, a monument of common sense and worldly wisdom. It would be as easy to [illegible] as the [illegible] Minerva, and it was doubtful if any one made even a tentative attempt. Clavering wondered which of those inner secret personalities was to be revealed tonight.

As he stood in the drawing room waiting for her to come down he examined for the first time in many years the full-length picture of her painted shortly before her marriage to James Oglethorpe. She was even taller than Mary Zattiany and in the portrait her waist was round and disconcertingly small to the modern therapeutic eye. But the whole effect of the figure was superb and dashing, the poise of the head was almost defiant, and the hands were long, slender, and very white against the crimson satin of her gown.

She looked as if about to lead a charge of cavalry, although, oddly enough, her full, sensuous mouth with its slightly protruding lower lip, was pouting. Beautiful she had never been; the large bony structure of her face was too uncoverable, her eyes too sharp and sardonic; but handsome certainly, and, no doubt, for many years after she had stood for this portrait in the full insolence of her young womanhood. She retained not a trace of that handsomeness today. Her hands were skinny, large veined, discolored by moth patches, and her large aquiline nose rose from her sunken cheeks like the beak of an old eagle—an indomitable old eagle. Many women of sixty-eight had worn far better, but looks need care, spurred by vanity, and she had a profound contempt for noth. No doubt if she had made a few of the well known feminine concessions she would have looked at least ten years younger than her age, for she had never had a day's illness: eight lyings-in were not, in her case, to be counted as exceptions. No doubt, thought Clavering, as he turned to greet her, she had thought it quite enough to be imposing.

She certainly looked imposing tonight in spite of her old-fashioned corsets and her iron-gray hair arranged in flat rolls and puffs on the precise top of her head, for although flesh had accumulated lumpily on her back, her shoulders were still unbowed, her head as haughtily poised as in her youth, and the long black velvet gown with yellow old point about the square neck (the neck itself covered like the throat with net), and falling over her hands, became her style if not the times.

"Well, Lee!" she said drily. "I suppose when you got my note you thought 'I had gone bug-house, as my fastidious granddaughter Janet would express it. But that is the way I felt and that is the way I feel at the present moment."

"Dear Lady Jane! Whatever it is, here I am to command, as you see. There is no engagement I wouldn't have broken——"

"'You are a perfect dear, and if I were forty years younger I should marry you.'"

"You are a perfect dear, and if I were forty years younger I should marry you. However, we'll come to that later. I want to talk to you about that damnable little Janet first—we'll have to go in now."

When they were seated at a small table at one end of the immense dining room she turned to the butler and said sharply: "Get out, Hawkins, and stay out except when we can't get on without you." And Hawkins, whom a cataclysm would not have ruffled after forty-five years in Mrs. Oglethorpe's service, vanished.

"Jim said he had a talk with you about Janet, and that you advised him to spank her," she said. "Well, he did."

"What?" Clavering gave a delighted grin. "I never believed he'd do it."

"Not I. Thought his will had grown as flabby as his body. But when she stood up to him and with a cool insolence, which she may or may not have inherited from me, or which may be merely part and parcel of the new manner, and flung in his face a good deal more than he knew already, and asked him what he was going to do about it, he turned her over his knee and took a hair brush to her."

"It must have been a tussle. I suppose she kicked and scratched?"

"She was so astonished that at first she merely ejaculated: 'Oh, by Jimminy!' Then she fought to get away and when she found she couldn't she began to blubber, exactly as she did when she was not so very much younger and was spanked about once a day. That hurt his feelings, for he's as soft as mush, and he let her go; but he locked her up in her room and there she stays until she promises to behave herself as girls did in his time. I'm afraid it won't work. She hasn't promised yet, but merely hisses at him through the keyhole. D'you understand this new breed? I'm afraid none of the rest of us do."

"I can't say I've been interested enough to try. Janet informed me that they were going the pace because 'they couldn't hold the men any other way. But I fancy it's merely a part of the general unrest which is the usual aftermath of war. This was a very long war, and the young seem to have made up their minds that the old who permitted it are bunglers and criminals and idiots, and that it is up to them to demonstrate their contempt."

"And what good do they think that will do them?" Mrs. Oglethorpe's face and inflection betrayed no sympathy with the Younger Generation.

"You don't suppose they worry their little heads with analysis, do you? Somebody started the idea and the rest followed like sheep. No doubt it had its real origin in the young men who did the fighting and saw their comrades do the dying, and all the kudus carried off by the old men who ran no risks. They are very bitter. And women generally take their cues from men, little as they suspect it. However, whatever the cause, here it is, and what to do about it I've no more idea than you; but I should think it would be a good idea for Jim to take her abroad for a year."

"I don't see Jim giving up his clubs and sports, and taking round the world after a flapper. He never took himself very seriously as a parent . . . still, he is really alarmed. . . . Are you going to marry Marian Lawrence?"

"Do you think I'd engage myself to any one without telling you first of all?"

"Better not. Are you in love with her?"

"No."

"I'm told you were devoted to her at one time. That was one of the times when I saw little or nothing of you."

MARK TWAIN ON ADVERTISING

This item of timely interest as been selected from "The Fourth Estate." An interested subscriber wrote to the editor of that publication:

"Sir: A subscriber to a Missouri paper once edited by Mark Twain wrote him, stating he had found a spider in his paper, and wanted to know if it meant good or bad luck.

"Mark replied:

"Old Subscriber: Finding a spider in your paper was neither good nor bad luck to you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

"Fourth Estate" observes:

"To my way of thinking the appeal and he 'do it' message are very much more emphatic in Mark Twain's observation than the long-winded argument of most advertising today. If ad writers could get more humor and less heavy thinking, advertising would be interesting and certain of returns."

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

In many cities and clinics at present, those who have charge of the health programs are turning their attention to preventing coughs, colds, sore throats and pneumonia.

The fight is on against pneumonia as strong as it has been fought in the past against typhoid fever and the white plague. In the past ten years the fight has been waged stronger than ever, and food, clothing and living conditions as regards sanitation, air and ventilation, are going to be vastly improved and help reduce this killer.

The air or temperature conditions of your home or office can be regulated by having an average temperature of not more than 60 or 65 degrees. The warmer you keep your habitation the better chance you have of contracting pneumonia. It has been clearly proved that it is a contaminated or warm-air disease. Clean, cool, well-ventilated places of abode seldom if ever produce any colonies of "cold" or pneumonia germs.

It is imperative for you to treat a light cold or chill at once. To prevent spreading, always sleep alone or in a separate place while suffering from beginning symptoms.

One of the very strongest means of preventing pneumonia is to be sure and keep a clean mouth and nose. A mouth that is hygienically healthy will do more to prevent pneumonia and keep you on health's highway than any other agency.

Bathe as regularly during the colder months as you do in the warmer ones. The skin is a lung accessory and must be kept healthy if both young and old would prevent the danger of pneumonia.

ANGLICAN MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR PRIEST

GANANOQUE, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—A memorial service was held this morning in Christ Church, Anglican, to Rev. J. P. Kehoe, who died Monday night, and was for seventeen years pastor of St. John's Roman Catholic Church, coming here from St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston. The service was held at the same hours as requiem mass for the deceased was being held. Dean Kehoe's high-minded devotion to the work for the uplift of humanity took no account of party or creed.

VILLAGE GOSSIP AFTER A MURDER FORCES ARRESTS.

Woman Shot to Death and Her Husband and Niece Must Stand Trial.

MOUND CITY, Kans., Jan. 3.—(United Press).—Village scandal, gossip, circumstantial evidence and suspicion are interwoven in the accusations of murdering Elenore Scott for which her husband, John Ellison Scott, and her niece, Arlene Scott, must stand trial during the February term of court.

It will be the second time Scott's fate has rested in a jury's hands for the same crime. The first jury disagreed. However, since that time sensational gossip which spread throughout Linn County following the slaying of Mrs. Scott last June 19 has been brought to light by the arrest of Arlene, an attractive 19-year-old school teacher, on joint charges of murder with John Scott.

Seldom has a murder aroused such bitterness in a country community as the slaying of "Ella" Scott.

All Are Wealthy.

All of the principals in the strange case are descendants of early settlers of Linn County. They are members of the leading and wealthy farmer families. When the murdered woman, then Ella Holt, married John Scott in 1911, the match was considered an attractive one, as it united two influential families. Scott was given sufficient money by his business in LaCygne. In 1919, Arlene Scott, a daughter of Mrs. Scott's favorite sister, came to LaCygne to make her home with her aunt and attend high school. At that time Arlene was 15. She lived with Mrs. Scott during the school year. Although of the same name, she was of no blood relationship to John Scott.

Last May, when Arlene had completed her high school term she left LaCygne and went to Pittsburg, Kans., to attend normal school. A month later Mrs. Scott was shot to death. She and her husband had just returned to their home from attending a "tent" show which was appearing in the little village. It was shortly before midnight. A few minutes before they had left a group of friends at an ice cream parlor, and apparently were happy.

No Revolver Found.

Two shots rang out. Scott rushed down the street for two blocks crying for help. A doctor hurried to the house and found Mrs. Scott lying on the floor. She died within a few minutes without regaining consciousness or speaking. Two chests were lying on the floor with silverware strewn about as though robbers had been at work. Two empty cartridges were found, although no revolver was ever discovered.

A superficial investigation resulted in the supposition that the murder had been committed by robbers, caught at work when Mrs. Scott returned home. However, gossip connecting Scott's name with Arlene in an intimate friendship, which it was contended had caused friction in the Scott home, would not down.

Trade at Scott's store fell off. He was finally forced to sell at a sacrifice about a month after the murder.

The Holt family, of which the murdered woman was a member, was not satisfied with the results of the investigation. Every move made by Scott was closely watched. A fund of $1,200 was raised by friends of the family to carry on a more thorough investigation. When Scott went to Pittsburg, Kans., on July 18, just a month ater the murder, he was shadowed.

Jury Disagreed.

On reaching the town he phoned Arlene, met her and they went to a hotel and registered as man and wife. They spent an afternoon in the hotel room. A few days later Scott was arrested on a charge of murder. The jury at his first trial was unable to agree. Friends of Mrs. Scott then called on Charles B. Griffith, Attorney General for Kansas, and asked him to take charge of the prosecution.

After a few days investigation, the Attorney General ordered the arrest of Arlene Scott. She was taken into custody by Sheriff A. J. Ellington. He placed her under arrest as she stood before her little country school class explaining with diagrams on a blackboard the meaning of a "triangle."

COL. CARRUTHERS DEAD.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 3.— Lieut.-Col. J. S. Carruthers who after the war took charge of the hospital at Campbell River and then of the Bella Coola Hospital, died to-day of pneumonia.

Col. Carruthers was 43 years of age. He graduated in medicine from Queen's University, Kingston, twenty years ago. In Halifax he was married in 1908 to the eldest daughter of Senator A. B. Crosby.

BELGIAN DEPORTEES WILL SUE GERMANY

Monster Collective Action Asks Damages Under Treaty.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 2. — Eighty thousand Belgians deported by the Germans during the war are bringing a monster collective damage suit against the German government by virtue of Article 304 of the Peace Treaty of Versailles.

The suit will be heard in accordance therewith by the German-Belgian mixed arbitration tribunal sitting in Paris Jan. 7, under the presidency of Paul Moriaud, head of the law faculty of Geneva University.

(Article 304 of the Peace Treaty provides for the establishment of a mixed arbitral tribunal between each of the Allied and Associated Powers on the one hand and Germany on the other. These tribunals are empowered to decide among other things questions concerning debts, property rights and interests, contracts, prescriptions, judgments and industrial property.)

SCORNED PAPER MARK AND WENT TO PRISON

BERLIN, Jan. 3. — (Associated Press)—Six months and a fine of ten trillion marks was the sentence imposed on a Frankfort druggist for refusal to take paper marks in exchange for petroleum. He told the court he had to pay for the oil in some sort of stable money and consequently did not know how he could replenish his stock if he sold for paper marks.

Under the laws of the republic paper marks are legal tender and the judge had the druggist hustled off to jail immediately, explaining that such treatment of the dealer would have good effect on other merchants and afford the public protection.

Monte Cristo Up-to-Date

AFTER a search that led through untold hardships, the Count of Monte Cristo found the secret cavern. Gold, gems, and untold wealth were his.

But think of this! Every day, simply by spending a few minutes running through the advertising columns of this paper, you can find a wealth of things that Monte Cristo could never know. Things that make your life rich in comforts! Countless conveniences that iron out the mechanics of existence! Economies that bring within your easy reach, things that once were priceless!

We sometimes overlook the important role that advertising plays in making our lives pleasant and altogether livable. Advertising is as much a part of to-day's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or automobiles. It keeps us up-to-date on the many things we need in order to live profitable, happy and useful lives. It presents for our approval articles of all kinds and for all purposes. The requirements of each member of the family are met by advertised offers of good merchandise of proved value.

The advertisements save time, money and effort for those who read them and follow their guidance. They are practical guarantees of satisfaction.

SOUVENIRS FOR LALONDE'S TEAM

Regina Manager Demands Disciplinary Action For Rough Stuff.

REGINA, Jan. 2.—Manager Barney Stanley, back in Regina to-day from Saskatoon, declared he will not again lead the Capitals into Saskatoon unless some disciplinary action is taken by President E. L. Richardson, aaginst Newsy Lalonde, Sheik's manager, for his alleged conduct in the New Year's hockey game at the northern city.

Practically every Capital player bore souvenirs in the shape of sundry bruises and cuts where the hickory of Newsy's team descended. Red McCusker's head had a huge gash closed by seven stitches, Jack Asseltine has a cut under the eye which required stitching and Dick Irwin also showed the marks of battle.

Barney Stanley declared that Lalonde's attack on Red McCusker was the most deliberate foul that he had ever seen in his hockey experience.

"JUST AN ALIBI."

SASKATOON, Jan. 2.—"Barney Stanley is just seeking an alibi for last night's loss," said Newsy Lalonde, manager of the Saskatoon Crescents, when shown the report that he was the leader of a deliberate attack on Red McCusker, the Regina gaolkeeper. "He's crazy when he says there was an attack. McCusker will get hurt every time he handles himself the way he did last night. He was the victim of that and nothing else."

NO OFFICIAL REPORT.

CALGARY, Jan. 2.—"Until I have received an official report from Referee Gardner on what transpired at Saskatoon on New Year's day, I cannot make any statement," said E. L. Richardson, president of the Western Canada Hockey League here to-day. "We certainly insist on clean hockey being played in this league, but I am quite satisfied that we have capable officials selected to take charge of the play and the report of Referee Gardner on the conduct of players in the Saskatoon game will clear up any misunderstanding."

OTTAWA STILL AT THE TOP OF HEAP

Defeated St. Patrick's by Close Score of 4 to 3

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—Ottawa are still at top of National Hockey League as result of their victory over St. Patricks here last night by 4 to 3. It was most exciting struggle of season, and last minute rally just failed to pull the game out of the fire. St. Patricks' weakness against fast combination attacks brought about their downfall and had not Jack Roach been in good form, score would have been more one sided. He saved at least half dozen shots after puck carrier had beaten defense. St. Patricks had no excuses to offer. On night's play they bowed to a better team.

What made result all more bitter was the fact that "Rod" Smylie, discarded St. Patricks' player, scored the first goal for Stanley Cup Holders. He also made good job of checking "Babe" Dye, and well known sharpshooter, who is making his first appearance of the season, scored only one goal, and was closely watched all evening.

It was strenuous affair, and no mercy was shown. It is not uncommon for professional players to sidestep rules. Holding is one of the favorite methods of stopping a man, and this is taken full advantage of.

Open-air education is being more widely adopted by the London County Council, which has now three day schools in the schools in the metropolitan area, and three residential schools—at Margate, St. Leonards-on-Sea and Bushey Park—run on this principle.

MOLLA MALLORY ISSUES A DENIAL

Will Not Compete in Olympic Tennis Unless Representing the United States.

NEW YORK, Jan 2—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, former United States national women's tennis champion, will not compete for her native country, Norway, in event she is unable to represent the United States in the Olympic Games, it developed today in connection with a disclosure that international tennis authorities have under consideration her eligibility to play for the United States.

Mrs. Mallory had been quoted she would compete for Norway if unable to represent the United States, but to-day the former champion in effect denied the statements attributed to her. At the same time it was learned from an unofficial Norwegian source that in order to represent Norway, as she did in the 1912 Olympics, Mrs. Mallory would be obliged to renounce the United States citizenship she acquired by marriage to Franklin I. Mallory, New York broker. This, it was understood, she does not intend to do.

BUENOS AIRES TO SEE FIGHT

Firpo Takes on Spalla, the Italian Champion, on February 24 In Fifteen-Round Match.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 2.— Luis Firpo, South American heavyweight champion, announced to-day that his match with the Italian champion, Erminio Spalla, will take place on the Buenos Aires' football field on February 24, and will be of fifteen rounds. Firpo said he would receive forty per cent. of the gate receipts and Spalla a guaranteed amount which Firpo was unable to make public.

Firpo also said Farmer Lodge, a United States boxer, had agreed to come to Buenos Aires to meet him in a fifteen round bout on February 10 for the Women's Charity Association, Lodge to receive $3,000 and his travelling expenses. After these two fights Firpo will sail for the United States on February 28.

SOCCER NOTES

The Annual Meeting of the Peterboro and District Football Association will be held on Monday next, January 7. All clubs make an effort to be represented, especially those entitled to vote, viz: President Club Representative, and Captain of each club or three authorized persons from each club. Please notify Secretary, W. G. Nicholls, 473 King Street, City, of names of persons representing their clubs previous to the meeting.

All persons interested in the welfare of the game are invited to attend. Place and time to be announced later.

Giants Start Training In Florida March 1st.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. — Spring training for the New York Giants will get into full swing on March 1, at the National League champions' new camp, Sarasota, Florida, according to announcement of the club's plans to-day.

The main body of recruits and regulars has been ordered by Manager John McGraw to report at New York, February 28, but a squad of battery men will go south probably a week earlier under the direction of Coach Cozy Dolan.

Can Mays Make Good as National League Star?

CARL MAYS

This year Carl Mays, stormy petrel of baseball and noted submarine hurler, late of the New York Yankees, will wear a Cincinnati uniform.

Mays shot his bolt as anAmerican leaguer. He hasn't been a star pitcher for three years. Baseball men say he slumped when he suddenly lost his fast ball. Mays used to have a baffling fast ball, one that came to the batter on a rise, and then dipped abruptly.

Mays threw his fast ball and his curve balls with the same motion, starting the delivery almost at his shoe tops.

In the days when he had both a fast ball and a curve the batter was continuously bewildered; he could never tell from the manner of Mays' delivery whether to expect a fast ball or a curve. That was one reason why he was so effective in his winning days.

Mays is expected to get along fairly well in the National League, despite the fact that he no longer has a fast ball. Mays' peculiar form of delivery will be puzzling to the batters for a while. He still has a nice curve ball and good control.

Manager Moran of the Reds evidently thinks he is worth a gamble, and announces that Mays will be one of his regulars next season.

ENGLISH GIRLS ARE REAL HOCKEY STARS.

One of the most skillful and swiftest combinations of girl hockey players ever to show in America is the English all-star team which recently invaded the states. The English girls play a strong rushing game, almost masculine in its strenuosity, and few American teams have been able to check their offensive so far. A team picked of the best girl players in Philadelphia recently went down to defeat before the British visitors by the decisive score of 5 to 1. This shows a bit of action from the game.

BOWLING

EXAMINER INTER-SHOP LEAGUE.

In The Examiner Inter-shop League last night at Solomon's Alleys, eight teams were in action.

The Jobbers took three straight from the Linos, the first half winners. In their last game the Jobbers set a record for a four-man team when they rolled 781.

The Inters lost three to the Casters, and the Comps took two out of three from the Directors.

Gordon Long was high man for three games with a nice score of 616. He also had the high single of 239.

A large number of the bowlers rolled over 500 last night, and some good games were witnessed.

IOWA LEADER.

WAYLAND HICK

This year Iowa hopes to gain a high place in mid-western basketball. The team is under the leadership of Wayland Hick, one of the star players. The team is well balanced, and faces a strong schedule with a feeling of optimism and confidence.

Billy Evans Says

Eddie Foster, one of the finest characters that has ever graced the major leagues, has passed out of the big show. The St. Louis Browns recently announced his unconditional release. I regretted the exit of Foster. Umpiring would be an easy task if every club was composed of nine Eddie Fosters. Would there were more like him, the game would be the better for it.

* * * *

Real sport depends upon fair play. It is the basic fundamental. Fairplay was Eddie Foster's first name. Any success that he has attained in baseball was fairly won.

* * * *

Umpires in the American League can recall scores of happenings on the ball field in which the honesty and fairness of Foster has come to the rescue of an official in dire distress. Foster never in his life made a strenuous protest. When he believed the umpire had erred, he told him so in a polite yet positive manner. His words always convinced the umpire that Foster was certain a mistake had been made. However, Foster was equally fair when it seemed to the fans that the umpire had pulled one, whereas the fault lay with the player.

* * * *

The old alibi had no place in Foster's make-up. Any number of times he has gotten an umpire out of a tough hole by telling his teammates that he had missed the runner, when some player with a fallaway slide had gotten away, even though Foster had the ball waiting for him.

* * * *

However, to my way of thinking, nothing that Foster did during his long and honourable career in the game is more interesting than his keeping of the secret that for several years enabled Russell Ford to be the pitching sensation of the American League. Ford was the first pitcher to use the emery ball. He kept a piece of emery paper tied to a string and concealed in the sleeve of a red undershirt that he effected on the field. When pitching he would fit the emery paper into the hole in the palm of his glove. By roughening the ball on the paper he could make it take all kinds of peculiar twists. Ford was credited with being a great spitball pitcher. The secret of Ford's success was known only to his catcher, Eddie Sweeney, and Foster.

* * * *

When Ford was at the top of his game Foster was released by New York to the Washington club. No doubt Ford and Sweeney believed the secret would soon become league gossip. If so, they didn't know Foster.

* * * *

Shortly after Foster joined Washington, he faced Ford and struck out three times. Foster was just breaking into the majors at the time trying to make good, and his sorry showing against Ford didn't help his cause. Those three strike-outs would have been enough for many a player to have told the truth to the heavens. However, Foster, in confidence, had been told how Ford was making the ball act up, and he was loyal to that confidence. For three years while Ford was going big guns Eddie Foster on another team with a full knowledge of the secret of Ford's success kept his peace.

* * * *

Eddie Foster knows baseball. He has been a credit to the game. True, he has slowed up a bit for the big show, yet he should make a good manager for a club looking for a ball player and a gentleman.

GIRLS PAY OWN EXPENSES TO PLAY HOCKEY ABROAD

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3. — (Associated Press)—Fifteen American girls will sail from New York January 12 to seek field hockey honors in England. They are members of the All-United States team selected at the recent intercity tournament in this city to represent America at the international competition in London in March. Prior to the international tournament they will tour England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, playing a series of matches with the leading elevens.

These young women have booked passage on the steamship Majestic. Because of the scarcity of funds in the treasury of the Nationals Girls' Field Hockey Association, each member will pay her own expenses to and from England. While abroad they will be entertained by the British teams. They plan to return to America shortly after the close of the International tournament March 8.

Shareholders Asked to Put Up Another Ten Per Cent and Get Into New Company.

A meeting of the L. R. Steel stock holders of this city and the surrounding district was held last evening in the Labor Hall. Mr. H. Bourne presided. C. H. McKenzie, of Toronto, and a stock-holders in this concern, who was to address the shareholders of this city and district, was unable to attend on account of an important engagement at Stratford.

Thomas Hayman, of Toronto, addressed the stock-holders and explained to them the past and present conditions of the company.

Mr. Hayman stated that the cause of the downfall of the concern was because the money came too fast and the company thought that it would always come that way. Then they organized the company too soon when adverse interests were working against them. The Denver, Hamilton and Buffalo stores all opened on the one day when the Denver and Hamilton stores should have opened several weeks before they did.

He said the company was in bankruptcy at the present time, and in order to get out of this the stockholders would have to pay ten per cent. on all their shares in order to obtain shares in the new company which is being formed.

A protective trust committee was formed in Toronto, at which a representative from all the local cities and towns that had enough shareholders to be of any interest to the company were members. The committee immediately started an organization to keep the shareholders together. This has been successful in some places and not in others. Most of the places have paid their 10 per cent. on their shares but others have not; it was stated by the speaker that Peterboro was one of the places that had not yet paid their ten per cent., but it was better late than not at all. This committee in Toronto was also to keep in touch with Buffalo.

The speaker stated that a wealthy man by the name of McKinnon, of New York, foresaw that the shareholders were not getting behind the idea of the ten per cent. very quickly. He sent experienced men to all the different places owned by the L. R. Steel Company to value the property and find out its total value. He stated that if McKinnon got hold of this concern and the shareholders had more than 49 per cent. of the shares he would sell the rest. He either wanted the control of the business or none at all. The loss for the month of October was $7,000, which shows a steady decrease. The speaker stated that McKinnon himself states it will take $1,600,000 to pay off the liabilities at present.

He said there was no reason why the company could not make a net profit of at least $500,000 per year once it gets on its feet. At present most of the shareholders are in favor of the ten per cent. scheme, and lately the money has been coming in very fast, he said. "If the business is such a good one for McKinnon it must be a better one for us," he said. Any of the shareholders who are not able to pay the 10 per cent. at present will have to get a declaration with the reasons why and have it signed by two persons who know their financial standing. If this is done, six months will be allowed them to pay it.

Mr. Hayman stated that by paying this ten per cent. would would have the same number of shares in the new company as before.

By paying this assessment you have the opportunity of putting your shares in the new company, but if this is not paid you loose all you have put in. If enough money is raised to carry on everything will run smooth, but if the amount needed is not raised the company will go into the hands of McKinnon.

About $300,000 has been raised by this scheme, and it is expected to be a success.

Several stores have already been sold and a few closed that were not paying, in order to raise money.

The weaker ones financially who are not able to pay the 10 per cent. in the six months will most likely be handled more leniently, if necessary. He said that the salaries of the individual managers in both Canada and United States was not as large as some of the people thought and that none of the shareholders made any on the side. He stated that the circulars that were distributed to the different shareholders was partly paid for out of the committee's pockets.

A collection was taken up to help defray the cost of the meeting.

ESMOND FARCE WAS PRESENTED

Clever Theatrical Effort By the Anglican Young People's Association of Omemee.

OMEMEE, Jan. 2.—"Eliza Comes to Stay," was presented on New Year's night to a large audience in Coronation Hall by a number of talented young people of the Anglican Young People's Association. This play for which a twenty-five dollar royalty must be given for each presentation, was written by H. V. Esmond and is a farce in three acts, having been played for over two years, to capacity houses at the Criterion Theatre, London, England.

This play was put on under the able management of Mrs. T. C. Stephenson and Mr. Jack Bent, was cleverly staged and acted by the following cast of characters, who are deserving of the many congratulations being heaped upon them for their enterprise in tackling something worth while, each character being a real star in his or her part.

Honorable Sandy Verrall—Horace Hill.

Alexander Stoop Verrall—Charles Davis.

Montague Jordan — Smithson Nurse.

Herbert the Valet—Noble Clemett.

A Porter—Will Skuce.

Lady Pennybroke—Mrs. F. Bent.

Miss Vera Lawrence — Marion Dickson.

Mrs. Alloway—Mrs. W. Skuce.

Dorothy—Mrs. S. Nurse.

The chorus girls for the evening, under the leadership of Mrs. Hume, rendered a number of catchy choruses, between acts, which contributed much to the general enjoyment of the large audience. The chorus girls were the Misses Ida and Edna Morton, Irene Clemett, Mabel Rowan, Ethel Stephenson, Marion, Eileen and Gertrude Pogue, Lenore Jamieson and Alta Moncrief.

SOO WILL MEET FAST OLYMPICS

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—St. Mary's Club officials announced last night, that Dalton Meeking, Jack Aggett and Frank Sullivan, well known local hockey stars will line up with the Irish in the O.H.A. Senior game against Parkdale at the Arena to-morrow night. Sullivan has been practicing with the West Enders during the past ten days and was signed about a week ago.

Meeking played for the Argonauts last winter. Aggett was with the Granites, and Sullivan assisted the double blue. These three players were sought by every city club. Their decision to play for St. Mary's means that the Irish will likely be contenders for the O.H.A. championship.

HAMILTON WINS DECISIVE GAME

HAMILTON, Jan. 3.—Showing marked improvement in their play and showing a brand of hockey that is sure to produce successful results Hamilton stepped into the Montreal team in the N.H.L. fixture here last night, and were returned victorious by score of 4 to 0. It was a much improved team that Manager Thompson trotted out against the Frenchmen and they had to be on their best behavior for, despite 4 to 0 licking, the Montreal squad turned in creditable performance, but unfortunately, for them the Hamilton squad were at their best.

Despite the one sided contest it could not be said that Montreal was outclassed. Dandurands' paid performers snowed dash to their attack in each period, but they could not beat Forbes.

GOOD ICE FOR OPENING GAME

Petes and North Toronto Clash Here Tomorrow Night.

Everything is set for the opening hockey game of the season at Brock Street Rink to-morrow night. The North Toronto team are coming in a special sleeper, and will dress on the train, so that the game will get away sharp at 8.30 o'clock. The ice will be in fine shape, and everything points to a lively clash, particularly as there will be no limit on the number of subs. used, and both squads will be able to keep fresh men in action.

A big crowd of rail birds saw the Petes practice last night. The blue shirts had Parker, McMartin, Lachey, Collins, Ranger, Halpin, Burgess, Jackson, McPherson and Edgar out, while Micky Murray, who will be with North Toronto to-morrow night, worked out with the squad. Mills, one of the new recruits, handled the bell during the practice.

A dozen players will be used in Friday's game, and the Petes hope to defeat the fast visitors despite the fact that North Toronto will have the crack defence player, Williard Box, teaming up with Jack Cain, on the defence, and Stephenson, Rennie, Will Young and Muston on the forward line.

Subsidences of lands in Cheshire, England, due to underground workings, have brought into existence lakes 80, 90 and 100 feet deep, where once there was solid earth.

SOO WILL MEET FAST OLYMPICS

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Commenting on the hockey game between Soo and Olympics here next Saturday night, the Globe says to-day that,

"When Manager 'Pete' Campebll sends his team into action here on Saturday night the fans will see champions worthy of the name. Addition of "Sig" Slater, Montreal Victoria star, and Harold McMunn, great western right wing, has rounded out the Canadian Olympic team, and officials in charge are confident that no amateur, or professional team for that matter, in the world can defeat his starry and effective aggregation. Facing them will be Sault Ste. Marie selected as next Allen cup holders and the team fitted in every way to face Olympics in their farewell appearance here before sailing across the sea in search of world honors.

Nearly every player on each team has been sought by professional clubs—Harry Watson, Dunc Munro, Beattie Ramsay, 'Hooley' Smith and Bert McCaffery of the Olympics, and Bill Phillips, Stan Brown, 'Babe' Donnelly, Fred Cook and 'Flat' Walsh of Soo being men in demand. They, however have no intention at present of deserting the amateur's ranks.

The Greyhounds think that they can win. They point to their two great battles of last year, when an injury to Phillips, star of Northern team handicapped them greatly. N.O.H.A. champions played great hockey in the game last Saturday at Sault Ste. Marie, but Olympics were not at full strength. Watson and Slater being missing players, and had these two men been present there might have been a different story.

FIST BATTLES IN THE NEW ASSEMBLY

Saturday Will Decide the New Form of Government for Greece.

ATHENS, Jan. 3. — (United Press.)—Pending arrival of ex-Premier Venizelos, due here to-day, the Greek National Assembly postponed until Saturday the decision as to what shall be the next Government.

The new Assembly met Wednesday without awaiting Venizelos' appearance, but confined its activities to wild cheers for a Republic, Colonel Plastaires, head of the military directorate and Premier Gonatas handed in their resignations, the former explaining that the Government now handed the care of Greece into the hands of the people.

Several disturbances marked the opening session .Republican deputies were the aggressors in most of these. On one occasion Deputy Carnessevdas, a Republican, seized by the throat another member, beating him and hurling him from the Tribune, amid an uproar.

AFTERMATH OF A WINDSOR CASE

The Examiner carried the appended story while it was news, but a subscriber of the same name as one of the men involved in the Windsor case has asked to have the attached clipping from the Border Cities Star reproduced. The clipping follows:

"Patrolmen John Feeley and Sidney Armstrong were dismissed from the Windsor Police Department, at the conclusion of the investigation into charges against them Saturday afternoon by the members of the Windsor Board of Police Commissioners, acting as a trial board.

"Although the men were found guilty of conduct unbecoming a police officer, the commission exonerated them from the charges made by Mrs. Margaret Robinson, 45-year-old Detroit woman, who claimed that the officers forced their attentions on her.

"Feeley denied ever being in the place except on the night of the raid, when Mrs. Robinson and others were arrested. Mrs. Robinson claimed that Feeley had forced his attentions on her on two previous occasions, while paying a social call at the house.

"At the conclusion of the trial, the commissioners adjourned to consider the charges, and brought in their finding after 10 minutes' deliberations.

"Armstrong was completely exonerated by the judgment, so far as any improper relations with Mrs. Robinson were concerned.

"'He went to this house for the express purpose of getting a drink, and there is absolutely no evidence to connect his name otherwise with a disorderly house,' Judge Gundy, who delivered judgment, said.

Fails In Duty.

"The Judge pointed out that it was the first duty of a police officer to report to his superiors when the law was being violated, and that he violated his trust as a peace officer when he entered a 'blind pig' to take a drink.

"With reference to Feeley, Judge Gundy said that certain complaints had been made against him to the Police Commission on previous occasions, and the members felt that he was no longer desired on the force.

"'Whether or not Feeley was guilty of the charges made against him by the woman, he, at all events, was at the house. We don't feel it necessary to make a finding that he had relations with this woman, but having regard to all the circumstances, we feel that the usefulness of this officer on the force is so impaired that it will be impossible for him to continue on the force. It is regrettable that his resignation did not come in before this happened,' Judge Gundy said.

"R. L. Brackin, K.C., who acted as counsel for the men, pointed out that the men had no intention of holding their positons on the force, but were desirous of clearing their names so far as their morality was concerned.

"In reply to this, Judge Gundy said that the officers could go with the satisfaction that no immorality had been proven against them, particularly in the case of Armstrong. Both officers had been under suspicion since the day following the raid, December 7."

SEINE FLOODS STILL SERIOUS

Water Floods Cellars of Foreign Office and Destroys Records.

PARIS, Jan. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—Flood in the Seine is already assuming the proportions of a disaster to sections of Paris and its environs.

The river rose fifteen inches in 24 hours ended at noon to-day, adding to considerable damage already done in the suburbs of Paris and along the river in departments of Seine and Seine et Oise and causing the city itself to suffer seriously.

This afternoon the river was still rising fast and gaining steadily on the pumps.

To-day when an automobile was attempting to cross a street along the river at Conflunà, it was carried into deep water by the current and swept away and the driver drowned.

Three feet of water filled the Foreign Office cellars to-day, as the flooded river Seine continued to overflow its banks and inundate Paris and its environs. Many valuable documents were destroyed.

The flood situation has become most critical, tracks of two Paris terminals are under water and the railway stations have been closed. The suburbs are suffering worse than the city proper.

Persistent heavy rains and melting snows are increasing the difficulties of the authorities as they endeavour to check the flood waters.

CAMPBELLFORD LOSS BY FIRE

Total Loss During the Year Amounted to $4,355 — The Complete Record.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 3. — There were 43 fire claims sounded during the year 1923 and only eight actual fires. There were several false alarms and the balance of the runs were for chimney fires, no damage resulting. The total loss from fires during the year was $4,355. The various losses were as follows:

In January — House on Second street occupied by Fred Imming, loss on building $900 and on contents $400. This house was a mass of flames before the firemen were called the family being absent at the time so that there was no chance to save it.

In July—hen coop on property of Henry Coveney, loss including prize poultry burned, $125.

In July— Barn and hay stack belonging to George Wallace, loss $500.

In July—barn belonging to Robert Bibby, loss $300.

In July —steps leading to apartments of J. R. Wilkinson on Bridge street took fire loss $5.

In September — Charles Black, barn, ice house and contents, loss $2000.

In September—fire in home of R. F. Stephens, Sebastapol street; loss $100.

In Decemer—fire in residence of G. Nicol, Ranney strett; loss $100.

Fire protection cost the town $641 in 1923. Of this $470 went to pay the salaries of the volunteer brigade, the members of which are always prompt in these responses when alarms are turned in. C. H. Davidson is chief and Roy Bell is secretary of the brigade.

FARMER LEADER DECIDED TODAY

Raney is Probable With Several Others Mentioned-Drury Supposed Out.

TORONTO, January 3 (Canadian Press). — The leadership of the United Farmers' Party in the Ontario Legislature is being decided to-day at a private conference here.

The formation of a Provincial Progressive Party, it is believed, will also be discussed.

According to reports to-day, the Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney-General in the Drury administration, will probably be chosen leader of the Party in the Provincial Legislature.

The Hon. E. C. Drury is without a seat in the present assembly, and it is not likely that a seat will be opened up for him.

Hon. Manning Doherty and the Hon. F. C. Biggs are also mentioned for the leadership of the Party.

The way for to-day's conference was made clear at the meeting of the United Farmers of Ontario last month when the convention divorced its association from politics, but did not declare against the formation of a separate political organisation.

In the evening a banquet will be tendered to the visitors by the Progressive Association of Toronto.

SILVER WEDDING WAS REMEMBERED

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorndyke Entertained in Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, January 3. — On Saturday evening last some of the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thorndyke, of Millbrook, gathered at the home of the happy couple on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary.

Mr Thorndyke is one of Millbrook's successful business men, and has lived in this vicinity all his life, and is active in church, social, and political affairs of the community, having been treasurer of the Presbyterian Church for twelve years, a member of the Village Council, and a member of the School Board for the past ten years, the last two years being as chairman of that body. He is also a prominent Mason and Oddfellow, being a Past DDG.H. in the former Order.

Mrs. Thorndyke is the daughter of the late D. S. Armstrong, and a lifelong worker in the Presbyterian Church here. She is also a member of the Rebekahs and the Women's Institute and other activities of the town.

Their daughter, Miss Kathleen Thorndyke, who is home from Toronto for the holidays, acted as the hostess, and received the friends who, along with their good wishes, brought many tokens of silver and otherwise of their regard for the happy couple.

OBITUARY

MRS. EDWARD SMITH.

One of the most highly respected citizens of Galway township passed away at six o'clock in the evening of January 1st in the person of Mrs. Edward Smith, wife of Edward Smith.

The late Mrs. Smith was born on February 10th, 1859, in Tyrone, Ireland, and came to Canada with her husband in 1884, being one of the pioneer settlers in the Township of Galway, where she resided until the time of her death. Up to a month ago the deceased was able to actively carry on her household duties. Her death comes as a great loss to a wide circle of friends, to whom her kindly, charitable and loving disposition had greatly endeared her.

Survivors are her sorrowing husband and one son, Charles. The funeral will be held on Thursday morning at nine o'clock from the family residence to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, thence to the Catholic cemetery at Galway for interment.

KATHERINE SULLIVAN.

The death occurred this morning of Katherine Sullivan, wife of M. J. Sullivan, of Warsaw.

The funeral will take place on Saturday morning from the late residence, near Warsaw to Douro Church and thence to the Douro Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN EDWARDS.

Mrs. John Edwards, senior, passed away at her home in Lakefield, this morning. The deceased was in her seventy eighth year.

Mrs. Edwards was born in Port Hope but for the last 54 years has resided in Lakefield.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her sorrowing husband, five sons and one daughter, namely John and Frank in Lakefield, James, Daniel and Samuel of Peterboro and Mrs. Roche of Port Hope.

The funeral will take place on Saturday, January 5th, from her late residence, Nassau Street, Lakefield, at two o'clock, thence to the Lakefield Cemetery. The Rev. Mr. Cox of St. John's Anglican Church, Lakefield, will officiate.

ATTEND THE POULTRY SHOW

Mr. R. Denne Points Out That Show is Very Deserving of Your Patronage.

I wish to draw the attention of the citizens of Peterborough and in the surrounding district to the excellent poultry show that is now being held in the Armouries, under the auspices of the Peterboro Poultry Association.

The number of entries and the class of bird this year are so fine that we all should co-operate with the Poultry Association in making it a success.

The members are very diligent in helping out other organizations, such as the Peterboro Central Exhibition, and I feel that we all should make it a point to attend the show that is now being held.—Roland Denne.

SECOND MEMBER OF CABINET TO FAIL IN HEALTH

Minister of Justice Was Ill at Geneva and London Conferences and Consulted Specialists in Paris—Resignation Is Accepted.

RETAINS HIS SEAT.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Lomer Gouin, Minister of Justice, has resigned from the Government because of ill-health. Following Thursday's meeting of the Cabinet Council, Premier King announced that the resignation had been accepted, to take effect immediately. No announcement as to his successor has yet been made.

Sir Lomer's resignation follows a considerable period of ill-health. Shortly after the close of last session, in company with Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, Sir Lomer went to Geneva to represent Canada at the Assembly of the League of Nations. His health then was not good. When the Assembly concluded its labors, the two Canadian delegates left Geneva for London to Join Premier King as Canadian representatives at the Imperial Conference. But, on the way, Sir Lomer stayed over in Paris for several days, detained by the condition of his health, and did not reach London till the conference was well under way.

Consulted Specialists.

Sir Lomer took part in the proceedings of the conference and sat on several committees, but evidently his health had not fully recovered. He returned to Paris before the conference had ended and, it is understood, consulted specialists there. A couple of weeks' rest in France before leaving again for Canada seemed to result in improvement, and on his arrival at New York Sir Lomer denied rumors of his impending resignation. The improvement, however, was not maintained, and following medical advice Sir Lomer has resigned that he may be able to take a complete rest.

The resignation, coming almost on the eve of the opening of Parliament, will give rise to a flood of rumors. Who will be his successor? What will be the effect of the resignation? Sir Lomer's name has been associated with Opposition to tariff reductions. Will his resignation affect the Government's fiscal policy? The question will be widely discussed, especially in view of possible endeavors during the coming session to secure a working agreement between Liberals and Progressives.

Dandurand Mentioned.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has been suggested as a likely successor to Sir Lomer at the Department of Justice with the probability that Senator Dandurand will be appointed Acting Minister for the time being. Should Mr. Lapointe be appointed, a new Minister of Marine will be necessary and some Cabinet shuffling entailed.

The entry of Walter Mitchell, member for St. Antoine, Montreal, into the Cabinet has been mentioned as a possibility.

Loss to Government.

Sir Lomer's resignation coupled with the illness of Hon. W. S. Fielding, will mean a loss in the Government's debating strength during the comin session. Sir Lomer retains his seat in the House, but is not likely to take much part in its deliberations. The improvement in Mr. Fielding's health is reported to be maintained, but it is unlikely that he will be able to resume active work for some time to come.

QUITS CABINET

SIR LOMER GOUIN
Minister of Justice, whose resignation, due to ill-health, has been accepted by Premier King. Sir Lomer retains his seat in the House.

HARDEN DENIES BERLIN FAMINE

Editor Declares Germany Is Crammed With Food Held Back By Farmers.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Anti-Semitic sentiment and other conditions in Germany are discussed in the current issue of The American Hebrew, of New York, by Maximillian Harden, noted German writer.

Farmers and landlords are blamed by Harden for the food crisis in Germany. He thinks that America is mistaken in sending help, claiming that Germany has food in abundance. In that connection he asks:

"Why should America help? Germany is literally crammed with food. Half of last year's harvest is still untouched and the reason people in the towns are starving is because the farmer and the landlords are deliberately keeping back foodstuffs.

Paints Black Outlook.

If I were Mr. Hoover I would not send a single bushel of grain until the stocks now in Germany were consumed."

Harden paints a black outlook for the future of Jews in Germany. He declares that the crusade against the Jews is "disgraceful because it is absolutely artificial."

"Jew-bailing," he asserts, "has become a profession in Germany like stockbroking or advertising with the motives behind the agitation to a large extent mercenary."

General Ludendorf, parading as an anti-Semite, he states, does not believe in what he preaches and is "consciously and deliberately trading on ignorance and superstition."

Quoting the patriotic war services of the Jews which he characterizes as "enormous and beyond reproach," he adds:

"As a reward for this, the position of the Jew in Germany today has been intolerable. Nowhere, not ever here in this district where comparatively well-to-do people have their homes, are we safe from outrage and insult.

Children Embittered.

'Einstein has left Germany because his life was threatened. The very children at the schools are growing up warped and embittered.

"It is said that the blame for these things rests with a small minority but what have responsible persons in Germany done to stop it?

"With the exception of Cardinal Faulhaber, has there been one authoritative Christian voice lifted against these scandals? Among the Jew baiters our friends the Hohenzollerns take a prominent place.

"I am afraid the future is very black. It is so much easier to instil hatred than to uproot it, and it will be a long time ere the harvest of the evil seed sown in the last five years can be destroyed."

ALLEGES MODERNIST DOCTRINES PRACTICED IN FOREIGN MISSIONS

ANOTHER YOUTH MARRIES WIDOW SIXTY AND RICH

She Proposed While He Was Painting Her Kitchen—Was Lonely—His Only Bad Habit Is Weakness For Candy.

OTHER CHANCES.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(Special).—The Widow Milan's kitchen needed painting. Young Ernest Rice, who had been helpful in a hundred ways to her since the death of her husband last April, volunteered.

He was on the ladder busily obliterating the spot that marked the sudden end of the champion mosquito of 1923, when the Widow Milan addressed him coyly:

"Ernie, you're an awfully nice boy. Have you ever thought of getting married?"

Ernest almost dropped his brush, but managed to stammer:

"Yes, mam, when the right girl comes along I am going to ask her to marry me."

The old lady (she is sixty) turned her dark eyes full upon Ernie (he is twenty-three). The youth described it last night as a "soft inviting sort of look."

He's Her Sole Heir.

And so, on November 24 last, at nine o'clock in the evening, in the presence of a score of guests, Ernest Rice and Mrs. Marie Milan, were married in the Chapel of the Presbyterian Church in Dunellen, N. J., by the Rev. Dr. Ernest Starr Brown.

And since, Ernest has taken over the management of the prosperous little grocery and confectionery store in the nearby town of Arbor, N. J., and the reputed $35,000 bequeathed the widow Milan by her thrifty husband of twenty-five years, Henry.

Further, she has changed her will and made Ernest sole heir, but he explained:

"However, Marie and I have an understanding. Should I survive her, all her money except a little for my mother, who is blind, is to go to charity. My father, Charles Rice, my mother and my seven brothers, most of whom live in Brooklyn, thoroughly approve my marriage.

"Marie is worth a dozen of these fluffy young things. I have known her two years, ever since I came to Arbor to visit my aunt, Mrs. Charles G. Viehhaueser, who lives there. I didn't marry for money. I have had other chances, many of them—in fact, two widows of thirty-five and forty, both also named Mary by the way—wanted to marry me.

"She Is Lovely."

"But I realised that day in the kitchen that Marie was the girl for me. She is lovely and looks far less than her age, while I look older, don't you think?

"I am sorry you can't talk to her, but she has a slight attack of pneumonia. She is in her room there asleep. I have been up with her for two nights, so you must excuse my unshaven chin and this sweater."

As he chatted easily about his odd romance, Ernest now and then pushed back the glass about the candy counter and conveyed a gum drop or a chocolate to his lips. He laughed:

"I don't smoke or drink, but I do love to munch candy. That is my only bad habit. Marie understands, though, and she says I am such a capable manager of the store I may help myself to all the candy I want. That's why I like her so much better than a young wife—she is so understanding.

Wedding Big Affair.

"Now we are going to live our lives in our own way. We shall have no children. One of my brothers has seven, another six — their struggles to support their families have taught me a lesson. One of my brothers, Lawrence Rice, who is a musician, was my best man. A neighbour, Mrs. Juliette Malavast, was bridesmaid. Two of my little nephews and a niece, Louis Upton Rice, Jr., and John Everett Rice, were at the ceremony, as were other friends and neighbours.

Baldwin Rejects Anti-Labor Pact

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press)—Lord Hunsdon's attempt to arrange a working agreement between the Conservatives and Liberals to prevent Labor from forming a Government is regarded as a dead issue, having failed to gain Premier Baldwin's support. It is understood that the Prime Minister replied to Lord Hunsdon, who, as President of the City of London Unionist Association, addressed a letter to Mr. Baldwin urging a serious effort against Labor Governmental control, that Mr. Asquith's attitude prevented the suggestion from being carefully considered.

Many of the Ministers are still out of town, but the Premier gathered all his available colleagues in Council at Downing Street yesterday and had a long discussion on the framing of the speech from the throne for the reopening of Parliament and other matters of policy. There will, however, be another Cabinet Council for final decisions.

AUTO CRASHED AGAINST TRAIN

Three Russians Instantly Killed at Railway Crossing Near Sarnia — No Chains on Tires.

SARNIA, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Three Russians, Joseph Skwara of Courtright, Negisser Porschanuk and Joseph Dunoz, both of Sarnia, were instantly killed at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the car in which they were riding plunged into the engine of a Canadian National passenger train at the level crossing on the London road two miles south of the city.

Driving on the ice-covered pavement without chains on the wheels of the car, it is believed that the three unfortunate men saw the approaching train and, failing to pull their automobile to a stand-still, skidded into the driving wheels of the locomative with a terrific impact. The car was demolished to such an extent that officers who made an examination of the debris were unable to say whether side curtains were on the car or not.

The approach to the crossing on the London road gives a clear view to the track for nearly a mile on either side. One body was thrown 75 feet along the railway track; another forty feet, and the third thirty feet, and all three had such injuries to the head that it is presumed they were all instantly killed.

Everything pointed to an accident in which the engineer of the train could not have been to blame.

A. McDougall and Duncan Ferguson of Sarnia were the driver and fireman of the train, and the engine was injured to an extent which necessitated a change being made before the train proceeded, the same crew being in charge.

Parliament Opening After 15th February.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.— (Canadian Press.)—"The date of the opening of Parliament has not yet been decided, but it is safe to say that it will not take place until after the 15th of Febraury," said Premier King last evening in answer to a question. The Prime Minister also stated that the Cabinet had not yet made a selection for the Lieutenant-Governorship of Quebec made vacant by the sudden death of Hon. L. P. Brodeur, although this was "under consideration." The vacancy on the Supreme Court of Canada had not yet been filled, he said.

CREED DISPUTE TURNS LIGHT ON FOREIGN FIELDS

Fundamentalist Baptists Demand Investigation of Doctrinal Teaching By Missionaries--Complaints Even From Natives.

VAN DYKE PROTESTS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The controversy raging in Protestant religious circles in the United States between the modernists and the fundamentalists broke out afresh yesterday.

The Baptist Fundamentalist League of Greater New York issued a statement declaring that northern Baptists would be satisfied with nothing less than a thorough investigation of the whole foreign mission situation by a committee of men of "unquestioned orthodoxy."

The statement was a reply to a report from the Board of Managers of the American Baptist Foundation Mission Society dealing with allegation concerning modernism in foreign mission fields. The Fundamentalists' statement was signed by Rev. Dr. Roach Stratton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, who recently defended fundamentalism in a public debate, and Max Schimpf, Vice-President of the league.

The statement said that information at the disposal of the league showed that over a period of years foreign missionaries, native Christians and others have stated that unsound theological teaching was prevalent in foreign mission schools and fields.

Disgusted By Feud.

At Princeton, N. J., yesterday, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, internationally known figure in the Presbyterian Church, resigned his pew at Old First Church. He stated that he disapproved of reiteration from the pulpit of the controversy between the modernists and the fundamentalists. Several weeks ago he proclaimed himself "a liberalist on religion."

In a letter to Howard E. Eldridge, Treasurer of the church, Dr. Van Dyke declared that he could no longer waste his time "in listening to the dismal, bilious travesty of the gospel."

"We want to hear about Christ, the Son of God, and the Son of Man," he wrote, "not about fundamentalists and modernists. The only subject upon which your stated reply seems to have anything to say and most of what he says is untrue and malicious."

Yesterday's action of Dr. Van Dyke is accepted as being directed against the Rev. Dr. John G. Machen, D.D., a professor in the theological seminary at Princeton, who is temporarily occupying the First Church pulpit while the church committee is seeking a permanent pastor.

Dr. Van Dyke was former pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, and Moderator of the General Assemblies of the Presbyterian Church of the United States in 1902. He was at one time United States Minister to The Netherlands.

Cynical Decision.

From Dallas, Texas, word came yesterday that Rev. Lee W. Heaton, Episcopal rector of Fort Worth, will not be called to trial before the Ecclesiastical Court of Dallas Diocese. He was to have been tried because he is alleged to have declared that belief in the virgin birth was not essential. The Standing Committee of the Dallas Diocese met yesterday and decided that as men "higher in the church than Rev. Heaton had become entangled in the controversy, little good would be done by the trial of the Fort Worth rector."

EARTH QUAKES AS SNOW FALLS

Discomfort Added to Fear of People in Italian Villages—Some Houses Damaged.

ANCONA, Italy, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press)— Earthquake shocks continued intermittently throughout yesterday. Altogether fifteen shocks have been registered during the past twenty four hours.

In the Province of Pesaro, several villages were severely affected. Numbers of the houses caved in or were otherwise damaged. The people of these villages fear to reenter the damaged buildings. Snow is falling heavily, adding to the discomfort of the populace.

Military units are aiding the people, and trains are being rushed into the affected districts to remove those of the people who desire to leave.

The first earth tremors were felt Wednesday in the Marches district about here (the provinces of Ascoli-Miceno, Macerata, Aancona and Pesaro Urbino), the appearances apparently centering in the neighborhood of Pesaro. In the vicinity of Monola, Marotta, and San Costanzo some damage was caused and several persons were injured.

Reports coming in from the district yesterday show the shocks to have thoroughly alarmed the population.

STORM SWEEPS COAST.

BARI, Italy, Jan. 4—(Canadian Press)—The Apulian coast was swept yesterday by a severe stom causing serious damage at Barletta, Trani, Bisceglie and Molfeta.

The last named town was especially hard hit, and large numbers of the inhabitants are without food. Nine large fishing smacks were destroyed and forty damaged.

NINE DROWNED BY HEAVY WAVE

Were Swept Into Foaming Waters From Deck of Rescuing Schooner Off Long Island.

BABYLON, N.Y., Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press)—Nine men were believed to have been drowned last night in the great south bay in Fire Island Inlet, it was reported by one of four survivors of fishing smacks that were grounded on Fire Island bar. The survivors were brought here in the auxiliary schooner K-1333-5.

Details of the wreck of the fishing boats were difficult to obtain as William McDonald, the only survivor able to talk at all, was believed to be temporarily mentally deranged after his experience. The names of the three others were not learned. All of those drowned were believed to be Long Island fishermen.

The men were drowned when the rescue schooner had reached the wrecked boats and taken off the crews. As the vessel turned and cleared the bar a powerful wave swept across the cockpit and when the man in the cabin looked again all the occupants had been swept into the foaming waters.

PETERBORO IS BELOW AVERAGE IN FOOD COSTS

Compared With Ontario and the Dominion, Prices of Groceries Are Low Here--Cheese and Bread Are Exceptions

OFFICIAL FIGURES

Prices in Peterborough on all classes of groceries and foods compare very favorably with those prevailing in other parts of Ontario, as indicated by figures for November just published. The advantage Peterboro citizens have in the purchase of dairy products is very marked prevailing prices here in November being lower than both the Ontario and the Dominion averages. The average price for creamery butter for instance, was 41.4 cents, compared with the average for Ontario 44 cents and the average for Dominion 44.9 cents. Fresh eggs averaged 47.9 cents cents a dozen here, 50.3 cents a dozen in Ontario and 52 cents a dozen in the Dominion.

A survey of 68 different foods shows that Peterboro prices were under the Ontario average price on 43 commodities; higher in 21 cases and and equal to the average in 4 instances.

Out of five classes of beef Peterboro has a higher price than the Ontario average in 4 cases and is higher than the Dominion average in every instance.

Mutton was lower here and pork was also under both the Dominion and provincial averages, but bacon cost 42.8 for the breakfast variety not sliced, as compared with the Ontario average price of 35.6 cents and the Dominion average of 38.6.

In five varieties of fish Peterboro had high price in three, cod steaks being low with a price of 15 cents compared with 19.1 in the province and 17.1 in the Dominion, and salt cod costing 19.3 here compared with 20.5 in Ontario and 21.1 in the Dominion.

In spite of the fact that this is said to be the heart of the best dairy section of the best dairy province in the Dominion, cheese cost more in Peterboro than the Ontario average and more than in any city in the neighbouring Provinces, Quebec and Manitoba. The price here was 34.4; the Ontario average 33.2; the Dominion average 33.8; the Quebec average 31.2 and the Manitoba 34.1.

Flour Lower—Bread Higher.

According to the Government figures there was only one city in all Canada with a lower price for flour than in Peterboro. Kitchener had a price of 3.6 cents; Peterboro 3.7 cents; the Ontario average 4.1 and the Dominion average 4.3 cents. In spite of this bread cost in Peterboro 6.7 ..s compared with the Ontario average of 6.4. Belleville, Hamilton and Owen Sound had a price of 5.3 cents for bread.

Potatoes in Peterboro cost $1.50 for 90 pounds, compared with the average for Ontario $1.48 and for the Dominion $1.30. Apples were more favorable to the Peterboro shopper being obtainable here at 23 c..ts a gallon compared with 25.4, the average for Ontario and 26.1 for the Dominion. Prunes, raisin currants jam, marmalade, and corn syrup were all lower here than the Ontario average.

Sugar, tea, salt, pepper, soap, cost less here than in the average city in Ontario, but canned peaches, yellow and red onions, beans, tapioca, soda biscuits, coffee, cocoa, vinegar, cost more.

Matches too were more expensive here, while coal oil and all grades of fire wood were cheaper, a spread of $4 a cord being noticeable in some grades.

"WHY A BUSINESS DEPRESSION?"

(By MAX WEISS)

Peterboro, Ont., Jan. 3, 1924.

Why this business depression? Why those inflated prices on the farm? Why so much unemployment? There must be a very good reason for it, and if we want to find out we can. Why do we burn our hand if we put it on a hot stove? Well, we can learn it the same way. We grown-ups are just as cowardly to own up as the little boy who took daddy's razor and spoilt it. He knows that if he tells daddy his trouble would be over, but telling it seems so hard. If you want to find out why your watch doesn't go right you take the lid off and study the mechanism that makes the watch go, the same applies to the world. If we compare the world with a one hundred acre farm to make it smaller so that you can get a clear view of it and make four fields out of it and call one America, one England, one France and one Germany, each of these countries produces more of either one or the other commodities as they need for themselves, then they start to exchange, to trade goods with each other — one has cheap bread, the other has cheap groceries, the other cheap hardware and so on, and by helping each other out they all benefit. Now one of these countries finds out she can make a fine easy pile of money if she puts a tax on that stuff that she gets from the other fellow. Of course, the other country does the same—equal rights you know, and they keep raising each other just like playing poker till they make it impossible for the other fellow to sell to him and then they don't know what is wrong. Just because they have been wearing false teeth for such a long time they forget that they are false, and if besides in each one of these countries the different labor and business man and so on do the very same thing each clan makes a union to raise the other. Of course, if your bread goes up you must raise your beef and so on accordingly—equal rights again. Now one country blames the other if trade is blue, and one union blames the other for not being able to make a living, and one man is blaming the other. Just imagine a big country like Canada, as big as half of Europe with such a tiny population complaining of unemployment; it is ridiculous. Don't we really know better if you know God's love the same thing that makes your heart tick and makes the sun come up every morning you know it all. You know what is right or wrong. If you want to improve the situation you have got to start right at the bottom. You must blame yourself, you don't need to be perfect, but if you don't know the law how can you live up to it within a three-mile limit? You don't need to burn your hand every time you want to know if the stove is hot. Can you see through it when it says, "God is our Father and we are all brothers?" Can you open your narrow mind far enough to see that there is no difference between man, no difference between German, French, Italian, or Canadian? Teach our children that they should love each other. When we take to the beastly weapons to kill each other of hatred each animal has a weapon to protect his rights, and man, the king of them all, has the brain, the most superior brains. If man does not use his brains he is degrading himself below animal. Even a skunk knows enough to make a living in this world and be happy. Now if you can smell your porridge burning on the stove don't blame the fire; you've got to take it off yourself. Don't go to your preacher and confess to him, confess to yourself because it is you that should be king. God made man king of His creation and not a feeble-minded woman. Nobody needs to light up your headlights; turn them on yourself. Take a weapon to fight beasts; take your brain to fight man. Don't blame your preacher for being narrow-minded if he don't know what a thing is good for, like dancing, playing cards or strong drink, or strong words, if you don't know any better yourself. Don't be so narrow-minded and think those men with lots of money are tyranning you; it is you that fills their pockets, and if money is the curse, the curse is with them. If God made you king He is your only ruler, and you should not be ruled by anything else. If you hire a teacher to learn your children what is right or wrong you must know what it is yourself or else you do not know what he is teaching them. If you don't know yourself what is right or wrong, how can you pass a law correct. If some unfaithful women want to alter your most sacred law merits and want to expel the word "obey," how are you going to make them believe in God if you don't live up to it yourself? Why don't you show yourself as king when God made you king? If you are king and take care of your queen and children you have to fight to protect them from evil. Does a king have to call on the queen to help him swing his mighty sword? Do you have to ask your sister what is right or what is wrong? Think. Don't wait for Christ to come and lift you out of your mud hole; you are Christ yourself. If you misuse your body you cripple yourself — Christ and you are two in one. If the sun is shining and you sleep you don't notice it, and if somebody pulled your eyelids apart you would get mad, you would lose your temper because you know if you want to see you can open your eyes yourself. Now if you wake up yourself you can't help but see the sunshine, and if you find yourself in the shade why not step out in the sunshine? Don't bother your bean about the future when you have not solved the present. Don't worry about the bridge when you are so many miles away from it, and your own car stuck in a mud hole. If you think that your women have just as good a brain as a man, then why don't you match your swords with hers and sharpen your own by doing so? Instead of killing flies, why don't you kill lions. It always takes two to make an argument interesting, and cease listening to one without making him prove what he says is nonsense. Why not come altogether, regardless of your clan banner, and make your able speakers match their wisdom to find out what is right or wrong Is there anything more interesting on our globe than watching a battle between human brains and God? Why do men enjoy watching a rooster fight—it is because he wants to find out who is boss. Don't think a church is too good a place to fight between two brains if they fight for what is right and wrong; they fight for God. Your problem is not limited to your home or Province or Dominion; it is an international question. If we can't hold on to think the right way, how can we come to a reasonable understanding among each other? If you don't know who is boss in your home, how can you know who is boss over you? If you are in doubt, why don't you find out? Just by ignoring each other we never learn that there is only one right way. You must thrash that out right at home in your community; don't wait till some Board of Education put out a book and then go by the book. Make your head be that book. Man is not what other people make him, he is what he makes himself, and if God made you king, and each one of us can have our own kingdom, why should we not defend our rights? Why should your queens not be proud and happy? Aren't they the mother of all kings? Can't they see when the robin comes in the spring how wonderful that little bird can sing praise to His maker and how healthy their twittle? Can't you see how we kings made a real living hell in that world war? If Christ is in everyone of those kings that we wilfully murdered, do you think our queens that suffered such pain crying over their dead kings did it for nothing? How much more does it take to make us come to our senses? Just with a poor excuse it is not my business trying to kill your Christian spirit is not befitting to a king just because we got drunk this patriotic spirit and made hell over there with weapons not fit for kings is no reason why we should not try and make heaven out of it by using our brains. Just like a bull moose calls out his war whoops, so should you kings call each other out and then fight your duel with your brains. Don't think just setting up a big stone for our fallen kings is befitting for kings. Why don't you ask like a child, "Why did we kill our own kings" and then use your own brains? If we can make hell, why not make heaven? If you fear God you must fight for what is right or wrong. If God made man king of His creation and gave us a more superior brain and a voice to express what is in you, then you must vote regardless of trivial thinks like is a thing legal or not. Do we go up a mountain above the clouds just to get drunk with our own feelings when the air up there is so thin that it makes your chest expand and you feel bigger than what you really are? Why not open your eyes and look down and see how small a human being looks? Don't go up a mountain to conquer the mountain, go up to conquer yourself. If we look with evil eyes we see evil, and if we lok with God's eyes we see God.

You are your own king and if you don't know what is right in your own kingdom, your family circle, how can you tell what is wrong in the church circle or political circle? If you know what is right or wrong you know it all, and why should you not know it all? If one man has brains, so has the other. If you expect the other to use his, why not use your own? Just pretending to know it all is a crime, and not wanting to know it all is a crime too. If God is our Father, I remain, your brother,

MAX WEISS.

DUSSELDORF ARMY TO LEAVE FOR MAYENCE

PARIS, Jan. 4.—A dispatch from Duesseldorf says it is officially announced there that the general staff of the army of occupation will leave Dusseldorf during the first fortnight in January for Mayence. General Degoutte, however, will maintain his headquarters in Dusseldorf. The various civil services now in Dusseldorf will be grouped together and remain there.

GRAIN DELIVERIES LOW IN MILLBROOK

Farmers Thought Holding Back for Higher Price-- Skating Opened on Creek.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 4.—Grain deliveries at the local elevator are lower than usualat this time of year, the fact that prices are low being the probable reason. Farmers are evidently holding back in the hope that a later date will see an improvement in this respect. Generally speaking, however, the movement of grain is usually large this season, the Canadian Pacific Railway reporting having moved 200,000,000 million bushels —the heaviest marketings smce the inception of the road for the period of the crop year from September 1, 1922, until the close of navigati in 1923. The Bureau of Statistics also reports the amount of United States grain shipped from Canadian ports, during the same time, as 55,000,000 bushels—these figures constituting a record.

The agitation to have more Canadian owned vessels in the Canadian grain carrying trade on the Upper Lakes, if successful, will make us independent of the United States vessels. The later, being in the majority, have this season carried several million more bushels of our Western crop than Canadian vessels did. Considerable controversy is likely to be aroused over the fact since there is now a bill before Congress asking that a tax of fifty cents per ton be levied on every Canadian and foreign vessel entering United States ports.

Local pricies for grain are 92 cents per bushel for wheat, 70 cents for buckwheat, $1.25 for peas, 70 cents for rye, and 60 cents for barley.

Sleighing Good.

The few inches of snow which have fallen made the sleighing fairly good and several loads of hay and wood have been noted in the village recently. Twelve dollars per ton is being asked for the former, and from $7 to $12 for wood according to quality.

Skating Opened.

A large number of the younger folk enjoyed practically the first skating of the season on Needler's Pond on New Year's Day. The skaters were able to follow the creek west as far as the mansion grounds the channel being frozen and the ice really better than on the pond itself. Several attempts have been made to have the rink ready for use but repeated thaws, until the last few days have undone the work. Continued frost now would probably see the welcome sign, "Skating at Rink" hung out, and the curlers could also begin their winter's sport. Beyond organization it has not been possible to make any farther progress so far this season.

JOHN O'LEARY WAS A VICTIM SUDDEN DEATH

Campbellford Man Instantly Killed When Operating Machinery in Pulp Mill--Struck on Head.

NO EYEWITNESS

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan 4. — Death sudden and tragic came to John O'Leary, an employees of the pulp mill, while he was at work about 4.30 Thursday afternoon.

It seems that no one actually witnessed the fatal accident although there were men working close to where it occurred. O'Leary was working one of the rossing machines which are used to remove the bark from the pulpwood. E. Frederick, who was running the machine next to O'Leary, noticed the latter lying on the floor and attempted to raise him, but the unfortunate man died in a few minutes.

Eli Brunnelle, manager of the plant sent in a hurry call for Dr. H. B. Longmore ond Rev. Father Phelan, O'Leary's spiritual adviser, but all was over before either doctor or clergyman arrived.

Dr. F. W. Loucks, the coroner, was then summoned and after investigation into the circumstances decided that the death was accidental and no inquest will be held.

The only explanation of the tragedy is that the deceased was using a piece of timber with which to shift the belt on his machine from one pulley to another, that the stick became entangled in the cogs of one of the rapidly revolving wheels and was driven with terrifice force against the head of the operator. Dr. Long more found that O'Learys skull and jaw had been fractured. Death was almost instantaneous.

Reported to Hydro

The Hydro Commission has a department for the investigation of all accidents, fatal or otherwise, in its various branches and the managers are required to report, promptly and direct to these, in the event of injury or death to an employee, instead of to the Workmen's Compensation Board. Manager Brunnelle wired the Hydro at Toronto last evening and an official is expected to arrive today to inquire into the matter. The result of his investigation will then be discused.

A Skilled Employee

O'Leary who was about 55 years old was regarded as one of the most efficient and careful men in the plant. He came here from Stirling to work in the mill about three years ago, soon after his marriage. He leaves a wife, but no children. He was a member of St. Marys church and was highly esteemed by his neighbours.

When Coroner Loucks gave permission for the removal of the remains they were taken to the undertaking parlours of A. C. Watson and Co. and prepared for burial, after which they were transferred to the home of the deceased on Naseby street. The funeral arrangement will be announced later.

This is the first fatal accident to occur in this plant. Manager Brunnelle, who has been in the pulp business for over 20 years, 10 years of that time in Campbellford, says that it is also the first with which he has had to deal.

LIBRARIES CLOSE SINCE BOOKS TORN

No Money to Replace the Tattered Volumes—Only Warm Places in the City

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—(Associated Press).—Nine of the peoples' libraries in Berlin have been closed because their books were too much worn for further use, and funds were lacking for replacement. Six libraries' maintained for children alone are also threatened with closing because of lack of funds.

The custodians say each of these libraries is visited by an average of 400 children daily, and that the number has increased greatly since cold weather set in. Appeals are being made for funds to keep all these branch libraries open, as they are the only heated rooms in many neighborhoods where students can carry on their work, and where readers can be comfortable.

Youth Fell on Saw and Was Badly Cut.

KINGSTON, Jan. 4.—Frank Jones aged 14 of Elgin, while engaged in feeding a revolving saw with wood, slipped and fell on the saw which cut through two lower ribs on his left side, destroying four to six inches of the bowels. The lad was operated upon at the general hospital here and his condition is regarded as critical.

A Farewell Party for the Walsh Family-- School Reports.

HASTINGS, Jan. 4.—Before leaving for their new home in Hastings Mr. and Mrs.. T.. A.. Walsh and son, Hugh, were presented with farefell tokens and addresses. Mrs.. Walsh recieved a beautiful mahogany mantle clock, Mr.. Walsh a well filled purse and Hugh, a set of solid gold cuff links, in plush box. Mr John Fitzpatrick read the address and Mrs.. J. Doherty, Mr. J. McColl and Mr.. P.. Doherty made the presentations.

The address read:

Dear Mr.. and Mrs.. Walsh,

We are gathered here this evening to bid you farewell and to wish you much happiness and prosperity in your new home.

We also want to take this opportunity of assuring you of the deep respect in which you have always been held by u —your neighbours and friends.

Your sterling qualities and kind disposition have made you the best of neighbours and it is with deep regret that we see you leave our midst.

Your loss here as neighbours and as friends will be felt personally by each of us and we wish you to accept these gifts as a small token of remembrance and of our sincere regard for you.

Signed on behalf of your friends.
John McColl.
Jas. Healy.
Paddy Fitzpatrick.
John Fitzpatrick.

Although completely taken by surprise, Mr. and Mrs Walsh made beautiful replies, telling all present how much they appreciated the kindness shown them at this time and also the length of time they had been living in the community, and said they would always cherish the gifts.

Before leaving for there several homes the friends and neighbours, and all present were served a dainty lunch by the ladies.

CAVAN ELECTIONS CREATE INTEREST

Debate to be Held in the Community Hall—New Men Out.

CAVAN, January 4. — Keen interest is being shown throughout Cavan Township in the coming municipal election.

At the nomination last Monday the Town Hall was well filled.

The two new aspirants for office are Mr. Robinson and Mr. Robert McKnight.

Mr. Robinson will oppose H. Bland for Reputy-Reeve. R. McKnight runs for Councillor together with George Hooton, Stewart Fallis, and Harry Elson, who were in the Council last year.

The men are busy canvassing.

Mr. Robinson has secured the use of the Community Hall at Cavanville for this evening, to hold a meeting. He has challenged the old Council to meet him there for debate.

He has also engaged the Hall at Mount Pleasant for the same purpose and will speak this week in Bailieboro.

To the Electors of the Township of Otonabee

As a Candidate for the Reeveship and being unable to see all the Ratepayers personally, I most respectfully solicit your support, and will, if elected—

1—Speak frankly on the financial condition of the Township. It is not known to the Ratepayers to-day.

2—Will re-open the question of the Township road system, and will ask for an expression from the Ratepayers.

3—Will advocate in the Council in a reasonable business way, and also advocate in the County Council in a reasonable business way, better treatment for Otonabee in the matter of County Roads, and also with the Suburban Commission.

Wishing you all a Happy and Prosperous New Year,—I remain,
Yours respectfully,

Morley Smithson

MATERIAL INCREASE CANADIAN PRODUCTS

Fur, Fisheries and Forest Increased in Value — Greatest Wheat Country

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 4.—(Associated Press).—The farm and fishery products of Canada, during 1923, showed material increases over the 1922 figures. The value of the Dominion's mineral, forest, agricultural and fishing industries is placed at $2,420,000,000 in unofficial Government estimates for 1923. This represents an increase of $252,000,000 over the values of the previous year.

Canada is now the greatest single contributor to the world's wheat supply, with more surplus wheat for export than any other wheat growing nation, according to statistics compiled by the International Institute of Agriculture in Rome and transmitted to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

British Columbia's salmon pack this year will total 1,250,000 cases, according to preliminary estimates of the Provincial Department of Fisheries. This is an increase of about 400,000 cases over the 1922 pack, and is the largest output since 1919.

VENIZELOS WILL GET HOME TODAY

He Will Be Met Somewhere in Gulf of Saloniki and Transferred From the Andros to a Greek Destroyer.

ATHENS, Jan. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Former Premier Venizelos was expected to arrive in Athens today. The steamer Andros on which he is travelling will be met somewhere in the Gulf of Saloniki by a Greek torpedo boat destroyer having on board Colonel Plastiras, head of the revolutionary committee, and a group of foreign newspaperman.

M. Venizelos will be transferred to the destroyer and be taken to some secret spot in accordance with his expressed wish to avoid a demonstration. Friday will be devoted to conferences with Colonel Plastiras and other political and personal friends of the former premier, in preparation for the reunion at the national assembly on Saturday.

The Regent has requested the Cabinet Ministers, who handed in their resignations yesterday after the meeting of the National Assembly, to continue functioning, pending the formation of a new government.

Colonel Plastiras to-day presented himself to the Minister of War as a plain army colonel and requested that he be placed on the retired list. He plans to remain in Athens until the new ministry is chosen.

FURTHER ACTIONS IN ASSAULT CASE

Clough to Bring Several Alleged Throwers of Rotten Eggs Into Court.

CAMPBELLFORD, January 4.—Another chapter has been added to the story of the assault case when Robert Cleugh, a Rawdon Township farmer, was fined $15.00, and costs, in the Police Court here for an attack on Alfred, the 15-year-old son of John Simpson, a neighbour.

The affair was the outcome of a threshing bee in Rawdon last summer, when some of the hands uncovered a nest of stale eggs with which they pelted some of the other workmen. Cleugh was hit several times with the eggs, and blamed young Simpson for throwing them.

Meeting the boy on the road last week he wreaked vengeance for the damage to his person and dignity.

Cleugh has retaliated, and yesterday had four persons, Alfred Simpson who had Cleugh fined, Harold Simpson, a brother, Bert Hay, and James Trotter, summoned for alleged assault, charging that they were the parties who with eggs as missiles made his person a target.

Harry Bedford, Cecil McLean, and John Simpson, all of whom were at the threshing, have been summoned as witnesses.

The case will be heard in the Police Court on Monday at 2 o'clock.

CAMPBELLFORD CURLERS BUSY

Season Opens Tonight With Splendid Sheet of Ice—Hockey Cossip.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4. —The curling season will be formally opened to-night when several matches will be played between picked up teams, as the rinks for the schedule contests will not be drawn before next week. Caretaker Cole has the ice in splendid condition and it will be marked off to-day ready for the opening. The rink was given over Wednesday evening to the skaters and a large crowd enjoyed the pastime.

Covert's rink was opened for the season with a skating party last night.

Hockey Prospects.

Charles H. Davidson, candidate for Reeve, is too busy with his campaign to give much thought to the hockey game, but when the election is out of the way there will be something doing .He is manager of both the men's and girls' teams. The latter, which will include nearly all of the best players on the team of 1923, when they came within sight of the championship, will be in the line-up again this year. This team has already been entered in the Trent Valley League.

LIBERAL PARTY SAYS FERGUSON

Farmers Will Not Lead the Opposition in Ontario House.

TORONTO, January 4 (Canadian Press). — The Liberal Party will constitute the official Opposition in the Provincial Legislature which assembles on 66th February next.

This is in spite of the resolution which the Farmer legislators passed at their meeting yesterday in the Carls-Rite Hotel when they voted to become the official Opposition Party, but is in accordance with the definite statement of Premier Ferguson when the news of the resolution was given to him.

The statement which declared the U.F.O. members' intention of occupying the position of official Opposition in the Provincial House was the following communique, which was issued as detailing the result of the afternoon's deliberations.

"A resolution was passed to the effect that the Progressives in the Provincial House assume the position of official Opposition."

Premier Ferguson's statement, when told of this resolution, was to the effect that the designation of the official Opposition Party was a matter for the Government.

For Deputy Reeve

To the Electors of the Township of Otonabee.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

I have accepted nomination for the deputy-reeveship of your township, after having served two years in the municipal council, and if I am elected, I will advocate economy and the best value possible for the money spent by the township, and give the electors a true statement of affairs at the end of the year.

Soliciting your kindly support and influence, and wishing all the Compliments of the Season, I beg to remain,

Yours faithfuly,
F. D. McINTYRE.

REPORT THAT DIXMUDE WAS FOUND IS DENIED

MARSEILLES, Jan. 4.—A wireless message has been intercepted reporting that searchers, by means of a captive balloon sent from Toulon, have located the position of the French dirigible Dixmude, which met destruction, with presumably all hands aboard, the latter part of December. The wreck, according to this message, lies in about twenty or thirty fathoms, within a circle of half a mile radius, whose centre is three miles south of Cape San Marco, Sicily.

A Bizerta despatch reports the finding of two bodies off the coast believed to be victims of the Dixmude disaster.

Report Denied.

The Ministry of Marine, up to 11.30 o'clock to-night, had no confirmation of the report of the finding of the wreck of the dirigible Dixmude, reported from Marseilles, or of two victims of the disaster, as reported in a Bizerta dispatch. The Ministry regards the reports as highly improbable.

TO THE ELECTORS OF CAMPBELLFORD

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I respectfully solicit your support for the Reeveship. I have had long experience in municipal work, having been in the public service as town and counties councillor, with few interruptions, since 1901. I believe that I am justified in saying that I thoroughly understand the needs of both town and county. One year ago I was defeated on an issue that has since been settled and the outcome has vindicated the stand I then took.

CHARLES H. DAVIDSON

LABOR PROSPECTS NOT SO GOOD NOW

Weather Conditions During December Partly Responsible.

MONTREAL, Jan. 4— (Canadian Press).—Weather condtiions during December and the cold snap of the past two or three days prevent anything like an accurate summary of the prospects for laobr in Montreal this year, according to information gleaned at the Government Bureau here to-day. In the building trades the situation is described as hesitating and not so good as at this time last year. Shantymen also are not doing so well as last year and rumors of high wages in the fall have had the effect of reducing the amount of employment. Wages at present range between $40 and $50 a month which is regarded as normal. As regards casual labor, conditions are much the same as in former years at this time.

HOUSING PROBLEM MENACES HEALTH

BUENOS AIRES, Arg., Jan. 4. —(United Press).—The housing problem in Buenos Aires is occupying the attention of the authorities. The condition has become such a menace in the Argentine, not merely to public order, but to public health, that it is felt that something must be done quickly to remedy it if disastrous consequences are to be avoided.

In the slums of this city and in many of the better districts, epidemics, vice and demoralization are being fomented by the sub-renting system of houses.

It is not unusual to find houses with ten to twelve rooms sheltering over eighty people, who live under the worst of conditions.

To the Electors of Otonabee

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

As it will be impossible for me to see you all personally I take this opportunity of thanking you for your continued confidence in my judgment in the past and would respectfully ask for a renewal of the same on Monday next. Starting at the bottom and gradually working up through the different offices through long years, an experience of municipal and county work is obtained not possible in any other way.

If elected I promise a continuance of the same sound and honest administration of the affairs of the municipality as I have endeavored to give you in the past.

Wishing one and all the best wishes for a happy and prosperous 1924, I am,

Yours respectfully,

F. A. Eason

BAD ALCOHOL IS SENT TO STATES

Testimony of Witness in a Montreal Theft Case.

MONTREAL, Jan. 4. — Arthur Rose, witness in charge heard here yesterday afternoon of conspiracy to rob the $4,000 payroll of a local manufacturer in September last, delared that Ferdinand Brisebois, one of three men accused of the charge had only been concerned with himself with the purchase of five gallons of alcohol for shipment to the United States. Commenting further Rose said:

"The stuff is generally used for hair tonic, but when it is not good enough for that it is sent to the United States."

Rose further said that there was any amount of alcohol to be bought in Montreal much cheaper than through the Quebec Liquor Commission.

The case was adjourned.

George E. Morrison

The local artist, who is a candidate for a place on the Campbellford Town Council, respectfully asks for the support of the electors.

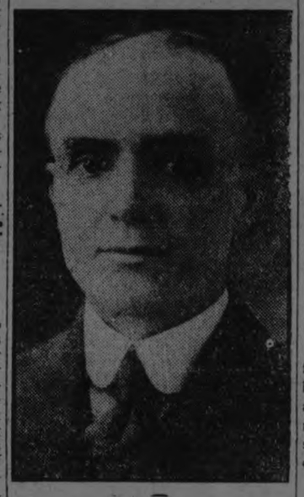
For Deputy Reeve



J. A. Burke

Candidate for Deputy-Reeve of Campbellford. Mr. Burke, who was in the Council last year, favors a start on permanent roadways and also advises the formation of an industrial commission, composed of members of the Council, with a view to bringing new industries to Campbellford.

ELECT ANDERSON

To the Electors of Campbellford.

On my record both in the Town Council and Counties Council, I respectfully request your support for re-election to the Reeveship.

J. A. ANDERSON.

THE COAL QUESTION.

The announcement of the formation of a company in Montreal for the purpose of importing Welsh coal is of considerable interest.

Coal from Wales is being burned by a number of Peterborough citizens, who are loud in their praises of its good qualities.

If it can be imported into Canada cheaply enough to compete with the American product, there seems no doubt as to the success of the enterprise.

Along the same line the test of Alberta coal by local people has demonstrated that most of those who have tried it would rather have the Western article than United States anthracite.

But the cost of transportation stands in the way.

Under present conditions, it is impossible to consider Alberta as a chief source of supply.

But every effort should be made to render Canada independent of the Republic for our fuel, and so the importation of Welsh coal and steady pressure to reduce the cost of transpotting Alberta coal are matters of great importance.

THE POULTRY ASSOCIATION.

The Peterborough Poultry Association is to be congratulated upon the success of its annual Poultry Show, which closes at the Armouries tonight.

There is a very fine showing of birds, in quality perhaps surpassing any previous exhibit in the history of the association, and the improvement shown year by year in this respect must be gratifying to those who have worked so faithfully on behalf of the organization, and have succeeded in making the annual show the biggest in Eastern Ontario.

An immense amount of work has had to be done, an inexhaustible fund of enthusiasm has had to be furnished to accomplish this result, and the officers and members of the association have every reason to feel elated as they look back over the road they have travelled, over the obstacles they have surmounted, the apathy and indifference they have had to offset in reaching the present pinnacle of success.

The results of their labours are not confined to the Poultry Show.

They are to be found in a better strain of poultry in this district, in a better understanding of feeding and housing and marketing poultry, in a more thorough knowledge of the science of poultry raising.

For these results as well as for the growth of the annual show the association has earned the plaudits of the community—and incidentally more generous support.

COLLEGIATE ACCOMODATION.

The public will look to the Board of Education to make an early and sincere effort to deal with the Collegiate Institute accomodation problem and to decide upon some definite policy in regard to a building programme.

The need of more room at the Collegiate Institute may not be as generally recognized as it should be.

When the present building was erected it was thought that it would provide ample accomodation for many years.

The demand for education and the growth of Peterborough, however, have upset all calculations.

At present every class-room is used to its fullest capacity, and by next September it is estimated another fourth form will be necessary.

There is no room in which it can be accomodated.

As it is, the commercial classes are housed in the old South Central School, a building that was considered to have outlived its usefulness as a public school, but is now regarded as good enough for Collegiate Institute purposes.

The commercial classes are a unit in themselves, and so far as teaching is concerned are not affected by the transfer to the South Central.

But they are isolated, cut off from the corporate life of the school proper, losing the benefit of the Literary Society and the library and the other features that are almost as important a factor in moulding the student as are the lessons he receives.

And in any case it would be impossible to house anything but commercial classes in the South Central, owing to the system of teaching used in the Collegiate Institute, which would be hopelessly interrupted if the teachers had to go back and forward between the two schools.

It is a situation that calls for attention, and should be dealt with as early as possible by the Board of Education.

CIVIC COMMONPLACES NO. 1.

Under the heading, "What Every Taxpayer Knows and Usually Lets It Go At That," the Canadian Research Institute in its latest bulletin gives some interesting facts about civic administration, describing them as "civic commonplaces which it is tiresome to hear about and still more tiresome to act upon."

Nevertheless they are of such prime importance that the Examiner proposes to discuss one of them each night for the next few issues, believing with the Institute that what is needed more than anything else at the present time is a renewed and practical appreciation of a few old and well-tried commonplaces.

The first of these is simply that there is no use in protesting against taxes after the expenditure producing the taxes has been authorized by the taxpayers or the taxpayers' representatives in the City Council.

That should be self-evident.

Yet year after year many taxpayers feel very sorry for themselves and advertise the fact to the callous universe when their tax bills come in.

They fail to realize that the time to protest is when the proposed expenditures are being considered.

How many Peterborough taxpayers have ever done so?

Making a protest would cause some inconvenience and involve some discussion, and so the expenditure is authorized by the Council or by the votes of the people.

And then when the larger tax bills make their appearance because of this expenditure to which nobody objected at the time when such objection might have been effective there is a wail of woe from the citizens.

No doubt many readers will say, "There is nothing new in this. We knew it before."

Quite true, but how many have acted because of this knowledge?

ONTARIO'S JOB.

The Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario has been called for February 6, in accordance with the decision of Premier Ferguson and his Cabinet. It should be an important session. The Conservative Government has a clear mandate from the people, as expressed by the large majority given at the elections in June.

There should be no excuse, when the session comes to an end, for not having accomplished much in the way of shaping new policies for the Province. There is not the need for avoiding contentious legislation that was faced by the late Farmer-Labor Government. Unless something unforeseen arises, the record of the new Legislature in its first session should be one of accomplishment.

First and foremost of the jobs awaiting the new Government is a reduction of expenditures. In some of his speeches, Premier Ferguson has intimated that this is just what he intends to do. Just how this is to be done remains to be seen, but the Premier has intimated that he intends to lop off a good deal from the budget of the Department of Education. Mr. Ferguson says he believes that primary education should be very thorough, giving the child a firm foundation in the essential subjects of language and number. This is very important, although there is a growing belief that some of the subjects that Conservatives in matters educational call "frills," are of great help in accomplishing the very thing Mr. Ferguson speaks of.

Government economy, however, should be a matter of reducing the total amount of government. Bureaux and departments have multiplied astonishingly of late years. The result has been increasing costs of administration. This phenomenon is not confined to Ontario; it is world wide. And now, the indications are, we shall see a reversal of this process. Evidences of this are numerous in Europe, where hundreds of thousands of Government employees are being asked to find places for themselves in more productive fields.

Premier Ferguson has also indicated that he intends to take up the question of granting subsidies in order to increase iron mining and manufacture within the Province. Ontario has large deposits of iron. The demand for ferrous products of all kinds is increasing, and bids fair to show greater gains in the future, in view of the bright prospects ahead of the automotive industry. It would seem wise if Ontario could use her own iron for such purposes. The mine subsidy plan is worthy of very careful study and investigation.

It has been rumored that the Government would like to keep down the public debt by discontinuance of the practice of guaranteeing bonds for Hydro extensions, and thus force the commission to provide for them out of earnings. This Sir Adam Beck strenuously denied, while the Provincial Treasurer said he knew of no impending change in policy. These statements may be taken as indicative of the way the Government will consider Hydro's needs.

The providing of further sources of power is one of the most important tasks that the Legislature will face. Hydro cannot be hampered. In spite of grumbling, which seems mostly inspired by enemies of public ownership, evidence is accumulating that Hydro finances are very sound, and that rates charged are high enough to provide for interest and sinking fund on money invested. If this is so, there should be no change in Government policy. Cheap electricity has proved a wonderful blessing in tens of thousands of homes. Hydro has proved that the market for it is boundless. The people get a great deal for merely lending their collective credit to the institution.

Mr. Ferguson has talked of forming a commission to study agriculture, market conditions and social problems in general. Although this seems like adding to the burdens of Government, it might prove a wise plan in the end. Ontario, which has revolutionized the business of distributing electricity, might well become a leader in other fields.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Figures as to the number of automobiles to be manufactured during 1924 shows that this will indeed be leap year for pedestrians.

Newspapers throughout the Province usually are not unanimous in praising Toronto, but they all seem to think the Queen City electors acted wisely in rejecting Tommy Church.

The balance of the winter may be cold, but Mr. Canadian Householder thinks of the money he has already saved on his coal bill and won't worry about throwing a few extra shovelfuls of anthracite into the furnace now.

Down in Campbellford Mayor A. J. Meyers is offering himself for a fifth term. And despite the fate of Tommy Church and W. H. Taylor, he is selected as a likely winner.

Unfortunately, high freight rates do not interfere with the shipping of cold weather from the West.

The United States may put restrictions upon the immigration of Canadians. That would be unfortunate for the United States hockey teams.

Canada has lost a good citizen in the death of Hon. L. P. Brodeur, the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. His career has been an example of his fellow-citizens.

It would be interesting to know the percentage of women who exercised their franchise on Tuesday.

JAPANESE DIPLOMATS' ENTERTAINMENT LESS

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 4.—(Associated Press).—There will be less entertaining by Japanese diplomats at home and abroad in the future.

The Finance Department has insisted on a reduction of the expenditure of the Foreign Office as well as other departments of the Government, and to do this the Foreign Minister has ordered that dinners and banquets in Tokio and in foreign capitals be abandoned and that a reduction be made in grants to officials on their retirement, travelling expenses, secret service, international conference expenses, commercial attaches, investigations and the enforcement of The Hague and Versailles Peace Conference Treaties.

This will save, it is estimated, over a million yen yearly.

FEW CONTESTS IN VICTORIA COUNTY

Road Engineer Alleged to Have Received Substantial Fees For Work in Villages.

LINDSAY, Jan. 4.—The results of the nomination meeting in the municipalities throughout Victoria county would indicate that the electors are anxious to save the expense of a contest. There have been acclamations in practically every village and township. In Ops township a hot fight is being waged for the reeveship between Wm. Best, reeve for 1923 and W. M. Graham, a member of last year's council.

There promises to be wigs on the green when the County council meets this month. The County Good Roads Board reported quite a surplus after the year's operations, and at the different nomination meetings strong protests were entered by the speakers against the great cost of good roads to the couny. At the Ops nomination meeting, the chairman, Mr. James Robertson stated that while the County Engineer received a salary of $3,000 per annum, he also received an extra 5 per cent on the permanent work in Omemee, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon and on certain streets in Lindsay. He understood that the Engineer received some $1,800 from Omemee, $1,400 from Fenelon Falls and a similar amount from Bobcaygeon. The chairman's statement came like a bolt from the blue. It was ascertained that the county had nothing to do with these fees as they were regulated by statute.

MARMORA REEVE BY ACCLAMATION

Six Candidates For the Council—New Teachers Arrive to Assume Duties—Weddings in Marmora

MARMORA, Jan. 3.—The nominations on Monday, December 31, for municipal officers left Mr. B. Airhart elected by acclamation for the reeveship of the village.

The following six men are running for the village council, F. Marett, A. T. Neal, John Reid, F. Johnson D. E. Bell, J. P. Martin.

There is no change in the members of the school board as they were elected by acclamation.

In the Township the old councillors were re-elected but there will be a contest between R. E. Bonter and John Richardson for the reeveship.

Mrs. W. Inkster and son Jim motored to Havelock on Wednesday night to stay for several days' visit.

Miss Muriel Litt left on Wednesday for Seabring where she is to attend High School for the rest of the term. Miss Litt has a number of her middle school subjects successfully tried and has left her home school in order that she may have a chance to study some Upper School subjects. Miss Litt will be missed by her school friends and especially by the members of the A.Y.P.A. of which she was the secretary. When it was learned that she was leaving the A.Y.P.A. presented her with a French ivory jewel box as a Christmas gift. Miss Florence Archer entertained a number of friends as a farewell for Miss Litt the evening before she left with her father for her new home.

The sccessor of Mr. H. Payette, recent principal of the Continuation School, Mrs. Mary Jenkins arrived with her son William on Wednesday She commenced her duties on Thursday morning for a short time, but dismissed school early in the morning in order to arrange the timetable, etc., with her assistants.

League Meeting

The regular meeting of the Young People's League of the Methodist Church was held on Wednesday evening. The New Year was begun with a good representation of the membership. Mr. Bruce Airhart gave a very interesting and beneficial talk on New Year's Resolutions and the right kind of foundations on which to place them. A number of new members were received during the Consecration meeting. The contest which has lasted three months was supposed to come to a close last night. The result of thes contest is not yet known but the opinions of most of the members are that the white side under the leadership of Miss Effie Knox, vice president of the Christian Endeavour department, has the lead in the number of points This will be announced this week.

Miss Taft of Kingston, arrived on Wednesday to assume her duties as a member of the staff of the Public School. She is boarding at the home of Mrs. Litt.

Robson—Riddle

Miss Riddle, who resigned her position as teacher in the Public School and Mr. Bert Robson were married on New Year's Day at the bride's home, St. Catharines. The bride and groom arrived in Havelock on the noon train, Wednesday and proceeded to their new home three miles east of Marmora .

Word was received early Thursday morning, of the death of Mr. W. Fry, who has been sick for some time.

Miss Dora Osborne returned to her school in Warsaw and Miss Mary Oliver to her school near Belleville.

Miss Margaret Lynch left on Thursday to resume her school work at Tweed.

The Misses Eva and Marion Inkster on their way back to Toronto, spent Wednesday evening and Thursday in Havelock.

The Williams spent Monday and Tuesday visiting with Mrs. Bailey of North Marmora.

Miss Elsie Williams returned on Wednesday to Peterboro to attend Normal.

Mr. Riggs of Delora, passed through town on is way back to work after several week's holiday, on Wednesday.

Miss Jennie Smyth of Delora, also returned from Omemee, on Wednesday.

SWEDISH IMPORTS SHOW INCREASE

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 4.—(Associated Press).—Sweden's imports for the first ten months of 1923 exceeded the exports by about $54,000,000, as against an excess of $10,000,000 for the corresponding period of 1922.

The principal commodities that helped swell the import volume are grain fuel, illuminating and lubricating oils, coal and vehicles, including automobiles. The bulk of the imports in each class cited came from the United States.

RAIDED FAN TAN GAME.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4. — (Canadian Press)—A fan tan game recently broken up by the city police resulted yesterday in four Chinamen being fined $100 in police court charged with operating a gambling den and 41 other Celestials being released after paying a nominal fine of $7 each for being inmates.

ECZEMA ENDED

Madame A. Lariviere of Fall River, Mass., suffered with eczema for three years, and had treatment from several doctors, all of whom gave up the case. "Finally," she says, "I went to a specialist, which cost me another $20, but I was no better.

"A friend advised me to try Zam-Buk, which I did, and for which I have ever since been thankful. I very soon felt some relief, and perseverance with Zam-Buk completely rid me of the disease."

SEVERE CUT HEALED

Mr. C. Oakley of Saskatoon, who sustained a terrible cut on his leg, says: "Had I known of Zam-Buk when the accident occurred, I could have saved myself a $40 doctor's bill! A doctor sewed up the cut and attended me for five weeks, but the wound did not heal, and he advised me to go into a hospital.

"I objected, however, and used Zam-Buk instead, and in two weeks' time was back at work."

SAVED OPERATION

"Father developed a painful sore on his face," writes Miss N. Lewis of Silver Lake, Oregon. "Numerous remedies and treatment from several doctors failed to heal it, and the doctor advised an operation. Someone advised him to first try Zam-Buk. A few applications brought relief, and continued use of Zam-Buk entirely healed the sore, saving father from an operation."

Zam-Buk is best for eczema, ringworm, salt rheum, boils, pimples, ulcers, abscesses, blood-poisoning, piles, cuts, bruises, burns and scalds. All dealers 50c box.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—Choice butchers' steers are holding firm, and a few of these sold yesterday at 7¼ cents a pound.

Exporters bought a few bulls Tuesday and yesterday at 15 to 25 cents a cwt. higher, with the best at around 5 cents a pound .

Nice weight butchers' heifers, just above the common class, sold at 5 cents a pund.

The market in calves continues strong, and 13½ cents a pound was registefed for the choice ones on offer yesterday. Good medium calves are bringing 10 cents and over.

A fair-sized run of lambs did not weaken yesterday's market. Loads of lambs sold at 13 cents a pound. These were wet, and considering the condition, they were dearer than Wednesday's lambs at 13½ cents. Choice sheep are firmer, and tops are making 7 cents a pound. Two decks of choice light lambs went to Harris at 13½ cents.

Hogs sold at $8.75 a cwt., on Wednesday, and this price was wanted yesterady morning. The feeling was for a little easier market, and the packers though they would get supplies at the bid of $8.50 a cwt. f.o.b.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterboro, Ont.
January 3, 1923.

To the Taxpayers of Otonabee:

If we are not making as much money as we used to we simply have less to spend, and if we can get along with less money why should the Council not be able to do so too. If we hire a man to feed the pigs and tell him not to feed so much chop and he does not do it we fire him. This saying we must have better roads or schools has as much sense as a girl saying if she had been used to silk stockings she simply can't wear woollen ones. Just because the stables of a barn don't suit us don't say we must tear the whole barn to pieces. Neither do I believe in upsetting the Council every year, but if our Reeve and Deputy say they can't spend less, and they both admitted that much on Nomination Day, they simply don't want to.

Necessity is the mother of invention. Mr. Eason gave us some advice about selecting a Member of Parliament or some such office. He mentioned that a man should have experience in municipal affairs. Well, a man is not born a Councillor or Reeve, neither does it prevent a cow that had a good milk record from some of her tits going blind. There is no use gloating over what a man has been, it is what he is now that counts. If a man knows what is right and wrong he has enough ability for any position. There is no use firing a man and putting one of the same caliber in, but if you put a new man in make him do what you want him to do. Mr. Anderson said when he wanted to put the blame on the Government that we are the government, so then it is up to us to help ourselves. If we get a tractor or a road or school system and the expenses are going to run us out of house and home then if they throw it in a fence corner it is not a backward step. If Mr. Anderson is for keeping it because he is for progress I am not, at least not for that kind of progress. If we all did what we should do then the Town Hall would not be big enough for Nomination. Our vote is our sword to protect our home and if we cherish our home and family it is our duty to vote, not voting means not to shoulder a rifle when your country needs to be defended. If you fear God you must swing your sword to fight for what is right and wrong. This is not a squabble between city and police

It's a fight for freedom, our rights and for peace.

If we can't run our own country,
We want to find out,
Who is pulling our noses
And have him kicked out.

If we pay him good money,
We have a perfect right,
To say how to spend it.
I'd say, well goodnight .

Make it an evolution of your brain
And then leap in 1924.

I remain, Your Neighbor
MAX WIESS.

CURATES SCARCE IN ENGLAND.

LOUGHBOROUGH, Jan. 4.—(Associated Press)—Canon Briggs of this town is much concerned at the lack of curates, which he thinks will make the filling of high offices in the church 20 years hence very difficult. The canon says he has advertised for a curate in the most likely church paper for several weeks in succession, and has not yet received a single inquiry.

Why Healey Falls?

CAMPBELLFORD, January 4.—Some time ago the Toronto Globe published an article dealing with the question of how Healey Falls came to receive that name, a suggestion being made that the place was named for a pioneer known as Dan Healey, who settled in that vicinity. Readers of the Globe were asked to supply information as to the real facts of the case.

The oldest living original settler of Healey Falls is James MacAlpine, who resides near Stanwood, and who is in his eighty-eighth year. He settled on the farm on which he still resides in 1854, so that he has been a continuous resident for 69 years. In spite of his great age, Mr. MacAlpine's memory is unimpaired and his mind is a storehouse of local history. He recalls that a pioneer, whose settlement antedates his own, was known as Dan Haley, but he was dead long before Mr. MacAlpine came to the district.

A Matter of Accent.

The Dan Haley referred to by Mr. MacAlpine is no doubt the same person for whom the place was named. His right name was Healey, but he and his neighbors being of Irish descent, this was pronounced 'Haley' until it became the official designation of the family. The correct name however, was used, when the memory of the pioneer was made perpetual in the history of that district.

So far as known none of Dan Healey, or Haley's, descendants, if he left any ,are living anywhere in that neighborhood, and no person can be found, other than Mr. MacAlpine, who can give any information concerning him.

DIDN'T QUALIFY IN RIGHT TIME

Deputy - Reeve Wilkinson of Campbellford Out of Race By Wrong Impression.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan 4—The mystery which enveloped the failure of Deputy-Reeve J. R. Wilkinson to qualify for reelection has been solved. Mr. Wilkinson says that he had been informed by a member of last year's council that owing to Tuesday being a legal holiday the candidates had until 9 o'clock Wednesday in which to file their acceptance Acting under this delusion Mr. Wilkinson worked on his farm out on Grand Road and when he called at the clerk's office Wednesday afternoon to qualify he was too late. He does not appear to grieve seriously on account of this oversight but accepts the situation philosophically. He retires to private life, he says, with the assurance that he performed his official duties as light was given him. His most pleasant memory of the past year is that scores of the best people in town commended his course of the school question as owing to the peculiar sitation which was thrust upon the council he acted in the best interests of the taxpayers.

As this question was being made an issue in the municipal campaign further information was desirable. The town of Renfrew recently completed the building of a new Collegiate Institute at a cost of $250,000, the architect being the same person who designed the school here In Renfrew the plastering and inside work was done, as it happened, in the winter season.

A telegram to John Geale, secretary of the Renfrew Board of Education asked whether the Board or the contractor paid for the necessary fuel. The reply was of the heating had been borne by the Board.

Heating The High School

At the last regular meeting of the Board of Education, it was reported by the building committee that T. A. Brown, who has the contract for the erection of the new High School, claimed that it was up to the Board to furnish the fuel required for heating the building while the plastering and other inside work was being completed. It was further stated that Architect Coons had been asked for a ruling on this point and that he had said that in such cases it was customary for the Board to supply the fuel. The matter was finally left to the discretion of the building committee.

Reeves and Deputies

There was a mix up in the list of municipal candidates as publjshed in The Examiner yesterday. J. A. Anderson and Charles H. Davidson are the candidates for reeve while J. S. Dorie and J. A. Burke are in the field for the deputy-reeveship.

her mother, has returned to the city.

Mr. Robert Cumming, barrister of Toronto, who has been spending the holidays with his father, Mr. J. D. Cumming, returned home on Wednesday.

Miss Neily Turner, who spent New Year's holjdays at her home on Queen street, returned on Wednesday, to Parry Sound, where she is teaching school.

OBITUARY

MRS. H. DOBBIN.

OMEMEE, Jan. 4.—On Wednesday, December 19, there passed away at her home in Mount Morris, New York, Millie Maud Stinson, youngest daughter of the late Samuel Stinson and Annie Stinson of the township of Manvers and wife of Heber Dobbin, formerly of Peterboro.

The body was brought to Peterboro for burial and the funeral was held on Saturday afternoon, December 22, from the home of Milne Dobbin, 319 Elias avenue, Peterboro to Little Lake cemetery, the service being conducted by Rev. Mr. Greatrix, a former pastor of St. James church, Peterboro, of which deceased was a member.

The late Mrs. Dobbin was born in a Christian home on the old farm in Manvers, where she lived the early part of her life and later moved with her parents to Lindsay and in a few years to Peterboro where she was married to her now sorrowing husband. For a number of years, they resided in Peterboro, then moved to Oshawa, Port Hope and Toronto and just recently to Mount Morris, N.Y.

Two little daughters blessed the union, Anna aged ten, and Helen nie years who are bereft of a devoted mother.

For some three or four years prior to her death, her health had eben much impaired by a repetition of illnesses and a serious operation in Toronto General Hospital almost a year ago and as a result a nervous breakdown and collapse.

In religion deceased was a Methodist and when health permitted was a very enthusiastic worker in the Sunday school.

Those in the immediate family circle to mourn her loss besides her sorrowing husband and two little daughters are three sisters, Mrs. Isaac Laidley of Lindsay, Miss Edythe Stinson of Peterboro and Mrs. James Bushnell of Omemee; also two brothers, Robert Stinson of Lindsay and Thomas C. Stinson of Karrisdale, B.C. Heartfelt sympathy is extended to all by a large circle of friends and relatives.

The floral tributes were beautiful and bore mute testimony of the respect in which the deceased was held.

WEDDING BELLS

McARTHUR—SANDERSON.

OMEMEE, Jan. 4.—A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Friday, December 28th at the home of the bride's parents, when Alta Elizabeth Sanderson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sanderson, "Beauty Vale Farm", Omemee, became the bride of Clarence McArthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McArthur, Washago. Rev. J. A. Black of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, officiated.

The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the drawing-room to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. (Rev.) Black and looked charming in a dress of coffee shade canton crepe and wore the gift of the groom, a beautiful rope of pearls. The young couple were unattended, and after the wedding ceremony the guests retired to the dining-room, where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served.

On Monday evening, about fifty friends and relatives of Mrs. McArthur gathered at her home and presented her with a miscellaneous shower. A most enjoyable evening was spent in music, games and dancing. The presentation was made by Mr. F. G. Sandy. Many speeches were heard after which Mr. McArthur replied in a few well chosen words. The happy couple left for their new home near Washago on Wednesday.

London, England, Is Scene Liberal Move.

LONDON, Jan. 4. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—An attempt to revive active Liberalism in the City of London is being made by a few city liberals who have addressed a letter to members of the City Liberal Association, which has not met since 1914, calling an emergency meeting for next Monday. It is understood the object of the meeting is to prepare to contest the city of London by-election in the liberal interests.

'First Aid' For Sick Children

THE experienced mother is not alarmed when a child becomes sick. She knows that most of the ailments of childhood are trifling. If it seems serious she calls a doctor, but whether or not she calls him, she gives, first of all, a good laxative medicine. The doctor would advise that anyway. It is his "first aid." Such experienced mothers as Mrs. G. R. Paquette, Pierreville, Que., and Mrs. J. F. Beale, 325 Johnson Av., Winnipeg, always give Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at the first indication of sickness. Such timely doses have saved them much worry.

The Meaning of "Good"

All doctors agree that a thorough cleaning out of the bowels is of first importance for it removes dangerous intestinal poisons. They will also advise a "good laxative," and by "good" they mean one that is effective and yet harmless. They know that there are physics that never should be given to children — calomel, which is mercury and loosens the teeth; phenolphthalein, a coal-tar drug that causes skin trouble; salts, which concentrate the blood and dry up the saliva. They consider Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin safe for all ages as they know it is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. The formula is on the package.

Give Laxative for Colds

Adults should have at least one movement of the bowels every 24 hours, and children two or three. Failure to have it means constipation, then headache, biliousness, drowsiness, lack of appetite. Give a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at bedtime, and there will be health and good feeling by morning. A dose costs less than a cent, and a bottle can be had at any drug store. Colds and constipation come together, so if you notice coughing or sneezing stop it at once with Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

VIOLENCE SHOOK COUNTRY ABOUT ILLINOIS TOWN

Forty Dead or Missing And Many Injured, Eleven of Them Fatally--Dust Probably Caused the Explosion.

Order Investigations.

PEKIN, Ills., Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Upward of two-score of workers, possible victims of an explosion and fire which early yesterday destroyed two buildings of the Corn Products Company plant here, still were missing last night. The employment office issued a statement listing between 34 and 40 as dead or missing, 28 injured in hospitals, eleven probably fatally hurt, and 14 injured removed to their homes.

Superintendent H. B. Lawson issued an official statement to the effect that he could not tell how many were killed as some workmen might have left the plant without "checking out."

Rocked Countryside.

The explosion, caused probably by dust, rocked the countryside with violence. Last night the fire which followed was still burning. Firemen from Pekin and Peoria kept the flames in check, but the frost added to the difficulties of relief workers by covering the debris with a heavy coating of ice. A second shift of wreckers had accomplished nothing at nightfall, except to clear away some of the debris.

Wives and families of the victims did not congregate at the plant, but kept coming and going in a steady procession, inquiring with quivering lips for word of their loved ones.

Cold Was Killing.

Word went out in the afternoon that if it were possible that the missing had survived the explosion and fire, their lives would by that time have been ended by the cold.

Nearly all the dead, missing and injured are United States citizens, residents of this little town, whose 13,000 people were torn with similar grief in 1917 when the river steamer Columbia bore 86 Pekin citizens to a grave in the Illinois River.

State and Federal investigations of the explosion were in sight last night. There was no official who would venture a guess as to the possible cause of the explosion. It was admitted, however, that a spark sufficient to cause the crash might have come from friction or from defective electric wiring, or from a lighted match or cigarette.

Says Starch Moist.

There were one million pounds of starch in the building destroyed, which Chief Chemist R. F. Sherman said contained twelve per cent moisture. How starch of this moisture content could have produced explosive dust sufficient to cause the extreme damage done the plant, was a thing, he added, that he could not explain.

As darkness closed about the workers, a train wrecker was still pulling at the wreckage of five box-cars in which nine loaders went to their death screaming prayers for help. The full force of the derrick was not exerted for fear the pull would bring down upon the score of wreckers the remaining walls of the ruins.

GUM ARABIC.

Gum arabic is useful in stiffening silks and crepes and gives them the appearance of being new. It should be used in the propotion of one teaspoonful to a quart of water and it should be strained before using.

HOLIDAY DANCE HELD LAKEFIELD

Volunteer Fire Brigade Held Successful New Year's Party in Town Hall.

LAKEFIELD, January 4. — The New Year's dance, held under the auspices of the Lakefield Volunteer Fire Brigade, was a very jolly holiday party. There were about one hundred and twenty present, mainly of the younger set, and according to several it was one of the nicest dances held in the Memorial Hall. There were a number present from Peterborough, Toronto, Madoc, Young's Point, and other places.

Music was provided by Hendren's Orchestra, and the programme provided several novelties, which added zest to the fun. Among those present were:

Reeve and Mrs. J. C. Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. F. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Walton, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. Chappell, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Lampman, Mrs. T. B. Marling, Mrs. Grace Stuart, Mrs. E. R. Tate, Mrs. Britten, Mrs. Fawcett, Mrs. Windsor, Mrs. Stenner, Mrs. Osborne, Mrs. W. M. Graham.

Helped at Rink.

On New Year's Day the Fire Brigade assisted Manager Morin to get the Rink into shape and with the favourable weather conditions prevailing, it appears almost certain that there will be skating during this week. New Yea's calls at the Rink were in order, and Manager Morin held a reception. Curlers and skaters, old and young, were on hand asking "when."

Every effort possible is being put forth and the frequenters of the Rink are getting skates sharpened and the girls are providing themselves with the latest fashions in skating costumes to be all ready.

Curlers are taking their tams and sweaters from their moth-proof summer quarters.

All these things point to the time, now so near, when the Rink will resume its place as the community centre.

DIED SUDDENLY.

WOODSTOCK Jan. 4—(Canadian Press).—Suddenly without the least warning to relatives and friends here Archibald Grant Wilson well-known Ingersoll young man, contracted pneumonia a few days ago and succumbed yesterday afternoon in Montreal General Hospital. News of his death came as a shock to Ingersoll and Woodstock residents the more so as "Archie" the name by which he was familiarly known by hosts of friends, had paid a flying visit to his home town the day before Christmas. He had seemed in his usual good health then and was in the best of spirits while he paid Christmas calls to his old friends.

TRIBUTE TO LATE SHERIFF HALL

(By REV. R. POGUE)

At the Sunday service in St. Paul's church Rev. R. Pogue referred to the passing away of Sheriff Hall, who had been a lifelong member of the church. He said: "This congregation has sustained a great loss in the passing away of its Senior Elder, Sheriff Hall, who died at his home on Friday morning, and whose body was laid in its last resting place Saturday afternoon. Sheriff Hall had reached the advanced age of eighty-six. He was in bed on his last birthday, Dec. 15th, and was already beginning to feel the dissolution of the "earthly tabernacle" on that day. This congregation has been in existence practically ninety years, its first minister having begun his work in the Spring of 1833. Sheriff Hall was born in Peterborough and has been a member of St. Paul's church since he was dedicated to God in baptism in his infancy, and, hence, was almost as old as the church. He early became a communicant member, and, at a comparatively young age, became an elder of the church, in which capacity he served for fifty-one years. He was also, for a time, Clerk of Session. He has always taken a keen and active interest in the welfare of this congregation, as a member of the church, as a teacher for long years in the Sunday School and as a member of Session. He has been greatly honored and beloved not only for his personal worth, but for the wisdom of his counsel, whenever it was sought, not only by his ministers—of whom he had but three—but by the congregation as well. He was most faithful and conscientious in the discharge of all his religious duties. Though possessed of great mental gifts he was ever humble and retiring, doing his work quietly and coveting neither publicity nor praise. His splendid talents and great storehouse of acquired knowledge made him in no way egotistic, and his fine Christian character was never marred by the spirit of pride. He was exceedingly frank and honest in the discussion of matters that came up for consideration in Session, and in other church gatherings, but in it all he was brotherly and kind and most considerate of the feelings of others. He would not willingly hurt another or cause him pain.

I have been associated with him now in the work of the Church for some sixteen years. He spoke words of welcome for the Session at the formal reception which was given me when I became the minister of St. Paul's church. I cannot now recall any of the words or sentiments which he then expressed. One memory remains with me of the part he took on that occasion. I was impressed with the dignified and patriarchal appearance of the man who spoke. I got the impression that the speaker was a gentleman, and a man of the finest culture. I recall his free use of poetry, and the felicions way in which he conveyed the greetings of the Session, and welcomed the new minister.

His exceedingly retiring disposition prevented one appreciating to the full his great gifts of head and heart. It was only when one was long in his presence, and drew him out in conversation, that one could fully appreciate how well stored a mind was his, and how rich a nature was that which he possessed. There were few matters on which he was not well informed, and on which he could not speak to one's edification. During the last few years of his life his eyesight prevented him reading as extensively as he had been in the habit of doing, but through the ministry of his daughter, who had become eyes to him in the years when his vision was clouded, he was able to keep up his interest in the world of books and of literature. His interest in this regard was largely religious and the ably edited religious periodical—The British Weekly—was a great favorite with him.

He loved the Church. He loved the evangelical preaching of the word of God. He was a true conservative in theology and deplored greatly the spirit of modernism in the church within recent years. Still, the kindliness of his spirit, which was his outstanding characteristic, prevented him ever saying anything harsh or caustic about those who differed from him in their interpretation of the Scriptures. His heart was absolutely free from venom. He never slandered with his tongue. He could not do so, for he was the personification of the spirit of his religion, which is the spirit of kindness, charity and tolerance.

There are many lessons which can be learned from his life, which time does not permit me to enumerate this morning. No one who has known Sheriff Hall, but must wish that he might possess some of his virtues and become a wiser, truer, purer, better man for having known him. He lived the life which he did because of the high integrity of his nature, an integrity which was the result of a lifelong fellowship with his Master, Jesus Christ, and of his love for the Church and all for which the church stands.

The life of our departed brother calls us today from narrowness and meanness, from strife and hatred, from cunning duplicity and falsehood, to generosity, to honor, to purity, to devotion to Christ and his Church, and to think of "whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report."

We cannot be sorrowful today as those sorrow for a life cut down in the prime of manhood, for he not only lived out the full measure of a man's earthly span, but far beyond it. Still we cannot but feel the greatness of the loss which this congregation has sustained in his removal by death. We also feel that the members of his family, whose minds are full of so many sweet, bright and joyous memories, have suffered a great loss. They do not envy him his well-earned rest at the close of his long day, but they cannot but feel a great vacancy in heart and home.

His family will live over again, in the coming days, all those happy memories of his beautiful life and hopeful example, and though dead, he will still live with them and speak to them. And though his tongue be dumb in the grave we, too, who knew him, will hear him speak to us, by his beautiful life, lessons of love and righteousness and truth.

We commit all his dear ones today his sons and his daughters, and more especially the daughter who has shared so fully his companionship for many years in the home, to the arms and loving care of the Heavenly Father, who has promised to be a Father to the fatherless, and whose sweet promise goes with us through all the dark and stormy paths of life: "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

FIGHTING PARSON MAKES A CLEANUP

In Less Than Three Weeks He Cleaned a Town of All Road-Houses and Sunday Dance Halls.

PLAINFIELD, Ill., Jan. 4.—The church militant, exemplified in George F. Courrier, certainly has raised a stir in this small town.

The town had been dissatisfied but helpless. A roadhouse a few miles out was said to be selling gallons of liquor and making conditions generally unwholesome. A dance hall nearer town put on a Sunday night feature program where crowds were so large that supervision was impossible. The rural quietude was being violated.

"People complained to me, but the attitude was that 'preachers are nice fellows, harmless, but they never do anything'," says the Rev. Mr. Courrier, telling the story in his Methodist parsonage. "They complained too, that public officials wouldn't do anything."

Fast Work

In less than three weeks after the crusade was in full swing, the quiet and boyish minister directing the onslaught, with these accomplishments to show for it:

The roadhouse closed, following a raid by preacher and deputy sheriffs upon evidence gathered by the preacher's aides.

"Pete" the roadhouse orchestra leader, proclaiming his reformation by playing his accordion at the Sunday church service.

A series of "moral suasion" demonstrations in progress against the dance hall, with a promise of legal action if it didn't capitulate.

Virtually the whole community, church and non-church, an enthusiastic unit in backing the drive.

"You want to make it clear that this isn't my campaign, and that it isn't a church or Blue Law movement," says the minister. "It is a community affair.

Chance For All

"This is my fourth year here, and I've never done anything that smacked of the spectacular before. My work has been simply that of a country pastor, with the emphasis on social service. I will tell any young man, though, that if he has sincerity and energy and good will, he can electrify a community and become a dominating force there. He must simply believe in the inevitableness of good and in the possibilities of his personality."

The town veterinary surgeon, not conspicuously a churchman, expresses the attitude toward the aggressive pastor, by saying, "He's not like any preacher I ever saw before."

A WORLD'S BEAUTY IS FROM ALBANIA.

No Contest, But Hard Work and Outdoor Life Make Mrs. Rose Wilder Lane So Beautiful.

(By HORTENSE SAUNDERS)

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Albania, that little Balkan state tucked away behind the mountains and occupying a modest space on the map of the world, contains the most beautiful women on earth, according to Rose Wilder Lane, author and traveler, who has studied them for three years.

Here is Mrs. Lane's description of the type:

"Brown hair, hazel or blue eyes, tapering fingers, almond nails, delicate wrists, slender ankles and regal bearing."

That surely ought to arouse the interest of sculptors, producers of pretty girl revues, and connoiseurs of femininity.

"Their beauty is probably due in some measure to their out-door life," Mrs. Lane attempts to explain. "They walk up the mountains with cradles on their backs, carry heavy burdens on their heads and work very hard."

But it is almost necessary to make the trip to Albania to see these Venuses, because the Albanian woman is not a traveler and she does not marry outside her own race. No matter where the Albanian man may go, he returns to his native land for his bride.

Cave Man Stuff

Speaking of brides, Mrs. Lane recounts some queer marriage customs in the isolated regions.

"On the day of her wedding the bride is carried screaming and struggling to her husband's house," she relates. "Her brothers deliver her to her husband at a place midway between the lands of the two tribes.

"When she arrives at her husband's home she takes a humble place in the corner, standing, her hands folded and her lovely eyes downcast, for three days and nights, and is offered nothing to eat or drink.

"On the third day she puts on the heavy belt that means she is a wife and goes about the household obeying the commands of her elders, standing until they tell her to sit, caring for the fire, lighting cigarets for the men and making herself generally useful."

Progress Shown

On the other hand, the women of Albania have made some of the most recent contributions to the progress of their country, Mrs. Lane adds. They were instrumental in fomenting the revolution which resulted in the right to use the Latin alphabet in the schools. Up to 1919 the Turks allowed no schools in this country, but today Mrs. Christo Dake and Mrs. Kirias, two ardent feminists, have organized a large and flourishing girl's school at Korchia.

Another Albanian woman, educated in America, has organized a class in baby care which meets every morning. She is introducing into this faraway country American methods of sanitation and hygiene.

"Not only are the Albanian women eager to learn new and better ways of living, but the men approve," Mrs. Lane concludes. "Given a chance to recover from the horrors of wars and the oppressions they have suffered, the Albanian women will receive the recognition and the admiration that is their due."

Mrs. Lane so admires the intelligence, honor and friendliness of the Albanians that she intends to return to that country and make it her home.

COCOA COLA CO. LTD.

William M. Brownlee is Appointed Managing Director

The formation of the Coco-Cola Company, of Canada, Ltd., and the election of William M. Brownlee, formerly president of the Cable Piano Company, as managing director, are announcements made by the head office at Toronto. The new company will begin to function January 1st.

The Coca-Cola Company Ltd., has an investment in the Dominion of more than $4,000,000. It carries on its rolls more than 300 employees in connection with its twenty-two offices. Included in the announcement is the election of Claud Duncan as secretary and assistant treasurer.

In the opinion of the head office the years 1924 promises to be the biggest year for Coca-Cola since it was first established in Canada more than ten years ago.

In Canada Mr. Brownlee will supervise the four manufacturing plants located at Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver, and the eighteen bottling plants located at Belleville, Hamilton, Kingston, London, Ottawa, Peterboro, Port Arthur, Windsor, Chatham, Ontario; Brandon, Manitoba; Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Alberta; Moose Jaw, Regina, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan; Nanaimo, British Columbia; Quebec, Quebec.

MAN BELIEVED TO BE A MANIAC ON RAMPAGE

FORT WILLIAM, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Armed with a two bitted axe and howling like a wild beast, Tony Krusiski, believed to be a maniac, drove the operator from his office at Conmee, Jct., near here Wednesday and held building for more than two hours. While a attacking force, consisting of operator and sectionmen battled for two hours to regain control of the little junction house, despatches and traffic were interfered with. Finally section crew resorted to ancient tactics and a battering ram war brought into play. Door was smashed in, and Krusiski jammed behind it. Spikes were driven trough the door, and the insane man was practically crated until the police arrived from Fort William.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

THE GINGERBREAD MAN

"Now if I only had my other eye, I'd be as good as new."

It was the middle of the night in Daddy Gander Land, and everybody was asleep, or should have been.

It was perfectly evident that someone was alseep, however, for such snorings you never heard.

But the Twins were so tired after their long journey in the magic dust-pan, and after the excitement of Mister and Missez Sprat's visit, they didn't hear a thing. Each one slept on his funny little bed in the funny little Christmas-tree house, as though his life depended on it.

But it is queer how great big sounds won't waken us sometimes, and very little sounds do.

Something was squeaking!

Nancy opened her eyes and sat up in bed, and then Nick opened his eyes and sat up. It was very dark everywhere, but Daddy Gander, kind old fellow that he was, kept lanterns hung at all the street corners in Daddy Gander Land, and one teeny, weeny ray came across Bo Peep's front yard and in at one of the side windows of the Christmas-tree house.

Neither of the Twins said a word, but just listened and looked.

By and by they heard a rustle and another squeak and then they saw the waste-basket move. The first thing they knew the waste-basket fell over with a plop! And out fell a little gray mouse. He began to pull and tug at something, and by the dim light of the lantern, the Twins made out the lumpy form of a ginger bread-man.

Somebody had taken a bite out of the ginger-bread-man. A whole foot was missing. Also one raisin eye. But the rest of him was all there and he was twice as big as the mouse. Mister Mouse was having a time of it.

Daddy Gander had stuck his head in after he had said good-night. "You don't mind if I leave my magic dust-pan here till morning, do you, my dears?" he said. And he laid it carefully on the hearth right beside the waste-basket.

The mouse gave an extra hard tug, and the gingerbread-man gave a flop and landed right in the middle of the dust-pan.

Instantly a wonderful thing happened. The ginerbread-man began to come alive. Then he stepped off the magic dust-pan. Or rather he hopped off, for one foot was gone. But then, his legs were baked together so one foot was as good as two, anyway. And the little mouse got scared and ran away.

"Now if I only had my other eye," he said merrily, "I'd be as good as new.

"Oh, I'll fix that!" cried Nancy. And she jumped out of bed and ran to the cupboard and, got another raisin. "I'll stick it in with a little sirup," she said.

"Thank you!" said the gingerbread-man. "And now do you and your brother want to help me to do something?"

"We sure do!" cried Nick, jumping out of bed and reaching for his clothes.

OH, PARDON US!

"Terribly rough, isn't it?" she observed, as the roadster jolted over the road.

"But I just shaved this evening, dear," he replied.—Ohio Sun Dial.

LONDON WARS ON NARCOTICS

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(Associated Press).—The efforts of Scotland Yard authorities to stamp out illicit traffic in narcotics are proving successful. It was announced during the course of a case at Marlborough Police Court that, thanks to the strenuous police campaign, the traffic in London is being suppressed.

Many captures of "traffickers" have recently been made and scores of prosecutions in police courts have been the means of checking the sale of the drugs.

COOLIDGE GOVERNMENT ATTACKED BY JOHNSTON

Californian Senator Opens Campaign For Republican Nomination By Broadside Against the Administration.

FOR SOLDIERS' BONUS

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 4—Senator Hiram Johnson, California, opened his campaign last night for the Republican Presidental nomination in the United States, with a fiery speech in which he turned all the power of his oratory against the present Republican administration.

He berated the Coolidge Government, attacked its foreign policy, reiterated his stand for a soldier bonus warned the people to look carefully into the Mellon taxation plan, advocated help for the farmers by the lowering of freight rates and through co-operative societies, and wound up with a bitter attack on the League of Nations and the International Court of Justice.

In addition he threw down the gauntlet to the Ohio Republican State Central Committee, which endorsed President Coolidge for the presidental nomination. Despite the action of the committee, Senator Johnson said he would place his name before the delegates at the Ohio primaries. He also announced his intention of contesting the nomination in the Alabama primaries.

Support Tyranny.

In attacking the United States Government for its decision to sell arms to Mexico, Senator Johnson declared that in effect the Government had told the people inhabiting this continent, "if you dare fight for what you deem right, if you raise your hand against oppression or wrong, the most powerful nation of the nation will come to the aid of those you think your oppressors and will maintain existing power." He pointed out that the United States was born through revolution.

"To-day this country allies itself with war in Mexico," he continued. "Where are the leagues to maintain peace?"

The California senator then opened his guns on the foreign policy of the United States.

He said the recent message of the President, said, "We attend to our own affairs," but in deeds the United States attends to the affairs of its neighbouring nation, (Mexico), and to the affairs of the nations of Europe."

"A foreign policy," said the senator, "that says the League of nations is a closed incident and then attempts to take us into a part of that League constitutes a record of foreign policy which needs the obscuring screen of a tax-reduction scheme."

The Mellon Plan.

Here Senator Johnson declared that the Mellon taxation proposal was "carefully prepared propaganda," and would in the end benefit the wealthy far more than the citizen with a small income. He declared that he would reduce the taxation wherever possible but would recognize "men of great riches have a happy faculty for looking out for themselves. Those of small incomes and small busines have to rely upon their representative."

In speaking of the bonus, Senator Johnson said that with few exceptions, the bonus had been promised by leaders of the Republican Party. He declared that the adjusted Compensation Bill for men who saw service during the Great War could be passed and taxes reduced at the same time, despite the assertion of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that the proposed reduction in taxes could not be carried out if the bonus bill were passed.

The California Senator brought his heaviest artillery to bear on the proposed entrance of the United States into the International Court of Justice.

Not a World Court.

"We cannot enter this creature of the League, without ultimately being entangled with the League itself," he said, "It is not a world court we are asked to enter. It is the League of Nations Court. It is a mistake to call it a world court, and a misnomer to call it a court at all. x x x x x x It cannot right a wrong committed by one of the powerful nations of Europe because the offending nation can refuse to come before it and then the matter is ended. x x x x x The peace of the world cannot be, in the slightest degree, affected by it, except so far as the nations themselves agree.

"There is just one reason for our entry into the League Court and this is our entry will finally take up into the League."

"This country never has and never will be isolated from the rest of the world. In business, in finance, socially and commercially we are not isolated from Europe. There is just one sort of isolation which has been ours, and upon which we now insist. It is the isolation from the quarrels, controversies, the selfishness, the intrigue and the wars of Europe. No other isolation was ever brought of, and none could ever occur."

THE FLOWER LADY FROM BELVIDERE.

The Wonderful Flowers Made By Coralyn Tefft Are Worn All Over the World.

BELVIDERE, Ill., Jan. 4.— More than likely, those beautiful silk, velvet or tinsel flowers that add the finishing touch to your party frock come from this little Illinois town. If so, the yare the product of the genius and enterprise of Mrs Coralyn Tefft, known ts "The Flower Lady of Belvidere."

In her romantic old colonial home Mrs Tefft gathers her group of girls and fashions these artificial blooms. The perfumes still float in from the wonderful garden about the house, where nature's blossoms form models for those Mrs. Tefft makes for the trade.

Mrs. Tefft started twisting bits of bright colored silk into flower forms when she was recovering from an illness. A small clientele in Belvidere gradually grew into one of the largest in the country: Now 50 workers help her get out 300 varieties of decorative flowers.

Her knowledge of flowers has helped her design garden settings for many plays and embellish costumes of actresses and singers.

Her flowers are worn by women in China, Japan, Australia and Europe, as well as this country.

"At first the question of getting the proper colors in silks and velvets was my problem, but by painting white silk I was able to get my effects. I have been told I was the first tinter to secure color effects in this manner," says Mrs. Tefft.

CROP REPORTS

The following is a summary of returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

Fall wheat is now covered by a few inches of snow in most localities and was looking well when blanketed. The general opinion is that with an ordinary season the crop ought to winter in good shape.

Several representatives express the opinion that live stock were on the grass too long this fall, and that cattle are only now getting into fit form for wintering. There is a good supply of fodders, generally speaking, to carry all classes of live stock over the winter.

During December there was more demand than usual for help on the farm, and men were herd to procure. Farmers, generally speaking, are not now asking much assistance, being willing to pull through in almost any way until the spring rush comes on. Farmers in Prince Edward County are offering $200 to $300 for single men and $400 with house, milk, fuel and garden for married men. Very few will give $500 per year, unless it is for especially good men.

Prince Edward.—Several farmers were noticed plowing sod on Dec. 26th, and in the opinion of the oldest farmers, never has so much fall plowing been completed as was the case this fall.

Kent.—This has been a very bad fall for husking corn. There has been a heavy rainfall which has not given the corn a chance to get completely dried. The season for corn was rather short this year, due to the backward weather in the spring at planting time, and early frost which injured the corn about the 17th of September. A great deal of it did not mature. The percentage of moisture in the corn is very high this year, and corn that is intended for seed and is left in the field after we have had severe frosts, will naturally give a low germination test. We expect to see seed corn prices very high next spring.

Lennox and Addington.—The season has been very favorable for cutting brush around the fences and cleaning up the farm generally, and as a result, considerable of this work has been done by farmers, in various parts of the country. A large quantity of wood has been prepared for market and farmers report a very busy time.

Elgin.—More tile than usual being put in this fall. The work on the farm was done up early, and the help turned to putting in tile drains.

Bruce.—A carload of common work horses, weighing from 1,000 to 1,600 pounds which were purchased for the bush, some of which were not yet broken, were shipped recently. It is understood that the owners realized from $85 to $160 each. Some good heavy horses are for sale but there does not seem to be much demand for this type of horse at present. There has been very little movement in live stock lines during the week. The slump is dressed poultry prices has caused the holding of a considerable quantity of poultry, which will be marketed later in January. There is, however, a stronger undertone in the dressed poultry market toward the end of this week. Turkeys have advanced from 22c. per pound to 23c. and 28c. Chickens are somewhat stronger while geese and ducks remain approximately the same.

Prince Edward.—New milk cows and springers are in keen demand and drovers from Western Ontario have been buying cows for shipment.

Lennox and Addington.—Very few beef cattle are being finished in the county this winter. A number of farmers who usually buy feeders on the Toronto market and finish them off during the winter have gone out of the business. Some plan to go up to Toronto about February and possibly buy a carload or two.

Peterboro.—At local auction sales this fall stock has been selling rather cheap. Cows at $30 to $80; heifers, $20 to $40; cows which a year ago were selling around $50 to $60 have sold from $18 up.

Leeds.—Considerable demand for good milch cows due to freshen in a few weeks time at prices from $60 to $70.

Victoria.—Feeders claim that at present prices for fat cattle there is no money in the business.

Carleton.—A number of farmers have stated they are cutting down on the numbers of brood sows as they are losing money at present prices of hogs. Some prefer to sell their grain instead of feeding.

Peterboro.—Most of the cheese factory patrons cows are now dry, though more farmers are having their cows freshened in the fall and early winter, and the shipping of milk and cream is becoming more general. Whole milk is worth $2 per cwt. at the present time.

Kenora.—So far this winter there has been very little teaming done owing to the scarcity of snow and frost, muskegs are still unfrozen and several of the lakes have only a thin coating of ice which holds up the work greatly.

WHEN SILENCE IS BLISS.

"Sam, do you solemnly swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth?"

"Ah does, sah."

"Well, Sam, what have you got to say for yourself?"

"Jedge, wif all dem limitations you jes' put on me, Ah don't believe Ah has anything at all to say."

CARTOONING PASTOR "DRAWS" SOULS TO SALVATION

Once Was Newspaperman Who Abandoned Calling To Work For God—Uses Pictures to Illustrate Sermons.

REV. ERNEST J. PACE (ABOVE) AND A SPECIMEN OF ONE OF HIS CARTOON SERMONETTES.

CANTON, O., Jan. 4. — Rev. Ernest J. Pace here literally is drawing souls to salvation.

Folks hereabout call him the "cartooning minister."

Once a newspeprman, Rev. Pace abandoned journalism to work for God.

But his old training as an artist on publications in Chicago and other cities continues to stand him in good stead.

His Sunday sermons are illustrated with magic lantern slides made from cartoons of his own creation.

These are thrown on a screen near the pulpit in First United Brethern church of which has charge.

Bible lessons for little folks in Sunday school are similarly portrayed.

"Once I drew pictures of murder scenes and political aspirants in the old days of newspaper work when there were no photograhers to handle assignments,' he says.

"But after meeting a righteous man in Chicago who was living happily in the ways of God I decided to follow in his footsteps and entered the ministry.

"That was in 1899.. Since then I have employed my talents for the Master alone.

"I am very happy. I would have no other calling."

XXXI. (Continued)

"I've been devoted to quite a number of girls, first and last, but there's really been nothing in it on either side. I know what you're driving at. Shoot."

"Yes, Jim said he told you. Well, I've changed my mind. Janet's a little fool, perhaps worse. Not half good enough for you. She would defil the life out of you before you got rid of her in self defense. Let her hoe her own row. How about that writing person, Gora Dwight, you and Din are always talking about?"

"Never been the ghost of a flirtation. She's all intellect and ambition. I enjoy going there for I'm almost as much at home with her as I am with you."

"Ha! Harmless. I hope she's as flattered as I am. There remains Anne Goodrich. She's handsome, true to her traditions in every way—Marian Lawrence is a hussy unless I'm mistaken and I usually am not—she has talent and she has cultivated her mind. She will have a fortune and would make an admirable wife in every way for an ambitious and gifted man. More pliable than Marian, too. You're as tyrannical and conceited as all your sex and would never get along with any woman who wasn't clever enough to pretend to be submissive while twisting you around her little finger. I rather favor Anne."

Clavering was beginning to feel uneasy. What was she leading up to? Who next? But he replied with a humorous smile:

"Dearest Lady Jane! Why are you suddenly determined to marry me off? Are you anxious to get rid of me? Marriage plays the very devil with friendships."

"Only for a year or so. And I really think it is time you were settling yourself. To tell you the truth I worry about you a good deal. You're a sentimental boy at heart and chivalrous and impressionable, although I know you think you're a seasoned old rounder. Men are children, the cleverest of them, in a scheming woman's hands."

"But I don't know any scheming women and I'm really not as irresistible as you seem to think. Besides, I assure you, I have fairly keen intuitions and should run from any unprincipled female who thought it worth while to cast her nets in my direction."

"Intuitions be damned. They haven't a chance against beauty and finesse. Don't men as clever as yourself make fools of themselves over the wrong woman every day in the week? The cleverer a man is the less chance he has, for there's that much more to play on by a cleverer woman. It would be just like you to fall in love with a woman older than yourself and marry her—"

"For God's sake, Jane, cut out my fascinating self! It's a subject that bores me to tears. Fire away about Janet. How long's she been shut up? What will Jim do next? I'll do my best to persuade him to take her round the world. He'd enjoy it himself for there are clubs in every port and some kind of sport. I'll look him up tomorrow."

Mrs. Oglethorpe gave him a sharp look but surrendered. When he shouted "Jane" at her in precisely the same tone as he often exploded "Jim" to her son, she found herself suddenly in a mood to deny him nothing.

XXXII.

They went up to her sitting room to spend the rest of the evening. It was a large high room overlooking the park and furnished in massive walnut and blood-red brocade; a room as old-fashioned and ugly as its mistress but comfortable withal. On a table in one corner was an immense family Bible, very old, and recording the births, marriages, and deaths of the Van den Poeles from the time they began their American adventures in the seventeenth century. On another small table in another corner was a pile of albums, the lowest containing the first presentments of Mrs. Oglethorpe's family after the invention of calotype photography. These albums re-corded fashion in all its stages from 1841 down to the sport suit, exposed legs and rolled stockings of Janet Oglethorpe; a photograph her grandmother had sworn at but admitted as a curiosity.

One of the albums was devoted to the friends of Mrs. Oglethorpe's youth, and Mary Ogden occupied the place of honor. Clavering had once derived much amusement looking over these old albums and listening to Mrs. Oglethorpe's running and often sarcastic comment; but although he had recalled to mind this photograph the night Mr. Dinwiddie had been so perturbed by the stranger's resemblance to the flame of his youth, he had, himself, been so little interested in Mary Ogden that it had not occurred to him to disinter that old photograph of the eighties and examine it in detail. He turned his back squarely on it tonight, although he had a misgiving that it was not Janet who had inspired Mrs. Oglethorpe's singular note.

On one wall was a group of daguerreotypes, hideous but rare and valuable. An oil painting of James Oglethorpe, long dead, hung over the fireplace; an amiable looking gentleman with long side whiskers sprouting out of plump cheeks, a florid complexion, and the expression of a New Yorker who never shirked his civic obligations, his chairmanships of benevolent institutions, nor his port. Opposite was another oil painting of young James taken at the age of twelve, wearing a sailor suit and the surly expression of an active boy detained within walls while other boys were shouting in the park. Beside it was a water color of Janet at the age of two, even then startlingly like her grandmother. She had been Mrs. Oglethorpe's favorite descendant until the resemblance had become too accentuated by modern divagations.

Clavering did not extend himself on the sofa tonight but drew a leather chair (built for Mr. Oglethorpe) to the small coal grate, which inadequately warmed the large room. Mrs. Oglethorpe, like many women of her generation, never indulged her backbone save in bed, and she seated herself in her own massive upright chair not too close to the fire. She had made a concession to time in the rest of the house, which was lighted by electricity, but the gas remained in her own suite, and the room was lit by faint yellow flames struggling through the ground-glass globes of four-s de brackets. The light from the coals was stronger, and as it fell on her bony austere old face with its projecting beak, Clavering reflected that she needed only a broomstick. He really loved her, but a trained faculty works as impersonally as a camera.

He smoked in silence and Mrs. Oglethorpe stared into the fire. She, too, was fond of her cigar, but tonight she had shaken her her as Hawkins had offered the box, after passing the coffee. Her face no longer looked sardonic, but relaxed and sad. Clavering regarded her with uneasy sympathy. Would it be possible to divert her mind?

"Lady Jane," he began.

"I wish you would call me Jane tonight. I wouldn't feel so intolerably old."

"Of course I'll call you Jane, but you'll never be old. What skeleton have you been exhuming?" He was in for it and might as well give yer a lead.

"It's Mary Ogden," she said abruptly and harshly.

"Oh—I wondered how you felt about it. You certainly have been splendid——"

"What else could I do? She was the most intimate friend of my youth, the only woman I ever had any real affection for. I had already seen her and recognized her. I suppose she has told you that I went there and that she treated me like an intruding stranger. But I knew she must have some good reason for it—possible that she was here on some secret political mission and had sworn to preserve her incognito. I knew she had been mixed up in politics more than once. I thought I was going mad when I saw her, but I never suspected the truth. The light was dim and I took for granted that some one of those beauty experts had made a mask for her, or ripped her skin off—I hardly knew what to think, so I concluded not to think about it at all, and succeeded fairly well in dismissing it from my mind. I was deeply hurt at her lack of confidence in me, but I dismissed that, too. After all it was her right. I do as I choose, why shouldn't she? And I remembered that she always did."

Here Clavering stirred uneasily.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Prices on some bonds are too high for the average individual because competition among savings banks bids up the market.

Different states have various laws out'lining the conditions under which a bond must qualify before it is a 'ega' investment for savings banks in that state. Since the banks are limited in the type of bonds which they can buy, competition among the banks is likely to raise the price on these legal bonds.

For instance, several gilt edge railroad bonds are legal investments for savings banks in fourteen states. Consequently they sell on a basis to yield about 4½ per cent., or at about the same rate as some of the liberty bonds.

Judging by the market price there are not enough of these bonds to supply the demand from the banks. Why should an individual bid for them too, even though he is investing primarily for safety?

AMERICAN DOLLAR IS MORE THAN 20 FRANC

PARIS, Jan. 4. — (Canadian Press).—The United States dollar for the first time on record was officially quoted yesterday at over twenty francs. It opened at 20.25 and closed at 20.53. The explanation that the year-end needs were the cause of the franc's weakness appears insufficient to the Temps, which also attaches no great influence to the fall of the pound sterling.

As regards the dollar, the Temps argues that importers and exporters are by necessity speculators in exchange, and, as the commercial transactions of 1923 exceeded 60,000,000,000 francs, their more or less forced speculation was bound to have a considerable effect.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

KITCHEN TOOLS

Do you ever take an inventory, so to speak, of your kitchen utensils and weed out the old and worthless to make way for the new and necessary?

It's quite as important for the housekeeper to have a full set of good tools as it is for the carpenter or plumber.

Sharp knives, broad blunt knives, stiff knives, limber knives, one long two-tined fork, one short three-tined fork, assorted spoons, a pair of scissors are as necessary in the kitchen as the bits and chisels and saws and hammers are in the carpenter's tool chest. And the housekeeper uses her tools three times a day, 365 days in the year, rain or shine.

A nicked or bent-edged paring knife is worthless in the kitchen, so throw it away and invest in a good steel knife that will stand sharpening and then take care of it. A paring knife is a delicate tool and should not be used for scraping pots and pans nor prying off refractory lids. If you pay a good price for a stainless steel paring knife with a sharp, easily turned edge designed specially for paring and then abuse it you are throwing your money away. Don't cut down on a hard surface with a paring knife. For instance, when mincing parsley, put the parsley on a small board rather than an old plate or saucer.

Keen Edge

If you would keep your temper dull, keep your paring knife sharp. A sharp knife is an economical device in that thinner parings can be taken in less time, thereby saving both time and food.

A long, thin case-knife with a round end is valuable for cutting butter, spreading sandwiches or toast, putting on some kinds of cake frostings, cleaning vegetables and the like. Very often in cooking the stiffness of a case-knife makes it possible to loosen some tiny corner which has stuck and won't yield to the spatula. After gently prying loose with the case-knife, slip the spatula under to turn without breaking.

And no woman can keep house without one of these long, broad, limber spatulas. They are used for turning pancakes, potato cakes, meat balls, fish, any vegetable or meat that is to be browned on top of the stove. The flexibility of the blade makes it possible to slip it under a cake in the pan to remove it without breaking. Or run under the contents of a mold.

Economical, Too

When you are baking cookies you will use the spatula to remove them from the molding board and again to remove them from the pan and again to remove the last bit of dough from the mixing bowl. A light, fluffy cake frosting is spread with the spatula and the last trace of the frosting is removed from the platter or bowl with this same tool. A spatula will save many times its cost just by being the means of using every bit of batter or frosting of pudding or omelet or anything which must be mixed in a bowl.

A wooden spoon is essential for creaming butter and sugar and beating stiff mixtures.

A slotted spoon is convenient for beating cakes, stirring gravies and sauces, or beating mashed potatoes if a wooden masher has been used.

A long-tined and long-handled fork is an insurance against burned fingers for oven use.

A wire whisk is as necessary as a dover beater. And the joy of having two sizes of dover beaters must be experienced to be appreciated. Very often it is quite important to beat the tolk of one egg. Every housekeeper knows the futility of trying to beat one egg in a bowl large enough to hold the ordinary dove beater.

There's a Difference

Egg whites cannot be beaten for a souffle or meringue with a dover beater. A whisk must be used. A whisk is also excellent for beating sauces while cooking to insure smoothness and prevent the necessity of straining.

Do not put the cogs of a dove beater in water when washing and be sure the beaters are dry before putting away. A whisk should be rinsed immediately after using to prevent sticking and make sure perfect cleanliness.

A sharp, thin-bladed knife for cutting bread and cakes should be kept for these purposes only. The knife should not be put with other kitchen knives and forks but placed where it will not be nicked or rubbed to dull its edge.

With reasonable care good knives will last for years and add much to the pleasure of cooking.

UNUSUAL DOINGS AT ROBERT FAIR CO'S.

Announcement of a Surplus Stock Sale of Rare Magnitude Extending 10 Days.

Its a long time since Robert Fair Co. has announced a sale of the importance of the one advertised in their large space on the back page today. A little too generous provision for the expected large season's selling, which was not forthcoming to the looked for extent owing to the continued mild, backward season, left too great a surplus on shelves and racks of the store's usual fine showing of winter weight goods and clothing. Now, all expectation of profits has been abandoned and the surplus stock is offered to an appreciative public at such sweeping price reductions as are sure to effect the desired speedy clearance.

Fair's store does not often attempt anything quite so drastic as this sale promises but the public know what to expect in the way of genuine savings, when they do make such an announcement. The sale opens Saturday morning and will continue for 10 days.

COLD MEAT.

When you have any small pieces of cold meat left from a meal remember they can be chopped and used in an omelet or combined with rice and tomatoes and used for a scalloped dish.

INDIAN MASSACRE OF INTEREST HERE

George Gladman and George M. Goodfellow Are Descendants of Principal Actors in Drama.

Several of Peterboro's present residents have an interest in an echo or the long-ago days of the early Canadians which is found in the January issue of "Rod and Gun in Canada", where, in simple language, is told the tale of how an isolated Hudson's Bay post was destroyed by the Indians in the year of 1819. At that time, as the writer, Martin Hunter, explains, news was not the matter of a few hours' publication to the world, as it is now. "In those days, officers and servants of the Hudson Bay company, when leaving or going out on leave of absence, used to speak of Canada as if it were a foreign country. Even down to early in the seventies, several years after the Company had ceded its rights to the new dominion, I have heard old gentlemen in the service say they were going out to Canada next year or that such and such was the news in the last papers they got from Canada." By degrees they became accustomed to the fact that, no matter how far off they were situated, they lived in Canada, and that the vast territories of the Company had been absorbed into the Dominion of Canada."

Directly connected with the retribution which followed the massacre of the whites by the Indians was Mr. George Gladman, grandfather of George Gladman of this city. Mr. Gladman was at that time chief factor and officer in charge at Moose Factory, situated one hundred and twenty miles away from Hanna Bay, a small post of the Hudson Bay Company, and an indentation of James Bay. At Hanna Bay, in the year 1819, a gentleman of the Company named Corrigal was in charge. His family, a clerk, and several servants, with their families, made up a total of eighteen souls which comprised the colony at the small post. The Indians who traded their furs at the place, after several secret councils held among themselves in the interior, conceived a plot to kill the inhabitants, pillage the place, await the arrival of the ship which stopped here on its way to Moose Factory, take it by surprise, and sail away and take England, the place from which all beautiful goods were obtained.

At New Year's time, the Indians were in the habit of visiting the post and trading their furs, and it was while engaged in ladling out the half-pint of rum bestowed on each hunter, after the feast at the post, to carry away and drink in the wigwam, that the massacre began with the killing of Mr. Corrigal and his assistant. In the butchery which followed, George Wright, also left for dead by the savages, was the only survivor. With his right leg shattered below the knee, he managed to make his way over the hundred and twenty miles that separated the place from Moose Factory. Here orders were given to the chief factor, Mr. Gladman, to pursue the Indians. A band of fourteen men set out, and, after traveling on the trail for three days, caught up with the savages, took four prisoners and shot the rest, who resisted capture. One of the prisoners was slain later by a half-breed, Bouchard, who cleft his brain with an ice chisel as he entered the stockade with the others. Bouchard, who was inflamed by the death of his sister, one of the victims of the massacre, also volunteered and acted as hangman for the execution of the remaining three, which took place on the first Friday in August of the following year, 1820.

The last surviving witness of the terrible drama, Mary Matt, an Indian girl who followed her father, the man who was killed by Bouchard, when he was brought back to the post, died some years ago at the age of ninety years, at Jackfish Bay, Lake Superior.

An article published in The Examiner some months ago, referring to the death of Robert Scollie in Fort William, contained a reference to the Corrigal family, relatives of the massacred Hudson Bay factor. A niece of Mr Corrigal married Robert Scollie in 1834, going in 1841 to Cobourg to live. Their son, Robert, came to live in Peterboro in 1895, removing in 1901 to Fort William, where he died in the summer of 1922. Relatives of Robert Scollie and the Corrigal family still living in this vicinity include Mrs. John Morgan of Union street, Mrs. Jas. Wilson and R. J. Scollie of Otonabee, Mrs. Harry Young and Mrs. J. R. Goodfellow, Bonacord street.

HOME BANK STILL NEED MORE MONEY

Call on Shareholders to Give Amount of Money Equal to Their Shares.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.— (Canadiain Press).—Number of the Home Bank shareholders have retained R. A. Reid, Barrister, Toronto, for the purpose of fighting in the law courts any attempt which may be made by liquidators to enforce payment of double liabilitiy before it is proved by legal evidence in court that there is such deficiency of property and assets which connot be collected and realized upon from debtors of the Bank as makes it necessary to call on share-holders for an amount of money equal of their shares.

Mr. Reid claims that under law there must be complete realization and accounting of all property, assets of and debts due and owing to Bank before any such demand can be legally made upon shareholders under the Bank Act. This will necessitate an immediate examination of all Bank officers and liquidators before a special court examiner for discovery, and also production of a complete detailed and itemized statement of all debtors owing money to the Bank and the amounts, as well as an accounting of all its assets and resources as realized and existing.

ELECTRIC WELDING IS A WOMAN'S JOB.

Frail Women Are Making a Big Success at This Electric Machine Business.

WARREN, O., Jan. 4. — O new business trail has been blazed by Mrs. Zella McBerty.

Manufacturing and selling electric welding machines seems rather out of a woman's province, but when you hear Mrs. McBerty talk ohms and amperes as well as any electrical engineer you realize there is hardly a business realm that a capable woman cannot invade.

Mrs. McBerty started in the business world at 16. She can run a lathe, shaper or any machine tool, as well as her own workmen. When in 1911 she and her husband decided to invest their capital of $5000 in the manufacture of electric welding machines she undertook to run the shop and office while he went on the road.

This partnership proved so successful that in seven years they sold out for $200,000.

Hard-headed business men recognized the ability of this woman who looks as if she would be far more at home in a candle-lighted, flower-scented drawing-room than in a noisy, oily machine shop, and made her secretary and treasurer of the new company. Her successful handling of all of the money affairs of this large corporation proves a woman can develop financial acumen.

"Up to the present," says Mrs. McBerty, "I have never sold a machine to a firm or individual that could not pay for it. I consider my instinct to judge people and credits is the time-honored quality of intuition which is an asset women are bringing into the business world. It doesn't make nay difference what you build or how much you sell—unless you get paid for it you cannot stay in bnsiness.

CHIPPED DISHES

Aside from the appearance, there are hygienic reasons why cracked and chipped dishes should not be used. Thes, rough surfaces make an excellent place for bacterial growth. A set of white enamel dishes and plates for the kitchen is a great aid to cleanliness.

VENIZELOS HAS REACHED GREECE

One Time Premier Not Very Optimistic Over the Outlook.

ATHENS, Jan. 4.—United Press—Former Premier Veniezlos returned to-day to the country that once banished him. Along the same road he traversed guarded by armed followers, when he departed from Greece in 1920, Venizelos came back to Athens in triumph.

In his first statement after his arrival, the former Premier said.

"I shall remain until a solution that is based upon the will of the nation has been reached."

Venizelos who was recalled to Greece following the successes of his followers and of Republicans in the elections and the expulsion of the Greek sovereigns arrived off Phaleron aboard the liner Andros.

Colonel Plastiras, former head of the military directorate who has resigned Wednesday, went fifteen miles out to sea to meet him, with the auxiliary cruiser Tenedos.

After the two strong men of Greece had exchanged greetings and Colonel Plastiras had explained the situation and the changes that had occurred since Venizelos sailed from Marseilles Sunday, the latter transferred to the Tenedos and disembarked at New Phaleron, whence he motored to Athens.

Venizelos refused to make detailed statement but from his general remarks to Col. Plastiras, head of the revolutionary committee and several officers and newspapermen, who met him, it is inferred that he does not take a very optimistic view of internal political situation.

He said he would carefully study the situation and that he would endeavor to help his country out of her difficulties.

RADIO NEWS

From time to time one comes across a rabid radio enthusiast who almost bursts if you mention anything about single circuit regenerative receivers in his hearing.

The remarks of the man who is opposed to this type of receiver are such as to make the noises of Old Man Static sound like the coo-ings from out of a dove-cote by comparison.

Yet there are more single circuit regenerative receivers in use than any other type and there must be a reason for it. The reason, according to radio authorities, is not hard to find.

Regeneration is equal to two stages of radio-frequency amplification and single circuit regenerative receivers are less expensive to buy and easier to operate than any other type of valve set, according to those who have made a deep study of all the sets now on the market. These are the reasons for the present popularity of the single circuit regenerative receiver-popularity which is more than likely to increase, they say.

Radio enthusiasts will go to almost any length to buy a good broad-cast receiver, but they are not so profligate as to spend their money on sets which are above the average in price without being above the average in performance, those in touch with the trade declare. Single circuit regenerative receivers fulfill all the requirements of the average radio enthusiast, who is out primarily for entertainment.

It is true, as its enemies claim, that the single circuit regenerative does cause some interference by oscillating back into the air over the receiving aerial when the amateur is trying to tune in a broadcast station. But this is momentary when the owner of the regenerative set has got past the tyro stage. The more expert the operator the less interference there will be according to radio engineers. Once the broadcasting station has been tuned in the oscillation and consequent interference cease altogether, they state.

By adding a secondary circuit to a receiver working on the regenerative principle the amount of oscillation in the aerial is greatly diminished, provided that the secondary circuit is properly adjusted.

But this secondary circuit has its disadvantages, as is the case with nearly all so-called "improvements." The secondary circuit weakens the signal strength to a certain extent and it also makes at least one and probably two extra adjustments of the dials, on the tuning panel necessary, it is pointed out.

Radio reception works on a set of basic principles which are fairly simple. It is only when attempts are made to add "frills" to the receiver that radio becomes complicated. Complication adds to cost of equipment and the difficulties of operation. It is because the single circuit regenerative receiver is so simple to use that radio authorities believe that its popularity is likely to continue unabated.

THE LABOR PARTY AND NATIONALISTS MAY JOIN TOGETHER

PRETORIA, South Africa, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press, via Reuter's).—The Labor party at its annual conference here to-day confirmed an agreement, tentatively entered into some time ago between the Labor and Nationalist parties of South Africa, the avowed object of which is to join forces to oust General Smuts from the Premiership and to prevent the Smuts Government profiting by three-cornered contests in the next general election. The South African Nationalist Congress in September last ratified a pact between the Nationalist and the Labor parties to unite in fighting the Smuts Government. The pact was first entered into between the leaders of the two parties last April.

Where 17 People Burned to Death

Ashes of the old frame building of the Chicago Hospital for the Insane at Dunning, Ill., in which 15 men, a woman and a child were burned to death just after Christmas. Investigators are shown groping among the rows of blackened iron bedsteads in the search for remains of the victims.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Short Session of the Division Court -- Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4.—The Division Court was held Thursday afternoon. Several important cases had to be postponed on account of illness, other cases were disposed of, thus making a short session.

Mr. Arnold Parsons, who lives with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Hormel at the paper mill, had an operation for appendicitis Wednesday, and is doing nicely. The doctors in attendance were Dr. H. B. Longmore and Dr. E. J. Free The patient was taken to Nurse O'Sullivan's hospital, on Church St., and the operation was performed there. Nurse O'Sullivan has just recently bought the large stone house on the hill, and has had it equipped for a hospital. This has been needed in town for a long time and the people of Campbellford will be glad to have hospital facilities so handy.

A letter of appreciation of the music on Christmas Sunday by the Methodist choir was sent to Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cowell by one of the members of the church. It was read to the choir at choir practice on Thursday night and every member was gratified.

Salvation Army midnight service on New Year's eve was well attended and all had a good time.

At the close of the old year the comrades and officers pledged themselves to God for greater service in the New Year and as the New Year dawned, one soul was kneeling at the penitent form.

Miss Helen Irwin, who spent her holidays at her home on Front Street, returned to Toronto on Thursday, where she is attending Toronto University.

Mrs. E. W. Gordon, late of town, but now living at Warkworth, went to Peterboro on Thursday night to see her husband who is in the Peterboro Hospital and has had another operation, on Thursday morning. Mr. Gordon has been ill for a long time and has had to have several operations.

Mrs. T. Locke, of Seymour, who has been spending a day or two with friends in Stirling returned to her home Thursday night.

Miss Ada Locke, teacher in Toronto, who spent her holidays at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. T. Locke, of Seymour, returned to her school on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. John Horseman, who has had poor health all summer, is confined to her bed these last few days and is seriously ill. Her sons have been sent for.

Mr. Hawes, paymaster of the Toronto Carpet Company, Toronto, is in town on a business trip for a couple of days.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Greig have returned to their home on Queen street after spending their holidays away. The High School, of which Mr. Greig is principal, opened on Thursday.

Miss Jenkins, of Montreal, is visiting at the home of her brother, A. J. Jenkins, Bridge street.

Mr. Leonard Parish, who spent his holidays visiting his aunt in the States, returned to town on Wednesday.

Mr. George Dickey, of Belleville, spent a few days this week with his mother, Mrs. M. Dickey.

Mrs. Aubrey Doxsee, of Peterboro, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. George Hormel, returned to her home on Thursday.

Mr. Jack Parsons, of Detroit, arrived on Wednesday to visit his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Hormel, and his brother, Mr. Arnold Parsons, who is ill.

Mr. Eddie Parsons, of Porcupine, New Ontario, is visiting at Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hormel's.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Phillips, on Garry street, spent a few days in Havelock and Mrs. Phillip's mother returned with them for a visit.

Misses Lizzie and Peg McLeod, of Appleton, who have been visiting their sister, Mrs. W. Hogg, Camrobert street, returned to their home on Friday.

Mr. David Robertson, a former resident of Campbellford, but now living in Montreal, is visiting his mother, Mrs. D. Robertson, and sister, Miss M. Robertson, on Queen street.

Miss Josie O'Connor, of Seymour, has returned to her school near Picton.

Miss Zeita Rellis, who spent her holidays at her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rellis, Front street, has returned to her school at Midland.

Miss Winnie Buckles, of Montreal, is spending her holidays at her home on Bridge street.

Miss Jennie Ballantyne returned to her school at Pickering on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Earl Haig, who has been ill so long, is better and able to sit up.

Mr. Allan Cameron, of Peterboro, made a business trip to town on Wednesday.

Judge Huycke, of Peterboro, who was in town on Thursday presiding at Division Court, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. C. W. Turner, Queen street.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Allen Pitt Receives Norman Allen Scholarship --Personals.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 4.—The certificate in connection with the "Dr. Norman Allen" scholarship won by Allen Pitt has been received and framed, and is now displayed in the window of Burnham Bros. store. It will be formally presented at the officizl opening of the school which, it is expected, will take place some time this month. The certificate bears the Millbrook Continuation School crest, which is shield-shaped and in the four spaces has at the top a maple leaf and in the other three the letters M. C. S., with underneath a scroll and the Latin motto, "Age, Quod, Agis." The certificate reads as follows:

"This is to certify that Allen Pitt, having completed the full course of instruction at the Millbrook Continuation School, and fulfilled the requirements set out in the Trust Deed founding the Dr. Norman Allen Scholarship to entitle him to the rank of "Head Boy" under terms of such deed, is hereby awarded such scholarship for the year 1923. In testimony whereof the Trustees of the School Board of said School have set their Corporate Seal, and the hands of their Chairman and Secretary this Fifteenth Day of Decemberh A. D. 1923.

CHARLES THORNDYKE,
Chairman.
A. A. SMITH,
Secretary.

The large red seal in the lower left hand corner bears round its edge, Union School Section, Cavan and Millbrook, No. 11, and in the centre, The Board of Public School Trustees.

There were lots of kiddies in the large audience which attended the movies at the town hall on New Year's eve, a special treat being provided by the management, N. Gilmour and staff, for their benefit. At the close of the regular film, "The Village Blacksmith," a real "Santa Claus" (H. Hunter), appeared on the stage and distributed bags of candy to every child present. The bells rang joyfully and children, and parents too, appreciated the thoughtfulness which made the pleasant occasion possible.

The management took this way of expressing their personal gratitude for the generous patronage which they had received for their special Christmas film, "The Prisoner of Zenda," which was very much enjoyed, and again on Monday evening when another good picture was presented. There were no movies on New Year's night as the management did not wish to conflict with the Sunday School anniversary entertainment in the Methodist church, always held on that evening. The executive of the school appreciated their withdrawal.

Miss M. Collins, accompanied by her two grand-nieces, Helen and Bernice Dunford, of Oshawa, spent the New Year's holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith.

Mrs. E. McConnell, and two children, Margaret and Bobby, of Toronto, are holidaying with her parents, Mr.and Mrs. H. Nattrass.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dawson arrived from their honeymoon trip to Ogdensburg, N. Y., on Wednesday. Mr. Dawson's school near Warsaw re-opens next week.

Miss Pearl Newton, of Toronto, was the guest of Mrs. E. S. Burnham during her stay here in connection with the Methodist Sunday School New Year's entertainment.

Rev. S. W. Dean, of Toronto, was the guest of Rev. S. T. and Mrs. Tucker at the parsonage over the week-end. Mr. Dean preached anniversary sermons in the Methodist church on Sunday. Rev. J. Wilks took Mr. Tucker's service at Zion in the afternoon, the latter having to conduct the funeral of the late Mr. John Mitchell, which took place from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Chester Fee, 7th Line, Cavan, at 1.30 p.m.

Mr. Arnold Raper, of Toronto, was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Raper, over the New Year.

The usual watch night service was held in St. Thomas church Sunday School Hall on New Year's eve beginning at 11 o'clock. Considering the stormy night the attendance was good. The rector, Rev. Canon Allen, assisted by the curate, Rev. M. G. B. Williams, conducted the very impressive service. The church bell and the town bell tolled the passing of the Old Year at midnight, and welcomed the coming of 1924 when the clock ceased striking.

LACK OF EVIDENCE FREED JAMES AKEY

Charged With Driving a Car While Intoxicated —Others Arraigned Were Fined.

James Akey, charged with being intoxicated while in charge of an automobile, was dismissed this morning on his appearance before Magistrate O .A .Langley. The reason for dismissal was lack of evidence, G. W. Hatton, K.C., Crown Attorney, conducted the prosecution and J. A. O'Brien appeared for the prisoner.

Akey, it was alleged, was intoxicated when he drove his car into an automobile owned by Sheriff J. A. Hall and driven by Mr. Hall's son James on Christmas afternoon. Several hundred dollars' damage was caused to Mr. Hall's car.

Three witnesses called by the prosecution this morning failed to declare positively that Akey was intoxicated. They smelled liquor, they admitted, but Akey acted in all ways as a reasonable man, and not as an intoxicated man. Chief Newhall decided it was useless to go on with the case, and the remaining witnesses for the prosecution were not called. No defence was entered.

Joseph Rylott was fined $5 and costs for cutting the corner at Charlotte and Water streets on Thursady, December 27. His car struck one driven by Charles Elliott.

Roy Wright was fined $10 and costs on a drunk charge.

BRITAIN WANTS RELEASE OF THE TOMAKA MEMBERS

Alleged Rum Runners Seized Last November Inside Three Mile Limit

LONDON, Jan. 4. —(Canadian Press).—Great Britain has asked United States for release from bail of British and Canadian members of crew of British schooner Tomaka, alleged rum runner seized last November, beyond three mile limit off New York.

The request for release of crew is being made through Henry G. Chilton, Charge D' Affairs in Washington, at instance of Canadian Government.

Further information also is being sought by British Government respecting circumstances attending the seizure of Tomako beyond three mile limit.

Investigation by British authorities, it is stated showed Tomaka to be of Canadian ownership and seized well outside three mile limit. While British officials here are entirely out of sympathy with liquor smuggling, they feel they have no alternative but to protect rights of British owned vessels outside traditional 3-mile radius, which they say must remain law, until new treaty extenring limit to one hours steaming distance from shore becomes effective.

RUBENS UP TO DATE

MUNICH (By Mail to United Press.)—The Old Pinakothek, famous art gallery here, has lost a Rubens masterpiece, has gained another, and the sucker hypothesis of P. T. Barnum has been modified.

Barnum believed there was one sucker born every minute. Professor Kinkelin, art critic of Munich, has dug up evidence tending to show that the sucker birth-rate is much higher.

Munich is one of the art centres of Germany. The Old Pinakothek is the chief art gallery at Munich. The Rubens collection is the most treasured section of the Old Pinakothek, and one of the finest pictures in the Rubens collection was that of his wife, Helen Fourment.

At the end of the year and a half of arduous erasing, Professor Kinkelin uncovered a brand-new picture of Helen under the one which had passed as her likeness. Rubens painted the original in 1635. Professor Kinkelin figures that about 120 years later, when Helen's style of fixing her hair had passed out, some ambitious owner of the picture, undertook to have it brought up to date. The painter not only changed the hair-dresing, but gave her a new complexion, and in general so altered her expression and position that Rubens probably would not have recognized the lady as his wife.

Finally, the renovated picture was put on display again, with a good copy of the old counterfeit hanging beside it.

FANNIE HURST RIGHT

Her "Separation Marriage" Still a Success

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Is woman's place in the home?

"No," answers Fannie Hurst, novelist and short story writer, and then modifies the negative with: "not necessarily" and "only partly so."

And she raises another question in reply. Why should two individuals be considered a pair, always as a couple, and never separately, after they marry?

The answer she gives herself:

"That isn't marriage; that's imprisonment. It's absurd."

The usual attitude, she believes, is much as if public opinion were sitting high up on its perch with a whip in its hand yelling:

"You two are running in tandem, and now by heaven, you run and run, even if one of you drops in the traces!"

Experiment No Longer

Now these opinions are radical enough to make the old-fashioned wife and mother raise her hands and shake her head, but what makes them particularly interesting just now is that they are held by a woman who has put her beliefs into practice, and found that they hold true—in her case, at any rate. Eight years ago Fannie Hurst embarked on an experiment designed to bring marriage without shackles. Three years ago Fannie Hurst embarked by announcing that for five year she had been married to Jacques S. Danielson, violinist and composer, and virtually none of her friends had suspected it. What made the announcement more interesting still was that she and Mr. Danielson had separate apartments.

"We decided that seven breakfasts a week opposite one another might prove irksome. Our average is two," she explained.

After eight years, the word "experiment" is wrong. When a thing has been found to work for eight years it may be called a fact, or a conviction, says Rose C. Feld, writing in the New York Times. But Miss Hurst is careful to explain that her solution is not the world's solution of the marriage problem. She is not inspired by the ardor of the reformer; she has simply been working out an individual problem. But she firmly believes that her solution will fit the problem of a great many other women. Its fundamental basis is maintaining illusion and keeping privacy and individuality.

"Maintaining the illusion of perfection is not a poet's dream, but a bilological requirement," she maintained. "We are not a monogamous race. We like to believe we are, but the honest person will admit the fallacy of the belief. We are a polygamous race. Monogamy, however, is conceded to be a good thing, for the social structure. Whether it is or not is not the point of this discussion. But granted that it is what is the thing that is going to make us happy in monogamous marriage? Illusion. Monogamy has to be pampered a bit; it has to be made to appear like a many-faceted jewel. A woman must be new to her mate, a man must be a not altogether known quantity to his. Neither can afford to let all the barriers fall.

"Mary is an individual. Her husband John is an individual. Their friends will admit that. Each has friends. Why in heaven's name should it be taken for granted by Mary's friends that John will always be glad to dine with them when it is with Mary that they have something in common? Of course when it comes to mutual friends it is different. But this business of always, always, being considered as a pair rather than as two individuals is stupid.

"Where are the old maids of 20 years ago? They're gone. They've become bachelor girls, working in offices, in studios, in shops, supporting themselves. They know economic independence. They're tasted blood and know red meat. What's more, they like it. And they're not going to give it up to spend their lives in taking care of a three-room apartment and doing nothing else."

And The Children

But the children? Miss Hurss didn't dodge the issue. "I wish I had children," she said. "I'd have a much stronger case. Yet I'll state it anyway. If a woman can sell insurance or run a paying beauty parlor or write a book the chances are 10 to one that she can hire vastly more efficient service to train her children than she could give them. Because I can paint a picture, let us say, does not mean I can bring up a child."

The maternal instinct she believes is not infallible. "It can kill the thing it loves. It's a terrible accusation to bring against a mother-but she can do more harm by spending herself on her children than she can by buying for them the trained mind that does not waste itself in useless puttering about a new problem."

Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. — (United Press).—Secretary Mellon's refusal to compromise on his tax proposal and President Coolidge's determination to back the bill as it stands furnished the stabilizing force in the early dealings in the Stock Market and stocks recovered somewhat from the selling movement in progress at the previous close.

But irregularities still prevailed. Consolidated Gas, which attained a new high on the move at 63 3-4, came into conflict with further weakness in the Pan-Americans and other issues which had been under special pressure on Thursday.

Houses with Miami connections were active buyers in the first hour of Marine Preferred, which made a new high on the current movement at 42 3-4. Shorts found stocks scarce.

Maxwell "A" rebounded from 50 3-4 to 52½ on light transactions and similar recoveries took place in other bear targets of the previous session.

Fisher Body at 107 had added 3 points to its gain on Thursday, while the general oil group displayed resiliency.

COLDER WEATHER COMING TONIGHT

White River Carried Off the Honors This Morning With 43 Below Zero

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press).—After two weeks of preliminary skirmishing, Jack Frost gathered all his force together last night, and by eight o'clock this morning had made his presence felt at every station, with the exception of Prince Rupert, B.C. Reporting to the Dominion Meteorological Bureau here, below zero weather prevails from Kamloops, B. C., where the mercury fell to 10 below zero, throughout the Prairie Provinces, Northern Ontario and Quebec.

White River, Ontario, with 43 below zero at 8 o'clock this morning, easily carried off the honors in the first of the winter race. Chapleau, Ontario, was a good second with 36 below, closely followed by Prince Albert, Sask., with 34 below. Doucet, Que., nearly midway between Cochrane and Quebec, looked upon as White River's most dangerous rival, could do no better than 20 below last night.

Old Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, while to-day enjoying only moderately cold weather, will, it is predicted, receive special attention from Jack Frost to-night and Saturday.

JUDGES PRAISE EXCELLENCY OF POULTRY SHOW

Trophies Will Be Presented Tonight by J. J. Turner -- Accomodation of Armouries and Lighting Commented On.

CLOSES TONIGHT

"No casualties among the fowl" is the report of Superintendent George Paxman at the Poultry Show in the Armouries this year. Other years, there have been deaths among the exhibits, but the only reports of mortality this year were those of the lesser fowl brought in during the show to serve as examples of the skill of the Swift Canadian representative, G. T. Stevens, who kills and dresses his birds within sixty seconds. The cool atmosphere of the big stone building is credited with the better condition of the birds, which react more favorably to its temperature than to the warm air of the market building.

To-night, between eight and nine o'clock, trophies and special prizes will be presented to the winners by Mayor-elect J. J. Turner. Two new cups this year are those donated by the Western Canada Flour Mills Company of Toronto for the best breeding pen and by V. J. Tully for White Leghorns. Several of the cups which require three years to obtain full possession, will be won outright this year. Other special prizes are the bronze medal from the Canadian Poultry Review, a dozen 25 pound bags of poultry feed from the Ogilvie Mills, of which Frank White is the local agent, and special awards from the Peterboro Cereal Company, the Quaker Oats Company and the Maple Leaf Milling Company. To Mr. Nokes of Bowmanville, one of the exhibitors of big fowl, has fallen two years in succession the honor of winning a chair. Mr. Nokes was on his way down town this afternoon to procure the comfortable seat which he comes all the way to Peterboro to win.

"Patronize the poultry show" was the sign on the travelling advertisement borne about the city today by Reg. Turner's black spaniel, a unique mode of proclaiming the merits of the big show which closes to-night. Patronage last evening was good, and Mrs. R. Bugg, who has been to contributor to the comfort of visitors by way of dispensing hot coffee and light refreshments, with her assistants, Mrs. B. Singleton and Miss M. Allen, reports a good sale at her booth.

Many of the coveted red ribbons felt to the lot of Peterboro men this year. Other exhibitors included in the list whose names were omitted in previous mention were Grace and Son of Port Hope, Messrs. Cosh, Cross and Capsticks of Bobcaygeon and Mr. Abernethy of Campbellford.

The judges of birds, were J. H. Warrington of Cornwall and H. Lush of Peterboro, the latter taking the water fowl, the turkeys and pigeons. Mr. Warrington stated that the quality of birds ran high, The fowl were of splendid quality and in good condition, and the excellent lighting of the hall came in for special mention.

This morning, pupils of Mr. L. Copp's room in the King George school came over to see the show, and this afternoon the Normalites attended in a body. Much interest is manifested in the talks given by Mr. Scott, the Government representative who explains the system of registering fowl, in the egg-grading demonstration at the second Government booth, and in the work of G. T. Stevens, whose demonstration of killing and plucking fowl continues this afternoon and to-night.

CABINET CHANGES IN OTTAWA REPORT

Several Names Mentioned as Likely Cabinet Timber.

TORONTO, Jan. 4. — (Canadian Press).—The possibility of Hon. Thomas A. Crerar, former leader of the Progressive party, entering the King Cabinet is discussed in a special despatch from Ottawa regarding changes which may follow the resignation of Sir Lomer Gouin as Minister of Justice and the illness of Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance.

The despatch states that other Westerners mentioned as probabilities in the re-organization of the Cabinet are Premier Charles Dunning of Saskatchewan, Judge Beck of Calgary and Hon. A. B. Hudson, of South Winnipeg.

The resignation of Sir Lomer Gouin will involve some Cabinet reconstruction, but it is not thought likely that it will be extensive. Expectation to-day is that Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, will be appointed Acting Minister of Justice, while retaining his present portfolio. Whether or not Mr. Lapointe will take over the Department of Justice permanently has yet to be determined, but among his friends the view is heard that he may prefer to remain in his present Department. In connection with the filling of the vacant portfolio of Justice, the names of both Hon. Charles Murphy, Postmaster-General, and of Senator Dandurand are likewise mentioned. In regard to Senator Dandurand, however, the point is taken that it is against the declared policy of the present Government to have Ministers holding portfolios sitting in the Senate.

PETERBORO' GIRLS' SKATING CONTEST

Two young Peterboro girls, Florence and Ethel Muir, will take part to-morrow in the skating contest in Toronto, which is being held at the Old Orchard Skating Rink under the auspices of the Toronto Daily Star. In the contest, which is open to school girls and boys alike, thirty six girls are taking part, only four whom are from outside Toronto, coming from Lansing, one from Acton, and two from Peterboro.

Florence Muir, who won the Public School junior skating championship in Peterboro last year, is entered in the class of girls of sixteen years of age, Ethel in the fourteen year class, the former representing Central School here, the latter the Queen Mary School. Silver skates are the prize for the open one-mile race, while tube skate and bronze medals fall to the lot of the winners in the sixteeen-year dash of 440 yards and the fourteen-year race of 442 yards in length.

FACTORY WORKERS PAY DOUBLES IN 9 YEARS.

The earning capacity of factory employees has practically doubled in the last nine years.

This is shown in data received by the Department of Commerce dealing with the average weekly earnings of factory workers in New York. Wages in New York are regarded as representative of wages throughout the rest of the country.

The average New York factory now finds in his pay envelope each week $27.01. In 1914 the average pay envelope contained each week $12.48.

Being averages these data include the earnings of all classes of workers, skilled and unskilled. The average shows a steady increase year by year from 1914 to 1920, when a peak was reached. In that year, the average pay envelope contained $28.15 each week.

The 1923 average wage or weekly earning capacity is approximately 96 per cent of that of 1920. This would indicate that the labor cost in manufacturing now is close to the period when all employers complained.

STILL GREAT DANGER OF FLOODS IN FRANCE

PARIS, Jan. 4. — (Canadian Press).—The River Seine was still rising this morning, and with all weather forecasters predicting mild but persistent rain throughout the day, a repetition of the disaster of 1910 seemed probable, unless there was a drastic change of temperature before night. The situation in Paris had not changed materially at daybreak, but in the suburbs it is growing steadily worse. In Alfortville, the plight of the people is desperate, and they are planning to evacuate as soon as boats can be assembled.

One of the most serious consequences of the flood is that thousands of workers have been thrown out of employment.

The River Marne is also rising, and the Grand Morin, which enters that stream near Meaux, went on the rampage last night.

HER CINEMA LOVE HANGS ON HANDBAG.

Petite Miss Rivers Much Put Out When French Millionaire Carries Another's.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Elizabeth Rivers, motion picture actress, haunted the Cunard pier for three days waiting for the Tyrrhenia to arrive. She went to greet her fiance, Louis De Lattre, French millionaire.

The little woman, bundled in her mink coat, rushed up the gang plank. De Lattre was not in view—at first. Then he appeared, carrying a woman's handbag. Miss Rivers did not pitch herself into his arms. But this is what she said:

"What do you mean? A woman's handbag! I have waited here three days!"

"I am carrying it for a splendid elderly lady."

A Niagara of words followed from the lips of Miss Rivers, which as nearly as possible could be translated into meaning that the proposed wedding ceremony would be postponed—for a while, at least.

When photographers asked the pair to pose they did. De Lattre smiled, but his fiancee would not. All she talked about was that handbag.

BOY ACTOR CUTS THROAT IN PANIC OF STAGE FRIGHT

VIRDEN, Ill., Jan. 4.—Sylvester Wilson, seventeen-year-old high school boy, in a school play was supposed to end his life with a razor. Stage fright gripped him as he raised his arm to pull the back of the razor across his throat.

He forgot which was the back or the edge, decided to take a chance rather than spoil the play — and guessed wrong. Nine stitches were necessary to close the wound.

BE A SAFE DRIVER IN THE YEAR 1924.

Be Careful When You Are Driving and Watch the People Crossing Street.

By Henry A. Reninger

There have been instances of cars in the hands of drunken drivers attempting to use the sidewalks, but for all practical purposes the pedestrian is safe until he steps off the curb. Then he must look out.

All accidents could be avoided if everyone used caution and common sense. Education has done much, particularly among the children, but five minutes' observance at any busy corner will show how much is still needed.

The jay-walker we have always with us. He wears out the motorist's nerves and brake linings. He probably owes his life to the fact that more than one motorist had his eyes open and was quick with the brakes.

Equally negligent of his own safety is the ostrich who buries his head in an umbrella, a newspaper or in deep thought while crossing the street, or the artful dodger who disregards the traffic signals to save a second or two.

Looking both ways is equally important whether you are crossing a street or a railroad crossing.

Dont' loiter in the middle of the street just for the fun of making the driver slow down; he may maintain his speed for the joy of seeing you jump.

Do not place too much confidence in the other fellow; you must depend on yourself for safety.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Yesterday morning at 11.25 the Fire Department was called out to a chimney fire and overheated pipes at 22 Manning Avenue.

At 11.42 they answered a call to a chimney fire at 578 Davidson Street, and last evening at 6.55 they answered a call to a chimney fire and overheated pipes at 580 Aylmer Street. No damage.

THE CAUTIOUS SERVANT

The minister of a certain church called upon a woman member of his congregation, and, finding no one at home, slipped a card through the letter box, after scribbling upon it the words: "Sorry to find you out."

When the woman returned home Mary, the maid, met her at the door and presented the card with a whispered: "Here, mum, I took charge of this. It would never do for the master to know the minister's found you out."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

REVOLUTION IS PREDICTION OF LABOR LEADERS

Frank Hodges Declares King Would Not Refuse to Dissolve Parliament on Request of Labor Minister -- Revolution Would Follow Refusal

ANOTHER ELECTION

(By Charles M. McCann).

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(United Press).—A drift toward revolution in Britain, if King George links hands with the old parties to stem the power of Labour is predicted by Frank Hodges, Labour leader and an important figure in the Trades Union organization here.

A Labour Government is now practically certain but rumours are afloat that if Labour is defeated in the Commons after assuming power, the King may refuse to accept a Labour Premier's request to dissolve parliament and instead call in a Conservative or a Liberal leader.

Labour, if defeated, would desire dissolution and a general election in which Labour leaders would attempt to gain parliamentary majority. The summoning of a Conservative Premier would definitely relegate Labour to second place.

"H. S. Asquith has hinted that the King could refuse to grant Ramsay MacDonald the authority to dissolve parliament if Labour were defeated after assuming control of the Government, Hodges declared in a speech at Tamworth, Staffordshire, yesterday.

"The Labour Party believes that the King would provide no obstacles to its democratic aspirations but if, owing to back-stairs influences, this belief is shattered, we can then say good bye to political evolution in Britain.

Drift Into Revolution.

"The country would drift into the rapids of revolution. The Labour Party has no quarrel with the Crown They have a profound faith in the King's impartiality, which no political intrigue should be permitted to destroy."

The declaration is of pronounced significance. Hodges represents the great bodies of mine workers in Britain. He was intimately connected with the general strike threat of British Labour which caused a scare when Lloyd George called up military reserves to cope with the situation. Of still greater significance is the fact that tradition has been shattered in dragging the name of the King into a political controversy. Asquith, the Liberal leader caused a sensation when he stated, in a recent speech, the King was not forced to dissolve parliament at the request of a Premier.

Under the British constitution, the King can dissolve parliament whenever he wishes, or can retain a parliament if he so desires but by the tradition of practice, which has robbed the British Crown of much of its power, the King actually dissolves parliament only at the request of a minister. Asquith suggested that the King could eject Labour on its defeat in parliament.. All agree that such a defeat—probably on taxation —is inevitable.

The Labourits have been quick to challenge the Liberal leaders claim. In Hodges speech, Britain now sees the extraordinary situation of Labour bringing the Crown into the political arena and denying the Crown's authority to over-ride the Premier that Labour selects.

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

Many important discoveries in modern medical treatment are the result of having the X-ray show the seat of infection.

If we eliminate such diseases as the eruptive fevers, smallpox, measles, diphtheria, typhoid fever, turberculosis and syphilis, we find that 75 per cent of the other diseases are due to focal infection in the mouth (teeth and tonsils) and the sinuses (both frontal and maxillary).

Dr. Rosenow of the Mayo Clinic has found this to be a fact. In his experiments he has reproduced in animals the diseases from which patients have suffered. By obtaining some of the material at the root of an infected tooth or from a macerated tonsil (after removal) he has injected it into an animal and produced the disease from which the patient was suffering.

High authorities in American medicine have predicted an increase in the longevity of the race during the coming generation of fully ten years. This is partly because the wonderful X-ray has shown the way. The public will be glad to aid in carrying out the practice of of preventive medicine to further such humane results.

The actual cost of having an X-ray examination for your health and protection is small. But whatever its cost the value in locating infection is worth any price. Where the dental clinic is fully equipped, the charge is moderate for mouth tests.

If you are worrying on account of a break in your health that seems to baffle detection, by all means go to a first-class physician for a diagnosis. He may find that an X-ray test will help locate the cause of your trouble.

FOREWORD

"Out to Win" has been adapted from the well-known play of that name which ran successfully at the Shaftesbury Theatre throughout the torrid summer of 1921.

The play was written by Mr. Roland Pertwee and Mr. Dion Clayton Calthrop, and it has been as successful in the provinces and abroad as it was in London. In serial form the story appeared in the Western Mail, Yorkshire Telegraph and Star, Sunday Sun (Newcastle), and other papers, and was one of the most popular of the stories in the famous American Journal, the Saturday Evening Post.

"Out to Win" contrives to be "alive" with incident all the time. Its scene shifts from country to country, and one dramatic situation follows another with little interval. The great moments in the film include a night escape on the Thames a motor chase through Brittany, an escape by aeroplane, and — more especially—a fight to the death between two of the characters in the gondola of a burning airship 5,000 feet over the Channel at night. Nothing has been spared to give a realistic touch to the film.

For the cast Catherine Calvert, the well-known American "star," was engaged. Co-starring with her is Mr Clive Brook, who will be remembered for his performance in 'This Freedom," "Sonia," etc. Mr. Brook puts in a striking bit of work in the dual role of Anthony Barraclough and Richard Frencham Altar (Barraclough's "double"). The rest of an exceptionally strong cast will be found below.

The film has been produced by Mr. Denison Clift, whose "Bill of Divorcement," "This Freedom," "A Woman of No Importance," etc., make such a remarkable galley of British pictures.

AT THE ROYAL.

"THE KNOCKOUT" FINE LIGHT ENTERTAINMENT ACTIN' ALL THROUGH

"The Knockout," a fine British sporting film made its introduction to Peterborough audiences yesterday at the Royal. There is no let-up in the action, from the title to fade out it keeps us on the alert. Four or five excellently staged boxing bouts, a thrilling steeple chase, with its spills, plenty of cockney humour, all go to make fine entertainment. The laughter was hearty and often and we feel this production will be well received locally to-night and Saturday.

SCREEN PLAYERS OF ABILITY IN CAST OF "WILD BILL HICKOK"

William S. Hart Well Supported in His Big New Picture, at the Royal Monday.

The new Paramount picture, "Wild Bill Hickok," that marks the return of William S. Hart to the screen, presents one of the largest and most distinctive casts ever assembled for a film production. Twenty-four players were selected to interpret the roles and although many of these names are not familiar to theatre-goers, they were picked because of their marked resemblance to the historical characters described in the story of "Wild Bill Hickok."

Best known of the supporting cast is Ethel Grey Terry, who portrays Calamity Jane," one of the most unusual feminine characters that existed in the romantic days of the West. Likewise notable in filmdom are Kathleen O'Connor, James Farley, Jack Gardner, William Dyer, Carl Gerard, Bert Sprotte and Herschel Mayall. Two newcomers to dramatic prominence in this picture are Naida Carle and Leo Willis.

Aside from Jack Gardner, who portrays Bat Masterson, the famous peace commission of Hodge City, Kansas, which was composed of the best gun-men in the West, and which was organized to uphold law and order in that frontier town of the early 'seventies,' is played by men who are perhaps unknown to screen fame, but who strikingly portray the characters. These include Wyatt Earp, Charlie Bassett, Bill Tighlman and Doc Holliday,—all famous characters — played by Bert Lindley, H. M. Dudgeon, Joseph Ray and Charles Brinley respectively.

AT THE CAPITOL.

HOW MARY PICKFORD ACTS AS GROWN-UP

Sense of Humor Wonderful Aid to Star in Emotional Scenes of "Rosita"

To retain the Mary Pickford poise and personality throughout the entirety of "Rosita," wherein she portrays a highly emotional role of dramatic intensity is one of the greatest accomplishments ever demanded of any actress. This attainment is clearly shown in her latest United Artists production which is now playing at the Capitol Theatre.

The retention of her personality was accomplished through the strength of Miss Pickford's remarkable sense of humor, which has enabled her to enact heart-rendering scenes of emotionalism, then, to relieve the tension created, immediately present a humorous touch to bring forth a smile.

The description of one scene between Rosita (Mary Pickford) and the King (Holbrook Blinn), during the making of "Rosita," may suffice to present the humorous side of a dramatic scene.

Rosita's voice is heard outside the door of the set, the door is opened. In dashes a beautiful young woman, her eyes blazing, her form a-quiver with emotion. You feel the verve, the warmth the high passion of her. Can this be Mary Pickford? You are electrified—thrilled by her dynamic anger. Chills run up and down the spine as she takes the jewels from her neck and throws them on the floor before the King. Next moment you feel the tears starting, as she pleads with the King for the life of her lover. The scene is over. A hushed awe of suppressed emotion prevails. But Mary Pickford would not be Mary Pickford without humor, too. She steals back into the set and, child-like picks up the jewels she has so recklessly thrown on the floor.

Just that human touch—that bit of humor that every one laughing—a laugh relieving the emotional strain.

Following she played a love scene with just such a combination of spiritual and physical ardor as one could ever wish to see.

Mary Pickford has succeeded so cleverly in her professionally growing up that henceforth she may safely pack up her doll things; keep her beautiful curls done up a-top her head and continue her histrionic career as a grown-up.

Under the capable direction of Europe's foremost director, Ernest Lubitsch, this growing up of Mary Pickford over night, as it were, will always be heralded as a marvellous accomplishment. Mr. Lubitsch says: "I have never directed any actress who has appealed to me as much as Mary Pickford. She has brilliant talent, immense intelligence and response, and a technique which is exquisitely perfect."

THE ORIGINALS IN "RAPID FIRE."

"Rapid Fire," an unusual revue portrayed by the now famous "Originals" of the old Dumbell organization, contains some splendid material, living up to its name every minute of the twenty five brilliant scenes. This attraction is something entirely different a-l out of the ordinary run of the travelling show. It will appear here at the Grand Opera House tonight at 8.15 and tomorrow matinee and night when Peterborough theatregoers are assured of a rare treat.

The Originals, who started first as the the Dumbells to entertain the troops in France and Belgium, and later developed into a first rate treatrical Company becoming world famous, have a resourceful group of young men behind the organization. Included in the cast are some of the worlds most talented female impersonators, Arthur (Jock) Holland, Gene Pearson and Fred Fenwick; The cream of black face artists, Jimmie Goode; Three popular and extremely clever comedians, "Red" Newman, Bob Anderson and Ted Charter; They have an incomparable quartette with Jerry Brayford, Bill Tennetn, Tom Young and Bertram Langley; Dancers such as Alan Murray and Charlie McLean; and many others of rare talent and entertaining qualities. Some of the boys write lyrics and music, others the jokes and patter, others write the sketches and skits, while another will design the costumes, another will design and paint, the scenery and another work out the lighting arrangements. It has been said that the Originals have the most unique organization of its kind in the world, and their engagement here is being looked forward to with keen interest. They have appeared before many notables including the King and Queen of Belgium, British Royalty, Allied Army and Navy Chief and many other distinguished persons. During their engagament at the Royal Opera House in Brussels in 1918, each member of the Company was preestned with a medal by King Albert.

Oshawa, it is expected, will send a delegate to Ottawa on January 8, when representatives from practically all the municipalities in Ontario will assemble at the capital to confer with the Premier, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King over St. Lawrence Power development.

Death at Brighton

The funeral took place at Brighton on Saturday, of Norman Jesse Tompkins, who passed away on Dec. 27th, in his 69th year. The funeral was held under Masonic auspices.

Death of Mrs. Horton

The death of Mrs. E. B. Horton at Belleville, on Saturday, occasioned much sorrow in a wide circle of friends and relatives. Mrs. Horton, before her marriage Miss Aggie M. Hawley, was born in Thorlow township, being a daughter of the late Nelson Hawley. She is survived by her husband, one sister, Mrs. Burley Holmes, Belleville, and two brothers, Herbert Howley, of Peterborough, and Edward Howley, of St. Catharines.

Local and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McIntosh are here from the West to visit friends at Coldsprings and other parts of the district.

Mr. Harry Western of British Columbia is visiting friends here after a long absence.

Mr. Lorne McCoughey, of Chicago, and Mr. A. E. McCoughey, of Philadelphia, were holiday visitors here with their sister, Miss M. McCoughey, of the Public School staff.

Mr. Frank Hess has gone to Philadelphia to spend the winter.

Capt. James Lavis, who has been sailing in the Upper Lakes, is home for the winter.

Mr. W. R. Spear, of Tisdale, Sask., is home to spend the winter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Spear, Provincial Road East.

Trenton Rotarians played Santa Claus to two or three dozen homes in that town during the Christmas season. A special effort was made to give a happy time to the little children who received an abundance of candy, nuts and toys, along with practical gifts of shoes, stockings, rubbers, etc.

Mr. Walter Douglas, of Providence, R. I., has been visiting his father at Newcastle.

Mr. Wellington Foster, Newcastle, was cranking his car on Wednesday, when it back-fired breaking his arm at the wrist.

Mr. Kenneth Hall, Orono, has engaged to teach the Kirkfield School near Lindsay.

The war veterans of the Orono district held a dance at the Armouries at Orono last Friday evening.

Mr. William Nesbitt will go from Belleville to Port Hope, it is understood, to take charge of the Dominion Canners there.

William Henry Mason, son of Thomas David Mason, of Rawdon, died at Belleville on Friday. He was 51 years of age.

Death of Harry Craig

The yuletide season is a time of mourning in the home of the late Mr. Harry Craig, of Brighton, who was called away after a short illness. He leaves a widow and two little sons. With them and with his mother and brothers, very much sympathy is felt.

SPANISH TARIFF AGAINST CANADA

The Dominion Will Not Initiate Negotiations Except For Full Concessions

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—Until Spain is prepared to give Canada as valuable trade concessions as she now extends to the United States and Great Britain there is little likelihood of the Dominion taking the initiative in further negotiations to perfect a special trade agreement with Spain.

This is the prevailing opinion expressed in semi-official circles here, where Spain's recently announced decision ot subject Canadian goods to her highest tariff scale came as no surprise.

Trade figures dealing with business between Canada and Spain for the fiscal year which ended March 31, 1923, show a balance favoring Spain. In the time covered Canada imported $1,696,292 worth of goods from Spain as against $977,061 exported to that country. Principal imports were: raisins, olives, nuts, onions, olive-oil, brandy, wines, cork and salt for fish. Canada's principal exports to Spain were: wheat, rubber tires, farm implements, automobiles and sulphate of ammonia.

Injure Industries.

Spain has a trade agreement with Great Britain which would be applicable to the Dominions under certain conditions but which Canada cannot avail herself of because of the stipulations in the treaty shaped to accord with British free trade policies. Under this agreement such Spanish products as cork, onions and preserved vegetables must be admitted free of duty. Canada has five cork manufactories which would suffer under such an arrangement officials pointed out. It would also work a hardship upon Canadian canners who pay duty upon containers, labels, etc. and it might create trouble between the Dominion and the West Indies because af a trade pact between these two countries calling for the free admission to Canada of onions from the West Indies.

Treaty With France.

For some time, Government officials say, Spain has been anxious that Canada should extend to her its favored country tariff schedule. The Canadian Government has declined to do this upon the ground that Spain has agreements with the United States and Great Britain giving these countries greater trade concessions than she offered to Canada. France, upon the other hand, was prepared to extend Canada as favorable terms as the United States. Canada, some time ago, entered into a commercial treaty with France. In accordance iwth the terms of this pact, Canadian customs officals were notified on September 14, 1923, that France had been placed upon the Dominion's favored country list, and that Spain was not included in the arrangement. Quite recently Spain notified Canada that full duty would be collected in future upon goods imported from the Dominion.

DID NOT QUALIFY AND NOW OBJECTS

John Allan of Warkworth Nominated for Deputy Reeveship -- Seeks to Disqualify Other Nominee.

WARKWORTH, Jan. 4.— John Allan, who was named for the deputy-reeveship of Percy township last Monday, was in Campbellford Wednesday seeking legal advice from G. A. Payne on points connected with the nomination. It seems that Mr. Allan, for some reason or other, failed to qualify, so that his opponent, Deputy-Reeve Herb. Wilson, automatically became his own successor. Mr. Allan sought to disqualify the latter on the ground that as he is a trustee of the school section in which he resides he could not legally hold another public office. He was informed that this law holds good only in the case of trustees in incorporated towns and villages. He also ascertained that if a nominee fails to qualify in the specified time, there is no way in which he can have his name printed on the ballot.

There will be an election in Percy township for the reeveship and for the council. The candidates in the field are as follows:

For Reeve—Reeve W. E. Hermiston and John McCubbin.

For Councillors (three to be elected) — A. H. Atkinson, George Poole, Sam Gummer, John Cooney, Thomas R. Downs, Peter Fairman and William Partridge.

ALLIED EAST WILL MASTER THE WORLD

Sun Yat Sen Says Alliance is in the Making Foretells Capture of San Francisco by Chinese Fleet.

By Ray G. Marshall.

PEKING, Jan. 4.—United Press —"Within a decade China, Russia, Germany, Japan and India will join hands against those now victorious in the world," Sun Yat Sen, dictator of South China, declared in a speech to Christian students at Canton today.

How will you feel when the Chinese fleet captures San Francisco" he asked adding:

"This alliance, of which I tell you, is already in the making."

Sun Yat Sen is warring on the Peking Government, and is greatly disappointed that American and Allied warships have prevented him from looting the Canton Custom's Houses

It was confirmed to-day that a mutinous garison in Sui Yuan, in Southern Mongolia, murdered a Belgian priest, a Chille Soenen, and that the Catholic church premises there were looted. The attack adds to the seriousness of the situation created by the Government's inability to protect foreigners against bandits.

SPANISH QUEEN AS A CONCERT SINGER.

Took Part in Impromptu Concert on Shipboard.

ROME, Jan. 4. — (Associated Press).—Queen Victoria of Spain was the central figure in an impromptu concert held aboard the Spanish battleship "Jaime Primero" just before the Royal party left Naples on their return to Spain. The King and Queen of Spain lunched aboard the battleship with the Duke of Aosta, the Duke of Pistoia, General Primo de Rivera and others, when someone expressed a wish to hear the crew sing.

An impromptu concert was arranged and both the King and Queen of Spain joined in several choruses. Queen Victoria was invited to sing, and having a fine contralto voice she smilingly obliged, much to the gratification of the assembled guests and crew. Encores were demanded and given and Her Majesty's solos proved the "star" turn of the entertainment.

General Primo de Rivera was a good second with his rendering of the Fascist hymn "Giovinezza." The Dictator afterwards said he had so fallen in love with that hymn that he would certainly adopt it for his Fascists in Spain.

LAYS $50 FINE ON DUKE KEATS

Edmonton Player Climbed Into Stands and Threatened Spectator.

CALGARY, Jan. 3.—A fine of $50 has been imposed on Duke Keats of the Edmonton Eskimos by E. L. Richardson, president of the Western Canada Hockey League for his misconduct in the New Year's day game at Edmonton when he climbed into the stands and threatened to attack a spectator.

The president in his statement here to-day warned all players on the prairie circuit that they would be severely dealt with in the event of any further attempts at rowdyism. Spunk Sparrow also of the Eskimos is to be penalized for striking the referee but the president has not definitely decided what the penalty will be.

Mr. Richardson has made no statement regarding the trouble at Saskatoon Tuesday night. He is still awaiting for an official report from Referee Gardner who had charge of the game.

FIGHT PROMOTER PLEADED GUILTY

To Technical Charge of Failing to Pay Amusement Tax — "Went Broke."

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press)—Floyd Fitzsimmons, prizefighter promoter of Benton Harbor, Mich., pleaded guilty in Federal Court here yesterday to a technical violation of the Internal Revenue Law over payment of taxes on gate receipts on the proposed Jack Dempsey-Bill Brennan fight at the Michigan City (Ind.) arena, which was prevented by order of Governor Warren T. McCray. Judge A. B. Anderson fined fined Fitzsimmons $250 and costs.

The promotor said he went broke" in his attempt to stage the Dempsey-Brennan fight. He asserted the Governor had given him assurance the fight could be staged in Indiana, and later stopped it. Fitzsimmons appeared at the Federal Building last month in connection with the indictment and it was erroneously reported then that the head.

Sparrow of the Edmonton Eskimos Out of Game For Rough Stuff.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press)—Spunk Sparrow of the Edmonton Eskimos has been suspended until January sixth for his interference with Referee Poulin during the game New Year's day at Edmonton. This announcement was made by E. L. Richardson, president of the Western Canada League, yesterday afternoon. Sparrow will therefore not participate in the game here to-day or at Edmonton, Saturday against Saskatoon.

Bowling

BRINTON CARPET LEAGUE.

In the Brinton Carpet League, the Ardebils took two out of three from the Ardebils. Some nice rolling was turned in by both teams. Shaughnessy of the winners had 672 for his three games rolling over 200 in every game. H. Rose of the losers rolled 665 for his three games, rolled the high single for the evening of 271 and had over 200 in two of his games. Leether of the losers also rolled 608 for his three games, rolling over two hundred in two of the games. It will be noticed that three of the men rolled over 600, which is nice rolling. These three bowlers together made 1945 pins. Following are the scores:

BACK HOME AGAIN.

Frank Chance and Johnny Evers will be back amid home surroundings next season. The Peerless Leader and the Fighting Trojan are to pal it again with the White Sox. Fifteen years or so ago, Frank and Johnny were making history for the Chicago Cubs. That was in the old pennant winning days when West Side was at swords' points with those on the South Side. In 913 Chance joined the Yankees as manager and the following year Evers played a big part in that sensational triumph of the Boston Braves. And now after many years of travel in different paths, these two National League favorites of other days are to guide the destinies of a Chicago team again—only this time in the American circuit.

The Big Three in Women's Tennis

HELEN WILLS, MOLLA MALLORY AND ELEANOR GOSS COMPRISE TRIO

By Billy Evans.

Who are the three ranking women tennis players in the United States?

That isn't nearly so difficult a problem as naming the first 10 Three players stand out, after that there is much room for argument regardless of selection.

We nominate Miss Helen Wills of California for championship honors. Then comes Mrs. Molla Mallory, closely followed by Miss Eleanor Goss of New York.

For eight years Mrs. Molla Mallory, a remarkable tennis player, has reigned supreme in the women's ranks. Her conqueror, Miss Helen Wills, just 18 years old, adds another triumph to the survival of youth over old age. However, don't get the impression that Mrs. Mallory is a gray-haired veteran.

Last year great things were predicted for Miss Wills in 1923. At times, however, her game has been rather erratic and it seemed as if she was going to fail to live up to her advance notices. She came through in the pinch, an attribute of greatness in sport.

Prior to defeating Mrs. Mallory in the championship event, Miss Wills had been beaten in the finals of the southern New York state championships by her greatest rival and had also lost to Eleanor Goss in the finals of a minor tournament.

Miss Wills seemed to acquire the seasoning needed in the international team match with the best women players of England. Her defeat of the two English cracks, Miss Kathleen McKane and Mrs. R. C. Clayton, supplied her with the necessary confidence that enabled her to meet Mrs. Mallory in the finals of the championship at the top of her game, and defeat her.

Unquestionably Miss Eleanor Goss of New York is entitled to third place in the ranking. Some of the experts may rate her higher than Mrs. Mallory, who is perhaps slowing up a bit as a result of the many bitter struggles in which she has engaged on the tennis courts.

Aside from beating Miss Wills at Seabright, the other high spot in the record of Miss Goss is her defeat of Mrs. Mallory in the middle states championships played at Philadelphia Cricket Club in September.

Defeating the former champ as well as the present titleholder in the same season is quite an achievement.

LEFT TO RIGHT—ELEANOR GOSS, MOLLA MALLORY, HELEN WILLS.

APPLY AMATEUR RULE TO TENNIS

Proposal to Prevent Stars From Writing For Press and Magazines.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. — Tennis players who profit substantially by writing for newspapers or magazines will be declared ineligible for amateur competition in the United States if a proposal by the Amateur Rule Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, announced to-night, is adopted.

This stringent interpretation of amateur status ,designed, according to the committee to check the menace of commercialism to tennis, already has been approved by the Executive Committee of the U.S.L.T.A., and will be laid before the annual meeting of the association here February 2, for final action.

Although George T. Adee, chairman of the Amateur Rule Committee, declared the move was not aimed at any particular individual, it is generally understood it was designed to curb the journalistic activities of several star players, notably William T. Tilden, II., of Philadelphia, the United States national champion, and recognized world's premier player; Vincent Richards, youthful Yonkers star, and former United States' national doubles champion, partner of Tilden; and Frank T. Anderson, of Brooklyn, one of the leading metropolitan racquet wielders.

"BOY" McCORMICK

Finis was virtually written to the ring career of "Boy" McCormick, an English light heavyweight of note, by a sentence of a year in prison following an assault on two girls in Manchester, Eng.

McCormick at one time was regarded as England's most promising battler among the light heavyweights. He fought in Australia and America with more than ordinary success.

Some months ago McCormick was involved in a "queer"-looking fight with (Ted) Kid Lewis, the aged welterweight, who scored a knockout. He went into retirement after that fight.

We are glad to hear Boston refused to permit a bout between women prize fighters.... There are enough lady-like fighters in the game already.

Bill Ritchie Can't Get Far in "Come-Back"

Coast Battler Had Meteoric Career and Would Have Lasted Longer Than He Did If He Hadn't Gone to London to Fight Under English Ring Rules.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Willie Ritchie is going to try a "comeback." This is interesting rather than important. Ritchie, once holder of the lightweight championship, tried one comeback in 1919 and failed after a game, spirited battle against Benny Leonard. If he persists, Ritchie will fail again this time, only quicker and with less attendant fireworks.

However, the fans shouldn't begrudge him a stray purse here and there. The California boys was a gallant fighter in his day, not a great one, perhaps, but game and colorful in action. He won the title from a little savage in beating Ad Wolgast, and whipped all the tough eggs that flourished a decade ago.

Few fighters will ever be able to point to a more meteoric career. Ritchie ewnt to be one night and unheard of fourth rater and awoke the next day a championship prospect.

A last-minute substitute for Ad Wolgast, who had been stricken with appendicitis, Ritchie took on the great Freddie Welsh in a twenty-round battle and gave him the fight of his sweet young life.

Ritchie floored the Britisher in the eleventh round and had him running away in the last three rounds. Due to stage fright, Ritchie was slow to start and Welsh piled up an early lead, which saved the decision for him .

That splendid showing against Welsh led directly to a title fight with Wolgast, and Ritchie won on a foul in the sixteenth round.

Ritchie was one of those rare battlers who strike straight from the shoulder. Ritchie's right was better than his left. His straight right was very much like Carpentier's, just about as fast and just as destructive.

Ritchie would have lasted longer and made more out of the business if he had been less headstrong. He came within a fluttering eyelash of being knocked into oblivion in Cleveland one night while at the height of his fame.

Ignoring the advice of his manager, Ritchie accepted a bout with Paul Kohler, whom he considered a set-up. Kohler all but knocked him out. Matt Hinkely was the third man in the ring that night, and experts at the ringside claim Hinkel was five seconds off in the count.

Ritchie showed little intelligence in agreeing to defend his title against Welsh in London under English prize rules, which place a premium on flashy footwork and light jabbing.

Welsh had the footwork and the jab, also the bait with which to lure the American champion overseas, a

RITCHIE

$20,000 guarantee. Ritchie put up a thrilling fight and was aggressor all the way. Morever, he landed all the hard, telling blows.

Here in America the fight would have gone to Ritchie without question. Fighting the way Americans fight, Ritchie had scored an American victory.

Welsh, on the other hand, had fought in typical English style, had danced around Ritchie with an easy grace, and peppered him with light, annoying jabs, each of which counted for a point under English rules.

At the end of the fight, Eugene Corri, a referee of unquestioned integrity and fairness, totalled his points, and announced that Welsh had won the fight and the championship by half a point, the narrowest margin by which a title ever changed hands.

A fight that close in America would be called a draw, regardless of the rules under which it was fought.

PALM BEACH REGATTA.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(United Press).—The annual Palm Beach regatta will be held Feb. 21-22 and a number of fast motorboats will be sent south after the Motorboat Show here Jan. 4-12. The second big event will be the meet on the Flamingo Course at Miami Beach and Miami, March 7 and 8. Boating enthusiasts will then sail for Havana for the races there on March 15 and 16. Early in the spring, New Orleans has racing dates which will attract large numbers of fans. The summer racing season will open June 20, with the New York to Atlantic City and return race.

Billy Evans Says

Nick Altrock is a great admirer of Connie Mack, while the tall leader of the Athletics thinks Nick is the funniest man in all the world. Yet every now and then Nick takes issue with Connie's strategy and Mack resorts to repartee to uphold his end of the argument.

While Mack is seriously inclined, Altrock admits that the retort courteous handed him by Mack one day last season provided him with the biggest laugh of the year.

In a game at Philadelphia last summer with Washington as the contending team, the Athletics got away to a big lead and seemed to have the game cinched. Late in the game Washington began to hit and although Mack sent in two relief pitchers Washington almost closed the gap between the two clubs.

The failure of several of the star pitchers of the Athletics to stop the batting rampage of the Washington club failed to please the usually genial Mr. Mack. He was in no mood for jesting.

The Athletics' lead had been cut to a one-run margin and every member of the Mackian pitching staff with the exception of a rookie was in left field warming up, ready to be called. Noticing the young pitcher still on the bench Altrock, who was coaching at third, yelled to Mack:

"Say Connie, you better get all the pitchers out there, you will need them before the game is over."

Almost before Nick had finished the speech, the youngster either of his own free will or at the command of Mack left the bench and started for left field. Mack was peeved at the sudden turn of affairs, Altrock'c comment only served to increase his ill-feeling, but as the youngster left the bench and started for left field to warm up, a smile played over his face and he shouted back to Altrock:

"I don't have to tell them to warm up, Washington is here and they all want to pitch." Mack had won the argument by resorting to Altrock's choice weapon, repartee.

DECLARES CANADA DIVIDED BY FOUR

Speaker Discusses the Problems Facing Canada At Present Time.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 4.—To endeavor to develop a spirit of brotherhood and an intense although sane national spirit so that Canadians will not think of going home to Scotland, to England, to Ireland or any other country is the solution offered by Andrew R. McMaster, M.P. of what he terms the greatest problem facing statesmen of Canada at the present time.

In his address to the members of the Canadian Club of Calgary yesterday, Mr. McMaster made an appeal to all Canadians to create such a spirit of brotherhood that Canadians of any nationality would feel this was the country to which they owed their greatest devotion and first allegiance, stated that he was not afraid of idealists and spoke most intimately of the loyalty of the French-Canadian to Canada.

"There is no fear that the French will ever supersede English as the language of Canada," declared Mr. McMaster, "For every Englishman who speaks French in Quebec, there are 500 Frenchmen who speak English. Canada is the home of the French-Canadian and his entire loyalty is to this dominion."

"Canada," said the speaker, "is divided into four little countries, the Maritime Provinces, Ontario and Quebec. The Prairies and British Columbia. In the Maritime country we find that it is like Gaul divided, into three parts but from there I think you will admit that much in Government, law, medicine, and business, has come. Racially we have a great number of nationalities, we are divided linguistically and also on sectarian lines."

FARMER PARTY BROADENS OUT

Drury's Dream Realized at Last in Action of Farmert of Both Houses

TORONTO, Jan. 4.— (Canadian Press.)—Only two of the forty odd Federal and Provincial members in the caucus held here yesterday opposed the formation of a third political party in Ontario, to be known as the Progressives. It will be formally launched at the Provincial Progressive convention to be held at Toronto on June 5 or 6 when a leader, probably former Premier Drury, will be chosen.

Ontario members offered to former Attorney General W .E. Raney, K.C., the House leadership during the coming session of the Legislature. Mr. Raney asked two or three days to think it over.

At the evening banquet tendered the members by the Toronto Progressive Association, Hon. Mr. Drury offered his services to the new party either as a private citizen 'or in any other capacity.' He twitted Premier Ferguson and 'the littler Attorney General,' Hon. Mr. Nickle, upon their failure to do certain things and declared that the defeat of his government in the last election did not amount to 'a hill of beans, 'so far as securing a verdict on his administration was concerned; that the O.T.A. was the cause of the Drury government downfall, a figure from a situation where a third of the voters of the province placed that issue above all others in the campaign.

Broadening Out.

The U.F.O. group in the Legislature, or the 'Progressives' as they will henceworth be known, made up their minds yesterday to fight for what they deem their right to constitute the official opposition in the Legislature. A resolution was passed by the caucus to the effect that "the Progressives in the Provincial House assume the official Opposition."

Yesterday's action on the part of the farmer members of two houses brings to a realization former Premier Drury's dream of a "broadened out" party, embracing people of all walks of life. With some satisfaction Mr. Drury referred too the "broadening out" as an accomplished fact.

Fishing Vessel Floated Off With Cargo of Fish.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Jan. 4 (Canadian Press).—The fishing vessel Sumner which grounded a few miles north of Ketchikan, Alaska, on Tuesday, floated off without suffering damage and arrived here to-day with fifty thousand pounds of halibut.

Valuable Shipment of Horses From Europe.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press — Ninety-four British and French thoroughbreds valued at half a million dollars and comprising the most valuable shipment of horses to cross the Atlantic since before the war, are due to reach New York Saturday or Sunday on the steamship Mississippi.

All were purchased by horse fanciers from the United States at the Fall Sales at Newmarket, England, and the destination of the majority of their number is the blue grass region of Kentucky.

Among the better known stallions in the shipment are Craigangower, a five year old chestnut, by Polymeius, out of Fortuna, by Spearmint, and Royal Canopy, a grey ten-year-old, by Roi Herod, out of Cream 'o the Sky.

NORTH TORONTO A STRONG TEAM

Visitors Better Than Several of the Senior Outfits

The team that North Toronto will throw into action against the Peterboro intermediates at Brock street Rink to-night has a stronger line-up than most of the senior O.H.A. teams in fact is of senior calibre throughout. Players like Dr. Box, Jack Cain, Stephenson, Muston and Rennie have all starred in senior company and the first named is one of Canada's greatest players. He would be on the Olympic line-up if he could spare the time for the trip. The visitors should beat the Petes to-night for they have had the advantage of more practice and are in better shape but the blue shirts will use a big squad and should be able to make it interesting for the North Toronto crew. All of last year's Peterboro players except Legon will be in action while a number of new players will make their debut to-night.

The game is called for 8.30 o'clock and the ice is in great shape for the first clash of the season.

PARIS FLOOD IS BELIEVED ENDED

Will Be Several Days Before River Subsides--Thousands of Buildings Flooded.

(By Webb Miller).

PARIS, Jan. 4—(United Press).—A sudden cold snap, the absence of rain for 24 hours and the subsidence of the several affluents of the Seine, were believed to-day to have checked the Paris flood just as a general disaster seemed imminent. The steady rise of the river which had reached the top of the Quai D'Orsay parapets this morning continued at a slower rate and was expected to last until Sunday, when, if no further rains occur, the waters may subside.

A flood depth of 21 feet was noted at Austerlitz Bridge at noon. With water seeping into the basements of the Government Buildings, threatening to destroy records, filling sewers and causing a disruption of the railroad traffic at several terminals, Paris nevertheless has suffered little from the flood so far. It is the suburbs about the city that have borne the brunt of the waters.

A total of 4,100 buildings have been flooded in the Alfort district, where hundreds of women and children and sick persons were rescued in boats from the upper windows.

Four hundred houses are partly under water at Nogent, 1,500 at Champigny, 1,000 at Bry-Sur-Marne and 12,000 at Perreux.

The situation in this district remains critical, because the river will remain high for several days.

The flood of the Marne River is even worse, in parts that the valley resembles a vast lake.

Several funerals were conducted in boats to-day.

SACRED HEART RINK OPEN.

The opening of the Sacred Heart Rink took place last evening, with a crowd of about a hundred and fifty people in attendance. The ice was in splendid condition. The rink has been enlarged and will be wired within a short time to allow of excellent illumination for hockey games. Music rendered by J. Minicola's band was much enjoyed. The committee in charge of the rink this year is composed of A. Brioux, Jas. O'Toole and C. Masterson. Anyone wishing to arrange for hockey games or practices is asked to inform Mr. Brioux or telephone 763W.

NO MEETING HELD.

The Annual General Meeting of the Peterboro Junior Football Association advertised for last evening, has been indefinitely postponed. Those present were Mr. Willis, President, S. Calladine, secy.-Treas., Jas. Ball and Orville White. There was no representatives from any of the Junior teams in the City.

ROBERT FAIR & CO., LTD.

SURPLUS STOCK SALE

One of These Rare Events that mean so much when put on at Robert Fair's. Its a long time since the last one, but gratified Customers will still remember the pleasure its Price Cuts afforded them.

This fall we made such generous provision for a big season's sale of warm winter goods that now, owing to a backward and mild season, our remaining stock of these lines is much too heavy, and we decided to make such sweeping price reductions as will certainly effect a speedy clearance of the lines.

The offering embraces Blankets, Comforters, Flannels, Ladies' Suitings, Ladies' Underwear, Suits, Coats, Dresses, etc., etc. And it also includes some startling price cuts in House Furnishings. These savings will be available for 10 days only, commencing Saturday morning. Early choice is best, and remember, 10 days pass very quickly.

WEDDING BELLS

WHATLEY—ELLIS.

DETROIT, Jan. 1.—The home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duvell, Detroit, Mich., was the scene of a pretty wedding on New Year's Day, when their daughter, Mrs. Lillie Ellis, of Hamilton, became the bride of Mr. George Whatley, of Peterborough. Mr. and Mrs. Whatley will reside in Peterborough.

KILLINGBACK—WRIGHT.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smith, 182½ Hunter Street West, was the scene of a pretty wedding on New Year's Eve, when her niece, Miss Ivy Evelyn Wright, became the bride of Mr. Stanley Killingback, both of Peterboro, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Killingback, of Peterboro. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. E. Morrow.

The bride looked pretty in a grey crepe de chine gown and carrying a bouquet of roses and lily of the valley. Among the friends present was the sister of the bride, Mrs. B. Bronell, of Toronto.

The bride received many useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Killingback will reside in Peterboro.

Society

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stewart, Sheridan street, have returned to the city after having spent New Years with their son, William, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Campbellville, Ont.

ARMED GUARDS PROTECT MARK.

Trillions in Paper Money Is Heavily Guarded.

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—Banks in Berlin are having as much difficulty these days as are bakers in keeping their hungrey customers satisfied. All day long their telephones bring in insistent demands for paper money. "Hamburg must have twenty thousand trillions to-morrow," is a typical message.

The money is all distributed from the Reichsbank, irrespective of where it may be printed. Small wagons constructed like iron-cages, travel on rails through the building and carry the money, the actual distribution of which is directed from one room. It is packed in large bags, carefully sealed Two thousand consignments leave the Reichs bank daily.

While in the bank buildinbg the paper is stored in a heavily armored cellar which is practically an underground town, yith scores of avenues and passages. This cellar is cluttered up with money of such small denominations that it was never issued because of its slight value. Thousands gave way to millions rapidly and the millions gave way to billions Consequently the race between the Reichsbank presses and the falling exchange rates has frequently resulted in defeat for the money-printers.

WIDE AREAS OF NEW TERRITORY ARE INUNDATED

Big Apartment Buildings in Suburbs of Paris Have Been Cut Off By Water—Men Thrown Out of Work Receive Relief.

NEAR RECORD LEVEL.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—The rise in the flood waters of the Seine was slower yesterday than on Thursday, but the level reached during the night was sufficient to cover large areas of new territory. This compelled thousands of additional waterbound people to take safety in boats or to rely on boat services for supplies. Many of the big apartment buildings in large towns just west of the city, such as Asnieres, Colombes and Argentuil, have been cut off. The authorities found it impossible to get all the inhabitants out of the buildings, so a sort of omnibus-skiff service was organized to take housewives to the markets and business men to their trains.

The number of people driven from their homes increased during the day by several thousand. A large number of these were removed from Alfortville where a majority of the houses have become uninhabitable and from along the Marne, where more than four thousand buildings are surrounded by water at Nogent, Champigny, Bry-Sur-Marne and Le Perreux.

Soaks Into Paris.

The damage done by the waters inside Paris is still confined to the district of Autueil, where a number of streets have been invaded and cellars filled, and to the sections in the neighborhood of the Chamber of Deputies and the Invalides Palace, where the water has risen high enough to seep into cellars.

Anxiety is felt as to the ultimate effect of the water on the subsoil. It is recalled that the water seeped through the ground under the Boulevard Haussmann after the flood of 1910, causing collapses at several different points with several fatalities.

There is no protection from similar damage as the level of the Seine is now higher than the sewers of the boulevards and streets along the river-front.

Relieving the Victims.

Relief for victims of the flood has commenced in districts where the populations are composed of workmen, as in Alfortville, Champigny and other towns of the eastern suburbs. Several thousand men in these districts are now idle because of shutting down of plants on account of the water having risen to a point dangerously near the level of the boilers.

The height of the Seine above normal last evening was just about seven yards, which is four feet under the level of the freshet of 1919. A further rise of a foot or so is expected, but the authorities are now reassuring the population that the danger of another calamity has passed unless the weather again turns bad in the basin of the Seine and the Valley of the Marne.

Saone-et-Loire Department is still suffering severely from the overflow of the Loire and Saone Rivers. The heavy snowfalls, which were followed by a quick thaw and rains, caused freshets which surprised the inhabitants. Relief measures have been taken to reduce the suffering among the homeless to a minimum.

The weather predictions last night were for a lower temperature. This has added to the official optimism that the worst is over.

British Railway Men Reject Award

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—A serious industrial situation affecting the railways again appears on the horizon as a result of a ballot by the men which overwhelmingly rejected the recent award by the Wage Commission.

Under the terms of the ballot the executive is empowered to call a national strike if necessary, but extreme measures are unlikely until the union has tried to secure modification of the award. Union officials state that the men are particularly resentful of the conditions governing extra pay for Sundays; also overtime and mileage allowances. They declare that engine drivers lose thirty shillings a week under the award and firemen from twenty to twenty-five shillings.

KINGSTON GUARD CASHED CHEQUE FROM PRISON

Evidence Adduced By the Prosecution in Trial of Former Guard, Arthur Twigg, Who Is Charged With Trafficking.

CHEQUE IDENTIFIED

KINGSTON, Jan. 5.— Evidence that money had been sent to Kingston by a Windsor lawyer, Walter Whiteside, and that cheques and a money order, signed by W. A. Twigg, had been cashed, formed part of the evidence for the prosecution in the two charges of trafficking against ex-Guard Arthur Twigg of the Portsmouth penitentiary, which were heard before Magistrate Farrell yesterday morning.

Evidence concerning a check sent by Walter Whiteside, a Windsor lawyer to a convict, Robert Steel Watson, at the latter's request and how it had subsequently been signed by "W. A. Twigg" and cashed, formed part of the case for the prosecution in the two charges of trafficking with convicts against ex-Guard Arthur Twigg which are being heard by Magistrate Farrell.

The two charges, alleging trafficking on December 20, 1922 and June 20, 1923, were taken up with the prosecution in each charge being finished, the defence will be on hand on Monday.

The evidence of a convict of the penitentiary, Robert Steele Watson, to the effect that he wrote for money and received a cheque for $25 was given and it was shown that the same cheque later went through the bank and bore the signature of W. A. Twigg, while a money order for $15 sent to the convict from Windsor, also bore the endorsement of W. A. Twigg.

Identified Letter.

Walter Whitehouse, Windsor lawyer, identified a letter produced as one received by him from Watson. The letter was written on November 23, 1922, and asked that $25 be sent "for a special purpose to the address given below. Do not mention receipt of this letter, but if everything is O.K. underline the first three words." In the corner of the letter wore the words, "send to this address, A. Kirkwood, 28 Chatham street," and the letter itself was signed by R. S. Watson. Witness stated that on December 4th the letter was answered and a cheque for $25 sent.

Convict Watson shown the letter asking for $25, stated that it was his writing, except the portion in the corner giving the name of A. Kirkwood and the address of 28 Chatham street. Witness recognized the cheque and also identified his own endoresment. It came to him from a convict named Howarth. Witness endorsed it and gave it back to the convict. Later he got tobacco, tooth paste and cigarette papers, about $8 or $9 worth. It came from Howarth through another convict, Morris. Watson gave Morris some things and surmised that Howarth got his through the rest of the money. He later made enquiries of Howarth why the supplies stopped, and he said the officer was sick.

Twigg's Writing.

Alonzo Payne, employee of the Federal Government and hand-writing expert for over thirty years, was then called and he stated that the writing of the name W. A. Twigg in the application for a position in the penitentiary were identical with that of "A. Kirkwood, 28 Chatham street." In Watsons' letter to the Windsor lawyer and also to the signature on the questionnaire made out by W. A. Twigg was also the same.

Watson, who has served 33 months of a ten year sentence, said he understood from Warden Ponsford that a parole was waiting him, but that he was detained on this case. He swore that he had not been promised a parole if he gave evidence against Twigg. Mr. Whiteside said he had been trying to get a parole for Watson since the first year after he came down.

BANK BANDIT IS RETURNING FROM UNITED STATES

Waived Right to Fight Extradition and Admitted Attempt to Break Jail in Minneapolis — Two Bars Cut.

IMPROVISED LADDER.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Norman "Red" Ryan, Canadian bank bandit held in jail here, attempted unsuccessfully to escape, it was revealed yesterday, when police discovered two sawed bars and an improvised ladder in his cell. The discovery of the attempted escape was made after Ryan had been removed to the county jail on a Federal deportation warrant. Investigation disclosed, police said, that Ryan had been working for three weeks with a small piece of steel saw and a nail file and had cut two bars and made a ladder out of strips of blankets which he took from his cell cot. Confronted with evidence of his attempted jail break, Ryan admitted it and said he would waive his right to fight deportation.

He was taken back to Canada last night by Walter Duncan, Chief of the Canadian Department of Justice, and Minneapolis detectives.

Ryan on the Way.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—Shackled to Detectives Meehan and Marran and surrounded by a cordon of police, including Chief Brunskill, Red Ryan, Canadian bank bandit, was put aboard the Soo line Montreal bound train number 8 last night. The train will reach Soo, the international boundary line, at 10.30 a.m. to-day. The train will then proceed to Toronto, where, according to Canadian officers, Ryan is wanted for staging a single-handed bank robbery, in which a bank guard was shot and killed. No details of criminal procedure were given him by the Canadian officers, Chief Brunskill announced, following his departure. It is thought, however, when the train reaches Toronto at 8.30 on Sunday, Ryan either will be placed in jail and forced to face a charge of murder in connection with the hold-up or a transfer of trains will be made and the fugitive will be taken to Kingston penitentiary to finish three sentences for highway robbery.

NO FRIENDS TO BURY RUSSIANS

Funeral of Three Victims of Level Crossing Accident Near Sarnia Undecided.

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press)—The funeral date for the victims of the triple fatality at the C.N.R. level crossing on the London Road Thursday afternoon has not been decided owing to the difficulty authorities are having in locating responsible friends of the three Russians who were killed.

The inquest will be conducted by Dr. T. P. Bradley either on Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, according to the time at which railway officials from Toronto who have notified of their intention to attend can arrive in the city.

Dr. Bradley stated last night that in all probability the urgent need for some more effective means of warning autoists at approaches to crossings will be stressed by the finding of the jury. This is the second crash at this level crossing within six weeks, in the former case an American family narrowly escaped death.

Bachelors Many and Likewise Eligible

MONTREAL, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—"Do I believe women can farm successfully on their own account? I do, but they won't do it long. The men won't let them. I once counted how many eligible bachelors there were within a radius of five miles from the town near which I live and there were forty, and only two or three eligible spinsters. We can never keep a school teacher."

Interviewed here today, Mrs. G. H. Williams, formerly of this city who has been farming for the past six years, three-quarters of a section about thirty miles from Winnipeg, expressed the above opinion. She added that she could drive a four-horse plough and said there was a little ex-society girl in Winnipeg in her neighborhood who could handle a four-horse team even better than she could.

WOMAN ATTENDS TRIPLE HANGING

Sister of Governor of West Virginia a Spectator at Execution of Black-Handers.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—For the first time in the history of West Virginia, three men simultaneously paid the penalty for murder by hanging at the State Penitentiary here yesterday afternoon. While the sister of the Governor of West Virginia looked on, three Clarksburg black-handers, convicted of the murder of Frank Naples, Kelleyville barber, last February, were executed.

The men, Nick Salamante, 33; Richard Ferri, 26, and Philip Connizaro, 26, members of a death syndicate, the operations of which it was testified at their trial extended through West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Maryland, went to their death calmly and quickly. Within a minute from the time they left their death cells the trio were swinging on the gallows, near which twenty officials and newspapermen were congregated to witness the hanging. Mrs. Mattie E. Layman, Governor Morgan's sister, is the first woman to watch a hanging in this State. Also it was the first execution in West Virginia in connection with a blackhand case.

IDENTIFIED GAS TANK OF DIXMUDE

Official Statement Gives Theory That Dirigible Must Have Broken in Two.

PARIS, Jan. 5. — The gasoline tank, blackened by fire, which was discovered recently off Sciacca, Sicily, was part of the equipment of the ill-fated dirigible Dixmude, it was officially confirmed yesterday by the French Ministry of Marine.

The tank, which had been used on the German Zeppelin L-113, was taken aboard the Dixmude just before she left on her last trip. Several similar tanks were loaded into Compartments 40 or 50, along the main gangway, and experts believe that in order for the tank to get clear of the wreckage, the ship must have broken violently in two. This theory is borne out by the testimony of persons at Sciacca, who saw two balls of fire fall into the sea, as though two balloons were plunging down in flames.

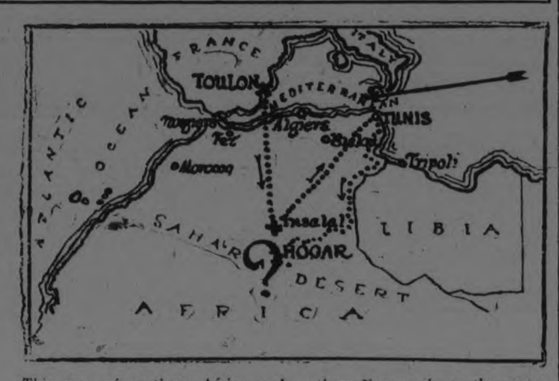
Wellington County Takes Turnip Banner.

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 4.—Wellington is the banner County of the province in the production of turnips, having produced 512 bushels to the acre. Waterloo was second, having produced 509 bushels to the acre. There is no better test of the fertility of the land than the production of turnips, and Wellington's record in this particular proves that the soil is as good as the best when properly cultivated. In silo corn the record of Wellington is also high, being 11.21 tons to the acre.

COMPULSORY SERVICE PROTEST IN URUGUAY

BUENIOS AIRES, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Public meetings are being called throughout Uruguay to protest against the Government's plan to introduce compulsory military service, according to dispatches from Montevedio.

Where Dixmude Is Sought



This map of northern Africa and southern Europe shows the scene of search for the Dixmude, gigantic French dirigible, missing since Dec. 23. The big army balloon flew from Toulon, France, across the Mediterranean to Insalal, in the Sahara Desert. On its return, the Dixmude was caught in a storm near Tunis. Since then no definite trace has been found.

Dec. 27 the Dixmude was reported south of Insalal, near Hogar, the supposition being that it was drifting across the Sahara, looking for a landing.

The following day, fishermen found the body of the Dixmude's commander in the Mediterranean, a few miles off Sicily. The place where the body was found is indicated with an arrow. Dotted lines show known course of the Dixmude up to the time of her disappearance near Tunis, and her probable course since the storm.

CARTER IS CONFIDENT EGYPTIAN SOVEREIGN'S BODY LIES IN COFFIN

Uncovering of Granite Sarcophagus Removes Last of Doubts That Have Overshadowed the Exploration in Valley of Kings.

LONG REST BROKEN.

LUXOR, Egypt., Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—With the discovery of the colossal sarcophagus of Tutankhamen, enclosed in a nest of four wondrous shrines, the question whether the mortal remains of the Pharaoh lie in this mortuary chapel has finally been decided. The sarcophagus has remained intact throughout thirty centuries, unviolated by the sacriligious hand of tomb robbers.

Thursday was one of the great moments in Egyptology, bringing fruit to so much toil, reward for so much disappointment, and crowning a long and great effort. Howard Carter, when by the light of his powerful arc lamps, loosened the seals of the fourth golden casket, to gaze on the outline of a huge stone coffin of pink granite quarried at Assuan, must have felt something like Brugsch, the German Egyptologist, at another great moment in the annals of Egyptology when by candle light in the Deir-el-Bahari sepulchre some years ago he read the cartouches of more than thirty kings and queens of ancient Egypt hidden there.

After 3,000 Years' Rest.

Here was definite confirmation that for the first time in history the unviolated sepulchre of a king of ancient Egypt had been discovered. Here, in a coffin of graven stone, of workmanship rivalling the greatest masterpieces, must undoubtedly lie, enclosed in magnificently decorated mummy cases, the body of the king as the priests laid him to rest more than 3,000 years ago.

Mr. Carter now is sure that upon him devolves the task of revealing to the world how a king during one of the greatest art periods of Egypt was laid to rest, and the imagination here and elsewhere is aroused over the treasures which probably will be contained in the huge stone coffin. In the valley of the tombs of kings yesterday hopes were high that when the sarcophagus and its mummy cases are opened the royal mummy will be disclosed surrounded by the full panoply of the king's royal and sacred office.

In Blaze of Gold.

Owing to the vast dimensions of the outer canopy which is quite dwarfed by the proportions of the sepulchral chamber, the excavators came upon the sarcophagus with some surprise. It was enclosed in the fourth of a nest of four shrines, an arrangement different from anything yet discovered. All the shrines are profusely gilded and the fourth, like the preceding ones, is abundantly decorated with cartouches and the figure of the king. The great stone box, gleaming pinkly in the electric light amid all this blaze of gold, produced a most profound impression upon the little group of privileged spectators.

In this historic moment, Mr. Carter was surrounded by men who have followed the excavation of the tomb from the beginning. All of them immediately congratulated him on what they termed the crowning achievement of his long career as an historical excavator.

Owing to the size of the sarcophagus and the cramped dimensions of the mortuary chamber, it probably will be some time before the lid can be raised to examine the contents, especially as a preliminary to this will be the removal, at least, of the roof of the second, third and fourth shrines.

Each successive stage of Thursday's proceedings was photographed for record purposes, and the photographer was in the tomb again this morning taking pictures.

Montreal Beauty Marries Pursuer

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 5. — (Canadian Press).—It was learned here today that Miss Helen Morgan, who was known as "Miss Mount Royal" in a beauty contest held in connection with the winter sports at Montreal last year, has become the bride of Lowell Almy of Boston. Miss Morgan was in the chorus of a musical show that is playing at a local theatre. Almy followed her from Boston and they were married at Port Chester on New Year's Day.

VANCOUVER SEES RECORD BUSINESS.

Japan Has Already Placed Orders For Twenty Million Feet of Lumber.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 4.— Trade between the port of Vancouver and Japan will probably break all records for volume and variety in 1924, according to details being made in the annual report of the Japanese consulate no wbeing compiled and in the opinion of shippers closely linked with export and import conditions of this port. Probably the largest item is lumber, for which orders have already been placed for more than 20,000,000 feet from British Columbia forests. The lumber will play an important part in the rebuilding of Japan's devastated earthquake and fire zone.

Japans' rebuilding will also have much to do with large shipments of building materials. Japan is also expected to buy large quantities of wheat through this port.

Fourteen Million Bus. In Alberta Wheat Pool.

CALGARY, Jan. 5.—From October 29, when the Alberta wheat pool was organized until the end of December, approximately 14,000,000 bushels of wheat had been received from members of that organization, according to a statement issued by Chester M. Elliott, Provincial Manager.

Two Bodies Found In Factory Debris

PEKIN, Ills., Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Two bodies were recovered yesterday from the wreckage of two buildings of the Corn Products Company plant here which were destroyed by explosion and fire early on Thursday. Frank Velde, employment manager, said his best information last night was that six are known dead and 26 are buried under the debris or listed as "missing." Earlier semi-official reports that other bodies had been removed was due to duplication, it was explained.

Despite the cold weather, 100 men were engaged in exploring the wreckage. The bodies found were those of William Rumler and Lee Harding, a foreman.

BODY IS BORNE BACK TO FRANCE

Harbor of Toulon In Mourning As Remains of 'Dixmude's' Commander Arrive on Cruiser.

TOULON, France, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Bearing the body of Lieutenant Du Plessis de Granadan, commander of the ill-fated dirigible Dixmude, the cruiser Strasbourg steamed into Toulon Roads at noon yesterday, completing the voyage from Sciacca, Italy, near where the lieutenant's body was discovered by fishermen.

The Strasbourg entered the harbor between rows of merchant craft with their flags at half-staff, and was saluted by those warships of the Mediterranean Squadron which are not engaged in searching Sicilian waters or the bodies of the dead commander's comrades.

The coffin, placed on the deck of the Strasbourg, was visited by a large number of the residents of Toulon and by Admiral Du Mesnil, commanding the French naval forces in the Mediterranean, while airplains circled overhead, dropping flowers upon the catafalque.

The body was taken ashore just before sunset and lay in state in the Marine Arsenal until 10 o'clock this morning, when a solemn funeral ceremony, conducted by the Bishop of Frejus, was held. Burial will be in the family vault in the Department of Eure.

The Commission investigating the circumstances surrounding the loss of the Dixmude, is soon to hear Captain Joubert, French naval attache at Rome, who is in possession of all the papers found on Lieutenant De Granadan's body.

NEW YORK WORLD HAS OWN BLAZE

Flames Leaped From the Basement Up Elevator Shaft to the Fourteenth Storey-Presses Damaged

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Flames, starting from a short circuit in the press-room of the New York World in the basement of the Pulitzer Building, last night shot up an elevator shaft to the top of the fourteen-storey building, engendering dense smoke which forced a general evacuation of the editorial and composing-rooms in the upper stories.

Working under the difficulty of having to draw lines of hose up staircases, firemen controlled the fire in an hour and employes of the newspaper returned to their work. Three of the fourteen presses in the basement were damaged.

It was announced, however, that the damage would not interfere with publication of the paper.

LOTS OF FOWL FOR SALE THE LOCAL MARKET

Prize Winning Birds From the Peterboro Poultry Show--Coats for Fifteen Cents.

AUDIENCE SMALL

The farmers' market this morning was notable mainly for the amount of wood on sale, and the depth of snow that enveloped everything in sight on the open section, where the principal exhibits were those of dressed and quartered beeves and porkers. One vendor with a few beets and onions and parsnips, the honey dealer and the chilly but valiant fish man, were the other dealers who braved the drifts. The auctioneer, selling men's second-hand coats for fifteen cents, had a shivery-looking audience.

There was plenty of beef on sale at prices ranging from 8 to 10 cents for fronts and 11 to 12 cents for hindquarters. Pork was 14 and 15 cents for fronts, 16 and 17 for hinds, and lamb 23 and 25 cents a pound.

In the basket section there were plenty of vendors, despite the condition of the roads, which were recorded as being extremely difficult to navigate, "and they will probably be worse going home," said one woman. There was lots of fowl, chickens being the main article on sale. They were priced generally at 25 cents a pound. One man, disposing of the first and second prize-winning fowl in the dressed fowl competition at the Poultry Show, had birds for which he asked 35 cents a pound, and described as "April fowl, milk fed."

A turkey or two was selling at 35 cents a pound, ducks were 28 and 32 cents, geese from 25 to 30 cents a pound. Eggs sold from 50 to 65 cents a dozen, and butter from 42 to 45 cents a pound. Red cabbage pickles in pint bottles was 20 cents.

HOWARD CARTER FEELS TENSION

Egyptian Explorer is on Verge of Breakdown--Reaction Followed Success.

LONDON, Jan. 5. — (Canadian Press).—A correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph at Luxor, Egypt, forwards the following despatch:

"Following Howard Carter's magnificent discoveries of the contents of the second and successive shrines in the Tutankhamen tomb, there has come a sudden slump. Mr. Carter has been working under the highest tension lately, and the culmination of his brighest hopes has been followed by re-action.

"As he walked through the Valley of the Kings yesterday afternoon in blazing sunlight, wearing a heavy overcoat, his face was drawn with the heavy strain of the last few days. The correspondent has excellent reason to believe that his relations with the Egyptian Government are getting more intolerable all the time, which, coupled with the ever-increasing responsibility of the tomb, is affecting his constitution, which has not been robust for some years."

CONQUERING THE WINDS

ELMA, Wash. Jan. 5. —An air motor designd to move a boat or vehicle directly against the wind has been invented here by Charles R. Ford. It consists of a series of fans or windmills mounted on the same shaft and inclosed in a cylinder. Between the fans are stationary pieces of metal that Ford calls "air straighteners." These, the inventor declares, so distribute the currents passing through the housing that each fan generates the same amount of power.

TWO TO ONE IN FAVOR OF BOBS.

But Paris Shows How It May Be Camouflaged to Appear Practically the Same.

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—You behold here the three profiles that are finding most favor in Paris at the present time.

And the proportion of bobbed hair to the unbobbed runs about two to one in favor of the bob, we are further informed. All coiffures are being slightly softened and are becoming more flattering. Hairdressers have learned that all profiles are not so perfect as they may be made to appear, properly co-operating with the locks.

The most popular of all hairdressings, at the present time, is the "garconne," or French clip, which is cut very short in the back and which allows the outline of the head to appear pretty much as nature made it.

While this bob was originally supposed to go uncurled, it is becoming quite the thing now to marcel the hair close to the head, but to leave the ends straight so that they do not in any way destroy the outline of the head. In the front the hair may be slightly more full, if one desires.

The fluffy bob is by no means as smart as the close one, but since it is much more becoming to many types of faces it has its following and holds it.

But even this cut is induced to take more interest in sticking closer to the head than ever before and is kept as neat and glossy as possible.

Often the ends are curled very tight and close to the head so that the appearance is that of a very close headdress, and a very elaborate one.

Some women, who can't quite get the courage, or the parental consent, to shear the locks entirely, have compromised with a sort of half-and-half treatment. The front is cut and arranged like a regular bob. The portion of the hair behind the ears and on top of the head is left long and is wound into the tightest of knots at the nape of the neck. Or sometimes it is rolled under so that one takes a second glance before realizing that the entire head of hair is not bobbed. In this way a woman may have the effect of a bob and still say to her husband or sweetheart, "Of course, dear, I'll never cut my hair without your consent."

Those, however, who have withstood the bob are beginning to feature the topknot. The most popular style is the soft arrangement about the face, parted in the middle or on one side, or just pulled back loosely from the forehead without a part, piled in a soft knot at the back of the head. To call attention to the crowning glory with a jeweled or shell comb is the common practice.

But the peeled effect and the severe hairdress are frowned upon by Paris, and femininity is now the order of the day.

GERMANS GOING TO ARGENTINE

Charity League Arranges For Reception of Selected Emigrants.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 5. — Ambitious plans for organization of a large scale and systematic German emigration to and colonization in Argentina have been formulated by the League of Charity of Central Europe, is it is disclosed here.

Representatives of the League were recently received by President Alvear and were, it is stated, given satisfactory assurances that the Argentine government would lend every possible assistance to furtherance of the scheme. The League is a Roman Catholic organization. It works under the direct superintendence of the German church, and has for 25 years been engaged in prosecution of extensive charitable enterprises throughout Central Europe.

Capital Provided

The plan is to furnish German farmers with the capital necessary to emigrate to Argentina and to establish German agricultural colonies in various parts of the latter country. Argentina has been picked as the locale of the experiment on the theory that by virtue of climatic, soil and economic conditions it will offer the emigrants a better chance of success than any other South American country. The League believes the time is ripe for a wholesale emigration of German agriculturists.

The emigrants will be carefully picked. They will all be practical farmers with reputations for sobriety and industry. The League will extend its offer of assistance initially in the districts that have suffered most from post-war conditions and will recruit its colonists, not only from Germany, but from all parts of Teutonic Central Europe.

Land Ceded

Definite arrangements have been made with the Argentine government, it is understood, for reception of a preliminary experimental group of emigrants consisting of about 300 families. The League will pay costs of transportation for the party. The government on its part has promised to cede to the League sufficient land from the national domain to accommodate the colony and the Minister of Agriculture will furnish seed and other assistance. The National Mortgage Bank will be instructed to extend the League sufficient credit at least to commence its operations in this country. Representatives of the League here believe that the experimental colony, if it meets with a reasonable degree of success, will be the forerunner of an emigration movement of vast proportions.

FROSTY WEATHER LESSENS DANGER

PARIS, Jan. 5. — (Canadian Press).—A spell of frosty weather which set in yesteray after so many days of rain, seems likely to last, increasing the hope that the end of the Seine flood is well in sight.

The first effect of the frost was to slacken the rise in the river, which at Paris between eight o'clock and midnight had gained only four inches. Present indications are that there will be a rise of four or five inches more between now and Sunday, after which the waters will recede.

The retaining wall at the entrance of the Invalides Railroad Station collapsed for a distance of one hundred feet this morning.

VINCENT MEREDITH APPROVES OF THE BANQUE NATIONAL

The Method Used to Save the Credit of the Province and Trade Disturbances.

MONTREAL, Jan. 5. —Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., President of the Bank of Montreal, when asked to express his opinion on the absorption of the Banque Nationale by the Bank of Hochelaga, said:

"I unreservedly approve of the arrangement as one designed to preserve the credit of the Province and to prevent a trade disturbance, the consequence of which would certainly be detrimental and might become serious.

"It has been well known for some time that the Banque Nationale had a considerable lock-up of its funds in a manufacturing concern which at the moment was unsaleable, with no prospect in sight of being relieved of the incubus. In these days of economic unrest and unfounded rumors, it was only a question of time when the Banque's credit would have suffered and a disaster to the French-Canadian banking interests of the Province of Quebec might have ensued. With the number of their depositors aggregating, I am told, considerably over two hundred thousand it would have been a calamity, not only to the depositors but to the shareholders and all doing business with the Banque Nationale, if it had been obliged to close its doors.

CRERAR MAY BE MEMBER CABINET

Mentioned as Successor to Sir Lomer Gouin

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Rumors were in circulation yesterday that following upon the retirement of Sir Lomer Gouin from the Government and the temporary withdrawal of the Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, through ill-health, Hon. T. A. Crerar, former Progressive leader, was likely to be invited to join the Federal administration and to accept an important portfolio. Inquiries both at Ottawa and Winnipeg resulted in a refusal to talk by those who would know. The Canadian Press interviewed Mr. Crerar at Winnipeg, and reports that he had nothing to say. An Ottawa correspondent, in concluding his despatch last night, says:

"A closer understanding between the Liberals and Progressives is, in the light of developments, almost an assured fact. From statements made on various occasions by prominent members of the Progressive party, it can be inferred safely that the hour has almost struck."

DEMANDS FULL COST OF COUNTY PUPILS.

Ingersoll Board of Education Raises Collegiate Institute Fee.

INGERSOLL, Ont., Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Considerable interest has developed in the situation created by the local Board of Education in excluding county pupils from the Collegiate Institute unless payment of the cost of education is made on the basis of 100 percent. Heretofore the county council has paid on a basis of only 80 percent. with the exception of one year, and they refused to pay the one-hundred percent. for the present year. The mandate of the board went into effect the first of the year and several of the county pupils have already left.

Mussolini Prepares Public Announcement.

ROME, Jan. 5—The suspense surrounding Premier Mussolini's plans insofar as they concern his continued rule either with or without elections, is about to be broken. An official communique, given out to-day contains this promise, saying:

"The Premier since last December has made irrevocable decisions concerning the political situation. These decisions will be published during January.

Meanwhile the political pot is boiling. The newspapers are filled with conjecture on the political lineups which they think are imminent.

DR. JOHN MACOUN SUFFERS STROKE

Well Known Campbellford Man in Serious Conditlon—Business Changes Hands.

CAMPBELLFORD, January 5. — Dr. John Macoun suffered a paralytic stroke while in his office Friday afternoon and was removed to his residence close by where he was attended by Dr. M.. F.. Loucks He was in a semi-conscious condition at the time and had lost the power of speech, one of his sides being completely paralysized. About 8 o'clock in the evening he rallied and was able to talk a little. A large number of friends called during the evening to inquire as to his condition and to extend there sympathy. It is hoped that he will recover and he will recover as he is possessed of unusual vigor for a man of his years.

Sells Out Business.

John I. Adams has disposed of his business on Bridge Street to John L. Hay who takes possession at once. The place was closed all day yesterday for stock-taking.

Mr. Adams has been obliged to retire on account of ill health, the best medical authoritites in Peterborough and Belleville, as well as in Campbellford, having advised that course as his only hope. For the present, at least, he will enjoy a well-earned rest.

At the Rinks

It was found impossible to mark out the ice in the curling rink yesterday so that the opening of the season, announced for last night was postponed. The election campaign which waxes hotter as polling day draws near, seems to have sidetracked the interest in every other pursuit in town. Coverts rink was well patronized last night by skaters and there was a little hockey practice early in the evening but this will not start in earnest until next week.

At the Regent

Harold Lloyd's entertaining comedy "Grandma's Boy," the history of a weakling and coward who suddenly developed by a clever ruse and harmless prevarication of his doting relative, a Samson and a hero, was the feature picture of the Regent last night. The presentation was one ludicrous situation after another even down to the closing scene when the hero eloping with the girl of his choice and carrying her across a stream, fell into the water with his fair burden in his arms. There was the usual Pathe review and May Alliston, singing and dancing artist established herself as a favorite with Campbellford theatregoers. The bill will be repeated tonight and at a matinee.

Bituminous Miners Demanding New Scale.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 4.— An effort to reach an agreement for a new wage scale for the bituminous coal miners of the old central competitive field will be made on February 11, at Jacksonville, Fla., when the miners and operators of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and probably western Pennsylvania, will meet. This was decided upon at a meeting of representatives of the operators and miners from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois here to-day.

Western Pennsylvania was not represented at to-day's meeting, but in the call to be issued shortly for the Jacksonville conference the miners and operators of that State will be included.

Indians of Prairies Harvested Big Crops.

REGINA, Jan. 4.—Indians in the three Prairie Provinces in the 1923 season harvested the greatest crop in their history. The total grain crop was 1,276,656 bushels, an increase of more than half a million bushels over 1922.

In the three provinces the Indians harvested 638,561 bushels of wheat, 574,282 bushels of oats and 82,304 bushels of barley.

The Indians also own 20,000 head of cattle and 25,000 horses.

CHINESE MILITARY CHIEF STARTS SPINNING MILLS

TOKIO, Jan. 4.—Marshal Chang-Tso-lin, in addition to being a soldier of some note in China, has recently added to his interests by starting a spinning company of 30,000 spindles in Mukden, in the war lords' domain of Manchuria.

Japanese spinning men are somewhat worried over this new venture of the Chinese chieftain, for they point out that the Japanese yarn sale in Manchuria is already decreasing, and they fear that the operation of a big company by Chang will seriously hurt the already decreased sales of Japanese yarns.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

High School Students Had a Meeting — Personal Items of Interest

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 5.—The Campbellford High school students met together Friday afternoon, for the purpose of forming an athletic club for winter sports. The following officers were elected: President, Gerald Wilson; Vice-President, Dorothy Ackerman; Secretary, Irene Davidson; Treasurer, Mr. Earl Stephens, B.A. Two representatives were appointed from each form. Form 5, Margaret Irwin, Karl Haig; Form 4, Catherine Clarke, Arthur Wallace; Form 3 ,Helen McDonald, Gibson McNamara; Form 2, Loretta Sargenson, Howard Fairman; Form 1, Cherrie Turner, Howard Shapter; Commercial Class, Essie Cassan, George Welsh.

The Bemersyde Chapter of the I. O.D.E. held their regular monthly meeting Thursday night in the Library, the Regent, Miss Hazel Atkinson, presided. There was a good attendance of young ladies. The most important part of the night's business was the discussion of ways and means of raising money during the winter months.

The funeral of the late John J. O'Leary was held Saturday morning, leaving his residence on Nassby street for St. Mary's church, where Requiem Mass was celebrated at nine o'clock. The late Mr. O'Leary was 49 years of age.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church was held on Friday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. James Casement, Sebastapool street. Miss Boyce, the president, was in the chair. The devotional and business time was taken up, after which a good programme was given. Mrs. Janet Phillips was the convenor of this committee and took the lead in announcing the programme. First item was a reading, "The Power of Prayer," by Mrs. Phillips; second, a solo, "Leave it With Him," Mrs. C. W. Turner; third, a questionaire on the annual report of the W.M.S. The questions were asked by Mrs. Phillips and the answers given by twenty-five of the ladies present. A motion was carried that ten dollars be sent to the "Rest Fund."

The next meeting is to be a "Quarterly Tea" to be held the first Tuesday in February at the home of Mrs. John Irwin, Front street. The program and refreshments to be in the hands of Mrs. W. H. Ashton convenor and ten other ladies forming the February Committee. At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Casement for opening of her home to the W.M.S. for their meeting. Closed by the Mizpah prayer. The Mission Study class of the W.M.S. will be held Monday, Jan. 7th at the home of Mrs. W. H. Ashton, Inkerman street. The Methodist Church was well filled on Friday night for the Sunday School Concert and a splendid program was given. The principal artist, was Miss Jessie Tuite, of Albert College, Belleville, an elocutionist of rare ability. Local talent provided the musical part of the program and every selection was well rendered.

The church choir opened the concert with a chorus "Softly falls the Shades of Evening," after which Rev. W. Elliott, pastor, who acted as chairman, made a few well chosen remarks then announced the following program:

Instrumental Duett — "Poet and Peasant" by Mrs. I. T. Frederick and Dr. Lillian Young.

Selection—"Jack Knives" (Owen Smilie) by Miss Tuite.

Encore (comic).

Vocal Solo—"I cannot sing the old Songs," Mrs. E. Bates.

Encore, "Keep on Singin'."

Selection — "Registration Day at one of the Booths"—Miss Tuite.

Encore" An old lady telling of her first love story."

Instrumental selection by a violin class of eight boys pupils of Mr. R. T. Cowell.

Vocal solo—"The Star of Bethlehem," Mr. Collison. Encore—"English Rose."

Piano solo—Selected,Master Ralph Sperry.

Selection — "Abraham Lincoln's Speech and the Dying Soldier," Miss Tuite.

Euphonium solo—"Old Black Joe" and variations, George T. Salter. Encore—"Addah Polka."

Vocal solo — "Beautiful Land of Dreams," Cherrie Turner. Encore—"Lullaby Land."

Selection—"Conversations Overheard at the Movies," Miss Tuite. Encore—"Only God Could Make a Tree."

The Chairman thanked all who helped in the concert.

Miss Mae Sloggett, of Aurora, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sloggett, Bridge Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Milburn McCarty and daughter, Gwendolyn, of Toronto, who spent the holidays at Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Richardson's on Queen Street, returned to their home on Thursday. While here there was a large family gathering for Christmas. Mrs. Martin, of Stirling, an aunt, 88 years old, came up for the occasion, also Mrs. Watts and Miss Martin, of Stirling. Then on New Year's Day, Dr. and Mrs. Richardson and their five children, Mr. and Mrs. McCarty and daughter and Mrs. A. W. Free all went to Stirling to visit the aunt in her home there.

JOHN I. ADAMS.

Mr. Adams came here from Trent Bridge, 21 years ago and has been a resident of Campbellford ever since For twelve years he worked as a harness-maker for Charles Cassan, buying the latter out, nine years ago since which time he has conducted the business successfully, building up one of the largest establishments of the kind in the district. He has always taken an active interest in public affairs but always declined to stand for office on account of his health. His store has always been a favorite gathering place for the farmers when they came to town.

Mr. Adams is prominent in the Orange Order in which he has held local and district office for years. He retires with the confidence of his customers and with the respect of a large circle of acquaintances, all of whom will join in the hope that a rest will bring him complete restoration to health.

Mr. Adams wishes to thank the public in Campbellford and throughout the community for their generous patronage ever since he went into business for himself. He will continue as a resident of the town.

GRAVEL PIT IS INDIAN'S GRAVE

Encampment Which Furnished Bodies for the Graves Known Only to One Family.

COBOURG, Jan. 5. — (Canadian Press)—The bodies of Indian braves and squaws are being exhumed to make way for the march of progress. A gravel pit recently purchased for the Provincial highway, near Grafton, proves to be an Indian burying ground. High above old Lake Ontario lie graves unmarked by stone or cross. Sentinel pines stand guard and through them the wind for centuries has sunk the dirge of the dead. So long is it since the encampment which once lay at the foot of the hill disappeared that in only one family has the story of it been preserved. That the hill held the graves of many early inhabitants was quite unknown until several skulls were found.

Fire in Western Town Believed Incendiary.

CALGARY, Jan. 5.—Chief Smart, of the Calgary fire brigade, called twice in one night, to Grossfield, forty miles away, stated that a second fire broke out early Friday morning, several hours after a whole business block had been burned out, apparently of incendiary origin. Damage estimated at $125,000 was done by the first fire, starting at 10.45 Thursday evening, and a further loss of $75,000 was incurred early Friday morning.

Many of the citizens whose stores and dwelling were destroyed, may leave the town rather than rebuild.

COMPETING WITH NOAH

GREENWICH, Eng., Jan. 5.—Twenty dogs, two parrots and 14 chickens were removed from the home of an elderly spinster after her death here recently. The woman widely known for her kindness to the poor, as well as four-footed and feathered creatures, lost her life when her clothing was ignited by a flame from a coal-oil lamp. For years she slept in a basement room. Seven pups shared the quarters with her.

TURF RACING MEET A GREAT SUCCESS

In 1920 When the Great Racing Boom Was On. Was the Only Time That the Sales Exceeded This Years.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—New Year's finds the owners and breeders of thoroughbreds in England in a most optimistic mood as a result of the success which attended the Newmarket December sales of bloodstock held at Turf headquarters during the middle of last month. Despite the gloomy predictions which were frequently heard in turf circles that the results of the British elections held earlier in the month meant unutterable woe for breeders, the sales just held were successful beyond all expectations. Only once, in 1920, when the racing boom which followed the ending of the great war was at its highest, has the amount obtained at the great Newmarket sales exceeded that of last month.

Foreign competition, particularly from the United States was very keen at the sales last month. Very ordinary mares were constantly making very extraordinary prices, while the demand for well-bred two and three year old fillies and for foals was remarkable. It is particularly note worthy that the advance in values was general one.

British buyers frequenty beat off the foreign raiders and not one of the grand mares from the late Lord Manton's stud was obtained by a foreign buyer. There were two commissions of 8,000 guineas each and one of 7,000 guineas fro the United States for three of the Offchurch mares and before the sales began nothing seemed more certain than that one or two of these would pass to United States purchasers. So keen was the bidding by British buyers that the British Bloodstock Agency was unable to execute commissions aggregating £20,000 owing to the limits placed by intending buyers from other countries being exceeded by British buyers.

HARDING TOMB GUARD TO SHOOT ROWDIES.

Stoning and Bugle Blowing Cause Nightly Disturbances.

MARION, O., January 5. — Soldiers guarding the vault where the body of President Harding is entombed have been given orders to shoot directly at persons causing disturbances around the tomb, Lt. R. H. Harriman, in command of the soldier guard stationed at the tomb, announced to-day.

Lieut. Harriman said that ever since the guard has been stationed at the tomb, certain individuals have been annoying the detachment. At first small boys were blamed but when the disturbances kept up, the guard took it more seriously.

The disturbances have consisted of throwing stones at two small guard houses on each side of the entrance to the vault. At various times a bugle has been blown in remote parts of the cemetery about the midnight hour.

Riot guns have been received and these loaded with buckshot, will be used if the disturbances continue, Lieut. Harriman says.

Report Dismissal of C.N.R. Representative.

MONTREAL, Jan. 5.—In the absence of Sir Henry Thornton president of the Canadian National Railways, no officials at headquarters here would discuss the announcement that the services of Arnold Aronovici, European continental agent had eben dispensed with. Sir Henry is at present in Winnipeg and is not due to return here until Monday.

Mr. Aronovici paid a visit to Montreal some months ago and after his departure it was announced he had been appointed as special continental agent of the National system with an office in Paris and reporting to Wm. Phillips, European manager, whose headquarters are in London, England. While here Mr. Aronovici made close enquiries into such matters as immigration, agricultural production and mineral possibilities of the Dominion.

The Campbellford Election

No speaker at the recent Nomination Meeting had any serious criticism to offer on the work of last year's Council. Mr. W. J. Armstrong's chief point was that the Garry Street sewer was given precedence over the one on Rear Street, the residents of which have a petition in the hands of the Council.

There are two outstanding reasons why the Garry Street sewer was constructed and the one on Rear Street delayed. One of these, as I explained in my address to the Electors, was that before a sewer could be put in on the latter thoroughfare a plan of the entire sewerage system of that district would have to be prepared. This plan has now been completed.

The most important reason of all is that the Garry Street sewer was practically forced. When Dr. Clinton, of Belleville, was District Health Officer, he visited Campbellford and investigated the sanitary conditions of the neighbourhood now served by the Garry Street sewer. He gave the Council to understand that unless a sewer was put in, in the interests of public health, the Provincial Board of Health would be obliged to take action.

As a last word to the Electors, permit me to repeat the statement which I made at the nomination that if I am re-elected Mayor the Council will follow a sane policy of public improvements, and I am fully convinced that the tax rate will not exceed 42 mills.

HUNGARY BOMBING MAY CAUSE WARS

The Parliamentary Opposition Has Begun to Attack Premier Bethlen

BUDAPEST, Jan. 5.— The long list of bomb outrages of the recent days seems likely to become a serious obstacle to the loan negotiations in which Hungary is at present engaged, as the Parliamentary opposition, which previously had promised to give its support to Premier Bethlen's government on the loan, has begun to attack the Premier.

A manifesto issued by the spokesman of the opposition says the Government will be held responsible if it continues to content itself with the arrest of those indirectly involved in the bombings instead of uncovering the secret societies and high personages who are believed to be directing the crimes. To the manifesto Count Bethlen replied that there would be no further bombings.

Opposition to the loan also has been increased by adverse criticism of the terms under which it is being negotiated.

GOOD NEWS FOR BIBLE LOVERS OF PETERBOROUGH.

The members and friends of the Interdenominational bible class will be delighted to learn that Rev. A. G. Doner, who was compelled to disband this class last spring owing to his prolonged absence from the city, is now at home and has very kindly consented to resume his place as teacher to this class.

For three years past this class was largely attended with much pleasure and profit to all and we know that this intimation will be sufficient to recall all of the former members who are able to return.

At the same time we extend a cordial invitation to any others who may desire to attend this class and advise them to be there for the opening service.

The first session will be held in the basement of the Public Library on Tuesday night at 8.30, January 8th. This opening service will be largely for reorganization and getting acquainted, also for the decision of the new course of study for the winter months.

RUSSIAN PRINCESS HELD IN $4,000 GEM THEFT

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 4. — The Russian Princess Olga Koslowsky, daughter of the late Gen. Vladimir Koslowsky, is under arrest charged with stealing jewels valued at 15,000 kroner (about $4,000) from a country house near Elsinore, where she was a guest.

The arrest has caused a sensation in Copenhagen's social and diplomatic circles, where the princess is popular.

Her father, who was killed by the Bolsheviki, once was enormously wealthy, but all his property was confiscated with the result that after his death, his widow and daughter were practically penniless.

To the Ratepapers of the Township of Otonabee

To the ratepayers

For the benefit of those who seem unfamiliar with the finances of Otonabee in recent years, I submit the following taken from the auditors' reports of 1920, 1921 and 1922:

Expenditure on roads and bridges 1920—$8,230.61.

Balance on hand Dec. 31, 1921—$2,301.81.

Expenditure on roads and bridges 1921—$19,878.08.

Overdraft for roads and bridges Dec. 31, 1921—$7,892.54.

Expenditure on roads and bridges 1922—$9,970.00.

Overdraft Dec. 31, 1922—$4,388.90.

The unusually high road expenditure of 1921 wiped out the varying surplus the township had carried for many years, and created quite a large overdraft, which was materially reduced in 1922.

The correct and signed statement of the reeve and clerk, presented freely to the ratepayers present at the nomination meeting at Keene on Dec. 31, 1923, shows an expenditure on roads and bridges up to Dec. 15 of $8,499.80. The accounts that are sure to come in from Dec. 15 to the end of the year are included in the audit. Not knowing exactly what these accounts will amount to it is impossible to state exactly, at any nomination meeting, what the overdraft or balance will be at the end of the year. When the 1923 accounts are audited another substantial decrease in the township's overdraft will be shown.

Soliciting the continuance of your confidence and support I remain,

Yours respectfully,

W. A. ANDERSON

To the Electors of Otonabee

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

As it will be impossible for me to see you all personally I take this opportunity of thanking you for your continued confidence in my judgment in the past and would respectfully ask for a renewal of the same on Monday next. Starting at the bottom and gradually working up through the different offices through long years, an experience of municipal and county work is obtained not possible in any other way.

If elected I promise a continuance of the same sound and honest administration of the affairs of the municipality as I have endeavored to give you in the past.

Wishing one and all the best wishes for a happy and prosperous 1924, I am,

Yours respectfully,

F. A. Eason

TO THE ELECTORS OF CAMPBELLFORD

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I respectfully solicit your support for the Reeveship. I have had long experience in municipal work, having been in the public service as town and counties councillor, with few interruptions, since 1901. I believe that I am justified in saying that I thoroughly understand the needs of both town and county. One year ago I was defeated on an issue that has since been settled and the outcome has vindicated the stand I then took.

CHARLES H. DAVIDSON

For Deputy Reeve

To the Electors of the Township of Otonabee.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

I have accepted nomination for the deputy-reeveship of your township, after having served two years in the municipal council, and if I am elected, I will advocate economy and the best value possible for the money spent by the township, and give the electors a true statement of affairs at the end of the year.

Soliciting your kindly support and influence, and wishing all the Compliments of the Season, I beg to remain,

Yours faithfuly,
F. D. McINTYRE.

To the Electors of the Township of Otonabee

As a Candidate for the Reeveship and being unable to see all the Ratepayers personally, I most respectfully solicit your support, and will, if elected—

1—Speak frankly on the financial condition of the Township. It is not known to the Ratepayers to-day.

2—Will re-open the question of the Township road system, and will ask for an expression from the Ratepayers.

3—Will advocate in the Council in a reasonable business way, and also advocate in the County Council in a reasonable business way, better treatment for Otonabee in the matter of County Roads, and also with the Suburban Commission.

Wishing you all a Happy and Prosperous New Year,—I remain,

Yours respectfully,

Morley Smithson

SATURDAY, JANUARY 5, 1924.

CIVIC COMMONPLACES NO. 2.

Yesterday the Examiner discussed one of the elementary principles of civic government, as pointed out by the Citizens' Research Institute, namely, that the time to protest against expenditure is when such expenditure is under discussion, not when the tax bills come in.

Commonplace No. 2 is just as important and just as simple. Here it is:

When a city borrows money the taxpayers and the users of city services have to pay it back with interest.

You can't get away from that.

The argument is often heard: "We shan't have to pay for it now. The city will borrow the money."

But the fact remains that the taxpayer will have to begin paying sinking fund and interest charges at once, and that, except for those people who will die or leave the city and those who will come to the city before the improvement is paid for, the whole sum borrowed will be repaid with interest by those who were taxpayers of the city when the amount was borrowed.

Even those who leave the city may have to pay part of the cost in the way of smaller prices for their property or business, which they may dispose of on leaving.

Those who die simply pass on the liability to their descendants, and perhaps an estate depreciated by a share of the cost.

Of course, "there is nothing new in this, and we knew it all before," but it would be real news if taxpayers were suddenly to begin to apply this knowledge in their public business as they do in their private business.

GETTING THEM HERE NOT ENOUGH.

Announcements from Ottawa that the biggest rush of immigrants into Canada in years is to be expected in the spring would be more welcome if they ended with a statement that complete plans have been made for the reception of the newcomers.

The work of the Immigration Department should not end with dumping immigrants into Canada—it should really begin them and continue until the raw material of citizenship is well on its way to becoming the finished product.

Merely bringing new citizens here is not enough. They must be established here, given a chance to get started on the road to prosperity—and then kept here.

Our immigration policy in the past has failed to recognize that obligation, and because of that lack of vision it has not produced results in keeping with the money that has been spent.

Labelling an immigrant as a farm labourer does not make him one, and if the authorities consider they are through with him on his arrival in this country the chances are more than an even break that he will never reach a farm, and about ten to one that if he does get there for a while he'll eventually land in an industrial centre and help to flood the labour market.

There is nothing in the statements from Ottawa to give any reason for hoping that the department intends to inaugurate a new system in taking care of the new settlers when they reach here.

The need of such a system, let us hope, will dawn upon the administration before the spring rush of immigrants begins.

POLLUTING THE RIVER.

One matter that the City Council in co-operation with the Board of Health and the District Medical Health Officer should concern itself with is the pollution of the Otonabee River within the city limits.

It is recognized that conditions at the civic swimming beaches are far from sanitary as a result of the discharge into the river of refuge from a number of plants.

The water is polluted to a considerable degree, and as the swallowing of a quantity is inseparable from the practice of swimming there is the constant danger of an epidemic as a result.

No effort has been made to remedy these conditions—although they have been known to the authorities.

On the other hand, children have been encouraged to patronise the civic beaches in the face of the fact that the water in which they bathe is never quite clean and at certain periods is so contaminated as to be perilous to the health of the hundreds of bathers.

There is no reason why this sort of thing should continue.

The pollution of the water can be avoided, and the interest of the community demands that steps be taken to have it avoided.

Other means can be found of disposing of waste products and refuge than merely allowing them to flow into the river.

That, of course, represents the easiest and most convenient way, and because there has never been any official objection raised the Otonabee has been used as a trunk sewer.

It is high time that such use of Peterborough's splendid river should be stopped—and, incidentally, high time, too, that the city should stop polluting the water below Peterborough by dumping all the sewage of the city into the stream.

THOSE WHO REMAINED AWAY.

Judging by the size of the vote polled in the local municipal elections and from a study of the results in other cities, there has been no improvement so far as inducing citizens to do their duty at the polling booths is concerned.

In Toronto, for example, despite the re-entry into the lists of the redoubtable Tommy Church and the resultant mayoralty fight that was given a wide measure of publicity by the newspapers, only 28 per cent. of the voters on the rolls exercised their franchise.

In Peterborough, assuming that everybody who voted at all voted for a mayoralty contest, the showing was a little better than this, reaching a percentage of a little better than 40.

But that is bad enough—with only four voters out of every ten recognizing their responsibility.

It would be interesting to interview the other sixty per cent. and find out their reasons or excuses for not voting.

Some, of course, were absentees, others ill, but the vast majority were in the city and physically able to visit the polls.

What kept them away?

Laziness, indifference, inability to recognize the importance of helping to select the best from the material offering itself—these were perhaps the chief reasons.

And yet it is safe to assume that among the six out of every ten who did not take advantage of their franchise will be found the most vehement critics of public bodies, the most eloquent kickers about tax bills and the loudest shouters of the statement that "Peterborough is dead."

No man or woman who was in Peterborough on Tuesday and in a condition of health fit enough to be about and who did not vote should have the hardihood during the next twelve months to complain about the administration of civic affairs.

Criticism comes with ill-grace from the mouths of people who would not lift a finger to help select a civic government.

WHO WAS HE?

Here is a mystery. In 1832 an artist took a block of marble and sculptored a bust of one of the great men of that period in the world's history. Since then this marble bust has been on exhibition in the museum of the Middlesex Hospital Medical School in England.

Some time ago, a visitor to the museum asked: "Who was this great man?"

No one knew!

Now the London newspapers are printing pictures of the marble bust, trying to find out who the man was and what he did.

Isn't that irony? Great enough in his generation to be honored by a marble bust in a museum! Today no one knows who he was.

* * * *

What do you make of all this, Watson? Well, Sherlock, it's safe to say this: The Unknown Man has had his personality and identity swallowed in the quicksands of time. But, his work must live on, influencing people of today in undetected ways, for he must have contributed a great service or thought, to have his bust placed in a leading medical museum.

His life's work is what counts, so it doesn't matter much that no one can identify him. We don't know who he was. Neither do we know thousands of humanity's greatest benefactors—for instance, the inventor of the needle, the hammer, the trowel, the button, etc.

People have been too busy erecting monuments and busts of military destroyers, to remember the really great.

As long as people admire and fawn over the destroyers, the constructors will be quickly forgotten and the destroyers will be permitted to continue their destruction. What a rotten indictment of humanity it is, that Napoleon will be remembered when men like Edison and Einstein will be forgotten!

PROTESTING TOO LATE.

Toronto mothers are uttering mournful protests against the imposition of daylight saving on their city for the next three years. The proposal was submitted to the electors on Tuesday and carried, in spite of the fact that the majority of mothers were known to be vigorously opposed to it. In view of the fact that about 70,000 new names of women voters had been placed on the list for the election, a far different result was anticipated; had they taken the trouble, says the Hamilton Spectator, to lodge their protest at the only time and the only place in which it could prove effective—at the polls—there would be no need for them to be complaining today. The matter was entirely at their own disposal, and it is rightly felt that they have now no legitimate grievance.

Such is the electoral situation in Toronto, and in Hamilton it is no better. Just about one-quarter of those entitled to vote exercised their privilege. Here, too, many thousands of women electors had been added to the list, yet the poll was one of the lightest on record. It is not a fact to be proud of. No doubt, the novelty of the situation accounts to some extent for the very poor showing. The newly-enfranchised citizens have not yet got accustomed to their duties. It appears that the small majority secured in favor of the bylaw to change the election date will be accepted as sufficient authorization for action by the Council. We shall see whether the alteration has any appreciable effect on the voting. Anything calculated to improve matters is to be welcomed, and it is to be hoped that the faith of those who sponsor the change will be vindicated. The civic consciousness of the community is obviously at a low ebb; it is a serious outlook for any country when its subjects cease to take any active interest in their government.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The very mention of White River these days causes a shiver.

Sir Lomer Gouin's retirement from the Cabinet is not only a loss to the Government, but a loss to Parliament.

Hon. W. E. Raney has been offered the House leadership of the Ontario Progressive Party. If he accepts verbal duels between the Premier and himself may be expected as a feature of the next session.

The Premier says the Liberal Party will be the official Opposition in the Legislature, while the Progressives announce thaty they will be. Why not a compromise as in the last Legislature?

In disposing of the committee chairmanships, the City Council should be careful in seeing that ability is the chief factor in the selection.

The sewage disposal plant is one problem that should be settled this year. It has been hanging fire much too long.

Shareholders Given Unexpected Dividend.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 5. — Owen Sound share-holders of the Chicago Duluth and Georgian Bay Transit Company received belated Christmas gifts this week in the form of a dividend of seventeen and one-per cent. on their holding, which was entirely enexpected. Many local people assisted the Company by buying stock in 1912 in order to improve the steamboat trade out of here by operation of the steamers North American and South American. Many had disposed of it for fifty or sixty per cent. of its per value, thinking it not worth keeping.

Candidates Withdrew.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 5. — New nominations will be required in the village of Shallow Lake as there was one man short on the Council and one on the school board when the time to qualify expired. W. BAD BLOOD PIMPLES AND BOILES Banished By Burdock Blood Bitters

Miss Irene A. Matthews, Stayner, Ont., writes:—"I thought I would write and tell you of the experience and benefit I have derived from Burdock Blood Bitters.

Some few months ago I was troubled with bad blood which broke out on my face in the nature of pimples, boils and ring-worm, and I got so bad I really did not know what to do.

I was ashamed to go anywhere, and the itching and burning caused such a terrible sensation I could get no relief day or night.

One day a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I used one bottle and felt quite a relief, and by the time I had taken 3 bottles I was completely relieved.

I cannot praise B.B.B. enough and I hope anyone afflicted like I was will get the same benefit I received."

Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—Exporters took practically all the heavy steers offered and paid about 50 cents a cwt. higher than for previous supplies. In all over 500 steers were bought for overseas at from $7.50 to $8.00 a cwt. Medium weight butchers were also well taken and for the choicest steers around 1,200 lbs. each the prices ruled at $7.50 and $7.75. Good butchers' steers and heifers sold in instances up to 7 cents a pound, but the general average was not much above $6.50 a cwt.

Butchers' cows and bulls were in much better demand. Fat bulls were taken for export up to 5 cents a pound and fair to good ones for local butchering brought 4 to 4½ cents. Choice fat cows were up to 5½ cents. Good cows sold from 4½ to 5 cents and mediums 3½ to 4¼ cents. Nothing worth mentioning was done in the stockers and feeders, but some of this business will likely develop next week.

Calves have had another outburst of strength and well finished choice ones have sold as high as 13½ cents a pound. The choice ones are mostly wanted, but with too few of these the medium and good have also been firm from 9 to 12 cents. Common heavy calves have brought 8 cents.

The lamb market has shown great strength with an advance of upwards of $1.50 a cwt. over the previous week. On Thursday choice lambs in quantity went to the abattoir at 13½ cents for the ewes. Light runs have been largely responsible for the higher prices. With the advance in lambs sheep are also firmer. Handy weights are selling up to 7 cents and yearlings at 9 cents.

Most of the week's hogs have sold at $8.75 a cwt. f.o.b., but the market weakened on Thursday to about $8.50 and packers are talking lower for next week.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, January 5 (Canadian Press). — Arrivals, 610 sale cattle and calves, 3,100 hogs, and 140 sheep and lambs.

The cattle market maintained a steady tone, with a very fair inquiry.

The hog market was generally unsettled, and up to noon no definite prices had been established. The packers bid $7.50 for thick smooths and $8.25 for select bacons.

Decent killing lambs sold at $10.50, yearling sheep at $8.50, and the balance of mutton at $8.50.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, January 5 (Canadian Press). — In sympathy with the strength displayed in the future prices for grain at Canadian and American centres, the tone of the local cash grain market was stronger and prices were up 1 cent per bushel. A much better feeling prevailed in the flour market, but with no change in prices as yet. A moderate business is passing in millfeed, and the tone of the rolled oats market is steady. The baled hay market is also steady. Prices were marked up 1 to 2 cents per dozen for storage eggs. The butter market was rather more active. An easy feeling prevails in cheese.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, January 5 (Canadian Press). — Soaring prices of corn yesterday lifted the values of all grains. The rise in corn was chiefly due to scarcity of receipts.

Wheat closed firm, 1-4c to 1 1-4c net higher, May $1.08 3-4 and July $1.06 7-8.

Corn, after reaching high price for the season, finished at 1 5-8 to 2 1-8 cents gain, with oats 1-8c to 3-4c to 7-8c up, and provisions varying from a shade decline to 5c decline.

Before the bulge in the corn began, wheat prices had a downward tendency, the result of sympathy with weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool, where offerings of Canadian wheat were said to be cheaper and it was reported that Argentine shipments had enlarged.

As soon as enhancement of corn prices became pronounced, however, there was rather lively demand for wheat, traders who were short showing anxiety both on account of the ascent of corn and as a result of the circumstance that wheat receipts in every direction were meagre.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, January 5 (Canadian Press). — Cattle, 9,000; beef steers and yearlings active; latter closed strong; best youngsters, $11.50; top handy weight steers, $11.25; no choice fat steers here; bulk short fed, $8.50 to $10.00; desirable beef heifers on yearling order, active to strong; less desirable as well as weighty kind closing dull unevenly lower; fat cows, steadier to easier; vealers, uneven about steady; bulk to packers, $12.00 to $12.50; outsiders, $13.50 to $14.00.

Hogs, 52,000; opened fairly active; strong to 5 cents higher; top, $7.35.

Sheep, 16,000; best fat lambs about steady; in-between kind, 15c to 25c lower; sheep, 25c lower; feeding lambs, steady; bulk fat yealed lambs $13.25 to $13.70; top, $13.80; fat ewes $7.25 to $7.00; choice feeding lambs, $12.75.

Price Changes of Dr. Chase's Medicines

By increasing the contents of the boxes the cost to the user remains unchanged

THIS revision of prices affects only three of Dr. Chase's Medicines—the Kidney-Liver Pills, Nerve Food and Catarrh Powder.

In spite of the constantly increasing cost of doing business ever since Dr. Chase's Medicines were placed on the market many years ago there has been no change in the prices of these three medicines to the consumer.

It has now become absolutely necessary to make some changes, but this has been worked out in such a way that the cost to the user remains the same.

The slogan for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will therefore remain "One pill a dose—One cent a dose," for while the price will be 35 cents instead of 25, the contents of the box will be 35 instead of 25 pills as formerly.

The same applies to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which will sell at 60 cents a box instead of 50 cents, since the contents of the box is now 60 pills instead of 50.

With the exception of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Powder, which is now 35 cents a box, the prices of Dr. Chase's other medicines remain unchanged.

Dr. Chase's Almanac has now been mailed and distributed to practically every home in Canada, 1,550,000 copies, if you did not receive yours kindly advise us and we shall mail you a copy free of charge. Edmanson Bates & Co., Limited, Dr. Chase Building, Toronto.

FINANCIERS TO MEET MINISTERS

French Finance Department Anxious to Check the Decline of Franc in Exchange — Suspect Foreign Pressure.

Exchange Speculation.

PARIS, Jan. 5. —Leading financiers have been invited by Finance Minister De Lasteyrie to confer wtih him concerning means of suppressing speculation in exchange and halting the depreciation of the franc This is the first time in recent months that the government has looked upon the position of the franc as being serious enough to require positive action.

M. De Lasteyrie, aided by his chief assistants, plans to confer first with high officials of the Bank of France, and ther to call in the more important of the French bankers and exchange experts. The Minister is said by Stock Exchange experts to be anxious to revive confidence in French Government bonds, which have been slumping on the market under heavy selling, which is partly attributed to the recent campaign for "Sterling at 100 and the Dollar at 30 francs," conducted on the Stock Exchange by certain French bankers

Unloading Bonds

Government bonds, according to brokers, recently have been sold in great quantities, the sellers preferring other securities or foreign currencies. This tendency has been regarded in Government circles as particularly unfortunate, especially at a time when many foreign obligations have to be met and the Government has just launched a new three billion franc loan.

One suggestion that has been made to prevent exporters from leaving balances abroad is to require them to prove that they have brought back to France, payments for exports.

The common explanation for weeks in French financial quarters and in the newspapers has been that powerful money interests in New York and London were deliberately depressing the franc— New York purely for profit, and London as a political measure designed to modify the French policy in the Ruhr.

Another explanation up to the end of December was that the year-end requirements in settlement of foreign balances were reponsible for the rapid rise of the Pound Sterling and the United States Dollar, but this explanation is no longer available.

Officials in charge of the Paris branches of United States banks resolutely reject the suggestion that speculation originating in New York is operating against the franc. They affirm that the moderate balance of trade, amounting to 1,500,000,000 francs against France in 1923, together with the regular interest installments on foreign loans have not been countered balanced by the tour ist expenditures.

Interest Accounts

The French Government, it is pointed out, is paying about $40,000,000 annual interest on its United States loans and on its debt and on army supplies. There are also loans to Bordeaux, Marseilles, Lyons, and the Department of the Seine, and a considerabe list of private company interest payments to the United States.

BUSINESS LULL AFTER HOLIDAY

Cold Weather in the West Stimulates Sales of Seasonable Articles—Conditions Fair.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4. — (Canadian Press).—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Limited, states:

Halifax—Wholesalers generally report business satisfactory. Retail trade good. Collections fair.

St. John—Wholesale trade fair with improvement expected as season advances. Retail trade active. Collections fair.

Montreal— Business in most lines on quiet side on account of stock-taking and salesmen being in. Grocers report business and collections good and prospects brighter than this time last year.

Toronto—Wholesalers and retailers find business quiet now the Christmas season is over, Retailers report good trade and stocks in certain lines low. Boot and shoe trade more active. Substantial placing orders coming in for Spring delivery in auto tires. Collections not showing much improvement as yet. Building trade continues active. Same condition prevailing in regard to mining industry lumber, pulp and paper. Unemployment situation normal for this time of year.

Winnipeg —Wholesale trade fair, with fair volume of Spring business in sight. Colder weather having stimulating effect on sale of heavier lines in dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes. Collections fair.

Regina — Wholesale trade fair to good. Retail trade on quiet side since the holiday season. Collections slow.

Saskatoon—General conditions for both wholesale and retail trade fair. Collections quiet.

Calgary—Slight improvement in wholesale circles. Retail trade while not up to expectations may be considered fair. Collections of current accounts fair.

Vancouver—Wholesale and retail trades rather quiet with the after-effects of holiday season. Collections very quiet with exception of hardware which are good. Reports from wholesale grocery and dry goods indicate substantial increase in business over 1922 and all lines of trade are very optimistic for business with the coming of the new year. Unemployment situation seems to be well in hand for this time of the year.

CAVAN COUNCIL UNDER CENSURE

Candidate For Deputy-Reeve Criticizes Expenditures and Discrimination Under County Assessment.

(Special Correspondence).

CANANVILLE, Jan 5—About one hundred ratepayers attended Mr. R. Robinson's meeting in the Community Hall here last night. Mr. John Newton was chairman. After a few preliminary remarks he opened the meeting by calling on Mr. Robinson.

A candidate for the deputy-reeveship of Canan township, Mr. Robinson said he believed that every candidate should have a meeting in each polling sub-division. Every ratepayer should be given the opportunity to criticise the work of the Council. The first fault Mr. Robinson found was that the towns and villages of Durham county were assesed at $10,630,630 and have been reduced to $5,548,930. The fifteen townships on the other hand had from $20,272,538 to $23,617,404. He contended that the County Council should be more active in equalizing the assessment.

Expenses Higher.

Reading the Township Council's report Mr. Robinson pointed out that the expenditure for 1923 was more than $72,000. The taxes amounted to a little more than $68,000 He showed that the Council had borrowed $5,000. He also pointed out that the expenditure was $30,000 in excess of the expenditure in 1919.

Mr. Harry Elson was the only Councillor present, and he stated he was not in a position to say whether the Council had spent the extra money foolishly or not. Mr. Robinson assured the taxpayers that the Councillors were not in a position either.

Stipend's Increased.

He next demanded an explanation for the increase of one-third in the Councillors' salaries, while the gravel shovelers who worked en hours a day had their wages lowered from $3 to $2.50. Mr. Elson at this point interrupted to say that the township wages had to be lowered to equal the rate of the County. Mr. Robinson then dryly remarked that it would not have been any breach of law to have lowered the Councillor's wages at the same time.

The Cavan Council, Mr. Robinson informed the ratepayers, made an agreement with the Millbrook Council to pay half the expenses of the Millbrook Town Hall so that they may be allowed the use of a room to meet and a room for the County Clerk. Up to a few years ago the insurance on the hall was $18 or $20 a year, and the Cavan Council paid half. Since Mr. Bert Janes had put in the movies the insurance has been $225. Mr. Janes paid $95.85 and the Cavan Council $112.50.

The Council, Mr. Robinson continued, also voted away $500 on a fire escape which would otherwise not have had to be built. Here Mr. John Clark, former Councillor, said the Government had passed a law requiring all public buildings to be adequately equipped with fire escapes. Mr. Robinson replied that he meant escapes were not necessary for a dozen or so Councillors who occupied a room on the ground floor. He concluded by requesting the support of the electors on Monday.

CHIDES ENGLISH ABOUT EMPIRE

Canadian Professor Tells Audience in London They Know Nothing About It.

LONDON, Jan. 5. — (Canadian Press Cable).— A Scottish-Canadian's criticism of the present-day attitude of the British people towards the Empire, made in a half-jocular and half-serious vein caused something of a stir in the London School of economics yesterday. Professor J. L. Morrison when addressing members of the historical association on "The Historian in Canada" said that being Scotch he was a provocative person. (Laughter). He regretted his absence from Canada and added: "You don't care in this country for the Empire. It is a matter with you of drapers' and grocers' bills. There are few subjects of less interest to English audiences than imperial questions." Cries of "No" and laughter. Professor Morrison said he had talked to Tory workingmen and he discovered that they knew absolutely nothing about the Empire.

Someone at this stage called out "You insist upon being an independent nation within the Empire," to which Prof. Morrison retorted: "An independent nation within the Empire and therefore the Empire gave you in 1914 what no other dependent state ever gave a nation on which it depended."

Unlike England, he continued, Canada believed in the Empire. He had learned far more of the meaning of the British Empire from even Canadian separatists than he had done in the 15 months he had been among ordinary English citizens.

LAUNCH ACTION TO OUST DIRECTORS.

The Election of Montreal Tramways Officers Attacked By New Slate.

MONTREAL, Jan. 4.—Return of the writ in the action to oust the board of directors of the Montreal Tramways and Power Co. was made at the office of the prothonotary of the Superior Court to-day.

The action is instituted by T. Kelly Dickinson, S. D. Valleries, Dr. N. Pournier, N. Fineberg, E. Champagné, W. R. Eakin and E. Hurtubise who were nominated as a state of directors against the old board, which was re-elected. The former ask that the elected directorate, composed of E. A. Robert, president, W. C. Finlay, Hon. C. G. Foster, Hon. J. M. Wilson, J. M. McIntyre, N. Curry and Hon. Lorne Webster be declared illegally in possession of the seats, and ousted, and that the petitioners be declared elected to office and installed therein.

The ground for this is that, it is alleged, proxies representing some 3,000 shares of stock, the holders of which were favorable to the opposition were rejected by the chairman at the annual meeting of directors held December 20.

The action was authorized by Mr. Justice Goderre in Chambers during the afternoon of December 27, and served on December 28 and 29. Contestation of the writ will be heard, unless delay is asked, in another week.

THAMES FROZEN

Monday in All Saints'.
Tuesday in Murray Street.
Wednesday in Trinity.
Thursday in George Street.
Friday in St. Paul's.

These will be prayer services rather than preaching services, though short addresses will be given.

LOCAL DENTISTS IN PARTNERSHIP

Dr. C. H. Fulford and Dr. A. J. Buchanan in Business Together.

Two members of the dental profession in Peterboro, Dr. C. H. Fulford and Dr. A. J. Buchanan, have entered into partnership and are commencing business together in Suite 5 of the Canadian Bank of Commerce building.

Dr. C. H. Fulford is a graduate of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Toronto, and since graduation in 1917 has been practising in Peterboro, with the exception of a year and a half spent in service with the Canadian Army Dental Corps. Of late years, he has been associated with Dr. M. A. Morrison.

Dr. A. J. Buchanan is also a graduate of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Toronto. For three and one-half years he saw active service with the 102nd Canadian Infantry in France, returning to Canada after the singing of the Armistice to resume his academic work at Toronto University.

EMPIRE'S FUTURE IN THE DOMINIONS.

Premier Massey Denies Any Reference to British Political Parties.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5.—Speaking before the Canadian Club here Friday Rt. Hon. W. F. Massey, referring to the recent criticisms of himself by the Manchester Guardian declared that the churlish remarks such as have been indulged in by that newspaper do not promote the cause of the empire, nor tend to foster unity between its different countries. The whole of the Dominions said Mr. Massey, are developing so increasingly in population, trade and influence, for good, that he was vain enough to think that the future of the empire rests at least as much with the overseas countries as with Britain itself.

During the British election campaign he declared he never favored any particular candidate nor did he refer to any of the contending parties, but that he did express regret that there was not more patriotism and less party spirit.

The contention of the Guardian was that because the British people had been hospitable to the members of the Imperial Conference, they should approve of everything that had taken place or say nothing. Mr. Massey said he was unable to agree with this. That is a doctrine to which very few British citizens will agree he declared. The Guardian apparently forgets, he said, that what is taking place in Britain is of the utmost importance to the overseas countries of the empire, as well as to Britain itself.

JUDGE LENIENT TO FAMILY DESERTER

Fugitive Husbands Should Receive More Attention From Police.

MONTREAL, Jan. 5.—To bring one husband who deserted his wife and children back from Alberta $750 was spent, then the judge let him go on suspended sentence. This is a sample of the difficulties in the way of extradicting deserting husbands, says George H. Corbett, secretary of the Society for the Protection of Women and Children. Although the law allows the extradition of fugitive husbands, it costs about $500 to bring them back.

The remedy is for the police authorities to treat desertion of a family like any other crime and to track down and bring back a deserter just as they track down a forger, and prosecute him out of public funds. Then men will be afraid to desert as they are afraid to steal, and fewer families will be left dependent on charity.

Too many would-be deserters, says Mr. Corbett, think Montreal a good place to desert from. The majority of cases are not natives of Quebec.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR TRADE HERE

One Peterborough Wholesaler's View of the New Sales Tax—Trade Good.

That the new year opens with good prospects for business, at least in the wholesale grocery trade, is the opinion of Mr. J. E. Adams, who recently took over the business of Mr. Chas. Rishor, and who reports promising activity in his line at the present time. That the enforcement of the new sales tax, which commenced on the first of January, will not materially affect retail prices, is another opinion recorded by Mr. Adams, who does not see much increase in any of the price lists coming in from the manufacturers. Several manufacturers have already informed Mr. Adams of their intention to retain their usual prices for staples, without any increase to the ultimate consumer, while others are making only a small increase. The change of prices rests with the manufacturers, many of whom are evidently of the opinion that the traffic is already standing all it can bear, while others, it is presumed, may make the new impost an excuse for additional charges to be laid to the door of the sales tax.

That the collection direct from the manufacturer will have a steadying effect on business generally, and make for more conservative merchandising, is regarded as likely. In the past, many retailers chose to either ignore the 2¼% tax as being negligible, when calculating prices, with a later damaging effect on their business and the accounts of those from whom they bought, or else regarded its infractional character as an arithmetical difficulty, and added just a little more than was necessary to get around the numerical troubles encountered.

Some of the tax-free articles include sugar, salt, meals, lard, cheese, whole grains and raw materials to be used in the manufacture of taxable articles: Many of the manufacturers of Canada are simply absorbing the new tax piecemeal, and issuing quotation lists with the increase, if any, recorded as a net price to the wholesaler, marking their price lists with a red ink notation to the effect that the sales tax is included in such quotations, while others are issuing invoices at regular prices, and making a separate charge item at the bottom, adding six per cent. to the total invoice price of the goods listed. With this latter system, if a lengthy bill of goods is sold to a wholesaler, he is put to the trouble of reckoning the additional six per cent. on every item in turn, so that the absorption in the net price makes an easier method of reckoning costs for the wholesaler, but gives the manufacturer just a little more leeway in the matter of adding on an additional percentage, if he so desires, to cover whatever cost he may figure the new tax involves him in, in the way of extra bookkeeping.

It should be remembered that the six per cent. tax that the Government now proposes to levy at the source, and collect from the manufacturer direct, is only an additional tax of 1¾%, as the system of taxing sales which it supersedes took 2¼% from the manufacturer and 2¼% from the wholesaler. While causing an endless amount of extra calculation and trouble, it also made for extra cost to the consumer, because of the pyramiding process entailed in the additional charges made by different handlers, something in the same way as compound interest doubles up on itself.

By the new system, the manufacturer is liable to the Government for the sales tax on all non-exempted articles. In the case where the wholesaler buys outside of Canada, the tax is collected from him at the port of entry.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Baldwin Anticipated Difficulty of Labor.

LONDON, Jan. 5.— What may be regarded as Labour's view of the appointment of Sir Esme Howard as British Ambassador at Washington is voiced in the current week's New Statesmen, which says that by making this appointment Premier Baldwin has relieved the coming Labour Premier of what would otherwise have been his first diplomatic difficulty.

The paper says it welcomes the choce of Sir Esme for another reason, it that "it may be taken as marking a return to the tradition of permanent ambassadorships—a tradition which has been systematically violated by the appointments to Washington during most of the last decade.

EATING FOR HEALTH AND A RIPE OLD AGE

Majority of Persons Dig Their Graves With Their Own Teeth—A Few Precautions.

It has been said that the majority of persons dig their graves with their own teeth, and another has said "We cannot eat long and live long." Most of us eat too much and the wrong kinds of food. I knew a wonderful old lady who lived to be over ninety. Her eyes were brilliant, her complexion clear and fresh as a young girl's and she enjoyed life as long as she lived. Her secret was, in her own words, "I never eat a mouthful more than I really want. I always stop eating before I feel quite satisfied. Every meal I include some eliminating food." This is certainly a simple recipe for happy, healthy old age, isn't it?

Fruits are eliminating foods and, even in the winter, we have many of the best ones at hand. The citrus fruits are especially good, containing vitamins is large quantities, and can be used in dozens of ways. The juice of a lemon, orange or grapefruit, or a mixture of all three, a half hour before breakfast in the morning is a wonderully good way to start the day. I do not advocate eating acid fruits with starches, so advise taking the fruit on arising and then the toast or rolls and coffee at breakfast time proper. Oranges and grapefruit make delicious salads either alone or combined with celery, green pepper or pimentos. For an emergency salad, cut an orange in thick slices, marinate in French dressing and serve on a nest of crisp lettuce leaves This is especially good with a heavy meat course. The grapefruit should be sectioned and all the white skin removed, break into small chunks and proceed as you do with the orange salad. Apples are another valuable fruit in salad sauce or desserts.

Eliminating vegetables are cabbage, sour kraut, string beans, turnips, celery, onions, lettuce, spinach, beet tops and any of the leafy vegetables. In the springtime dandelion greens, young mustard and any other tops of vegetables make a mighty good addition to the diet. Any of the whole grain cereals are good eliminating foods, giving nourishment and bulk to the diet. Bran is especially good and can be eaten as a cereal, in combination with other cereals, in muffins, breads and many delicious desserts. Some cold night give the family a steamed bran plum pudding. Beat one egg well, add one-fourth cup of sugar, one-fourth cup molasses, three cups bran, one-fourth cup flour, two teaspoons mixed spices, one-fourth teaspoon soda and one-third teaspoon salt, two teaspoons lemon juice, and then add one-fourth cup stewed prunes and three-fourths cup currants, floured with the fourth cup of flour. Pour into greased mold, cover tightly and steam two hours. A tablespoon of chopped suet or melted butter is an improvement.

Cook all of the vegetables with just as little water as will keep them from sticking, as the valuable minerals and salts are lost if too much water is used. If any remains, it should be incorporated into a sauce to serve with the vegetable or put into the stock pot.

The stewed dried fruits are a most excellent eliminating food. Soak them overnight in water to cover, simmer gently until soft in the water in which they soaked. Most of them need no further sweetening, as the soaking and slow cooking brings out all the pure fruit sugars, but if more is needed add just before taking off the fire. The addition of half an orange or lemon sliced thin or a stick of cinnamon gives a delightful ful and somewhat different flavor. A tablespoon of fresh ginger root to stewed pears is very good.

Each day eat a green salad—a big one, either of lettuce, romaine, water cress or endive—and include celery and parsley as often as possible in the menu. A very delicious salad is one and a half cups finely cut celery, same amount of shredded cabbage and one chopped green pepper. Moisten with boiled dressing or mayonnaise.

Here are a few little precautions to take in order to "enjoy good health," and grow old gracefully.

1. Drink plenty of water.
2. Take exercise in the open air if possible. Otherwise, take sitting up exercises daily.
3. Plan to include at least one of the eliminating foods in each meal.
4.—Cultivate regular living habits.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE GINGERBREAD MAN

So off they went to the Old Woman's house.

"What is it you want us to do?" Nick asked the Gingerbread Man.

"If you don't mind, I wish you would help me to rescue my lady. love" said the Gingerbread Man, sobering suddenly. Nancy wasn't sure, but she thought she saw a tear run down from one of his raisin eyes. However, it may have been the sirup with which she stuck on the missing one. But anyway she felt sorry for him.

"Of course we will!" she declared before Nick had a chance to reply. "Is your lady-love in trouble? How does it happen that she needs rescuing? Did a wicked knight run off with her?"

"I don't know what you are talking about at all," said the Gingerbread Man, "but it sounds as though you meant well, anyway. I don't know what a wicked night is. I know what a bad night is—all stormy and rainy and blowy and—"

"My goodness!" exclaimed Nick, looking at his alarm clock by the light of the lantern in Bo Beep's garden. "It's 3 o'clock and if we have any rescuing to do we'd better be about it instead of talking so much. What is it we are to rescue?"

"My lady-love!" answered the Gingerbread Man with great dignity. She is the Clothes-Pin Doll that belongs to one of the Old Woman's children. Her name is Anaconda Arabella Asthma Annabelle. But come! We'd better be going."

So off they went to the Old Woman's house, built like a big shoe right at the turn of the road.

A patch on the old shoe had blown loose like a door and in they crept, all three of them, the Gingerbread Man going first.

"Sh! Sh! Sh!" he whispered softly. "Where are you, Anaconda Arabella Asthma Annabella? I'm here to save you."

"I'm here!" came a muffled voice out of the darkness. "And I'm almost strangled. I'm upside down in the toy-box under a stocking-top cat and I'm nearly smothered. His braided tail is in my eye and his, whiskers tickle my nose till I want to sneeze my head off. I would, only it's only painted on. My nose is! And I can't sneeze."

"Never mind, darling, I've brought some brave friends to save you. No more shall you stand on your head in the dark and be smothered. It's much worse than the waste-basket, from which the mouse rescued me."

"You stay here," whispered Nick. "You make too much noise when you hop on your one foot. I'll get her."

The poor Gingerbread Man dropped another sirupy tear of gratitude.

In another minute Nick had the Clothes-Pin Doll safely out of the box and the four of them crawled out through the patch.

Then back they went through Daddy Gander Land to the Christmas-tree house.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Jan. 3.—For the different municipal offices in the Town of Cobourg between forty and fifty nominations were put it but these have dwindled down until at the present three are in the field for the reeveship and nine for the floor of the Council.

Mayor F. D. Boggs is elected by acclamation. The nominees for that office who retired are Harry McGuire, John W. Odell and W. J. Maher.

For the position of Reeve three are in the field, W. H. A. Semple, who held the position last year; Dr. Adam Watson, a member of the 1923 Council, and W. J. Corbett, a former reeve. An interesting contest is assured.

Mr. Harry McGuire is elected Deputy Reeve by acclamation. The other nominee for the office, Dr. Adam Watson, retired.

For the Council the following from the 1923 Council are in the field: Humphrey Skitch, John Russell, Henry J. Fullerton, F. J. McArthur, Lt.-Col. J. W. Odell. The new aspirants for office are D. Coyle, Delos Batton, Morley Sparling, E. A. Hircock, making nine altogether.

Following were nominated and retired: Cecil T. Peterson, Richard Moore, David W. Wagner, Reuben Jackson, T. John Stenhouse, Thomas Diamond, A. R. Willmott, John P. Delenty, Harry Field, F. W. Lapp. James McKinnon, W. J. Corbett, Michael J. Kennedy, James Comrie, Wm. Fox, Wm. Pattenick, W. J. Maher, Adam Watson, Wm. G. Scopes, A. E. Cruickshank and Richard Lean.

The School Trustees are elected by acclamation. For the public school M. C. Nichols, Harry Field and B. R. Heaslip are elected. For the Separate School Board, J. F. Brown, M. J. McDonnell and James Butler are elected by acclamation.

Poultry Plant Improved

A new one-hundred foot brooding house has been added to the equipment of Adanac Poultry Farm at Grafton, owned by Messrs. Beatty and Son. This gives the plant a capacity of almost 7,500 baby chicks at a time.

Sidney Council

Sidney township Council was elected by acclamation as follows: Reeve, W. A. Reid; Deputy Reeve, C. H. Ketcheson; Council—Ed. Pyeer, W. Vanderwoort, Col. R. Vanderwater.

Haldimand Township

In Haldimand township, Northumberland county, Peter Haig is elected reeve by acclamation and A. R. Mackenzie deputy reefe.

Six councillors are in the field for the floor of the Council chamber.

Avoid Operations For Appendicitis by Bathing Internally With Warm Water.

Hundreds of operations for appendicitis have been avoided by the "J.B.L. Cascade."

These lettters from among many in our possession should convince you that Internal Bathing brings positive results. Mr. James McLaughlin, 91 Evanston St., Winnipeg, writes: "I bought a 'J.B.L. Cascade' for the cure of a bad case of appendicitis. My doctors told me I must have an operation at once. I had spent more than $50 in doctors' bills, but the Cascade completely removed, in a few days, every trace of soreness and pain. I eat and sleep well now, have regained my former weight, and am now in perfect health."

A Mother from R.R. No. 1, Leamington, Ont., writes: "About two weeks ago our eldest son took sick with cramps in the bowels so bad he could not move. Our doctor gave him hypodermic injections and ordered him to the hospital to be operated on at once. Before doing so, however, I induced him to use the 'J.B.L. Cascade,' and in less than a week he was up an around, and has been well ever since. It also cured me of severe headaches and constipation. I cannot praise the Cascade enough. It certainly is a wonderful invention."

If you have constipation, headaches, appendicitis, or feel languid and not just right, don't drug yourself, bathe internally. The "J.B.L. Cascade" is being shown and explained at the Warne Drug Company.

It is estimated that there are sixteen tons of miscroscopic shellfish in every cubic mile of the ocean.

PROPER MOUNTING OF TUBES.

Mount the sockets of the dry cell tubes on a soft piece of rubber or on a piece of wood suspended by flexible springs, and much of the noise du to slight or heavy shocks and jars will be eliminated. The tubes should always be mounted in a vertical position, as the delicate grid wire may come in contact with the plate and render the tube inoperative. The filament wires also have a tendency to sag when heated, and if brought in contact with the other elements may cause serious injury to the tube.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

If the real importance of the normal heart, in helping life extension often to ten, fifteen and even twenty years, could be fully impressed on parents and children, our life line would show surprising gain.

The number of children who are placed under a handicap early in life, could be very much reduced through a heart examination by a competent physician. This test should be carefully and thoroughly made after children have apparently fully recovered from attacks of rheumatism, scarlet fever, tonsilitis or diphtheria. It is not infrequent for many children to be crippled for life with a heart action that does only about half its normal work.

The use and development of muscles in the chest, arms and shoulders, that aid the heart in its normal action is also a prime importance. Erect posture has much to do in aiding a good heart action and healthy lungs. If the space in which the heart acts is narrowed or constricted by flattened chest or lowered breast-bone and incorrect working or resting posture, the interference is felt not only by the heart itself but by other dependent organs.

You can greatly aid your heart to normal action by careful attention to the manner and time of eating. Hurried meals spoil many a good heart. Take at least twenty minutes for refreshment.

The action of the heart is quite different during certain periods of rest and sleep. While it is true the heart does not get a real vacation from action, it does obtain some rest during perfect sleep. Don't overload your stomach late at night and go to bed with nothing but work ahead for your heart, pumping blood for unnecessary food supply. Every time you do it your shorten your life.

MONTREAL'S FIRE RECORD

MONTREAL, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Statistics of outbreaks of fire in Montreal for the year 1923 compiled by the Fire Commissioner's court shows a total of 2071 as compared with 1820 for 1922. Although Commissioner Latulippe often affirms his belief that many of these outbreaks are due to incendiarism there have been only four arrests of persons charged with arson or suspected arson during the year.

XXXII (Continued)

"When she came to me here last Tuesday and told me the whole truth I felt as if I were listening to a new chapter out of the Bible, but on the whole I was rather pleased than otherwise. I had never been jealous of her when we were young, for I was married before she came out, and she was so lovely to look at that I was rather grateful to her than otherwise. After her marriage I used to meet her every few years in Europe up to some three or four years before the outbreak of the war, and it often made me feel melancholy as I saw her beauty going . . . until there was nothing left but her style and her hair. But nothing else was to be expected. Time is a brute to all women. . . . So, while she sat here in this room so radiantly beautiful and so exquisitely and becomingly dressed, and leaning toward me with that old pleading expression I remembered so well; when she wanted something and knew exactly how to go to work to get it; and looking not a day over thirty—well, while she was here I felt young again myself and I loved her as much as ever and felt it a privilege to look at her. I arranged a luncheon promptly to meet several of her old friends and put a stop to the clacking that was going on—I had been called up eight times that morning. . . . . I could have boxed your ears, but of course it was a natural enough thing to do, and you had no suspicion. Well, as soon as she had gone I wrote to twelve women, giving them a bare sketch of the truth, and sent the notes off in the motor. And then—I went and looked at myself in the glass."

She paused, and Clavering rose involuntarily and put his hand on her shoulder.

"Never mind, Jane," he said awkwardly. "What does it matter? You are you and there's only one of the kind. After all it's only one more miracle of Science. You could do it yourself if you liked."

"I? Ha! With twenty-three grandchildren. I may be a fool but I'm not a damn fool, as James used to say. What good would it do me to look forty? I had some looks left at that age but with no use for them as women go. I'd have less now. But Mary was always lucky—a daughter of the gods. It's just like her damned luck to have that discovery made in her time and-while she is still young enough to profit by it, besides being as free as when she was Mary Ogden. Now, God knows what devilment she'll be up to. What she wants she'll have and the devil take the consequences." She patted his hand. "Go and sit down, Lee. I've a good deal more to say."

Clavering returned to his seat with no sense of the old chair's comfort, and she went on in a moment.

"The unfairness of it as I looked at that old witch in the glass that had reflected my magnificent youth, seemed to me unendurable. I had lived a virtuous and upright life. I knew damned well she hadn't. I had done my duty by the race and my own and my husband's people, and I had brought up my sons to be honorable and self-respecting men, whatever their failings, and my daughters in the best traditions of American womanhood. They are model wives and mothers, and they have made no weak-kneed concessions to these degenerate times. They bore me but I'd rather they did than disgrace me. Mary never even had one child, although her husband must have wanted an heir. I have lived a life of duty—duty to my family traditions, my husband, my children, my country, and to Society; she one of self-indulgence and pleasure and excitement, although I'm not belittling the work she did during the war. But noblesse oblige. What else could she do? And now, she'll be at it again. She'll have the pick of our young men—I don't know whether it's all tragic or grotesque. She'll waste no time on those men who loved her in her youth—small blame to her. Who wants to coddle old men? They've all got something the matter with 'em . . . But she'll have love—love—if not here—and thank God, she's not remaining long—then elsewhere and wherever she chooses. Love! I too once took a fierce delight in making men love me. It seems a thousand years ago. What if I should try to make a man fall in love with me today? I'd be rushed off by my terrified family to a padded cell."

"Well—Jane——"

"Don't 'well Jane' me! You'd jump out of the window if I suddenly began to make eyes at you. I could rely on your manners. You wouldn't laugh until you struck the grass and then you'd be arrested for disturbing the peace. Well—don't worry. I'm not an old ass. But I'm a terribly bewildered old woman. It seems to me there has been a crashing in the air ever since she sat in that chair. . . . Growing old always seemed to me a natural process that no arts or dodges could interrupt, and any attempt to arrest the processes of nature was an irreverent gesture in the face of Almighty God. It was immoral and irreverent, and above all it showed a lack of humor and of sound common sense. The world, my candid grandchild tells me, laughs at the women of my generation for their old-fashioned 'cut.' But we have our code and we have the courage to live up to it. That is one reason, perhaps, why growing old has never meant anything to me but reading spectacles, two false teeth, and weak ankles. It had seemed to me that my life had been pretty full—I never had much imagination—what with being as good a wife as ever lived—although James was a pompous bore if there ever was one—bringing eight children into the world and not making a failure of one of them, never neglecting my charities or my social duties or my establishments. As I have grown older I have often reflected upon a life well spent and looked forward to dying when my time came with no qualms whatever, particularly as there was precious little left for me to do except give parties for my grandchildren and blow them up occasionally. I never labored under the delusion that I had an angelic disposition or a perfect character, but I had always had, and maintained, certain standards; and according to my lights, it seemed to me that when I arrived at the foot of the throne the Lord would say to me, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.' The only thing I ever regretted was that I wasn't a man."

She paused and then went on in a voice that grew more raucous every moment. "That was later. It's a long time since I've admitted even to myself that there was a period—after my husband's death—when I hated growing old with the best of them. I was fifty and found myself with complete liberty for the first time in my life; for the elder children were all married, and the younger in Europe at school. I had already begun to look upon myself as an old woman. . . . But I soon made the terrible discovery that the heart never grows old. I fell in love four times. They were all years younger than myself and I'd have opened one of my veins before I'd have let them find it out. Even then I had as little use for old men as old men have for old women. Whatever it may be in men, it's the young heart in women. I had no illusions. Fifty is fifty. My complexion was gone, my stomach high, and I had the face of an old war horse. But—and here is the damned trick that nature plays on us—I hoped—hoped—I dreamed—and as ardently as I ever had dreamed in my youth, when I was on the look-out for the perfect knight and before I compromised on James Oglethorpe, who was handsome before he grew those whiskers and got fat—yes, as ardently as in my youth I dreamed that these clever intelligent men would look through the old husk and the wise brain—I knew that I could give them more than many a younger woman. But if beauty is only skin deep the skin is all any man wants, the best of 'em. They treated me with the most impeccable respect—for the first time in my life I hated the word—and liked my society because I was an amusing caustic old woman. Of course they drifted off; either to marry, or because I terrified them with my sharp tongue; when I loved them most and felt as if I had poison in my veins. Well, I saved my pride, at all events.

"By the time you came along I had sworn at myself once for all as an old fool, and, in any case, I would hardly have been equal to falling in love with a brat of twenty-two."

She seized the stick that always rested against her chair and thumped the floor with it. "Nevertheless," she exclaimed with savage contempt, "my heart is as young today as Mary Ogden's. That is the appalling discovery I have made this week. I'd give my immortal soul to be thirty again—or look it. Why in heaven's name did nature play us this appalling dirty trick?"

"But Jane!" He felt like tearing his hair. What was Mary Zattiany's tragedy to this? Banalities were the only refuge. "Remember that at thirty you were in love with your husband and bent on having a family——"

"I meant thirty and all I know now. . . . I'm not so damn sure I'd have tried to make myself think I was in love with James—who had about as much imagination as a grasshopper and the most infernal mannerisms. I'd have found out what love and life meant, that's what! And when I did I'd have sent codes and traditions to the devil."

"Oh, no, you would not. If you'd had it in you you'd have done it, anyhow. All women of your day were not virtuous—not by a long sight. I'll admit that your best possibilities have been wasted; I've always thought that. You have a terrific personality and if you were at your maturity in this traditionless era you'd be a great national figure, not a mere social power. But nature in a fit of spite launched you too soon and the cast-iron traditions were too strong for you. It was the epoch of the submerged woman."

"Mary Ogden was brought up in those same cast-iron traditions."

"Yes, but Madame Zattiany belongs to a class of women that derive less from immediate ancestors than from a legendary race of sirens—not so merely legendary, perhaps, as we think. Convention is only a flexible harness for such women and plays no part whatever in their secret lives."

"You're in love with Mary."

"Don't come back to me. I won't have it. For the moment I don't feel as if I had an atom of personality left. I'm so utterly absorbed in you; and I'd give my immortal soul to help you."

"Yes, I know that. I wouldn't be turning myself inside out if I didn't I've never talked to a living soul as I've talked to you tonight and I never shall again."

She stared at him for a moment, and then she burst into a loud laugh. It was awe-inspiring, that laugh. Lucifer in hell, holding his sides at the futilities of mankind, could not have surpassed it. "What a mess! What a mess! Life! Begins nowhere, ends nowhere." She went on muttering to herself, and then, abruptly, she broke into the sarcastic speech which her friends knew best.

(To Be Continued.)

"I'd give my immortal soul to be thirty again—or look it."

PLANS COMPLETER TO RECEIVE RYAN

Will Be Sent Direct to Portsmouth Penitentiary — Provincial Authorities May Lay Charges.

TORONTO, —Jan. 5. —(Canadian Press).—It was stated in Toronto Police circles this morning that Norman Red Ryan, Canadian bandit and bank robber who is being returned to Canada from Minneapolis handcuffed, shackled and guarded by the officers in charge of Walter Duncan of the Criminal investigation department, Ottawa, will be taken immediately to the Provincial Penitentiary If authorities wish then to have him stand trial on a charge of robbing a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia at St. Clair and Oakwood Avenue, they will have to bring him to this city from the Penitentiary.

Besides several other charges Ryan will face a charge of escaping from the Penitentiary and another of theft of a motor car in which he and his companion in the jail break made their escape.

GREECE TO VOTE SAYS VENIZELOS

People to Decide Between Kingdom or a Republic

ATHENS, Jan. 5. — (Canadian Press).—King George will not be allowed to return to Greece until there shall have been an impartial plebiscite in which the Nation shall vote for a kingdom or a republic, Venizelos said to-day.

In event the people wish a kingdom, they will be allowed to decide what dynasty shall occupy the throne, the former Premier continued.

Venizelos called back to take charge of the country after expulsion of the King was to be elected President of the National Assembly He announced in advance he would accept the post.

Venizelos took charge of the political situation after he arrived in Athens yesterday. He attacked the problem with his usual energy and appeared optimistic.

There were no signs that he harbored a grudge because of his virtual banishment after his defeat in the elections three years ago.

France and the United States probably soon will pay Greece balances pending on credits in those countries, Venizelos believed.

There were some indications that the former Premier would become a virutla dictator following his election as President of the Chamber to-day.

PROPOSED HONOR FOR LADY ASTOR

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).——A signal honor is to be paid Lady Astor, Conservative Member of the House of Commons, for the Sutton division of Plymouth, since 1919, according to Viscount Astor, former member for this constituency and now sitting in the House of Lords. KIWANIS CLUB LADIES' NIGHT

New Officers Installed by District Governor of Toronto — Dance Followed.

Ladies' night was held by the Kiwanis Club at the Empress Hotel last evening, when installation of new officers also took place. Blake Halliday, district Governor, of Toronto, conducted the installation. Guests present included Mayor-elect J. J. Turner, Mrs. J. J. Turner, Mrs. (Dr.) Bonnycastle, of Belleville, and Mr. C. H. Pennefather. The fowl dinner in the Empress dining-room was followed by an hour of dancing in the grill room. An enjoyable vocal solo was rendered by D. E. Fantham, of Toronto, accompanied by M. B. Chenhall.

Mr. Halliday, installing the new officers, J. Marshall, president; Chas. Cook, vice-president; Jno. I. Allen, district trustee; Stewart Gordon, secretary, and J. Jeffries, treasurer, spoke briefly on community service, outlining the true ideal of citizenship as not only a striving in the interests of self, but a regard for the best interests of the other fellow and the community at large. He also paid a tribute to the good work done by the Past President of the Kiwanis organization, J. A. McKone, and of his wife, Mrs. J. A. McKone.

Ladies present at last night's gathering includes: Mesdames I. Dewart, D. Grant, J. A. McKone, J. Marshall, J. I. Allen, C. Cook, W. Oke, G. Henderson, H. Gilgour, E. Warne, R. Mackey, J. John, J. Mackintosh, A. Dick, W. Byers, J. Jeffries, H. Nevin, M. B. Chenhall, H. Huffman and Miss T. Taylor.

LONDON, Jan. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Incomplete returns indicate that 60,000 locomotive engineers and firemen who balloted on the railway wage board award have emphatically rejected the proposed reductions of wages.

Wages of Engineers are cut $6.75 a week and Firemen's wages are reduced about $5.50 a week under the terms of the award.

There are indications that the leaders will seek to re-open negotiations although the understands there is a possibility that a strike may eventually be called.

PASTEURIZATION RETAINS ITS VALUE

Like many other scientific processes, pasteurization was originally the result of research work performed in Europe. When confronted with the unquestionable fact that milk could readily be the carrier of bacteria causing disease, the milk dealers of the new world soon adopted it as their own. Today, pasteurization has been improved to a point far in advance of the original process.

A length of time and temperature of heating the milk has been adopted which will give the maximum of protection without perceptibly changing the essential characteristics of the milk.

Our methods for the production, handling and processing of milk conform to the best scientific standards, enabling us to provide pasteurized milk rich in those qualities with which Mother Nature endowed it.

MANY BOOKS ADDED TO THE LIBRARY SHELVES

Annual Report of Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse Reveals Some Interesting Statistics in Connection With Peterboro Public Library.

At the annual meeting of the Peterboro Public Library Board, Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse, librarian, presented his annual report. During the year 277 volumes were donated to the Library and many others added by the Board. There was less mutilation of books uring the year and the report indicates a large number of new ticket holders. The report in full follows:

The Chairman and Members,
Public Library Board,
Peterborough.

Gentlemen,— I beg herewith to present to you my report on the work accomplished in the Public Library during the past year.

One of the gratifying features is that there has been consistent trend upwards in the circulation and in the attendance in the reading rooms and Reference Department.

There has been a slight falling off, however in one or two of the departments, but this has been fairly counterbalanced by a falling off in the fiction and a very satisfactory increase in some of the other classes Following are the figures for 1922 and 1923.

	1922	1923

A number of books were presented to the library during the past year, the chief donors being Miss Wallis, Miss Hatton and Miss Mary Jenkins. In all there were 277 volumes donated.

The number of volumes that were accessioned and placed on the shelves during the year was 1611, 1180 being placed in the adult department and 431 in the Juvenile department. Appended herewith is a list of the books in the various classes.

For purposes of comparison the figures for 1922 and 1923 are placed side by side.

There has not been nearly as much mutilation of books and magazines as in preceding years. On one or two occasions, as in former years, the assistance of the police department had to be asked in the matter of long overdue books and other matters and it is a pleasure to testify to the courtesy and despatch with which our needs were attended to.

We have had to retire many books of fiction during the year, but there have been no losses of books of value About five hundred novels have had to be taken off the shelves. The members will be pleased to learn that there have been fewer complaints than in former years as to the quality of the reading matter that has been purchased, which in itself shows that a better tone is pervading the realm of fiction.

The number of new ticket holders during the twelve months amounted to 556. Since the Library was opened in February 1911, 10306 tickets have been issued to patrons in the adult department.

Since the Juvenile Department was opened in January 1919 there have been 2489 borrowers' cards issued. During the past year 489 cards were issued to new borrowers

The figures for circulation in the Juvenile department are given herewith.

Tanol Calomel Much Better Than Ordinary Calomel

CLEANS AND TONES UP THE WHOLE SYSTEM

Instead of rising in the morning feeling tired, dull, with headaches, bad taste in mouth, sick stomach or after eating a bloated, heavy feeling, indigestion, constipation, kidney trouble, etc., can instead both look and feel as fresh as a daisy by flushing the poisons that have accumulated in the stomach, kidneys and bowels by following a doctor's advice by taking one Tanol Calomel Tablet 15 minutes before meals or two at bedtime. This will flush the previous day's indigestive waste, sour bile and poisons from the system before more food is taken. Tanol Calomel Tablets are recommended because they have no bad after effect. No salts or seidlitz are necessary to remove them from the system, as they are self-eliminating. Get a few of these tablets from the druggist and you will feel 100 per cent. better. Sold by Weber, druggist, Charlotte street.

EDWARD DODGE VICTIM OF A NEW YORK GUNMAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Edward H. Dolge, wealthy real estate broker, of Mount Vernon, N.Y., died in Lincoln Hospital to-day from pistol shot wounds suffered last midnight when attacked by two thugs on the stairway of the Hunts Point Station of New York, West Chester and Boston Railroad. He was 55 years old. As life ebbed Mr. Dolge attempted to give certain instructions regarding his affairs to the police at his bedside. They asked him to describe his assailants who had escaped in a limousine after a long chase, and he replied: "What's the use of trying to describe them? You'll never get those fellows."

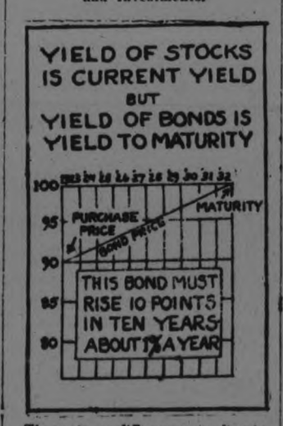
MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.



There is a difference in figuring the yield on stocks and bonds, because there are two kinds of yields, current and yield to maturity.

In speaking of the yield on a stock it is always current, while on a bond it is usually yield to maturity, although current yield can be determined on a bond too.

In determining current yield, it is merely necessary to divide the interest or dividend rate by the market price of the stock or bond.

Yield to maturity is more involved. A 5 per cent bond may be selling at 90 which would give a current return of about 5½ per cent. Yet that bond will be paid off at par in say tenu years. Consequently there is the additional return of $10 at the end of 10 years.

Naturally the market price of the bond takes that into consideration. It could hardly be expected to sell at 90 up to the time of maturity and then jump 10 points to 100, so over the 10 year period, it advances gradually.

Consequently, the yield is determined by the prevailing interest rate and the number of years to maturity. In this case the yield to maturity would be about 6½ per cent.

MOVIE STARS IN SMOKE PACKAGES

Stroller Contest Creates Big Demand For Cigarette.

The latest Strollers contest, recently announced in the Examiner, has created the greatest demand in the history of this favorite Canadian cigarette. The interest of consumers has been aroused everywhere, as the makers are well-known for putting on contests in which the public can have complete confidence and which serve to make the collecting of Strollers Movie-Star inserts well worth while.

So great has the demand become for the pictures which smokers believe to be the proper ones to use in filling in the "clue" pictures printed in the large contest advertisement that everywhere collectors are seeking the pictures and asking friends to save them.

The new contest contains no "hold-backs" or tricks. The complete series of movie stars is issued in Strollers packages and everyone has an equal chance of winning. Every star printed is to be found in Stroller packages.

The contest comes to a close on February 21st, when the entries will be judged by a disinterested committee and the cash prizes awarded as soon as possible.

More Nursing Classes

The lack of the simplest kind of scientific knowledge on the part of most people of how to care for the sick in the home is a fact which always has been all too apparent to those whose life work has been attendance upon persons laid aside by illness.

When the National Council of the Canadian Red Cross decided to publish a manual dealing with this subject and to back up this publication by urging the Provincial Divisions to launch upon an extensive scheme of classes in Home Nursing, the Ontario Division was quick to seize the opportunity and to begin the work.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Council of our Division, held almost immediately after the October meeting of the National Council, a whole afternoon session was given over to the discussion of this work. Most of the delegates expressed themselves very emphatically upon the need of making available to the girls and women of Ontario, instruction in this subject and manifested a keen interest in the proposed plans to carry on the work.

Miss C. Davidson has arranged with the Local Branch of the Red Cross to commence a class early in the New Yaar. Classes have already been formed in other parts of Ontario and the Red Cross hopes to be able to extend to every corner of the Province the advantages of this forward step in human welfare.

COULDN'T SLEEP HEART WAS BAD NERVES A WRECK

Mr. H. A. Reid, Upper Musquodoboit, N.S., writes:—"I am very thankful fro the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

When I came home from overseas, in 1920, my heart was very badly affected by concussion, and my nerves were a dreadful wreck. I was very short winded, and could not possibly sleep at night, in fact, I was in such a condition I felt as if I did not wish anyone to speak to me. I thought I would try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and before I had taken two boxes I could enjoy a good night's rest as well as anyone.

"There are lots of returned men who are suffering the same as I did, and I feel sure that if they would only try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills they will receive the same relief that I have."

WIND-DRIVEN TOY STARTS HAUNTED HOUSE SCARE

CINCINNATI, Jan. 4.—Groanings and rappings in a century old house here for days past frightened tenants and neighbors. Then a reporter found on a toy on the fourth floor.

It consisted of three wooden men on a series of spools, operated by a windmill. When the wind blew the wooden men danced and made a groaning sound.

More Deaths in January

More people die in January than in any other month, the Census Bureau reports, basing its information on 1921. A large life insurance company claims March has the greatest death toll, according to its records for 1920, 1921 and 1922.

At any rate, we're now in the most dangerous season, which begins around the first of the year and lasts until summer.

March is especially favorable to the undertaker. In March comes the harvest of winter weather and winter habits. In climates that have cold winters, people get less fresh air and outdoor exercise than in summer. They get "run down" in the ability to fight invading disease germs, Defences are weakened, especially lungs and blood. March comes. People pay for wintertime health negligence. March is a notorious friend of flu, pneumonia and organic heart trouble.

Summer is the healthiest season, only one death in five taking place then. This, too, despite summertime hazards such as autoing, boating and strenuous outdoor physical activity.

More auto deaths in August than any other month, the insurance people warn. That's the time to run your own Safety First campaign.

January leads all other months in suicides. The man next door suggests this may be a result of Christmas bills. April ranks second for suicides. It's spring fever month—lazy—the logical time for folks to try to escape effort and trouble.

There are more inviting subjects than death, we admit. But death is the final goal, the ultimate outcome of every person and every endeavor. The world would be a better place to live if people gave more thought to the curtained destination at the end of the long, difficult road.

Greetings-1924-

We extend our hearty greetings and best wishes for a Prosperous, Happy New Year.

You, perhaps, like many others, have been waiting until the turn of 1924, before taking action on the matter of life insurance. The turn has come. To-day and now is not a moment too soon to act upon your resolution.

All we ask you to do now, however, is to take your pen in hand and write us a brief letter. This letter will commit you to nothing whatever. In it, state your age and your desire for information about Mutual insurance.

You may consider the information we will send you at leisure. Before you make any further step, it is important that you thoroughly understand the Mutual Life system of insurance at net cost. Write to-day.

The Mutual Life issues practically every approved form of life insurance practised to-day, including straight life, limited payment, endowment, children's endowment, guaranteed monthly income, etc., including conditions covering permanent disability and accident.

OUTRAGED LOVE MAKES REPENTANT OF MOTHER WHO CONTRACTED SALE OF BABY IN PRENATAL AGREEMENT

Case at Law For Recovery of the Baby Was Ended By Voluntary Surrender By Foster Mother Who Bought Him.

LACK OF MONEY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—Cattle are traded. Chattles are sold.

But cold words of the law are not sufficient to contract sole right to a baby's smile.

This from bitter experience Mrs. Frances Maher here has just learned.

Regretfully she heeded her brain and not her heart when she let Mike slip from her arms at birth into the yearning embrace of childless Mrs. John Fleming "for a price."

Even before the angels brought him, Mike with his dimples and pink little toes had been deeded to the other woman by the mother, who, with three other babies to care for, feared there would not be enough left to care for Mike out of his daddy's $68 monthly salary.

Advertised Baby For Sale.

And so it happened in this strangest of birth contract cases, that Mike became the "prenatal bargain" advertised for sale by Mrs. Maher, who now says she was distracted and unaware of what she was doing when telling the world of her willingness to barter unborn Mike away.

The "bargain .... went through as agreed, with Mrs. Fleming taking to bed following Mike's arrival to simulate visit of the stork to her home.

In another part of the city, Mrs. Maher, the real motner, lay with aching heart and awakened conscience and with her arms empty—arms that were beginnig to feel the urge for Mike's departed caress.

In beclouding mercy she had consented to the parting, hoping Mike might be better cared for and spared possible privation consequent upon a fourth mouth to feed from the fathre's meager salary as an army bandmaster at the Presidio.

But all this solemn calculation dispersed like chaff when the surge of mother, love mounted to claim its own.

For, like Rachael of old, the heart of Mrs. Maher sobbing for her baby, would not be conmforted.

To court then she came. And likewise did Mrs. Fleming.

Mike, now five months old, was the center of contention. The apple of their eyes.

Other woman Claims Him.

"H is mine," said Mrs. Fleming, "Under the rule of land and law."

"I contracted for him. Paid for him. I love him and want him. His mother did not."

Judge Louis H. Ward sitting as Soloman heard the plea. He listened in silence.

But the silence was broken by a heartrending sob as with Madonna-like mein Mrs. Maher reached forth her hands in supplication.

"Give me my baby, judge. It was I who suifered for him. I who gave him life. What right then has the law with words to take him from me?

Back as Love's Lesson

To such entreaty the court waived adjournment to take the matter under advisement.

Mike, in the arms of the "other woman," slept contentedly through it all.

But late that night—as a Christmas present—the law-protected right of Mrs. Fleming was erased by her own consent and she turned Mike back to mother.

Nor has any further mention been made of the money expended by the Flemings in behalf of Mrs. Maher's hospital bills nor any other part of the contract which included care of Mrs. Maher's sister, Hawii.

Mike is back.. That is all Mrs. Maher can say or cares about."

And the smile on his cherubic face which she bartered away before it came to glow upon her is at once a Christmas boon and a lesson— —

A lesson to teach her, she says, that baby smiles cannot be sold.

For love won't countenance such trades.

Keep Catarrh Away With Vicks

"Finest Thing I Ever Used, Says New Brunswick Lady."

Vicks is good for common colds, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrh croup tonsilitis, grippe and all inflammations of the nose, throat or lungs. The ingredients, Turpentine, Thyme, and Juniper Tar make Vicks equally effective for inflammations of the skin, such as cuts, burns, sores, bruises and skin itching.

Mr. Thomas Brown of Sandy Point Road, St. John, New Brunswick says: 'Vicks VapoRub is the finest thing I have ever used. I had catarrh of the throat for years and nothing seemed to do me any good. I read about Vicks and bought a jar at the drug store. I was relieved at once, but I kept on using Vicks I now feel quit, well."

Vicks is a salve that acts like a plaster and a vapor lamp at the same time. It is absorbed and inhaled. A valuable family remedy kept on hand in millions of homes Vicks is used constantly for all the daily ills and hurts of all the family.

Born Yesterday Sex is Unknown

PHILADELPHIA, January 5 (Canadian Press). — A son or daughter — no one knows which — was born on Friday to Fatima, prize hippopotamus of the Philadelphia Zoo.

It weighed 65 pounds at birth, and fifteen minutes later walked into a tank of water before the keepers could ascertain whether it was a boy or another Fatima.

A formal christening will be held after Fatty comes ashore.

SCHOONER LOST WITH ALL CREW

CURLING, N.F., January 5 (Canadian Press). — The loss of the schooner Donald L. Silver, with her crew of seven men last Thursday off Heatherington, 100 miles east of here, was reported to-day.

covered.

Five of the bodies have been re-

The ship was bound from the Bay of Islands to Gloucester Massachusetts.

The Donald L. Silver, a 94-ton fisherman, of British registry, left the Bay of Islands last Monday with a cargo of herring.

On Thursday morning she encountered a blinding snowstorm and a heavy gale, and quickly foundered.

Entire Crew Lost.

The entire crew of seven men of the schooner are believed to have lost their lives when the vessel foundered, according to a special despatch from Curling reaching here this morning.

The crew consisted of the following: Captain Joseph Hackett, married, with seven small children; Captain John Hackett, married; Jas. Hackett, single; William Rudth, Jr., single; Leon Wheeler, single, all of Bay of Islands; and Harold Swyers, married, and Bert Swyers, single, of Bay of St. George.

It is now believed that the wreckage reported as having drifted ashore at Fischel's, St. George's Bay, in a St. John's despatch of last night, was from the Donald L. Silver.

SAFE FAT REDUCTION

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the overfat wring their hands in mortification and helpfulness; revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription, and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly and quickly reaching their ideal of figure with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famously harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a case, or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets.

IMPOSING BURIAL QUEBEC GOVERNOR

Ecclesiastical and Military Pomp United in Last Tribute to Louis Phillipe Brodeur.

QUEBEC, Jan. 5. — (Canadian Press).— Ecclesiastical and military pomp united here to-day to pay the last tributes to the mortal remains of his honor, Louis Phillip Brodeur, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. Dignitaries of the church, Luminaries the bar, heads and representatives of the Federal and Provincial Governments and of the Governor General of Canada, members of all the professions delegates ant' bodies from societies, joined together to render their last respects to the distinguished jurist, who for so short a time filled the Lieutenant - Governorship of the Province and who was laid to rest to-day in the Cemetery at Beloeil.

The imposing ceremonies opened with his eminence Cardinal Begin, officiating at the Mass in the Chapel of the Quebec Seminary, where the funeral service was first celebrated while the body was received at the church by the parish priest of Quebec Basilica, Rev. Mgr. Laflamme. His Grace Monseigneur Emard, Archbishop of Ottawa, pronounced the panegyric on the deceased in the Quebec Seminary, while Father Maguire of Sillery and Canon Mayrand of Ottawa, acted respectively as deacon and sub-deacon of honor. The body was then conveyed to St. Hilaire, where Rev. Father Lejeune of Ottawa, chanted the libera and said the last prayers at the graveside in in Beloeil Cemetery.

THE BEEKEEPERS ELECT OFFICERS

Meeting Was Addressed by Prof. F. E. Millen of Guelph.

The Beekeepers' Association of Peterborough County held a meeting in the U.F.O. rooms on Simcoe street yesterday afternoon, when election of officers for the year took place, and the meeting was addressed by Prof. F. E. Millen, of Guelph, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association.

Elections resulted in the entire slate of officers being returned for the new year, as follows: President, Allan Brown, Peterborough; vice-president, Wm. Thompson, Indian River; 2nd vice-president, J. O. Ball, Peterborough; secretary-treasurer, Thos. Shields, Benson avenue, Peterborough; committee of three, Arthur Green and Fred Campbell, of Peterborough, and W. J. Telford, of Bridgenorth.

Prof. Millen gave an interesting talk, touching on various phases of the beekeepers' work, and the problems of the ordinary dealer. He spoke particularly of the efforts made by the Ontario Honey Producers' Co-operative Association, and of the buying of containers, bees and supplies co-operatively.

He announced the intention of the local men of bringing to Peterborough, about the third week in April, of three or four carloads of bees in full colonies from the southern states, instead of the former method of bringing in bees in packages or nuclei.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. — (United Press.) — Reactionary tendencies were completely eliminated from the stock market at the week end. The general list swung into a renewal of the forward movement, numerous rails participating along with various industrial specialties.

In the carrier group, Southern Railway reached its best price since 1906, while conspicuous strength was displayed by the Erie's, St. Louis, South-western and Atlantic Coast Line. Steel Common and American Can were the outstanding features of the leading industrials and substantial advances took place in Hayes Wheel, Congoleum, United States Cast Iron Pipe, Stewart Warner and other specialties.

Additional impetus was imparted to the upward movement in the general list in the final dealings, and closing prices were at the day's best levels. Great Northern Preferred was featured in the railroad list, reaching a new high on the current recovery at 58 1-2. This price represented a rebound of more than six points from the depression created by the tax selling at the close of 1923.

American Can was the outstanding feature of the industrial leaders, selling at 106 7-8 against Friday's low of 103 1-8.

Among the specialties which reached new high ground for the current upswing were Congoleum at 52, Hayes Wheel at 45 3-8, Tiwken Roller Bearing at 40 3-8 and Kelsey Wheel at 99.

Industrials displayed marked strength at the opening of the stock market to-day, new highs being recorded by Congoleum, which advanced to 50 and Cast Iron Pipe at 75 5-8. Steel showed 1-2 point gain at 99 and Pan American B at 55 7-8 was up 7-8.

Brookline, Manhattan, Transit Preferred sold at 52, up 1-2 and Marine Preferred 33 1-4, up 1 3-8.

The Rails were irregular. Stocks continued to gather strength through the first hour and by 11 a.m., a spirit of buoyancy characterized the list, which was in decided contrast to the action earlier in the week when profit taking was in progress.

It is estimated that the short interests built up on the week's reaction reached extensive proportions. This is true of Can., Studebaker and Tobacco Products .One house is said to be loaning over 10,000 shares of the latter stock. These three issues have been the largest of the bears during the last week and were selected by the bears in thir efforts to depress prices.

PARIS STREETS STILL FLOODED

(By Webb Miller.)

PARIS, January 5 (United Press). — The flooded River Seine invaded the Invalides railway station to-day, adding to the demoralisation of the Paris rail traffic

A big wall between the river and the station broke suddenly, and the water rushed in, filling the lower part of the building.

The railway cut which follows the Seine several miles to Javel, was filled with 16 feet of water.

All the lower platforms of the Invalides Station were submerged by the swirling brown flood, which reached to the floor of the main waiting rooms.

Owing to previous evacuation of the building, nobody was caught.

There was no rain to-day, and the authorities hoped the crest of the flood would be reached within the next twenty-four hours.

Police announced that they had aided 4,525 families to evacuate their homes, while unofficial sources placed the total number of evacuations in the entire Seine and Marne valleys in the region of Paris at near 10,000.

The river slowly rose to-day, invading several new districts in the city and suburbs ,and causing many additional families to flee hurriedly It was estimated that 7,200,000 cubic meters of water were rushing through Paris every hour.

Additional flood waters filtered into the Chamber of Deputies and the subway stations, but traffic on the underground lines was continued.

Two hundred additional houses were surrounded in Houilles up to 10 a.m.

WHITE RIVER STILL THE COLDEST PLACE

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Rivalry for the low temperature championship of the season's first cold wave has narrowed down to White River, Ontario's hope and Doucet, Quebec's pride. At 8 o'clock this morning, White River, reported 42 below zero with Doucet rapidly making up lost ground at 38 below. This represents but little change from yesterday ot White River, but a drop of 18 degrees, at Doucet. Western Canada's thermometers gave up the contest during the night with the result that Winnipeg was the only point west of Great Lakes, reporting below zero temperature at 8 oclock this morning. In Ontario the lower lakes region was visited by a fairly heavy snowfall last night and temperatures as low as zero mark were recorded at Port Stanley and Points in the south west. Nearly half a foot of snow fell in Toronto

GOVERNMENT CONTROL BY PEOPLE THEMSELVES

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., January 5 (Canadian Press). — A lower tariff, control of the People's Government by the people themselves, a proper policy of immigration, and an era of strict economy were advocated by R. M. Mister, inspector for Broome, at a meeting here last night. He contended that Governments were unwise to interfere with the free course of commerce, and that freeing the channels of trade would give a greater chance of agricultural prosperity.

Anchor and Wires Recovered by Dredgers-Three Bodies Brought to the Surface.

PARIS, Jan. 5. — (Canadian Press).—An anchor and telephone wires, believed to have belonged to the ill-fated French dirigible "Dixmude," have been found by dredgers, according to despatches from Sciacea.

A wireless despatch from Toulon announces the finding of three bodies, supposedly of the "Dixmude's" crew, also by dredgers.

JOHN SCOTT TELLS OF WIFE'S SLAYING.

Claims He Regarded the Woman in the Case As a Member of His Family—Revolver Missing.

MOUND CITY, Kansas, Jan. 5 (United Press).—John Scott, who with his niece by marriage, Arlene Scott, is accused of murdering Mrs. Elnore Scott, tells a logical story o events the night his wife was slain. He denies all implication that there was anything improper in his relations with Arlene.

"Mrs. Scott and I had no children," he said in an interview. "We looked upon Arlene as a child and I thought of her only as a member of our family. All of our neighbors will testify as to the devoted relationship between myself and my wife.

"On the night of June 19, when we returned home from the show, I told my wife that the car was not working right. I wanted to put some kerosene in the clutch and told my wife to go into the house and that I would follow in a few minutes.

"As I was working, with my head under the hood of the car, I heard two shots. I ran to the door of the garage, looked up and down the street, but could see nothing. Then I thought my wife should have also heard the shots and that she would come to the door if she had. It dawned on me something was wrong, and I hurried into the house. I found Mrs. Scott lying on the floor in the dining room. I ran in and spoke to her, but she could not answer, although she was breathing heavily. I hurried out and called as loudly as I could for help, running toward the home of a doctor who lived two blocks east of our home. He arrived and made a hurried examination, but she died within a few minutes."

Scott said he was "overwhelmed with grief."

The Missing Revolver

"Neighbors at my first trial testified that my sorrow appeared genuine," he said. "Certainly I would not have called for help before she was dead if I had shot her. My actions are all accounted for except the minute it took me to go from the garage to the house and realize what had happened. During that time I would not have been able to hide a revolver. Every spot I could have reached between the time the shots were fired and when I called for help has been gone over to look for the weapon. Wells have even been drained. I had no revolver and did not kill my wife, or the weapon would have been found."

Days following the murder were described as a nightmare by Scott.

"My friends stared at me. I did not know who were my friends. Trade dropped off. I had almost no one to sympathize with me. I had to hire lawyers. On July 18 I wanted to talk with my lawyer, who was then in Joplin. On my way over I found I had four hours between trains at Pittsburg, and thought I would visit Arlene.

"I had no sleep the night previous. In fact I had been able to sleep but little since my wife was killed. My name had already been associated with Arlene by scandalmongers. I know now I should not have gone to Pittsburg, but I did and when I arrived I had a spitting headache, was nervous and upset, and nearly insane with grief and worry.

Put Down False Name

"Arlene met me at the train. I was sick and wanted to lie down and rest. I suggested to Arlene that we go to a hotel. When I started to register it occurred to me for the first time that I could not take a woman to my room with me without registering as man and wife. I couldn't think clearly, and half not knowing what I did, I put down a fake name and registered as being with my wife.

"In my room, I lay down on the bed and Arlene helped me keep cool cloths on my head until train time. Nothing wrong occurred between us. Arlene was entirely blameless, as she did not know but what I had registered correctly. It was an unfortunate blunder. It has led to all the trouble. People would rather believe one guilty than innocent."

AUSTRALIAN TURTLES HEADED TOWARD SOUP.

Factory Has Been Built to Convert Inexhaustible Supply Into Table Delicacies.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Jan. 4 (Associated Press).—A dark day has dawned for the thousands of turtles that waddle about the beaches of the northwest coast of Australia. At Rockingham a factory has been built to convert them into soup and sundry other table delicacies.

The supply of turtles is said to be inexhaustible. Brought alive to the factory, they are beguiled into a false sense of security by finding themselves again in their native element, the sea. The factory has a sea frontage, and there a large pool has been enclosed. In this they swim lazily, in ignorance of the steaming pots awaiting them a couple of hundred yards away.

The factory has been established by a Glasgow firm under the name of Chelonia, Ltd. Chelonia is the Latin name for turtle.

The firm has promised to make democratic the lordly turtle. No longer, it is declared, will turtle soup grace only the banquets of the wealthy. Today a plate of this delicacy in London costs about two guineas. Chelonia agrees to make it a reasonable commodity.

The turtle has, besides its palatable flavor, another quality, a tonic property commended to invalids. The Rockingham factory will turn out the soup in a concentrated form, an extract designed especially for invalids, and also a turtle oil said to possess medicinal value.

OHIO MAY PROHIBIT

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 5.—(Canadian Press)—All motion pictures in which Mabel Normand is one of the characters, may be barred from exhibiton in Ohio, Director of Education, Vernon M. Rigel, indicated to-day after receiving "an urgent request," from Attorney General Crabbe that such action be taken.

MANCHESTER, N.H., Jan 4. —Alphonse Couture, Treasurer of the New Hamphire Motion Picture Theatre Owners' Association, to-day announced that the association would bar from this State future pictures featuring Mabel Normand.

The average weekly earnings of men employed in factories in New York State are about twice as high as those of women workers, according to a report of the State Department of Labour.

A steamship service for direct freight shipments between Chicago and Manchester is proposed by a company which has been formed in England. Sixteen vessels will be company which has been formed in engaged in the service.

for consultation and to give free advice to all Rupture Sufferers. Arrange to see him. His remedy is unconditionally guaranteed.

Here is what one man writes:

"Our son was ruptured, and the bowel became strangulated so bad that it was impossible to replace the protruded part; the doctor advised an immediate operation.

"When you advised us an operation was unnecessary, we were very much in doubt.

"However, we were guided by your advice, and we are exceedingly glad, for the rupture was replaced almost immediately without pain. By the use of THOMPSON'S RENOWNED RUPTURE REMEDY the rupture has completely disappeared, leaving no opening whatever.

"Besides saving the cost of an operation, we have also saved the wages of a hired man as the boy has worked steady since he commenced your treatment. We strongly recommend THOMPSON'S RENOWNED RUPTURE REMEDY to anyone suffering from rupture.

PETES DEFEATED NORTH TORONTO IN FAST GAME

Surprisingly Good Brand of Hockey Considering Lack of Practice—Fans Glimpsed New Recruits —Lackey Made Impression.

The hockey-hungry fans of Peterboro came into their own at Brock Street rink last night when they saw the Peterboro Intermediate O.H.A. squad administer a neat trimming to the North Toronto crew who last year eliminated them from the O.H.A. race. The final score was 5 to 2 and taking into consideration the fact that the Petes have had but one practice while the majority of the visitors had only had their skates on once before, the pace was suprisingly fast and there was some nice hockey.

It was expected that the North Toronto gang would earn the decision but the Petes had the edge all the way, except for a short period in the last session, when the visitors scored their two goals in short order. The blue shirts finished strong, however, got the last counter of the game and on the night's play earned their three goal margin over an opposition that on paper at least looked decidedly formidable even without Box, who was unable to make the trip owing to pressure of business.

By periods it was 3-0, 4-0, and 5-2.

The Petes had Dwyer, McMartin, Parker, Collins, Burgess, Ranger and Halpin of last year's squad; McPherson, of last year's juniors; Lackey, a defence man from Smith Falls, and McClarty and Thompson, forwards, the former hailing from Woodstock and the latter from Sherbrooke, Que. Mills, another forward from Lachine was in uniform but re-opened a cut on his hand in practice before the game and was unable to start.

Lackey Looked Good.

Of the newcomers, Lackey, on last night's showing, is the most likely recruit. He is obviously far from being in condition and has not got his skating legs yet but he is a sturdy defence man, who uses good judgment in covering up around the nets, and shows a refreshing willingness to pass the puck.

Last year's crew all looked good considering their lack of practice and Scotty McPherson, who is making the jump from junior ranks, appeared to be right at home. Dwyer without any practice at all this season was as good as ever in the nets, making a host of clever stops, while in front of him McMartin and Parker were good both on defense and on the attack, each scoring a goal. Halpin and Lackey subbed for the defence pair and did good work. Collins, Burgess, McPherson and Ranger all showed speed on the forward line with Ranger in the limelight with three smart goals—and five penalties, richly earned. The left wing player was the "bad man" of the party and it is to be hoped he got it all out of his system last night, for his trips to the penalty box marred the effect of his brilliant playing. Ranger is too valuable a player to waste ten or twelve minutes with the penalty timers and he should be made to realize that fact.

"Micky" Murray was in the nets for the visitors for the first two periods and Hayes, last year with Aura Lee, wore the big pads for the final session. Both performed nicely. Russell Stephenson, well known senior star, was the pick of the visitors. He was in better shape than anybody else, and his neat stickhandling and fast skating made him noticeable. We Young, the "skating fool," was a hornet defensively and Rennie and Cain were good in flashes, although far from being in condition.

The ice was in splendid shape and the season has seldom opened with a better sheet.

Manager Jimmy McFadden of the North Toronto team refereed and made a good job of it.

The Personnel.

The line ups:

North Toronto—Goal, Murray, Hayes; defence, Cain, Stephenson; centre, Young; right wing, Muston; left wing, Rennie; subs, Sirrs, Keen and Morris.

Started Fast.

Burgess was in the dressing room when the bell sounded and McPherson started the game at right wing. The initial pace was very fast and the Petes carrying the battle to the visitors had considerable the better of the argument giving Murray a few busy moments while the North Toronto crew found trouble in breaking away. Ranger drew his first penalty and while he was off the Petes scored, McMartin having the honor of registering the first marker of the season. Parker started a rush and when he was checked at centre the puck drifted over to McMartin, who went down the side and took Murray's measure with a quick, accurate shot from the side.

Collins was penalized for slashing and the Petes were two men short for half a minute but held their own. Ranger came back and signalized his return by the prettiest play of the night, dodging inside the North Toronto defence to fool Murray at close range for the Petes' second counter.

Ranger also got the Petes third goal before the period ended after a rush by McMartin and McPherson. McMartin flipped the rubber to "Scotty" whose shot missed by inches, the puck carroming out to Ranger who slapped one past Murray before the latter could get set for the new angle.

Second Period.

The Petes continued to have the edge in the second period although much of their initial "pep" had vanished and it was tough going in spite of frequent substitutions, for the majority of the crew. Ranger got the only goal of the session by a neat shot from outside the defence. Just before he scored he bored a vicious drive at Murray striking him in the throat and the Peterboro boy in the North Toronto nets was still dazed when Ranger secured possession again and this time found the nets. "Micky" had to stop for repairs but finished out the period.

Final Session.

Hayes was between the posts for the visitors when the last session opened. North Toronto showed their best hockey of the night in the first half of this period. Led by Stephenson, who started the bulk of the rushes, they kept steaming in on the Petes' defence and Dwyer was called upon to block some dangerous drives. Finally, on a long shot from Rennie which Dwyer apparently blocked with his mit, the rubber squeezed out of his hand and dropped into the net for the visitors' first counter.

Soon after from a scrimmage in front of the Petes' citadel Wee Young tallied another one past Dwyer and the visitors were only two down.

Parker settled the argument a little later when he took a neat pass from Burgess and went in close to fool Hayes for the last counter of the game.

The summary:

First Period.

1 Peterboro—McMartin, 6 mins.
2 Peterboro—Ranger, 1.30 minus.
3 Peterboro—Ranger, 5 mins.

Second Period.

4 Peterboro—Ranger 7 mins.

Third Period.

5 North Toronto—Rennie, 8 mins.
6 North Toronto—Young, 1 min.
10 Peterboro—Parker, 4 mins.

LINDSAY OPEN WITH VICTORY

Midgets Defeated Lakefield By 10-1 In the First Game of Intermediate Series — Both Teams Lacked Condition.

LINDSAY, Jan. 4.—(Special Correspondence).—The Lindsay Midgets opened the O. H. A. season here tonight by defeating the Lakefield Intermediate team by the score of 10-1. A fair sized crowd witnessed the game which could not be termed a first-class exhibition of the popular winter pastime, both teams lacked condition and the play was of a listless nature in the first two periods especially. Percy Bond of Peterborough officiated as referee and gave excellent satisfaction.

The Midgets were without the services of Coombs, the big defense player. W. Killen, last year with St. Michael's College, Toronto, took his place. Harold Wilford, late of Varsity was the best man on the local line up and was responsible for five of the goals scored. Simpson andL Sabatino for the visitors dished up a classy brond of hockey.

The visitors were badly handicapped owing to the fact that last night was the first time they had donned skates this season, as the Lakefield Rink had only been flooded in the last few days. The Midgets scored six goals in th first period and three in the second. In th final period the visitors seemed to have found their stride, and put up a game battle in spite of the handicap. The fans saw the best play of the evening in this period. It was featured by close checking Lakefield clinging to the Midgets like leaches. They secured their only counter in this period. the Midgets following with a single. The game was featured by an almost entire lack of combination on the part of both teams, and was a clean one throughout.

The teams were as follows:

Lindsay:—McClory, goal; Reeves, left defence; W. Killen, right defence; H. Wilford, left wing; Williams, centre. J. Killen, right wing; subs, Green and Davis.

JACK WILLIAMS JOINS THE ST. THOMAS RECRUITS

Jack Williams, the star Indian pitcher of the Belleville Grand Trunks for the past couple of years, is now a resident of St. Thomas. The Indian last Saturday informed the Belleville management that he would not be there for the 1924 baseball season, and then disappeared from that locality. Monday noon he stepped off a train at St. Thomas, just in time to qualify for the St. Thomas club. Williams, a southpaw, will take the place of Danny McPhee, who goes to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

LEADING FOR PRIZES FOR THIS WEEK.

Mrs. A. Ross is leading for the prize for the ladies' high single with a score of 159.

Dick Lush so far has the high three games for the prize in five pins. His score is 675.

S.O.S. FOR OULETTE.

With the announcement that the Indian twirler Williams would be leaving Belleville there was a great scurry among the Trunks during the last days of December, 1923, to bolster up their team for the coming season. A hurry up call was put through for Jack Oulette, who was visiting at his home in Fenelon Falls, and the big fellow made a hurried trip to the Bay of Quinte city in time to qualify.

Belleville are having troubles of their own. It is whispered that "Peeney" Mills has been offered a good thing to join the higher ranks of baseball players, and also that the club is having trouble in securing a manager.

Last year Belleville lost the C. O.B.L. because of wranglings and disruptions in their own ranks. The players were "crabbing" amongst themselves and Manager Gerow had his hands full keeping the team going at all.

Golf Lures Ball Stars on Coast

LEFT TO RIGHT: FONESCA, O'DOUL, KAMM, ELLISON, BOHNE.

Pity the poor downtrodden baseball slaves. The season is over and the boys are all out of work. Times do be hard. Are the boys working in the mills from sun up to sun down? No, the boys are not, Johnny. They are out on the golf courses, most of them, chasing the elusive Mr. Par.

Here you see a group of diamond notables snapped on the links in San Francisco. Louis Fonesca and Sammy Bohne are members of the Cincinnati infield. Lefty O'Doul is a flinger with the Boston Red Sox, Willie Kamm is a high-priced third baseman with the Chicago White Sox and Bert Ellison makes his cakes bossing the San Francisco club.

THIRD EXTRA PERIOD TO DEFEAT STIRLING

Norwood Broke Tie With Only Ten Seconds to Go and Won by 2-1 in Opening Game of the Trent Valley League.

EXCITING GAME.

(Special Correspondence)

NORWOOD, Jan. 5—After 20 minutes and 50 seconds overtime, and with only ten seconds of the limited thirty minutes remaining, Norwood scored the goal that gave them a sensational victory over Stirling last night by the score of 2 goals to 1, in the opening game of the Trent Valley League. Each team had counted a goal in the second period, and the final bell left the teams on even terms.

Play had been strenuous, especially during the final period as both defences turned back successive assaults. The battle for a decision speeded up in the last five minutes but neither team could produce the punch.

Excitement grew during the first futile overtime of ten minutes. Another ten were just as fruitless, and when the crowd were practically prepared to accept a tie as the unsatisfactory result, Munroe who started as a sub shot the puck past Hulin with barely ten seconds to go. It was a great game to win and the big crowd followed the play right up to the long delayed finish. The ice was in hard and smooth condition and the teams were exceptionally well matched. "Pete" King scored Norwood's first goal. Bill Whitly of Stirling, the nestor and unflagging promoter of the Trent Valley League, laced on his skates again last night and turned in a good game in spite of his—is it fifty years.

The teams were as follows:

Norwood—Goal, Fenton; defense, Lorne Beckett and Weir; wings, Baker and Rogers; centre, King; subs, Rathwell, Culberton and Munroe.

Stirling—Goal, W. Hulin; defense, Turfey and Tullock; wings, Wallace and Ham; centre, Ackers; subs, Shea and Whitly.

Referee—Lew Hagerman, Havelock.

ANOTHER DIAMOND TRAGEDY

Passing of Good Old Casey Stengel From Giants to Braves Recalls Bodie Case.

The passing shade of "Casey" Stengel met the dim, distant shade of "Ping" Bodie yesterday, and the shades spoke.

"Happy New Year" said one, sullenly.

"Same to you," said the other, sourly.

Then they scowled, and passed on grimly, to face the beginning of another year in their shortening baseball career.

* * *

The new year finds the redoubtable Ping in the Pacific Coast League, a minor in fact and in name, but a big leaguer in his heart. Ping may be down but he is never out. To this day he believes he is capable of playing big league baseball. He will believe so even when his beard is as long as spaghetti which only he can cook.

Bodie's passing from the Yankees was a tragedy. His demise as a big leaguer was a most sorrowful event indeed, but Casey's passing from the Giants to the Braves is in a certain sense a greater tragedy. He has dived from the top of the baseball world to the bottom of the ocean, and there he must splash around until the end of his big league days.

Two good men, and true; great guys, both of 'em; fine, lovely and picturesque characters—and now they are going, going—gone; dog-gone gone!

* * *

Casey was a philosophical soul. Time was when he sat in the shadows of the Giant dugout, a sad, forlorn philosophical figure—"the philosophical hermit of the Giant dug-out."

Casey was old, as baseball ages go, and in his old age he dreamed of another opportunity—of an opportunity to be an active member of the Giants.

Casey's dream came true. The opportunity came. And with it came some of Caseys' greatest triumphs. He ceased to be "the philosophical hermit." He went out to centre field on his crumbling old legs and ranged the precincts out yonder on "dogs" suddenly and strangely grown young. He batted better than he ever did before. he did more, perhaps, to win the pennant for the Giants two years ago than anybody else. And last October he himself, personally and in the flesh, won the only two games which the Giants won from the Yankees by making home runs.

And now, in his old baseball age, he finds himself traded from the Giants to the Braves!

HITCH IN SIKI MATCH.

DETROIT, Mich., January 5 (Canadian Press). — The proposed boxing match between Battling Siki and Joe Lohman, of Toledo, at Windsor, on 19th January, is off, temporarily at least.

A hitch in the terms has caused the singular Senegalese and his manager, Robert Levy, to leave here for Buffalo, where Siki is matched.

Meanwhile E. V. Kernahan, representing the Great War Veterans' Association, is pondering whether or not to accept the terms laid down by Levy.

WHEN CORBETT WAS FRAMED BY FRAMERS

A complete record of ring skullduggery would make interesting literature. For one thing, it would reveal some of our ring notables in a rather unheroic light. The heavyweight battle between Jim Corbett and Tom Sharkey at New York in 1898 was a frameup. To be exact, it was a double frameup. Corbett had been told the police were to stop the fight after the sixth round. Consequently Gentleman Jim trained haphazardly, and was in poor shape.

Word was passed down the line by the wise set that Corbett was to win and the sure-thing boys bet plenty. Had they known the same clique that launched the report that the bout was fixed was active in covering all the Corbett money that appeared, the "sure-thingers" would have been terribly surprised.

Corbett was framed by the framers. For six rounds the actor-athlete jabbed Sharkey silly and was leading by forty kilometers. In the interim, between the sixth and seventh rounds, Corbett sat in his corner waiting with unruffled patience for the police to stop the fight.

When the gong rang, starting the seventh round, Corbett, who had used up all his energy in the preceding rounds, was too dumfounded to put up his hands. From then on, Sharkey proceeded to reverse the tables, and in the ninth round, with Corbett hanging on and apparently on the verge of a knockout, Jim's chief second, Con McVey, leaped through the ropes.

This, of course, constituted a foul, and Sharkey was declared the victor.

BELLEVILLE WINS FROM FRONTENACS

Bunny Frechette Broke a Tie, Winning Opening Intermediate Game 4 to 3.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 5.— (Canadian Press.)—Changing Belleville's tactics completely and lifting a long shot, Bunny Frechette sent the rubber by MacNeil, scoring the goal which broke a three to three tie and won the opening Intermediate O.H.A. game here last night for Belleville against their old rivals, the Kingston Frontenacs. The ice was fast and the game good, despite the fact that both teams had but two preparatory practices. Weir and Frechette were the best for the locals and Pat Boland in goal was good. Big Lloyd Brown and Joe Smith were effective for the losers.

THE ORIGINALS A BIG SUCCESS

Old Favourites at the Grand With a Brand New Layout—To Be Repeated Tonight.

The Originals in their revue, "Rapid Fire," full of pep and full of action, on their way back from a trip to the Coast, had a fairly large and very appreciative audience at the Grand Opera House last night. They were all there, the old favorites, the live wire, Red Newman, with his popular numbers, Bertram Langley and Jimmy Goode, the black face comedian, with his drawl and his droll "um-m-m," Ted Charter, in a third original sermon, "Flirtation," Tom Young, with his magnificent bass voice, and the "ladies" of the cast; Gene Pearson, demure and fair-haired, in one of the most realistic female impersonations ever seen here, singing in his high, clear soprano; Arthur (Jock) Holland, winning applause at every appearance, and Fred Fenwick, the third blonde "lady" of the troupe.

There was a finished ease to the performance last night that sent the lengthy but lively programme flying along in fine style. The boys have added to their settings, which now comprise some very snappy backgrounds. The wonderful jewelled curtain was again on view in the scene, "At Catherine's Court," when the chorus swells out in one of the most striking songs of the entire revue, with Jock Holland as Catherine in a pure white wig, and a dazzling outfit of gold brocade, with a mantle of purple velvet, bordered with ermine. The costumes of the "feminine" members of the cast are extremely fetching. Fred. Fenwick, as the lady, in the repetition of the droll "Rotunda" scene with the inimitable Jimmie Goode, wears a black and white costume that is the very latest thing in street clothes, and uses the same stunning black and white for a get-up to companion the two incorrigibles, Charles McLean and Red Newman, in their comical skit, "Bible Stories," that has a strong flavor of the old-time favorite, "The Farmer's B-hoy." Gene Pearson is as much like a lady as one could imagine in his various appearances, particularly so in the soft grey costume and beautiful Spanish shawl worn in the "Carmena" song number.

The programme opens with a scene outside a circus tent, that includes most of the cast in a hodge-podge of frolic that sets the keynote for the rapid-tempo performance that follows, number succeeding number in rapid succession.

"The Valley of the Kings" comes next, with Bertram Langley as the Guardian Spirit and Red Newman as King Tutankhamen. Red, in his coster costume of grey, with its hundreds of sparkling pearl buttons, later gave a double number, "Knocked 'em in the Old Kent Road," and "Are You Working?" with its satirical emphasis, in his own memorable fashion, and his rendition of "The Stoker" song brought him repeated applause.

Red and Chas. McLean are the two rapscallions in the fantastic "Dirty Work" number, where they are "ready to kill any ladies or men for a shilling," and the two, with Fred. Fenwick, made a hit in the ridiculous "Bible Stories." Jimmy Goode and Bob Anderson are the sheiks in "Sheiking in Egypt," and Jimmy makes his usual hit in his final appearance, when he revevals to an interested audience, in an undertone, the failings of his companions, following the disclosure with an introduction of the entire company in person.

Jock Holland, in his role of leading lady, adds to the beauty of the production in the "Catherine" spectacle, to its melody in the pretty vocal number, "To Welcome Me," and to its fun in the well-known double impression of the bright and dark sides of wild love, in "I'm Wild About Men" and "The Man Who Wrote the Sheik." Jock's rendition of "Monty of the Mounted," with a chorus of the boys, was done with verve and punch. "Flirtation," by Ted Charter, in his familiar clerical makeup, was received with much enthusiasm. The "reverend" based his discourse on the text, "He that flirteth much, let him take heed, lest she ensnare him."

Some of the loveliest vocal numbers in the programme were those of Gene Pearson, singing in memorable fashion, "Carmena," "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," and "The Last Rose of Summer," with a wonderful, sustained high final note, and Tom Young's contributions in song were as beautiful as ever. His rich tones were heard to much advantage in "Little Mother of Mine," and in "My Dear Old Motehr's Song Book," where each member of the company, in turn, contributes to the group of songs of long ago.

Allan Murray did some fine dancing in the solo number, "Valse Originale," and as the nautch girl in "The Garden of Kama," where he was supported by the tuneful kuartette, Tom Young, Bill Tennant, Jerry Brayford, and Bertram Langley, singing two of the popular Indian Love Lyrics, "Temple Bells" and the Kashmiri song. This quartette, full-voiced and melodious, gave several Scotch songs that brought them a repeated encore.

The skit, "Mulligan Up!" was a fragment from France, in which Ted Charter and Bob Anderson had a droll song about Irish stew, set to the tune of "The Miserere." Bob Anderson gave his "shirt" song in typical fashion as the soldier, in "Fed Up."

The entire perfotmance was carried through in splendid style, with plenty of song and action and life, and brought from a pleased audience plenty of applause for every colorful and tuneful episode. "Rapid Fire" should have big crowds for to-day's matinee and evening performance.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

REX'S MYSTERIOUS PLAY

Large Audience Pleased With It at the Grand on Thursday Evening.

During the past week hundreds of people have been wondering what the question mark meant on the advertisements of the Rex Stock Company. On Thursday evening, the most curious made a visit to the Grand Opera House and satisfied their curiosity, and solved the mystery. To those who are still puzzling over the question, a visit to the Grand is advised and they will be well repaid, as the Rex players are certainly excelling themselves this week, and that is saying a lot. As much as we would like to tell the story, we cannot do so, because we realize that if we did the entertainment might be spoiled for those who have yet to see it. However, we can say this, we can most highly recommend this latest offering of the Rex Company. All members of the company are taking part, and they have excellent roles, which they perform in a most capable manner.

The performance consists of only one act, but it takes two hours to produce, and one is kept in continual suspense until the final fall of the curtain. During the progress of the play many formed an opinion as to how it was going to end, but we wil wager that their guess was wrong, as the play has a novel twist just at the close.

Special mention should be made of the scenery and lighting effects, which could hardly be excelled. Mr. Snelgrove is very particular about the background for his productions, and he is cetrainly successful in his efforts, which are greatly appreciated. Lest we should give our readers some inkling of the great mystery which is hovering around the Grand Opera House for the week, we will allow the curtain to fall by announcing that this play without a name will be produced on Friday and Saturday evenings, with a bargain matinee on Saturday afternoon.

BRANSBY WILLIAMS RETURNING.

When the distinguished English character actor, Bransby Williams returns next Friday with his all-English company to the Grand Opera House with the romantic French drama "Vidocq," theatregoers will find in it a dramatic entertainment of quite exceptional charm. Bransby Williams is the premier character actor of the English-speaking stage, and his artistic stature alike entitles him to serious consideration. A quarter of a century on the stage has won for him an enviable reputation few can boast about.

"Vidocq" has been adapted for Mr Williams from episodes in the life of the famous French detective, Vidocq, who lived in Paris in the early part of the 19th century, by a popular dramatic author, Arthur Shirley, who, incidentally, has written some of the most successful dramas of the day. "The Grip of Iron," "Two Little Vagabounds," "Tommy Atkins," are Mr. Shirley's work. His greatest success is "Ned Kean of Old Drury" played all last season at Drury Lane Theatre, London, and he is the author of "What Money Can Buy" now running at the Lyceum The public for some time past has been fed on great sensational dramas on the films and "movies," and in "Vidocq" Mr. Williams has all the sensations of a film story with the added characteristic make-up and personal appearance in the same act. It is a fine romantic story and Mr. Shirley has provided Bransby Williams with many opportunities that he seizes on to make the drama a popular success. "Vidocq" will be repeated at Saturday matinee and a charming domestic play "Tatterley" presented on Saturday night. This has a delightful love story running through it with a strong appeal to the ladies.

AT THE CAPITOL.

TEARS, THRILLS AND LAUGHTER IN "DADDY"

New Jackie Coogan Production Wins Fresh Laurels for Little Starlet

Jackie Coogan in "Daddy", the First National picture which opens at the Capitol Theatre next Thursday reveals the undiminished power of this brilliant star. He has a vehicle that appeals with equal force to every member of the family from staid, sedate grandpa to irrepressible Bill or Jack or Mary. Humor, pathos, blithe merriment and prankish boyhood tricks follow one another across the silver sheet, evoking tears, laughter, thrills and chuckles at the will of this great little actor.

Indeed there is one scene in the picture in which little Jackie proves himself to be, as he has been claimed for him by eminent critics, the greatest actor, regardless of age, in the American theatre. It is where the forlorn boy loses the protecting fatherhood of his foster "daddy" (played with exquisite finish by Cesare Gravini), and finds his real "daddy" whom he has not seen since his tiny babyhood.

E. Mason Hopper's directorial genius has brought out the best in each member of the supporting cast. Cesare Gravini in the role of the improvident, lovable musician is a revelation on the screen, fraught with the tenderest beauty, yet not devoid either of energy or masculine dignity. Paul Savelli is the role played with distinction and force by Arthur Carewe. As the struggling violinist and later as the triumphant virtuoso, he is at once graceful, dignified and eloquent. Bert Woodruff as Evan Holden is in a role of invincible humor. No calamity robs this old farmer of his twinkling sense of humor, and the role of Mrs. Holden in the sympathetic hands of Anna Townsend is no less effective. In cast, photography, plot and result, Jackie's newest picture is worthy of its distinguished predecessors, "Oliver Twist," "Peck's Bad Boy," "My Boy" and "Trouble."

KIPLING'S STORY ONCE A FAILURE NOW BEST SELLER

Famous "The Light That Failed" Splendidy Screened by Paramount

Dubbed a failure at first, Rudyard Kipling's famous story, "The Light That Failed,' 'grew in popular favor until it became one of the best sellers bearing his name. When the story was chosen to be filmed by George Melford, the author was communicated with and certain changes made which modernize the narrative and make it quite appealing and dramatic. This feature will be shown at the Capitol Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Opening on the sea-coast of England, the picture shows Dick Hedlar a girl, both orphans, playing together. They love each other. Years go by and Dick, now a man, is down and out and dependent upon the kindness of an innkeeper and his wife in Port Said. Dick is in despair when an uprising in the Soudan gives him an opportunity to accompany a group of war correspondents as staff artist. The sketches sent to England make him famous. With fortune favoring him he meets Maisie Wells, and finds he still loves her. She inspires him to attempt something really worth while in art and he chooses a waif of the London streets, Bessie Broke, for his model. He finishes the picture and suddenly becomes blind. In revenge upon Dick for interfering in her love affair with Torpenhow, and English war correspondent, Bessie destroys the painting, but Dick never learns the truth. Hearing of his affliction, Maisie goes to Dick and cares for him. The picture closes with Maisie assuring the blinded Dick her sight must do for each of them.

The role of Dick Hedlar is played by Percy Marmont. Jacqueline Logan is featured as Bessie Broke. David Torrence as Torpenhow and Sigrid Holmquist as Maisie are featured in the cast.

STRENGTHENED LINDSAY TEAM HERE TUESDAY

O. H. A. Season Will Get Under Way Here Next Week,

The O.H.A. season will get under way on Tuesday night when Lindsay, who started their campaign auspiciously by trimming Lakefield 10 to 1 last night, will tear into the local crew in an intermediate game. The Peterborough fans were highly pleased with the work of the blue shirts in last night's exhibition game and are confident that the Petes will take Lindsay into camp on Tuesday. However, the Scugog bunch are an improved team over last year, with Killen of St. Michaels' College, and Wilford, who starred with Varsity intermediate champions, both on the line. Wilford was always a thorn in the sides of the Petes as a [illegible] and the seasoning he has got at Varsity will make him a tower of strength. There will be a capacity crowd for the opener. The Petes, with last night's game and a couple of practices under their belts, should be in pretty fair condition on Tuesday and are hopeful of earning the decision although they realize Lindsay will be tougher opposition than they have been for several seasons.

BILLY CUTT TO MEET WILLIAMS

Rochester Boxer Will Be Seen in Action Here on January 16th.

Boxing fans will be greatly interested in the announcement that Billy Cutt, of Rochester, N.Y., a former local boxer, will meet Al. Williams, of the P.A.A.A. boxing squad, here on Wednesday night, January 16th, when another card of bouts will be put on at the G.W.V.A. Hall. The Boxing Committee hope the sportsmen of the city will reserve this date and patronize this attraction.

The members of the Intermediate and Junior O.H.A. teams will be the guests of the Boxing Committee at this show.

THE CANOE CLUB SCORED VICTORY

The St. Mary's Team Rallied Too Late to Save the Game.

TORONTO, Jan. 5. — Parkdale Canoe Club, seniors, scored their first victory of O. H. A. season here last night when they accounted for the new St. Mary's team by 6 to 4 in fairly well played game. Thrills were not numerous but there were were many good plays and each team showed that it will be dangerous in future games.

Paddlers led at end of opening period by 2 to 1, and won the game game in the second when they outscored the Irish by 3 to 0. Two of the goals were secured when "Hobie' Kitchener star of the St. Mary's team was serving penalty for minor infraction of the rules. In the final dash, St. Mary's were all over the waterman and outscored them 3 to 1, but rally came too late to save the game.

WILLIAM S. HART IN "WILD BILL HICKOK" WILL DELIGHT FANS.

Famous Paramount Star Returns to Screen after Retirement of Two Years.

William S. Hart in " WILD BILL HICKOCK," directed by Clifford S. Smith, is an announcement that will have familar ring to the motion picture world. In the good old days beginning in 1914, Clifford S. Smith directed this famous star in no less than forty - five pictures. Twenty two of these were two-reelers and twenty-three were five-reel features These were the Western productions that made Bill Hart world-famous as th king of Western heroes.

Few theatregoers have forgotten "The Aryan.." Many critics still refer to this picture as one of the best ever screend. What Western memories are awakened by the " The Disciple," "Hell's Hinges" and "The Apostle of Vengeance"!

With the return of William S. Hart to the screen under contract to make nine specials for Paramount release, the star has formed a new organization, which however, is composed almost entirely of old Hart stand-bys. Entrusting the direction of his future productions to his successful co-worker of early days, he has again hit upon an ideal combination as Smith is ranked a leader in the making of Western pictures.

"Wild Bill Hickok" marks the director's debut for Paramount release. It will be shown at the Royal Theatre next Monday.. Ethel Grey, Terry plays opposite Mr. Hart and heads an excellent supporting cast. The feature is said to be one of the most thrilling of Mr. Hart's long repertoire.

Baby Peggy in Little Miss Hollywood and three Vaudville acts comprise the programme for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

THREE VAUDEVILLE ACTS IN ADDITION TO PICTURE PROGRAM AT ROYAL MONDAY.

Commencing Monday, Jan. 7th, vaudeville will be added to the program at the Royal. This policy was to have started with the New Year, but some of the acts arranged for had important bookings New Year's week. However, Manager McGeachie announced definitely to-day that all arrangements have been completed. A personal representative in Detroit will see each act before it is booked, assuring Peterboro audiences of quality and refinement in each and every attraction booked. The three contracted for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday are: Myers and Myers, "a little of this and a little of that," comedy singing, dancing, talking, piano; Will Kramer, "The Phonograph Boy," impersonations of Al. Jolson and different prominent artists; Cittle and Deyhl, a novelty musical act. Contracts have also been signed for Cal Dean and his seven Senority Girls. "The Village Four," and numerous of the bigger acts available from the larger circuits. This is in addition to the regular picture policy. Wm. S. Hart and "Wild Bill Hickok" and "Baby Peggy" in "Little Miss Hollywood" are the main picture attractions with the above-mentioned vaudeville.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Those who profess to believe Satan's lie, "thou shalt not surely die," would have no need of the resurrection, for, according to their creed, all who are dead are not dead and of course need no resurrection, and they would have no use for future judgment, seeing the destiny of all is fixed at death, some going to heaven and the vast majority going to a place of endless torments. Believing Satan's lie lead men into confusion. On the other hand those who believe God's word, "thou shalt surely die," recognize the glad tidings of the resurrection, on account of the full ransom price being paid by Jesus, also the good news of a coming judgment when all (except the little flock) shall be judged in equity and righteousness, and then those who wilfully will not turn from sin to righteousness, after having ample opportunity must pay the penalty, "the second death," from which there is no redemption.

FATHER KILLS SON WITH A HORSEWHIP

Billy Hilsabeck Aged Six Years Died Two Hours After the Severe Beating.

CALGARY, Jan. 5.—Two hours after he had been beaten into unconsciousness by horsewhip at the hands of his father, Billy Hilsabeck, six year old son of William Hilsabeck, farmer near Hanna, died Tursday evening.

Mary Hilsabeck, ten year old daughter, who according to the police, was also whipped into unconsciousnes, is lying in a serious condition. The father faces a murder charge.

According to police, Hilsbeck, lost his temper when his two children hid the key to his violin case and refused to tell him where it as hidden. He took whip, threatened to beat them until they did.

WEDDING BELLS

THOMPSON—JONES.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Jones, 305 Maitland Avenue, Peterboro, was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on New Year's Day, when their eldest daughter, Jean G., became the bride of Mr. David Donald Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, of Picton. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. J. A. Black, of Omemee, uncle of the bride.

The bride wore a dainty gown of orchid silk georgette, trimmed with tiers of Spanish flounces, a bandeau of silver beads and leaves, satin slippers and stockings to match. She was given in marriage by her father, and entered the drawing-room to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by her sister Helen. She carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses and wore the bridegroom's gift, a "La Reine" pearl necklace with diamond clasp.

After a dainty wedding breakfast, the happy couple took the noon train for Syracuse, N.Y. The bride's costume was navy poiret twill, a black picture hat and southern rat coat.

Upon their return from their honeymoon trip, they will reside in Picton.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Clapp, Mr. and Mrs. Dalmage, of Picton; Rev. J. A. and Mrs. Black of Omemee; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller, of Millbrook.

WOMEN MAKE THE BEST DIRECTORS FOR ORCHESTRAS.

Miss Eva Shirley Says That They Have More Sentiment Than Men.

(By MARIAN HALE)

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—I've just heard about a new field for women that is uncrowded, highly lucrative and full of possibilities.

It seems the world is ready for the woman orchestra leader and hotels, ball rooms and theaters will soon be clamoring for her.

"Every day I see more of a tendency towards sentimentalizing all music and I believe the time is not far away when a great majority of dance orchestra directors will be young and beautiful girls," Eva Shirley informs me.

Eva Shirley is one of the first women to become an orchestra leader, when she took her own band in vaudeville with her. Today she directs a large band, composed entirely of men, and she has made some very interesting deductions regarding the modern tendencies in music.

"This is the day," she says, "of love songs and heart interest melodies. This is because popular music is inevitably addressed to women and is made popular by them. Consequently many a woman can direct such music better than a man, if she knows music well enough to direct at all.

True Sentiment

"A woman can get more sentiment out of the music and out of the musicians than many a man. That's not hard to understand. She gets more sentiment out of life itself.

"Of course," she amends, "I think woman's ability would be demonstrated by sentimental songs largely, and for leading military bands or symphonies men will usually have the greater ability."

In her childhood, Miss Shirley studied to be a Russian dancer. It was while dancing to the fiery, passionate Tartaric tunes that she first dreamed of the possibilities of women directors. It was her experience in dancing with different musicians that an orchestra of women put more fire into their music when directed by men, and the men showed more emotion when directed by women.

Wins In Test

"Take 'I Love You,' the popular hit of today," she goes on. "Just to prove my theory I had a man direct my orchestra and then I tried it myself, with an impartial audience to judge. The verdict was unanimous that the tune seemed to mean much more when I was directing it than when one of the men, an excellent musician himself, did."

Miss Shirley is youthful and is the very feminine, gracious sort we call a man's type. She honestly believes the career she has selected has real opportunities for women.

"But like every other profession," she concludes, "it calls for a lot of hard work and perseverance before you" arrive.

FIRE DESTROYED COBOCONK STORE

Fire Raged For Nearly Two Hours Before It Could Be Got Under Control.

LINDSAY, Jan. 5.—(Special). — A disastrous fire occurred at Coboconk, last night, when the general store of T. D. Whiteside was totally destroyed together with the contents. The fire broke out about 11.30 o'clock and was not under control until nearly one o'clock in the morning. The efforts of the bucket brigade prevented the flames from spreading to the adjoining business houses. The fire fighters were also aided in their efforts by a copious fall of snow which smothered the sparks and embers flying over the village. The store and contents were insured, but the loss will be very heavy. Mr. Whiteside's store was recently burglarized, when several hundred dollors worth of goods was carried away.

SPRING TRAINING COSTS INCREASED.

CHICAGO, January 5 (Canadian Press) — The mounting cost of sending recruit players through the paces on spring training trips has resulted in major league club owners deciding to take smaller squads south for the conditioning grind preliminary to the 1924 season.

The cost of a training trip, major league officials said last night, has become an increasingly important item, while the smaller receipts from exhibition games have militated against carrying an excess number of recruits.

It will cost certain teams, depending on the distance they travel, something like $25,000 to make the trip this spring.

The cost of taking each recruit into camp is figured between $600 and $700.

In former years a baseball club could complete its spring training on less than $10,000. This even included special trains, a luxury which is practically out of th question in the major leagues at present.

Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, the originator of the "specials" for training trips, made money on every trip up to the beginning of the Great War, even after paying the cost of de luxe transportation.

This spring, however, the recruit players who have not at least an outside chance to remain with the club, will not be taken to the training camp at Winterhaven, Florida, Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox, said.

A squad of 32 or 33 players will report to Manager Frank Chance about 2nd March.

To Wed Right Man Look at His Shoes

PARIS, Jan. 5 (United Press).—Any woman who is not acquainted with scarpology is losing a chance to have very precise information on the character of her prospective husband.

Scarpology?

Yes, it's a science, according to the leaders of the French shoemaking world. The name is derived from the Latin word for shoe. If you are a scarpologist all you have to do is to examine the soles of the shoes of a man and you can tell more about him than he might be willing to confess himself. Here are some of the rules.

Sole showing equal usage heel and toe—he is well-balanced, serious, with just ideas of the facts.

If the sole is a little more used toward the toe, he is a man like Marshal Foch, having the same qualities as the preceding, but with more enterprise and daring.

If the usage is more notable toward the heel, he is still worthy of admiration, but he is more the type of the successful businessman.

Soles showing usage on the inside of the toe and heel—Character energetic, decisive, prompt.

If the usage is pronounced toward the toe you can add aggressiveness. He is the "I'm going to get there" person.

If the man wears out the sole on the outside he is a rather ordinary routine tradesman.

Sole worn at the inside of the toe —He is impulsive, changeable, not to be trusted.

If the usage is noted right under the big toe, he is a man with an iron will. "Tiger" Clemenceau's shoes wear out just there.

THE FIREMEN HAD A BUSY EVENING

Window Sashes Blown Out of William Hamilton Building.

On account of the high wind last evening the Peterboro Fire Department had a busy night. At 4.20 yesterday afternoon they were called to a fire at the William Hamilton Foundry. The fire was caused by some oil which several men were pouring into a can being spilt on a hot furnace, thus causing an oil explosion. It blew two window sashes with sixteen panes each about twenty-five feet from their lodging in the wall and only broke one pane of glass. These windows must not have been fastened into the wall very firmly for the glass would have broken by the pressure instead of the wall giving way. The damage is covered by insurance.

Albert Street Fire.

At 7.25 last evening they answered a call to 531 Albert Street to a small frame butcher and grocery store. The fire was caused by overheated pipes being too close to a pile of paper. The fire started in the rear of the building and that part was completely gutted before the firemen arrived on the scene. They saved the front part of the store, but the meat and groceries were damaged by smoke.

At 12.05 last night the firemen were called out to a fire in a house at 310 Townsend Street. The fire was caused by hot ashes being left in a wooden box on the second floor. They burned through the box, floor, and then dropped on the floor below. The firemen arrived on the scene before the fire had got a good start and succeeded in extinguishing it. The loss was covered by insurance.

IN MEMORIAN.

WALLER—A loving tribute to the cherished memory of Robert James Waller, a devoted father. Died January 5th, 1923.

Both love and memory to my heart doth hold,
My Daddy—so good—with bonds of purest gold.

Dearly beloved father—
God bless you and keep my darling
In peace as you sleep;
And surely the birds and the flowers
The sweetest of vigils will keep
O'er the spot where loving ones laid you,
In the beautiful garden of sleep.

IN MEMORIAM.

HARRISON.—In loving memory of Joseph Harrison, who was hit with a tree on the morning of Jan. 5th, 1922, and died in the Nicholls Hospital at 8.30 p.m.
Also Mrs. Stephen Harrison, who died at home at 10.30 p.m. on Jan. 5th, 1922.

Days of sadness still come o'er me,
Tears in silence flow,
For the memory keeps them near me
Though she left me one year ago.

Friends may think that I forget her
When at time they see me smile,
But they little know the sorrow
That the smile hides all the while.

—Inserted by Brother and Husband, Stephen Harrison, Box 464, Lakefield, Ont.

IN MEMORIAM.

HATTON.—In fond remembrance of our dear mother, who died Jan. 5th, 1922.

We think of her in silence,
And her name we oft recall,
But there's nothing left to answer
But her picture on the wall.

Children.

IN MEMORIAM.

HATTON.—In loving memory of our dear daughter, Mrs. A. H. Hatton, who died Jan. 5th, 1922.

Time may heal a broken heart,
Time may make a wound less sore,
But time will never stop the longing
For the dear one gone before.

Mother and Father.

IN MEMORIAM.

HATTON.—In loving memory of my dear wife, Mrs. A. H. Hatton, who departed this life Jan. 5th, 1921.

When evening shades are falling
And I am sitting alone,
My heart then comes a longing
If she could only come home.

Often and often my thoughts will wander
To a grave not far away,
Where I laid my darling wife
Just three years ago to-day.

POLITICAL HISTORY IN THE MAKING AS LABOR PREPARES TO GOVERN

British Parliament Reassembles This Week With Defeat of Baldwin Government Predetermined and Proclaimed By Its Opponents.

FORECAST OF EVENTS.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—This week will see the reopening of Parliament under the strange and unique circumstances of the date already having been settled upon when the present Baldwin Government will suffer defeat and resign in order to make way for Great Britain's first Labor Government.

This is the plan proclaimed by the Government's opponents, and since the complete collapse of the recent attempt to engineer a combination of the parties to "keep Labor out," there seems no reason why it should not be executed. But to look beyond January 17, the date fixed for the demise of the Government, and predict what is likely to happen once the Labor Government is in power, would puzzle the most astute of the political prophets.

This week's events will be of no importance. Parliament reassembles Tuesday to elect a Speaker and to swear in the members. These formalities will occupy the entire week. The actual opening of Parliament by King George, with the customary elaborate ceremonial, has been fixed for Tuesday, January 15.

Propose Social Reforms.

What line the Government will take on the Speech from the Throne, is still unknown; but it is believed the Ministers have decided to indicate a legislative program they would be prepared to propose if they could secure the support of Parliament. Rumor credits them with the advocacy of certain social reforms of a nature to forestall some features of the supposed Labor program. Much curiosity exists as to whether they still will uphold the protectionist banner, or whether the Conservatives as a party will bow before the nation's decision on protection given in the recent elections. It is expected, however, that the Ministers will adhere to the preference duties promised to the colonies at the recent Imperial Conference.

The Speech from the Throne having been read, debate, as usual, will proceed on the address. According to the Labor plan, an amendment to the address will be moved January 16, in some way recording lack of confidence in the Government. This will be debated for two days, and on a division being taken Thursday night, January 17, the amendment will be supported by the Labor and Liberal vote, and the Government will be defeated.

Labor Ascendancy.

Thereupon the Government will resign and the way will be opened for the King to summon the Labor leader, J. Ramsay MacDonald, who heads the next largest party in Parliament, to form a Ministry. According to current gossip, Mr. MacDonald already has the list of his Cabinet members completed, in which case there will be no delay in submitting the names of the new administration for the King's approval.

Parliament then probably will be adjourned for ten days or a fortnight, in order to allow the new Government time to prepare itself to meet the House. After this, it is considered that anything may happen. No one in political circles is prepared to predict that a MacDonald administration would last long enough to present the budget to the House in April. But, if it does exist that long, it is generally assumed it will adopt the budget with only slight modifications from the budget already practically prepared by the present Government, because there would be insufficient time to make fundamental changes. It is considered that whatever the new Government may propose in the way of minor changes they will chiefly concern social matters, such as old age pensions and the like.

The Labor Government will hold office by favor of the Liberal vote, and the only thing it may elect with certainty is that wary and watchful eyes will be waiting to pounce upon it when it makes its first false steps, especially in the realms of finance and foreign affairs.

Huerta Executes Chief and Staff

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Selite Carrillo, Governor of the State of Yucatan, and his entire staff have been executed by Mexican Revolutionists identified with the la Huerta movement, according to private advices received in Washington this afternoon.

Confirmation of the execution of Governor Carrilo and his staff was received this afternoon at the Mexican embassy in dispatches from Mexico City. The dispatches stated that Governor Carrilo and his staff were "murdered" after having been taken prisoners by revolutionists and before representations for their release or safety could be made by the Government.

VENIZELOS IS ASSEMBLY HEAD

Received 345 Votes Out of Total of 356 Cast For President — A Great Ovation.

ATHENS, Jan. 7.—Former Premier Venizelos was elected Saturday evening President of the Greek National Assembly, receiving 345 votes out of a total of 356 cast.

When M. Venizelos entered the Assembly Chamber before the balloting he was given a great ovation, the entire Chamber joining in the cheering which lasted more than a minute.

While the ex-Premier's name was being proposed for the Presidency of the Assembly he became ill and was obliged to leave the Chamber on the arm of M. Doxiades, Minister of Public Relief.

The question of King George's return is proving the stumbling block. The Royalists have told M. Venizelos that, before any conversations begin, the King must be returned to Greece and remain here pending a plebiscite to determine whether the country shall have a republican or monarchical government.

On the other hand representations refuse to discuss before the King's return, even going so far as declining to promise Venizelos that they would abide by the decisions of a plebiscite should it result in favor of the retention of the monarchy.

The former Premier told the ex-ministers of the revolutionary Government, at a dinner last night, that he hopes to be able to stabilize the internal situation and enable Greece to obtain the unused credits granted by foreign nations, especially the United States.

"I intend," he continued, "to remain only until I obtain what I came for—namely, to suppress the probability of civil war. I am not asking the Greeks to do the impossible. I do not expect all Greeks to become friends, but I want them to become accustomed to respect the popular voice of the people and see that when one party is in power, it can not wield its power unfairly against those out of office."

M. Venizelos is bitterly assailed by the Opposition newspapers, who characterize him as the author of the nations trouble.

British the Only Foreign Organization Helping Destitute Sufferers — Fund Is Inadequate.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—C. Leonard Leese, representing the British "Save the Children" Fund in Canada received on Saturday the following cable from Dr. W. A. Kennedy of Queen's University, Kingston, Chief Commissioner for the fund in Greece where 35,000 refugees are being supported by contributions from all parts of the British Empire.

"A severe storm and intense cold in Macedonia are causing great suffering. Railway communications with Salonika are broken. Reports from Volo state that suffering in consequence of the storm is appalling. Several deaths have occurred following an outbreak of typhus. More clothing, blankets and soap are imperative. I am forced to increase the number of refugees fed and cannot promise any decrease for some months. We are the only foreign organization giving assistance, and our funds are only sufficient to help one in ten of the destitute"

A week before Christmas Dr. Kennedy was motoring through Macedonia in company with two of his colleagues when the party was held up by brigands and robbed of all their valuables.

THE WEATHER.

Sunday was one of the roughest days we have had for several years and the heavy drifts and blocked roads to be seen in all quarters bear evidence of the fury of the blizzard. And it was cold, also. In the morning the temperature was down to 14 below zero, much the coldest this winter up to the present time. This date last winter was also very cold. On Janu. 6, we had it 10 below; on the 7th, 17 below; on the 17th, 22 below; on the 30th, 21 below; on Feb. 4th 26 below. This was the lowest point reached last winter. — W.P.

STEAMER SENDS CALL FOR HELP

Italian Freighter 250 Miles East of Cape Hatteras Appeals For Assistance.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.— A radio call for help from the freight steamer Sorriso, about 250 miles east of Cape Hatteras, picked up and relayed by the steamship East Side, was received by naval communications on Sunday.

Available shipping records show that the Italian freighter Sorriso left Philadelphia December 22 for Lisbon and Marseilles. She was formerly the British steamship Servian Prince of 3,149 gross tons.

Naval Communications announced later that the Coast Guard cutter Manning had set out from Norfolk, Va., to go to the assistance of the Sorriso.

In a recent examination, Miss Holmes distributed 1,244 letters at the rate of 65 a minute, making only three errors for an accuracy record of 99.76per cent.

Pleasure Resort Levelled by Fire

OCEAN PARK, Calif., Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Damage estimated at more than 1,500,000 was caused by fire that virtually wiped out the amusement district here Sunday.

The fire was controlled after it had destroyed three piers, hundreds of concessions, several theatres and dance halls and had damaged the municipal auditorium.

JAMMED PISTOL SAVED NORMAND

Psychiatrist Examined Greer and Says He Would Have Killed Two and Himself.

LOS ANGELES, January 7. — The party in the house of Courtland Dines on New Year's night would have ended in the death of three persons instead of the wounding of Dines, according to a psychiatrist, if the revolver hadn't jammed on the fourth shot.

Horace Greer, the chauffeur who wounded Dines, would have killed Mabel Normand and then himself, had the pistol not jammed, Dr. E. H. Williams is convinced. He based his opinion on his study of the man.

Dr. Williams is a member of the Los Angeles County Psychopathic Board, and a former member of the staff at Matteawan Prison, N.Y.

"Greer had a deep, spiritual love for Miss Normand," said the physician. "There is no doubt about it. He knew he could never hope to marry her so he concealed his love, and when he went to Dines' home to bring her back to her house he was both the movie hero and the big brother.

"He is extremely nervous and sensitive and when Dines sneered at him and Mabel seemed surprised that he should take her home, he felt deeply chagrined, and becoming afraid of Dines, a much bigger man, he fired. He fired three times. The gun jammed. Otherwise—"

Greer had nothing of the hero about him when he appeared in the Court. Despite the fact that a platoon of police ushered him in and a great crowd watched him, he sat with his hands or his cap over his face most of the time. He was cowed and at times there were tears in his eyes, and it could be seen that he trembled. The crowd, largely composed of women, became so disorderly while Greer waited for arraignment, that the police had to summon reserves to clear the corridors.

POLICE EXPECT GIRLS TO TELL ON EACH OTHER.

LOS ANGELES, January 7. — The girls will tell on each other.

With a somewhat cynical confidence that the true story of the motivation of chauffeur Horace A. Greer's shooting of the host at the Courtland Dines-Mabel Normand-Edna Purviance New Year's party awaits but the recovery by the two women of their power of clear speech, the police have contented themselves with the formalities which will clear the decks for legal action.

Dines's Condition Worse.

Conservative and hopeful, the bedside bulletin contained a note of alarm in the admission that Dines's pneumonia, usual complication of lung perforations, had taken a turn for the worse.

The awaited "break" in the noncommital stand taken immediately after the shooting by the two motion picture actresses came when Edna Purviance made her first protest against the story that her attachment for Dines was of a deeply sentimental nature.

Miss Purviance said:

"Mabel had to start this tale of my being engaged to Courtland just because we were in his apartment when her chauffeur went off his head and made all this mess.

"Poor Mabel. There certainly is a jinx folowing her. Oh, the secret tragedy in her life! If only I could tell you about the jinx she has!"

She returned to the subject of Mabel's announcement of her engagement to Dines:

"Courtland has had two tries at marriage and I guess he was disgusted enough not to want to spoil a perfectly good friendship.

"As for me, I am heart and fancy free. Some day, maybe, I'll meet with the man—the right one—but as yet I haven't met him. I'm too busy."

Elated that the two women have disagreed and confident that they will not proceed from refutation to refutation until the whole story is bared, the police wait but for one thing—the recovery of Mabel Normand from the successful appendicitis operation which keeps her bedridden and tongue-tied in a hospital room but a few doors from where Dines lies fighting death.

"Resting easy" was the bulletin from Mabels private room, where Dr. Guy Cochran, her surgeon, made a short post-operative visit and expressed himself as satisfied with her recuperative powers.

Red Ryan Brags on Train to Toronto

SAULT STE. MARIE, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press)—"I've got out of worse holes than this" said "Red" Ryan, the bandit who passed through the Sault late Sunday afternoon from Minneapolis enroute for Toronto. Inspector Walter Duncan who with detectives Meehan and Marran of Minenapolis who figured in the arrest is in charge of the prisoner said that Ryan's attempt to escape in Minneapolis was discovered when the decision was made to move him from the city to the county jail.

"If they'd only given me another hour," said Ryan. "I wouldn't be here."

Owing to engine trouble the train did not reach the Sault until almost five o'clock, too late for the transfer to Toronto to be made here, but it was expected that No. 18 would overtake the Toronto train at Sudbury, where the transfer would be made.

TEN FAMILIES MADE HOMELESS

One Hundred Thousand Dollar Fire in Nova Scotia Town During Blizzard.

WINDSOR, N.S., January 7 (Canadian Press). — Ten families were rendered homeless, several people were painfully injured, and damage estimated at $100.000 caused by a fire that started in the furnace room of Koppel's Variety Store on Gerrich Street at four o'clock yesterday morning, and spreading east and west through the block, kept the entire Fire-Department busy for nearly ten hours in the midst of the worst blizzard of the winter.

Ring Lardner Refuses To Run For President.

NEW YORK, January 7. — In Good Housekeeping's presidential straw vote, Ring Lardner, the famous humorist, received one vote.

When notified, Lardner refused to run. He said:

"To all U.S. Citizens: I just been notified by the Good Housekeeping Magazine that a lady out in my home State of Michigan casted a vote for me for President of the U S. and before the movement develops into a landslide would like to exclaim that not under no conditions will I run or same, or allow my name to be placed on the ballads as I am a good deal like Henry Ford—which I don't mean financially, but the both of us is perfectly satisfied with the present incumbrance.

"Further and more they tell me the White House has got to have over $400,000 worth of repairs which could not happen to the house which I am living in it at present, so why jump from the frying pan into a bake oven like Washington?"

SHIPPING GRAIN FOR VANCOUVER

Nearly Nine Million Tons Entered the Port Last Year—Number of Boats Increased.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 7. — More than eight and three-quarter millions gross tons of shipping entered the port of Vancouver during the year 1923, according to the annual statement of the Board of Harbor Commissioners. The total was 8,815,096, against 8,147,823 tons in 1922, a gain of 667,274.

Coastwise vessels entering port numbered 18,838; foreign coastwise 799; deep sea 573; ocean-going 837. A considerable increase in each class over the previous year. A total of 1,127 foreign boats entered the port against 1,050 in 1922.

Local coastwise imports for the ten months ending October 31, 1923, were valued at $33,352,000, and exports at $36,528,161. Foreign coastwise imports were $12,350,132 and exports $5,110,121; deep sea imports amounted to $148,154,734 in value and exports for the ten months totalled $62,780,642 in value.

London Traffic Evils Laid to Julius Caesar.

London, January 7. — Julius Caesar is to blame for the present chaotic condition of the London traffic, according to H. H. Gordon, a member of London's municipal government.

Gordon blames Julius Caesar because the main streets of London were laid out by the Romans during Julius' time, with the result, according to Gordon, that in no other city of the world are the highways so chaotic.

Complexion of the Upper Chamber Unchanged By the First Announced Results — Radicals Met Reverses Where They Had Hoped For Gains.

VOTE BY DEPUTIES.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—One hundred and sixteen seats in the Senate were contested for by indirect election yesterday, the Senators being chosen by Deputies, members of the Departmental and Ward Councils and special delegates. The first ballot accounted for 82 seats, but the returns leave the complexion of the Senate absolutely unchanged thus far.

Thirty-four seats remain yet for division on second ballot, and unless a strong current either to the Right or Left develops in the balloting, little indications of the trend of public opinion in the general legislative elections next spring will be gained.

The election of most interest was that of Premier Poincare, who was returned to the Senate by 794 votes out of 810 polled.

Left Wing Suffered.

The industrial regions in Nord and Loire Departments, in which the Communist campaign was very active, failed to elect any Senators on the first ballot. M. Cachin, the Communist leader in the Department of Nord, and M. Goldsky and M. Midol, in Loire, ran far behind the other tickets.

Thus, three seats won by the Extreme Left might indicate some slight movement to the Left except for this crushing defeat which the party suffered in the Nord and Loire Departments, in which they had placed all their hopes.

Five Republican Union Senators elected for Moselle, headed by Gen. Hirschauer, sent a joint telegram to M. Poincare, affirming that they would "energetically support the Premier's policy in behalf of France and the Republica."

The Conservative Right Party carried the Departments of Loire-Inferieure and Ille-et-Vilaine ten seats solid.

Were Re-elected.

The Department of Lot and Loiret re-elected all the outgoing senators, the six seats going to radicals and social radicals. M. Des Monzie, who conducted the preliminary negotations with the Soviets in 1923, and M. Loubet, son of the former President, were among those elected in Lot.

Among others elected were M. Marraud, Minister of the Interior in the British Cabinet, former Minister Lebrun, former Minister Victor Berard, Alphonse Rio, Under-Secretary for Merchant Marine, who was formerly a deputy; D. Delahaye, and J. Delahaye, brothers and royalists, (re-eelcted). Among those defeated were M. Rivet, Vice-president of the Sentae and a Radical; Senator De La Marzelle, who was a leading crusader for many years against immorality in literature and on the stage, and M. Laferre, a Minister in the Clemenceau Cabinet and one of the leading figures in Freemasonry in France, who abandoned the contest in Herault.

FINAL RESULTS.

PARIS, Jan .7.—The final results for 115 seats in the senatorial elections, with Martinique missing, are: Right Parties, 17; Republican Union, 16; Republicans Left Group, 23; Radical Social Radicals, 53; Republican Socialists, 4; United Socialists, 2.

SPRING MILLINERY TO OBSCURE LEFT CHEEK IS FASHION PREDICTION

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(United News)—Men who have a particular fancy for their women friends' left eyes and ears will be well-advised to have a good look at them now, for next spring they will go out and stay out until fashion changes.

Spring hats are to have a heavy list to port, and milliners declare that the left eye and ear might as well be left at home for all the good they will be. Half of the left cheek will be obscured, and to prevent an appearance of lopsidedness there will be a large bunch of curls on the right side. These will be sold with the hats, but may be cut off by those women who prefer to wear their own.

Chin-straps will be worn with smart hats of the turban type.

And, just to make things more complicated, veils will be along the lines of the hold-up mask—drawn tightly across the face, the lower end crossing the bridge of the nose.

CANADA IS THE LAND OF WINTER SPORTS

CANADA is the winter playground of North America. Blessed with an equitable climate and all the natural facilities for the enjoyment of winter, Canada is able to offer to her citizens and visitors a variety of winter sports to be found nowhere else in the world. Skiing, snowshoeing, ice boating, curling, skating, ice hockey and tobogganing are but a few of the sports which can be enjoyed in Canada in winter. Highland Inn, a winter resort which compares favorably with anything to be found in Switzerland, is operated in Algonquin Park, Ontario, by the Canadian National Railways, and the same system serves all the important towns and cities where winter sports are featured. The largest of these is Montreal, where, commencing in January, the largest winter carnival in the world will be held. The carnival concludes with a beauty contest in which will be entered the prettiest girls from all parts of Canada, each dressed in the costume of the sport in which she is most proficient.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

HAVE YOUR TEETH X-RAYED

Startling disclosures have been brought to light by the use of X-ray in locating infection at the roots of the teeth. The use of X-ray during the next five years will without doubt cause a great change in treatment by both physicians and dentists.

Up-to-date dentists are very careful about removing nerves. The teeth are often devitalized by nerve removal, and, though the dentist fills the root canal, he is often unable to remove all of the infection at the root of the tooth. As a result, there is a local abscess formation at the root of the tooth or a condition still worse, in which the pus does not localize but directly enters the blood stream. It is carried by the blood stream to the different parts and organs of the body, resulting in many different diseases.

Dr. Gardner, head of the Dental Department of the Mayo Clinic, showed how disease may be carried by the blood stream through pus formation or from infection at the roots of the teeth.

He has taken pus material from the roots of a tooth, in a patient suffering from stone in the kidney, and put this material in the nerve cavity (after removal) of a dog. The interesting result is that stone in the kidney was produced in the dog.

We may see as a result of this transplanting of infective material what may often be the case in thousands of human beings. They claim to be in perfect health, but are they? The X-ray will tell the story whether they are or not. Such people often have a strong resistance or strong fighting forces, on account of which they are able to keep an infectious condition local. But let worry work on their systems or some break occur in their general health by some intercurrect infection, and they will soon be at the physician's office and find out they may be suffering from well marked disease.

Teeth and tonsils are great disease preaders. Everyone who can should, if the slightest doubt exists, have his teeth and mouth X-rayed.

Work when you work, play when you play. So says the old rhyme and there are germs of truth in its teaching. Of course, we know that play is, psychologically speaking, a half-way stage between work and rest. In the stress and strain of busy working lives, there must be some well-regulated amount of actual rest.

Although the average person does not think much about it or realize the time or extent, every bodily power takes a certain amount of rest or relaxation after exertion. We must do it or the nerves and muscles of our bodies will refuse to function properly. The man or woman who has the spirit of constant action, even refusing to give attention to proper rest, sleep or recreation, to say nothing of keeping up the tense nervous strain, is rapidly going to smash.

The power to relax, when fatigue of mind or muscle comes, is one of the great safeguards of health.

The busy housewife will find a great relief to her overtaxed bodily powers if she takes her relaxation by simply stopping during the busy period and lying down on her back, closing her eyes and permitting muscles to rest perfectly. Relaxation is a kind of short vacation between the hurrying duties of the daily grind.

FAST TRAFFIC ON RICE LAKE

Canoes Are Finally Laid Up When Cold Dip Lays Heavy Surface of Ice For Islanders.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 5.—Shipper W. A. Wood shipped a full carload of hogs, and calves, to the stock yards in Toronto on Wednesday.

Rice Lake is at last frozen solid enough to let those who are residents of the different islands or the lower end of the lake, walk or skate to the mainland in safety. Before this they were compelled to shove a canoe, with steel runners fitted on the bottom side, along the ice in order to reach shore.

Mrs. H. Perrin and daughter, Wilhelmina of Toronto, are holidaying at the former's son, Mr. R. Perrin.

Dance at Centerville

On Monday evening the South Monaghan U.F.W.P.O. Club held a delightful dance in the club hall Centreville.

There were about one hundred and thirty present, and Brown's four piece orchestra of Peterborough furnished excellent music during the evening.

A dainty and satisfying lunch, was served about eleven thirty o'clock by the members of the organization, and it was provided by the generosity of the ladies.

At the conclusion of the lunch the President, Douglas Deyell, gave a brief address, before calling upon the Honorary President, Rev. A. H. McConnachie to give an addess on the arrival of the New Year.

After the serving of the lunch and speaking a "Lucky Number Dance was presented. The lucky number being 21, was obtained by Mr. Walter Lord and Miss Marjorie Anderson, who received suitable prizes. A "Leap Year" dance was also an interesting features of the evening.

Those who were present were Misses Anna and Alberta Russell, Grace Stewart, Wilhelmina Perrin, Esther Deyell, G. and L. White, C. and L. TURNING OVER A NEW LEAF.

In the book of Time, both youth and age,
To-day turn over a new page— A
A page unsullied, clean and white,
Whereon life's story each must write,
And whatsoe'er thereon we trace
Even Time's rude hand shall not erase,
But, bye and bye, for woe or weal,
It finally our fate may seal.

To what we write, let us take heed,
For the whole universe shall read,
When out has run Time's shining sand,
And at the eternal bar we stand,
Where each unsightly blot and stain
Will show in that great searchlight, plain;
On how this spotless page we fill
Depends our future good or ill.

So may we have an earnest care
To keep unsoiled this page so fair,
That nothing be recorded here,
But guileless thoughts and words sincere,
Deeds of true kindness gladly done,
As chance was our's, injuring none,
An ever-willingness to share
A brother's load of grief and care.

On this new page may naught appear,
To cause us one regretful tear,—
No item we may sadly rue,
When we the written page review,
But with a conscience, calm and clear
Look back upon the vanished year.
The page inscribed with truth and right,
When on it "Finis," we indite.

(Mrs.) A. F. Calder.

GRAIN MOVEMENT IS SLACKENING

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—An appreciable slackening of the grain movement is indicated by the report on stocks in store here and the receipts and shipments for the past week, issued on Saturday by the Grain Commission. Stocks in store, including cargoes afloat here, total 47,438,128, compared with 28,597,022 a year ago. About one-half million bushels were added to storage cargoes here during the week, the total now being 3,034,022 bushels.

Last year the amount afloat here was 162,778 bushels. Receipts for the week totalled nearly seven million bushels and shipments by rail exclusively amounted to 794,920 bushels. In the shipments were 259,720 bushels of wheat and 384,934 bushels of oats.

Following are the figures of stocks receipts and shipments for the week:

In store—Wheat, 39,934 bushels; oats, 4,710,625; barley, 956,750; flax, 706,853; rye, 1,075,703.

Receipts—Wheat, 5,807,787; oats, 641,438; barley, 206,796; flax, 75,020; rye, 91,955.

Shipments—Wheat, 259,720 bushels; oats, 384,934; barley, 131,197; flax, 16,831; rye, 2,238.

COLD SPELL SWEPT OVER MANY CITIES

More Than Score Dead Yesterday—Some Found Frozen to Death.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—With more than a score dead and millions of dollars damage from fires directly attributable to a wave of extreme cold that swept all sections of the United States yesterday, the Weather Bureau last night reported warmer temperatures in prospect.

The death list in Chicago and vicinity is thirteen. Temperatures there ranged from 16 degrees below to 22 below, with a steady upward climb in progress. Three deaths were reported from St. Louis, Mo., and at St. Paul, a park policeman was frozen to death.

Pittsburgh reported two burned to death.

Three other persons were burned to death in the vicinity of Philadelphia from fires which started from overheated stoves.

Four men lost their lives from fires at Rushton, Ill.

At Point Pleasant, N.J., the body of Miss Emily Plum, of Brielle, N.J., was found frozen at the edge of Manasquan River. She had abandoned her automobile which had become stalled and succumbed to the cold while seeking assistance.

Disastrous fires followed in the wage of the cold wave. At Cleveland close to 125 persons were driven into the streets when fire destroyed a home and damaged two apartment houses. The thermometers registered 8 below zero.

Damage estimated at $500,000 was caused by fire which broke out in the business district of St. Louis.

At Marine City, Mich., Saturday a fire destroyed several business structures. Estimates placed the damage at $100,000.

At Berea, Ky., damage estimated at $200,000 was caused when a fire started from an overheated stove in a department store.

At St. Mary's City, Maryland, fire destroyed St. Mary's Female Hospital.

LIBERAL PARTY TO PRESERVE IDENTITY

TORONTO, January 7 (Canadian Press). — If the Hon. T. A. Crerar becomes a member of the King Ministry, as the result of the resignation of Sir Lomer Gouin or of a shift necessitated by the continued illness of the Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, it will not be in consequence of bargaining by the Federal Government, says a special despatch from Ottawa.

In other words, no new proposition has been made to Mr. Crerar to induce him to accept the portfolio.

Moreover, there will be no bargaining with any member or members of the Progressive Party with a view to winning them over to the Liberal side of the House of Commons or to take a place in the Government.

This is the position of the Prime Minister, the despatch continues, as it has been his position and that of his Government since its formation two years ago.

There will be no alliance with the Progressives and no negotiations with the Progressives, for the Liberal Party, by its very connotation, is deemed wide enough to include all those of Liberal views, all those who are opposed to Toryism; and the Liberal Party and the Liberal Gvernment proposes to preserve its Liberal identity, win or lose.

THE ATHENIAN OATH

WE WILL never bring disgrace on this, our city, by an act of dishonesty or cowardice.

WE WILL fight for the ideals and sacred things of the city, both alone and with many.

WE WILL revere and obey the city's laws, and we will do our best to incite a like reverence and respect in those about us who are prone to annul them or set them at naught.

WE WILL strive unceasingly to quicken the public's sense of civic duty.

THUS in all these ways we will transmit this city, not only not less, but greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Twelve O'clock Club Had a Meeting--Dr. Macoun Recovering-Heavy Snow Fall.

CAMPBELLFORD, January 7. — The members of the Twelve O'clock Club will hold a meeting in the assembly room of the Public Library for the purpose of electing officers and drawing up a programme for the season.

This club was formed a year ago, and had a successful season, the dances being among the leading social functions of the winter. It wound up year with a balance of $150 and of this amount $50 was donated to the I.O.D.E., for the Soldiers' Memorial Fund. The members still have a bank account of $100 with which to renew their activities.

The name of the club explains the plan of the organization. Promptly at midnight all dancing ceases so that the objection urged by some people against the pastime that it keeps the young people up to an unreasonably late hour, is removed.

Believing that home talent should be given a preference whenever ossible the club always engages a local orchestra to furnish the music. The dances will be held as formerly in the Regent Theatre.

Dr. Macoun Recovering.

Dr. John Macoun who was overcome in his office on Friday, is gradually recovering at his home on Frank street and is now able to walk around, apparently as well as ever.

At the Regent This Week.

The programme at the Regent Theatre for this week is as follows: Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 7 and 8—Johnny Hines in "Luck." This is the scream of the screen, and you will laugh till your sides ache. There will also be Harold Lloyd and Jack Roach comedies.

Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 9 and 10.—By special request there will be a return engagement of Jack Pickford in "Garrison's Finish," the great race track picture, "Felix, the Cat," will be the comedy feature, and there will be another chapter of "The Timber Queen," with Ruth Roland as the star.

Friday and Saturday, Jan. 11 and 12.—Priscilla Dean, in "The Flame of Life;" Brownie Wonder Dog Comedy.

Special Matinee Saturday.

Heavy Fall of Snow.

There was a young blizzard in this district on Saturday, and the thermometer during the night marked 10 degrees below zero, but in spite of the rough weather there was a good crowd of visitors to town during the afternoon. The merchants are now getting rid of their heavy winter goods that were on their shelves so long on account of the remarkably mild weather during the holiday season.

There was a heavy fall of snow here Sunday, and it was still snowing, the wind blowing a gale, at the hour for evening worship, so that the attendance at the various churches was below the average. Reports from the country say that the roads are badly drifted, and in some places it will be necessary to plough them out in order to make them passable.

St. Andrew's Young People.

The young people of St. Andrew's Church hold their regular meeting to-night. The topic for the evening is "How God Became Man."

At St. Andrew's Church last night Rev. C. F. McIntosh, the pastor, preached a timely discourse, dealing with the duties of the people now that they have another year before them.

John O'Leary Funeral.

The funeral of John O'Leary, the victim of an accident at the Hydro Pulp Mills on Thursday afternoon last, took place in Campbellford on Saturday from the late residence of the deceased on Naseby Street, to St. Mary's Church, which was crowded with friends and relatives, thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

At nine o'clock on Saturday morning, solemn High Mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. C. J. Phelan. Father Phelan spoke at length on the uncertainty of life, and delivered a warm eulogy on the pious character of the deceased man and his exemplary life, both at home and abroad.

Pall-bearers for the occasion were Messrs. H. McFaul, W. Fisher, R. Mahoney, J. Duff and T. Gracey. Quantities of spiritual and floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the late John O'Leary was held by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Out-of-town friends attending the funeral included Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Neill of Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. O'Neill of Peterboro, Mrs. Decent of Stirling, Mrs. Frank Collins of Thorold, Miss Nellie O'Neill of Toronto, Mr. Thos. C. O'Neill of Hastings, and Mr. Jno. Shannon of Belleville. Mr. Jas. O'Neill of Peterboro is a brother-in-law of the deceased.

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of economy extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

WARDENSHIP FOR REEVE W. FOWLDS

That is the Expectation In and Around Hastings—News of Interest.

HASTINGS, Jan. 7.—Reeve W. M. Fowlds returned home Saturday after making a canvass of Northumberland and Durham Counties.

Reeve Fowlds has been at County Council for a number of years and as the Warden comes to this county this year Reeve Fowlds is in the running and has a good chance of winning. Hastings never had the honor of having the Warden and with the town holding an Old Boys Re-union this year in July it would be very fitting to see Reeve Fowlds win the honor when the January session of the County Council meets at Cobourg.

Gave a Shower

A miscellaneous shower was given Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lamey at their home on the Cobourg Road on Friday evening. About two hundred guests were present. Many valuable and useful articles were received the high esteem in which the young couple are held. Dancing and card playing whiled away the pleasant hours. A number from Hastings were present.

Week of Prayer.

The week of prayer will be held in the Anglican, Presbyterian, and the Methodist Churches, commencing on Monday, 7th January.

On Monday evening the service will be held in the Presbyterian Church. Subject, "Our Children and Young People," Rev. Pippen.

Tuesday evening, subject, "Our Church and Neighbours," Rev. M. L. Hinton.

Wednesday evening, in the Anglican Church, subject, "All the World and Its People," Rev. D. A. Thomson and Rev. M. L. Hinton.

Thursday evening, in the Methodist Church, subject "The Rule of Love and Justice in All Human Relationship," Rev. Pippen.

Friday evening, in the Methodist Church, subject "Forgiveness and Consecration," Rev D. A. Thomson.

Has Been Transferred.

Mr. James Perrault, teller in the Bank of Toronto here, has received notice from headquarters that he has been transferred to the branch at Coppercliff. Mr. Perrault has been in the bank here for four years.

Heavy Snowstorm.

The heavy snowstorm of Sunday, 6th January has made traffic almost impossible. The temperature was not cold, as the thermometer just registered zero. The wind was direct west.

Mrs. Scott Fife left on Saturday morning for Toronto, where she is visiting her sister.

Rev. Archie Thompson has returned to Moncton, Ont., after visiting with parents here.

Mrs. Roy Skinkle is spending a few days in Toronto with friends.

Mr. Carl Coville has returned after spending the holidays at his home in Bonar Law.

Mrs. Alec Fleming of Colborne, is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. Faux, in the village.

Mrs. W. Blackburn has returned home after a pleasant visit with friends in Lindsay.

Chris Faux is confined to his house through illness.

Mr. W. Buckholder has accepted a position at the C.N.R. station.

Mr. John Masterson is visiting friends in Grafton.

Mr. Chas. Graham of Campbellford spent Sunday at his home here.

Mr. Tom Hill left on Thursday for Chicago where he has secured a position.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Daynard returned home Sunday from an extended visit with friends in Campbellford.

"TOM" MURPHY THANKFUL HE SALTED HIS DOWN

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Shades of a great pugilistic past have been revived by the return to the game of "Harlem Tommy" Murphy, lightweight star of ten to 20 years ago. He hasn't donned the gloves again, but is serving occasionally as a judge of the State Athletic Commission, at Madison Square Garden, scene of many of his triumphs.

Murphy, who battled Packey McFarland, Ad. Wolgast, Knockout Brown, Abe Attell and Young Erne in his heyday, has thrived on his ring earnings since retirement. He has ventured successfully in Long Island real estate. For three years he has acted as boxing instructor at the fashionable Crescent Athletic Club, of Brooklyn.

"Thank God, I have something," said "Tommy." "Just think of the boys who boxed in my time and who to-day have nothing at all."

WAR-WOUNDED CANADIAN WANDERS OVER BRITAIN

LONDON, Jan. 7.— (Canadian Press).—A war-wounded Canadian who gave his name as John Miller, of Rivers Street, Piccadilly, London, Ontario, has been wandering about in Wiltshire and trying to reach Southampton in the hope of finding a boat whereon to work his passage to Canada. Miller has been found several times lying unconscious on the road, but has resolutely declined assistance. He has finally been taken to a cottage hospital, where he declares he will take to the road again as soon as he recovers.

BRADFORD MAY ERECT HUTS FOR LABORERS

LONDON, Jan. 7. — (Canadian Press).—A deputation representing the Bradford Labor party, in an interview with the Lord Mayor regarding the housing shortage, suggested that four or five hundred wooden huts should be provided as temporary dwellings for people who had been ejected from their houses under the Rent Restriction Act.

The Lord Mayor undertook to submit the proposal to the Ministry of Health.

RYAN WILL FACE TORONTO CHARGE

Bank Robber Safely Landed in the Toronto Coop

TORONTO, Jan. 7. — Norman (Red) Ryan, notorious bank robber, and escaped convict, was brought to Toronto on Sunday morning from Minneapolis. Neatly dressed and with his hands cuffed and his legs shackled at the ankles and above the knees, Ryan was taken from the train at the Union station. Under a heavy police guard he was taken to detective headquarters and is now being closely guarded in a cell in Toronto jail. He appears in court here to-day on a charge of holding up and robbing a branch of the bank of Nova Scotia at St. Clair and Oakwood avenues.

Inspector Walter Duncan, of the Criminal Investigation Department, Ottawa, Robert Tucker, Deputy Warden of Kingston Penitentiary, and Detectives Meehan and Marzen, of the Minneapolis police force, guarded Ryan on his trip to this city. When the train reached West Toronto, Inspector Guthrie, with Detectives Tuft, Stewart, McConnell and Alexander boarded it.

On arriving at the Union station, Detectives Koster, Thomson, Sullivan, Wateshouse and Chisholm were waiting with two police cars, Ryan was placed in one of the cars and taken to headquarters. He was detained there about two hours, after which he was transferred to the jail.

The four officers who brought Ryan back said he behaved well during the trip. They left Minneapolis about 6 p.m. on Friday. The train had not gone more than 40 miles from Minneapolis when they were delayed three and one half hours due to engine trouble. This delay caused the missing of train connections at the Soo. They took the train to Blind River, where they made connections with the Toronto train.

OLYMPICS HAD ONE MORE WIN

TORONTO, Jan. 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Toronto hockey fans said good-bye to the Canadian Olympic players here on Saturday night, when a crowded house saw the wearers of the Maple Leaf triumph over the powerful Sault Ste. Marie team by 5 to 3. It was a thrilling battle, one befitting the occasion, and until the final period, when the champions swung into action, using the most sensational combination attack seen since the days of seven man hockey, the result was a toss up. Bert McCaffery, veteran of many a campaign, broke the one to one deadlock one minute after the last period began and then ran in two more in the next two minutes.

Little Miss Cecil Smith and Mr. Melville Rogers ,Canada's champion figure skaters, who will compete at the Olympic, entertained the fans during intermissions. The figure skaters will leave here to-day with hockeyists and will sail for France and Chamonix on Jan. 11th.

The Northern Ontario Hockey Association standard bearers made the going more than rocky for the Olympics during the first two periods. Then lack of condition told its story and when the Olympics put on an extra burst of speed to open the last dash the Greyhounds faltered in every position except gaol, where "Flat" Walsh made some great saves. The superb condition of the Olympic players enabled them to outlast the northerners.

To the Electors of Otonabee

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

As it will be impossible for me to see you all personally I take this opportunity of thanking you for your continued confidence in my judgment in the past and would respectfully ask for a renewal of the same on Monday next. Starting at the bottom and gradually working up through the different offices through long years, an experience of municipal and county work is obtained not possible in any other way.

If elected I promise a continuance of the same sound and honest administration of the affairs of the municipality as I have endeavored to give you in the past.

Wishing one and all the best wishes for a happy and prosperous 1924, I am,

Yours respectfully,

BOY'S BAD COLD TURNED TO BRONCHITIS

The frequency with which bronchitis develops into pneumonia is appreciated by very few mothers. The danger of pneumonia is, probably, well understood too, but how many mothers take into consideration that a neglected attack of bronchitis frequently leads to this dangerous disease.

We would advise all mothers to give their children Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup the first moment they show any symptoms of a cold or cough as by doing this they save them from an attack of bronchitis or pneumonia.

Mrs. Lawrence Quick, Sandwich, Ont. writes:—"My little boy, six years old, had a bad cold which turned to bronchitis. I tried every thing I thought would be best for it but did not see him getting any better. I was told to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after giving him two bottles he got wonderful relief. I cannot praise it enough."

MURRELL UNDERWENT SERIOUS OPERATION

LONDON, Ont., January 7 (Canadian Press). — Stricken with an acute attack of appendicitis, Sydney Murrell, who has been confined in Middlesex County Jail awaiting his trial for the murder of Russell Campbell at Melbourne two years ago, was rushed to an operating table in Victoria Hospital, and was operated upon.

It is said his condition is fairly satisfactory, but that he is as yet by no means out of danger.

When it became apparent that only an operation would save the prisoner's life, the jail officials were in a quandary, but communicated with the Inspector of Prisons, W. W. Dunlop of Toronto, who gave permission to take the man out of jail to a place where he could be properly looked after.

The strictest secrecy was maintained by the authorities as to where Murrell was being treated, but it was admitted that he is being guarded by several well armed officers.

EIGHT DEATHS OVER WEEK-END

Toronto Had Seven Sudden Deaths Yesterday and One on Saturday--All Heart Failure.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Eight sudden deaths were reported to Chief Coroner G. W. Graham over the week end. All the deaths were from heart trouble. Seven of the deaths occurred on Sunday, the eighth being on Saturday morning.

Mrs. Mary A. Farrel, aged 74 years was waiting for the train at Sunnyside Station yesterday morning, when she died suddenly.

Matthew Atkinson, aged 53 years formerly a prison guard, while out in the yard of his home on Pembroke street, yesterday morning, was taken suddenly ill and died.

While visiting friends on Sunday night, Alexander Manson aged 53 years, collapsed and died. He had complained of pains about the heart.

When chopping wood in the basement of his home on Sunday morning Frederick Morley aged 50 was taken ill and died.

Taken suddenly ill in her home on Sunday evening Mrs. Maud Nicholson, died before medical assistance could be summoned.

Mrs. Alice Prevost died suddenly last night in her home. Death was found to have been from heart attack.

James H. Dower was taken suddenly ill in his home on Sunday evening and died of heart trouble was given as the cause of death. Mr. Dower was 75 years of age.

Robert Galloway, 65, was found dead in the kitchen of his home on Harbord street on Saturday morning.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster WITHOUT the blister. You just apply it with the fingers. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then comes a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu." 40c and 75c, at all druggists The Musterole Co. of Canada, Ltd. Montreal.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The annual report of Mr. F. M. DelaFosse, librarian of the Peterborough Public Library is gratifying in the proof that it gives of the fact that the library is steadily becoming of greater service to the citizens.

With a splendid building, a very excellent assortment of books and able management by the librarian and his staff, there is every reason why each year should show an increase in the number of patrons.

The Public Library is a community institution that offers the citizens a wealth of good things for the mere trouble of going there, and it is pleasing to note that the attendance in the reading rooms has more than doubled during the year, while there were 556 new adult ticketholders and 589 new tickets issued in the juvenile department.

The circulation during the past twelve months has increased from 74,089 to 77,903, a net gain over 1922 of 4,814—a jump that indicates a more general use of the privileges of the library.

The gain has not been made in fiction either—another satisfactory feature—for the figures show that citizens have availed themselves more freely of the other departments of the library, the biography, religion, sociology, useful arts and fine arts departments all showing an increase, while reference books were much more frequently called upon.

Mr. DelaFosse's admirable report will give pleasure to those who have learned to appreciate the library and would like to have other citizens get their share of the benefit.

THE OFFICIAL OPPOSITION.

Even those who agree with Hon. G. H. Ferguson's declaration that there should only be two political parties will find difficulty in justifying the Premier's refusal to recognize the Progressive Party as one of the official opposition groups in the Legislature.

It is true that in the Federal House the Conservative group is the official opposition, the Federal Progressives waiving their claim to consideration.

In Ontario, however, the situation is different.

The Progressives are claiming that their position should be recognized as equivalent to that of the Liberal group, and they have precedent on their side inasmuch as the Drury Government provided for a salary for both Conservative and Liberal leaders as heading two sections of the opposition.

There is no reason why this practice should be discontinued.

The Progressives in the Legislature are the remnants of the Drury Government.

They have the right to maintain their identity as such, especially as many acts passed during their administration will be under fire during the coming session.

A compromise by which both Liberal and Progressive groups would be recognized as separate opposition units seems to be the fairest way to settle the controversy.

Many electors who did not support the Progressives in the last election and have no present intention of ever supporting them will sympathize with them in their present stand, and will feel that they are the victims of injustice should the Premier continue to refuse to recognize their claim for consideration.

CIVIC COMMONPLACES NO. 3.

The third of the series of civic commonplaces that seem to have been forgotten by the majority of the ratepayers is one of the most important of the lot.

It may be stated as follows:

Civic expenditure, and therefore civic taxation, is bound to increase if the duties of nominating candidates, electing legislators, and voting on money by-laws are matters of indifference to a majority of the citizens and taxpayers.

Waste and over-expenditure, whether in public or private affairs always increase unless stringent measures are taken to prevent their increase.

Waste and extravagance we have with us always.

They will continue to flourish unless taxpayers as a whole—and that means all citizens—take a vigorous and united action against them.

Manifestly this can not be done if individual citizens oppose expenditures in a general way and form part of delegations to force on legislators expenditures in which they are particularly interested.

Men who in practice take the ground that the expenditures they advocate are necessarily sound and prudent, but that expenditures they do not advocate are necessarily unsound and imprudent, are ineffective advocates of economy and efficiency.

There are many such people in Peterborough, as in other communities, and they should realise that when as many and as numerous deputations insist on showing Councils, boards, and governments ways and means of spending less money as insists on showing where more money can be spent, economy will become good politics for those who desire to remain in office.

Election to office usually doesn't change an office holder's human nature.

It only serves to increase the number and power of the appeals to his human nature.

His actions will largely depend on the character of these appeals made to him, and the character of these appeals depends on the citizen and taxpayer.

In other words, the taxpayer not only pays the bills, but by his action or abstention from action helps to decide what bill he will have to pay.

There is nothing new in that theory, and too many people will call it "poppy cock."

As long as it is so considered, however, public expenditure will continue to be determined by considerations which at present are in the realm of "practical politics."

DRIVING OUT DIPHTHERIA.

The announcement of the intention of the School Health Officer to inaugurate a campaign with the object of rendering Peterborough's school children immune from diphtheria by the use of the Schick test and the injection of toxin anti-toxin aroused the active opposition of the Anti-Vaccination League, which launched propaganda bitterly attacking the plan.

To some extent the opposition interfered with the campaign, as a number of the parents refused to have their children either tested or immunized.

The annual report of the Health Department of New York for 1920 should convince every doubting Thomas in the city of the efficacy of the treatment proposed by Dr. McPherson and endorsed by the local Medical Association.

New York has had the healthiest year in the 125 years since the registration of the causes of death was begun.

There has been a tremendous drop in the death rate among children.

Contagious diseases have been almost wiped out.

Diphtheria, once the dread of every mother, is, according to the report, about to be erased from consideration.

The death rate from the disease has become almost negligible.

And this wonderful change has been brought about by exactly the course that has been started in Peterborough schools.

During the past five years the Schick test has been administered to approximately half a million children in New York, and toxin anti-toxin injected into those shown to be susceptible todiphtheria.

"This favourable result," declares the report, referring to the small death rate, "leads us to assume an optimistic attitude as to the total extinction in the near future of diphtheria as a cause of death among children of this city."

If a metropolis like New York with the revolting housing conditions in many sections of the teeming city, with its miles of slums, can drive out diphtheria, surely Peterborough with its freedom from slums and its favourable sanitary conditions should have little difficulty in using the same means with the best of results.

THAT SALES TAX.

The Dominion Government has made further exemptions from the new Sales Tax which has gone into effect January 1. That is all to the good; but it is a great pity that the Ministry could not have seen its way clear to suspend the new levy altogether. No evidence exists to show that the country could not get along without additional revenue. At the present time taxes are being collected at the rate of nearly $400,000,000 a year, and despite the admitted extravagance that has been practised during the past twelve months, the Government ought to pretty nearly balance its next Budget. Next year with business and industry given a fair chance, things ought to be better. The Canadian National Railways, from present indications, will decrease their deficit. This year the system will have an operating surplus of $18,000,000 as against an operating surplus of $4,000,000 last year, which means that Parliament will be called upon to put up a much smaller sum for fixed charges; and, according to Sir Henry Thornton, 1924 will show still greater improvement. That improvement alone, mixed with reasonable administrative economy, ought to obviate the need of new taxation.

The great trouble with Governments is that the more money they collect in taxes the more money they want to spend. And the war, during which people were willing to put up money without stint, increased their bad habit. That habit has got to be curbed. It is being curbed in England, in Australia, in New Zealand and in the United States; and it has got to be curbed here. The other day the London cables told us that English taxation this year would be $400,000,000 less than last year. Yesterday morning Washington despatches told of a plan to reduce American taxes. Yet while retrenchment goes on in other countries, and the war and its problems recede, Canada goes on adding still heavier tolls upon an already overburdened public.

The consequences are bound to be evil. Taxation is crippling to any country; it is particularly perilous for Canada. And the reason is this: that it is easy for over-taxed capital and people to move out of Canada. The over-taxed industry or business or individual in England cannot easily move. The over-taxed industry or business or individual in Australia or in New Zealand is in the same predicament. But in Canada it is different. We are bordered for three thousand miles by a great, rich, prosperous nation; and if capital and people cannot get along over here they simply move over there.

They are moving now. They have been moving at the rate of ten thousand a month for nearly two years; and declining taxation over there and heightening taxation over here are not likely to diminish the exodus.

The plain truth is that it is vital for Canada to have at least as low taxation and as low living costs as the United States. Otherwise we shall simply degenerate into an Ellis Island for the Republic. Our best blood and our best brains and our capital will go where opportunities are greater.

That is why the Journal has consistently protested against high taxation. We have been going on with a profligacy in expenditure that is a crime against Canada's future. While other nations have been divorcing waste we have been gripped by a squandermania that is paralysing this country. And unless it be stopped in time, unless this Government and Parliament call a halt, we are marching rapidly upon a path with an abyss straight ahead.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

White River can keep that record cold weather to itself. There is no demand for it down this way.

One of the chief industries in Belleville seems to be developing left-handed baseball pitchers for Western Ontario clubs.

The open winter prophets are beginning to hedge. Yesterday's weather was hard to reconcile with stories of a winter of no snow or cold weather.

Newspapers are having a lot of fun these days picking new Cabinet Ministers for Premier King.

The Toronto Telegram, which has been busy every since the election discussing reasons why Tommy Church was defeated, should have used that energy prior to the nominations in pointing out reasons why he shouldn't be a candidate.

FATHER GIVES TWO CHILDREN AS BAIL.

Federal Judge John S. Partridge Rules That Love Is Sufficient Bond.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—Hippolite Lapachet here has bartered his six children for freedom.

They constitute a bond of living flesh pending the father's trial on a charge of violating the liquor laws.

Thus in modern times has a re-enactment of Shakespeare's famous play, "The Merchant of Venice," taken place, with the role of Shylock vested in the government.

Should Lapachet not appear on the date set for hearing the youngsters are forfeit.

Just what would happen to them in such event is a matter grave legal minds are pondering.

Prohibition agents declare they found several stills on Lapachet's ranch.

Children His Sole Wealth

Tsao, originally, was a cloth merchant's apprentice, having been put in that service by a father noted for his stern disposition, the story goes. Becoming proficient, he was provided with a barrow and stock of goods wherewith to make rounds among prospective buyers and chaffered keenly with the housewives of neighboring villages. He was discontented with this prosaic occupation, however, and sought solace for the pangs it caused his adventurous spirit by engaging in escapades which failed to find his father's approval.

Lapachet denied his guilt, but could proffer nothing of value as bail.

"Money I have not," he told Federal Judge John S. Partridge. "But my bambinos! They are six. Please, Mr. Judge, take them. It is proof that I will not run away!"

For some time the court debated the plea; then accepted it.

The edict, creating legal precedent and history, placed Eugene, 17; Lawrence, 15; Emily, 13; Frances, 11; Blanche, 10, and Johnny Lapachet, 9, in nominal custody of the United States of America.

On a previous occasion Lapachet parted with his children.

That was when juvenile court officials took them away following the mother's unfathomed departure four years ago.

They were subsequently returned when Lapachet demonstrated his unquestioned capability of caring for them.

"Since my wife went away I am both father and mother, too," Lapachet said.

"My bambinos I love more than anything in the world. For them I would do anything.

"I wash them and dress them when school time comes. I cook for them and keep house, too.

Love Wins Debate

"Why, then, is it, when they mean so much to me, should anyone ask have I no money to get out of jail when I give my bambinos as pledge instead?"

"A man with a record such as this, with children whom he loves, is not likely to run away from the court's jurisdiction," Judge Partridge said in explanation of his unparalleled decision.

"It would be no less than an outrage to keep him in jail when professional criminals gain freedom on bail.

"The children are accepted as theoretical bond.

"In my mind there is no doubt but what this man will be in court on the date appointed for trial.

"He needs his children and they need him.

"I order him released."

APACHE INSTINCT IS STILL IN MAN.

A Noted Dancer States That They Are All Cave Men In Instinct.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—It wasn't the Gloria Swanson of the sleek hairdress, the sinuous gown and just-from-my-maid look that I recently saw at the Famous Players Studio. It was a disheveled, bruised, limping lady, with an abbreviated short skirt and a torn, mussy striped bluse.

She had just done a round of her Apache dance for her new picture, "The Humming Bird." Aurelio Coccia, her dancing partner, who introduced this dance in American several years ago and who taught it to Miss Swanson, was applauding her work.

"Bravo, bravo," he roared with Latin fervor. "The Apache dance will never die, though the Apaches themselves may, because the public will always demand this dance."

"Why?" moaned Gloria, as her blond maid applied liniment and plasters to her bruised arms.

"Why?" I echoed, watching Miss Swanson flinch unde4 the maid's gentletouch.

Cave Men Still

"Because men love it," Coccia replied. "In every man there are all the instincts of the old cave man. Though in these days men no longer win their sweethearts by knocking them senseless and carrying them away by force, the temptation and desire to do so is still in the back of the brain.

"No matter how cultivated, how gentle, how gallant a man may be, there have been times in his life when he wanted to take some woman by the nape of the neck or by the hair of her head—particularly when it used to be long—and beat some sense into her.

"The sight of some other man acting on the impulse he may have stifled gives him a certain vicarious enjoyment. The woman receiving the rough treatment becomes the personification of all the women who may have tricked or eluded him—and gone unpunished.

"The little man, who has an inferiority complex, and who would be afraid to call his soul his own, suddenly becomes the cave man on the stage who gets what he wants by physical force if he can't get it any other way. The Apache dance really liberates the repressions of the modern man. So the more civilized we become, the more popular this dance will be."

The Woman's Side

"But what of the woman?" I asked. "Do women really enjoy this sort of thing?"

"Some of them may, but I don't," announced Miss Swanson quickly. "I wouldn't stand it for one minute if it weren't for my—well, I won't say my art, but for my pay check. Women never have and never will like brutality in a man. But they are really weak creatures and they are the tools of the men they love. When they really love a man, even torture at his hands is forgiven.

"But no man can hold a woman's love without affection and understanding," she added. "And I advise the modern husband to do his wife beating vicariously—if he wants to get away with it."

However, Miss Swanson admitted the Apache dance is thrilling and is a change from the fox trot and the college walk.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—Domestic trade in the cash grain market Saturday was very limited. There were no new developments in the local flour situation. A steady feeling prevailed in all branches of millfeed, but the rolled oats market was quiet. There was a fair movement of eggs. Total receipts from May 1 to date have been 504,817 cases as against 488,775 cases in the same period last year. Demand for butter is improving. Total receipts from May 1 to date have been 148,961 packages less than in the corresponding period of 1922-23. There is little doing in cheese. Total receipts from May 1 to date were 137,481 boxes in excess of the same period a year ago.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—Egg quotations—extras 40; firsts 35; seconds 28 to 30.

Butter—No. 1 pasteurized 42 to 42 1-4; No 1 creamery 41 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Although as a result of extraordinary dearth of arrivals corn to-day reached a new high price record for the season and imparted temporary fresh strength to wheat and oats, general profit-taking sales had a counter-effect later. Wheat closed weak 5-8 to 3-4c. net lower, May $1.08 and July $1.06 1-8 and 1-4, to $1.06 1-4. In corn, the outcome was 1-8c. to 3-8 and 12c. decline, with oats varying from 3-8 and 1-2c. off to 1-8c. advance, and provisions at two cents lower to 7c. gain.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.— Sterling exchange rates were quoted here on Saturday:

Demand 4.4163.

Cables 4.4200.

LEOPARD FUR.

Leopard fur is seen frequently this season in bands on cloth coats. It is particularly good on a certain shade of deep green.

VELVET COATS.

Coat frocks of velvet are the latest novelties to arrive from Paris. They are gorgeously furred.

Electrical wires fixed in wards of the London Hospital will record the heart-beats of patients on a drum in the Research Department, in another part of this building. This will make it unnecessary to disturb patients.

LAKEFIELD CLASS SURPRISED PASTOR

Rev. T. L. White of the Baptist Church Presented With Address and Chair.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 5.—On Thursday evening after the weekly prayer meeting held in the Lakefield Baptist church, Rev. T. L. White, the leader of the Bible class, was presented with a handsome chair and the following address, which was read by Mr. Wellington Macdonald:

"To Mr. White— We, the members of your Bible class, are desirous of showing our appreciation of the service rendered by you for the spiritual uplift of our Bible class. There is a good work being done for the Master through your faithful endeavour and we wish at this opportune time, to present to you this small token of our esteem, trusting that you will be long spared to make use of it. And we assure you of our continued co-operation in the good work and in the studyof things pertaining to the kingdom of our Lord. Signed on behalf of the class—Mrs. B. Kidd, president, Mr. Macdonald, Mrs. H. Northey, Mrs. Harvey, Mr. B. Nicholls.

Mr. White was completely taken by surprise. He thanked the class for their kind thought, which he so much appreciated, but expressed a wish for their continued attendance at the class. The Bible class and prayer meeting have been the greatest encouragement in his work in the church. When coming to the Bible class or to prayer meeting he knew that there would be a goodly number to greet him.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was spent which helped to weld the tie of love and fellowship which unites Mr. White to his people.

As Mr. White is a favorite in the village, this expression of appreciation will be gratifying to not only the members of the Baptist church but the community at large.

Methodist W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the Methodist church will be held on Tuesday at 2.30 in the church. Mrs. Lawlor, of Norwood, one of the branch officers, will give an address. A cordial invitation is extended to the members of the Anglican, Baptist and Presbyterian societies.

Personals.

Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Fraser, Jr., of Montreal, are guests of Dr. J. R. Fraser, in the village.

Fred Paul of Peterborough, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Paul.

W. J. Sherwood of Peterborough, was in the village on Friday.

Wm. Thompson of Mount Julian, was in the village on Wednesday.

F. Smiley of Toronto, was in the village on Friday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and family of Trenton are guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Morin.

Miss Verna Roberts is spending the vacation with relatives in Apsely.

Home Nursing

The Red Cross is engaged in a crusade for the "promotion of health, the prevention of disease, and the mitigation of suffering."

As a definite step in this work, it has been decided to form Home Nursing Classes throughout the province with the help of the local Red Cross Branches, and other organizations in the welfare of our people and their homes.

Purpose.—The purpose of the classes is to teach women and young girls the proper care of the sick, and methods of keeping well, and preventing disease in their homes and communities.

Manual. — A manual of Home Nursing has been compiled which will be used as a reference book. It has been duly reviewed and approved by recognized authorities in the nursing and medical professions.

The Course. — The course will be given by a graduate nurse. Each period will include a short talk by the instructor but the greater portion will be devoted to practical demonstrations and practice by members of the class. Peterboro Graduate Nurses, who have the time and ability are invited to assist in giving this voluntary service to their community.

Nurses and others wishing for further information please communicate with Miss L. Davidson, Secretary, Red Cross Branch, 520 Dickson St., Peterboro, Ont.

The bread-fruit, with the cocoanut and banana, furnishes the chief food of the natives of the Pacific islands. This is why we call it "breadfruit," because, for them, it takes the place of bread. Aapart from its fruit, the tree itself it as very useful one, for, when beaten out, the inner bark forms a fine white cloth called tapa cloth.

"PERSONALLY, I don't object to smoking, but I can't do my best work while the chief has his attention divided between me and the job of keeping smoke out of his eyes.

"It's almost funny to watch his antics, trying to get close to my mouthpiece, as he knows he should, and at the same time speaking through his cigar.

"And as for my brother over in Brown's office, to whom the chief was talking—I know his telephone is going to be reported as out of order—a 'can't hear distinctly' report!

"All because the chief tries to do two things at once.

"But every cigar must end, and when he talks close to me in that confidential manner of his, then we certainly do swing the business."

WIFE BARBERS AS HUBBY KEEPS HOME.

Man's Place Evidently Is "In the Home," According to L. A. Arrangement

LOS ANGELES, January 7—Some men admit that they were born to be cooks—but let the good little wife do it as her share of the family business. Other men admit that they can't cook, and don't even want to learn.

However no man can poach an egg or beat up a batch of biscuits more expertly than Edmond W. Layman, helpmeet to Covina's popular woman barber. Also he is next to the point of fussiness. As the family breadwinner, Mrs. Layman says that she cannot speak too highly of her husband's housewifely talents and virtues.

The novel domestic arrangement which keeps Mrs. Layman in her barber shop and her husband in the kitchen at home had its origin four years ago when it was discovered that the wife's income from clipping children's hair for pin money exceeded her husband's monthly income.

So the couple decided in a family conference that the sensible thing to do was to let Mrs. Layman have her career while Layman stayed at home and kept house. The venture is a complete success.

FIRE VICTIMS SEALED IN A CASKET OF ICE.

Workers Abandon Hope of Getting 24 Bodies From Wrecked Plant Now.

PEKIN, Ill., January 7. — A great glacier, ribbed with iron and steel wreckage, so enveloped the ruins of the Corn Products Refining Company's starch plant here that rescue workers seeking twenty-four bodies believed sealed in the icy casket, abandoned hope of penetrating it for several days.

Water poured upon the plant after an explosion demolished it with a death toll estimated at thirty-one, formed a veritable Fujiyama.

From the apex of the man-made volcano huge banners of steam and smoke continued to wave in the near-zero winds.

Powerful cranes brought up to the ruins accomplished no more than would brittle finger nails scraping at the ice.

Meanwhile, revised figures indicated that there were seven identified dead and twenty-four missing.

There were twenty-five seriously injured in the hospital, of whom eight are near death.

Rescue workers expressed fear that whenever the ruins of the plant might be entered, it would be found that more than a few of the missing twenty-four were cremated with no trace left behind them.

KISSES WON VOTES FOR WOMAN WHO WAS ELECTED.

LONDON, January 7. — Kissing candidates for Parliament is a custom which seems to be springing up in the country now that women are allowed to sit in the House of Commons.

Lady Terrington, elected in the last election as a Liberal, told the society known as The Six Point Group in London that the men in her constituency had been very kind to her; she was kissed by dozens of them.

"But it wasn't so much a question of being kissed by them as really changing their opinions," she added.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Jan. 5.— When the Counties Council for Northumberland and Durham meets here this month it will be found that quite a large number of members of the 1923 Council have been returned, if we may judge from the election results so far. Among these are several aspirants for the wardenship of the counties, which, according to custom, falls to Northumberland county this year. Some of those returned are: Harry McGuire, Cobourg; H. H. Holdaway, Port Hope; J. L. McCamus, Cavan; Peter Haig, Archie Mackenzie, Haldimand township; W. J. Jibb, Hamilton township; Alex. Anderson, South Monaghan; W. T. Wood, Millbrook; S. A. Clark, Cramahe township; Thomas Honey, Alnwick township; R. J. Clarke, Colborne village; F. F. Bruce, Cartwright township; G. Van Volkenburg, P. B. Nelson, Seymour township.

In Cobourg Harry McGuire is elected Deputy-reeve by acclamation. This was the only local acclamation of the 1924 election.

In Cramahe township S. A. Clarke is elected Reeve.

Three councillors are elected by acclaamtion, George Campbell, W. E. Chesterfield and M. W. Drinkwater.

There are stated to be three candidates for the position of Deputy-reeve, Ed. Quinn, L. C. Murphy, C. T. Turney.

Theer was an acclamation in Alnwick township. All of the old council being returned as follows: Reeve, Thomas Honey; councillors, Wm. Arnold, Herman Blodgett, Gordon Parker and Earl Shearer.

In Hope township there will be a contest .Those nominated are:

Reeve—R. F. Beatty, B. Lawson.

Deputy-reeve—L. H. Cann, S. M. Wilson.

Councillors— H. Harness, Albert Lewis, B. S. Dickinson, J. H. Caldwell, Ed. Gardiner, Fred Ough, Andrew Finnie, R. L. Beatty.

In Haldimand township six are nominated for councillors, Stanley McBride, Frank Birney, Bertram Horten, John Harnden, Alex Rutherford, Zita Hornden.

Peter Haig is elected Reeve by acclamation and A. R. McKenzie Deputy-reeev.

The Cobourg contest is a keen one and it is expected that a very large vote will be polled on Monday. On the voters' list when it was returned there were about 2,680 names. The Court of Revision held here on Monday before His Honor Judge Ward resulted in about eighty names being put on the list and about fifty-three were struck off. On the voters' list last year there were about 1,800 names. The increase is a considerable one.

Hamilton Township.

In Hamilton township, besides the hot contest for the Reeveship between R. Geo. Holdsworth and A. E. Eagleson, both men of consider municipal experience, there is a spirited fight going on for the position of councillors between Mervin J. Greer, A. P. Bray, Jas. Bray, new aspirants, and Thomas Bradshaw and Earl Srape, members of the 1923 council.

YOUNG'S POINT

YOUNG'S POINT, Jan. 7.—Upon the last Sunday night of the old year, the service in St. Aidan's Church differed from that of the usual "Even Song." After a short service, consisting of two Christmas hymns, prayers and recital of the Apostles' Creed, the rector, the Rev. J. L. Hughes, gave a brief message from the text Emmanuel, "God with us," his words being appropriate to both the festive season of Christmas and the passing of the old year and the coming of the new. This was followed by a carol service rendered in an effective manner by members of the Sunday School, the carols being interspersed with short readings by the rector from Holy Scripture or other devotional books.

Miss Agnes Young visited friends in Peterborough this week.

BAR ATHLETES FROM WRITING

Olympic Committee Intends to Check United States Contestants In Literary Activities.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.— On the heels of the move by the United States Lawn Tennis Association to declare ineligible players who write for newspapers and magazines, officials of the American Olympic Committee last night revealed a plan to check similar activities by United States' athletes who participate in the Olympics at Paris this year.

"This action has been under consideration for some time. In fact ever since the 1920 Olympics," declared Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary of the Olympic Committee. "A definite proposal to bar athletes from literary activities in connection with games will be laid before the next meeting of the executive organization of the Olympic committee."

It was said that a majority of the Olympic authorities are in sympathy with the plan and Mr. Rubien predicted that it would be put into force.

HINTS TO THE WISE WOMAN

CARE OF THE SKIN
(By HELEN GRANVILLE BUTLER)

It is an acknowledged fact that a really beautiful skin is one of the greatest attractions a woman can have. But I have found that comparatively few women realize that it lies within the power of us all to increase and preserve the beauty of the skin.

The two fundamental points in the care of the skin are diet and cleanliness. Without care along these two lines you can never attain real and lasting beauty which is based upon good health.

Just a word about diet. Do not indulge in rich and greasy food and avoid excesses in sweets. Nothing so quickly coarsens the skin and produces unsightly eruptions as a diet overloaded with fats and sugars. Drink plenty of water, but not with your meals. Make it a rule to drink at least two glasses of water the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night, and several more during the day. This clears the system and keeps the skin in a healthy condition.

Now for the cleansing and care of the skin itself. You must devote a little time morning and evening to this care in order to keep your skin in good condition. In the morning, wash the face carefully with warm water. Do not use too rough a cloth or rub the skin too hard. When your face is thoroughly clean dash clear cold water all over it. Next take a pure cold cream that nourishes as well as cleans the skin. Apply the cream with the finger tips and work it in the face with a light firm touch. Remember in massaging the face to use an upward stroke from chin to ear. This strengthens the muscles and preserves the youthful contour. Wipe off the cream with a soft cloth and smooth a piece of ice over the face several times; the effect of the ice is to start the circulation and close the pores. If you have a very delicate skin, or are in the habit of using makeup, it is a good plan to use a little vanishing cream as a protection for the skin. Use only a very little and rub it lightly into the skin. Now dust a face powder lightly over your face to remove the shine and give a soft look. Do not cake the powder on your face so that it is the only thing visible. Not only is it very poor taste but it is bad for your skin.

This treatment in the morning will send you out secure in the knowledge of a pretty and well-cared-for skin.

WOMEN SEEK TO STOP DIVORCES.

Women's Clubs Seek the Correction of the Present-Day Conflicting Laws.

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. — "Forty-nine marriage laws—and no two alike!

"Conflicting divorce laws which make children by second marriages, while legitimate in some states, illegitimate in others and men and woman lawfully married in some states bigamists in others.

"This situation presents a problem which the women of the United States must see solved," says Miss Lida Hafford, director of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who will have charge of the fight for a nationally uniform marriage and divorce code.

"Senators and representatives agree that, socially, this condition is intolerable." Miss Hafford adds. "But, politically, the right of the individual states to fix their own marriage and divorce laws must not be infringed, they contend, even though this state right results in a national wrong!

"Our problem, therefore, is to impress on congressmen the view that human rights are above state rights."

Present Marriage Laws

The need of uniform marriage and divorce laws may be understood from a study of the conflicting laws now in force. Take the laws governing marriage:

Seventeen states have no illegal marriageable age.

In nine states the common-law age of 12 for girls and 14 for boys is formally recognized and two states fix the marriageable age at 12 for girls and 14 for boys. In one state it is 13 for girls and 14 for boys while three states permit the marriage of girls of 16 without parental consent.

Twenty states prescribe no penalty for issuing a certificate of marriage to a minor below the specified age without parents' consent. In three states a marriage license is not needed if the marriage has been announced previously by bans. Only five states require both parties to apply in person for a license.

Eighteen states do not forbid marriage of feeble-minded and 33 do not definitely forbid marriages between blacks and whites.

The Divorce Tangle

The conditions governing divorce are no less varied.

One state permits divorce on 14 grounds while one state does not permit divorce on any ground. Between these extremes the grounds for divorce range from three to 11. Requirements for legal residence are as varied. In many states this is purely perfunctory.

The results of these laws present many ludicrous, many tragic pictures.

Innocent parties have been divorced when they have not even known that their husbands or wives were suing them. One state may set aside divorces secured elsewhere because of illegal residence or service claims. Persons thus divorced have remarried, thinking they were free to do so, and have had children by these second marriages, only to find these children, by the annulment of the second marriage, illegitimate.

Prepared For Best

"Enactment of a national uniform marriage and divorce law will do justice to all—rich or poor, young or old, male or female," comments Miss Hafford. "And, above all, justice to the children!" she adds.

"Such a law has been drafted by Mrs. Edward Franklin White of Indianapolis, legislative chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and assistant attorney general of Indiana. It will be introduced in Congress, probably by Senator Capper in the Senate and Representative Fairchild in the House."

Seven national organizations are lined up behind the proposal. These are:

General Federation of Women's Clubs, National League of Women Voters, National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers Association, Women's Christian Temperance Union, American Home Economics Association, National Federation of Business and Professional Women, and Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Model Law

Chief provisions of the bill are:

1—No marriages without a license for which application must be made two weeks in advance; both parties to be present. Notice of application published.

2—Marriageable age, with consent of parents, 16 for girls, 18 for boys; legal age, without consent, 18 for girls, 21 for boys.

3—Marriage of imbeciles, insane, feeble minded, epileptics, paupers or persons afflicted with tuberculosis or venereal disease, or relatives as close as first cousins, forbidden.

4—Divorces only on grounds of adultery, cruel or inhuman treatment, failure to provide for one year, incurable insanity, and commission by either party of infamous crime. No divorces where evidence exists that grounds have been provided by collusion.

5—Defendants in divorce proceedings must appear or be represented in court. A divorce granted in one state shall be recognized in all.

WELL KNOWN KEENE RESIDENT IS DEAD

Benjamin Kindred Passed Away on Sunday Morning After Brief Illness.

KEENE, Jan. 7.—The village of Keene was shocked on Sunday morning by the sudden death of Mr. Benjamin Kindred. Deceased was a highly respected and widely known resident of the village. Three years ago ill health necessitated his retiring from the farm, but ever since he has kept active and was engaged on township work every day this week. Death came to him without warning.

After retiring as usual on Saturday night he suffered for some hours with heart trouble, passing away quietly at 9 a.m.

Mr. Kindred is mourned by a wife and daughter, Dorothy. The Methodist church loses in him their chief and most faithful official, he having been recording steward of the Keene circuit for 20 years and was secretary-treasurer of the parsonage and trustee board. Also on the last two Sundays he taught as a supply teacher in the Sunday school and was present every week at the evangelistic services now being held. He held the confidence and esteem of all who knew him and will be sadly missed.

The funeral will take place at the Methodist church at 2.30 on Tuesday and will be conducted by Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, B.A., B.D., and interment will follow at Pine Grove cemetery.

for consultation and to give free advice to all Rupture Sufferers. Arrange to see him. His remedy is unconditionally guaranteed.

Here is what one man writes:

"Our son was ruptured, and the bowel became strangulated so bad that it was impossible to replace the protruded part; the doctor advised an immediate operation.

"When you advised us an operation was unnecessary, we were very much in doubt.

"However, we were guided by your advice, and we are exceedingly glad, for the rupture was replaced almost immediately without pain. By the use of THOMPSON'S RENOWNED RUPTURE REMEDY the rupture has completely disappeared, leaving no opening whatever.

"Besides saving the cost of an operation, we have also saved the wages of a hired man as the boy has worked steady since he commenced your treatment. We strongly recommend THOMPSON'S RENOWNED RUPTURE REMEDY to anyone suffering from rupture.

THE GIRL OF NEW ORLEANS

(By MASON DIXON)

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—In St. Charles avenue, a sweet-faced girl, wearing a poke bonnet, stands supported by a crutch. One of her legs has been amputated above the knee.

She is selling lead pencils and needles. The particular block where she makes her headquarters is the rendevous of book-makers and gamblers.

As they pass, some say to bring them good luck, they nearly all throw money in a box at her feet. Now and then a bill is tossed into the receptacle. All of this occurs in the morning.

In the afternoon—a bobbed-haired dashing flapper is yelling her head off at the racetrack. It is the big feature race of the day. "Come on, you dog, I've got fifty dollars on your nose!" she shrieks. The dog loses.

The bobbed-haired flapper is the same girl who sold needles and pencils in St. Charles avenue. Her modest poke bonnet has been replaced with a Paris creation. An artificial leg has taken the place of the crutch. The bookmakers who gave their money away in the morning are getting it back in the afternoon.

If you want to have your fortune told, to the accompaniment of music and song and in verse, come to New Orleans. At the corner of Royal and Conti streets sits a bronzed old Frenchman. In his lap he holds an old guitar. You toss him a dollar, the music starts, he commences droning your fortune in verse, keeping in rhythm to the plaintive notes of his stringed instrument.

The troubadours live again.

Mayor McShane recently recieved this letter from Steve Trumbell of Chicago:

"Please send me a photograph of the statue of Andrew Jackson in historic old Jackson Square. I am trying to make good on a newspaper in Chicago but am constantly being threatened with discharge because I cannot spell. Neither could Andrew Jackson.

"I want to show his picture to the editor and say to him: 'This old boy could neither spell nor Trite, but just look at what they've done for him in New Orleans.'"

If you want to be sure of proper attention after death, come to New Orleans and you'll be treated right. Dorothy Dix, well-known writer, and Grace King, novelist, have organized a society of no mean membership for the preservation of all tombs, the more ancient and the more honorable the greater the attention.

What's in a name?

O. D. Jackson, federal prohibition director for Louisiana, has given the answer. In a recent report he shows that there is more bootlegging and more manufacturing of rum in Bourbon street than in any other part of New Orleans.

AUSTRALIA INTENDS TO INCREASE HER OUTPUT

LONDON, Jan. 7. — (Canadian Press). — In a speech delivered at Lincoln Saturday, Premier Bruce of the Australian Commonwealth declared that his country intended to develop its manufactures as well as increase its output of foodstuffs and raw materials.

"Australia is not here as a supplicant for trade relations in order to benefit herself to the detriment of Britain," he said, adding that she believed in tariffs, and if unable to get a market in Great Britain she would have to get one elsewhere. Australia, declared the Premier, had already been approached by other countries seeking reciprocal treatment, but up to the present had refused such offers because they would be detrimental to Great Britain.

"Lord, Lee, I wish you could have been behind a screen at that luncheon. Thirteen old tombstones in feathers and net collars—seven or eight of 'em, anyhow—colonial profiles and lorgnettes, and all looking as if they had been hit in the stomach. I at one end of the table looking like the Witch of Endor, Mary at the other looking like one of our granddaughters and trying to be animated and intimate. I forgot my own tragedy and haw-hawed three times. She looked almost apologetic when she called us by our first names, especially when she used the diminutive. Polly Vane, who's got a head like a billiard ball and has to wear a wig for decency's sake, drew herself up twice and then relaxed with a sickly grin. . . . All the same I don't think Mary felt any more comfortable or liked it much better than the rest of us. Too much like reading your own epitaph on a tombstone. I thought I saw her squirm."

"How did they take it individually?" Clavering hoped she was finally diverted. "Were they jealous and resentful?"

"Some. Elinor Goodrich had always been to besottedly fond of her to mind. Others, who had been merely admirers and liked her, were—well, it's too much to say they were enchanted to see Mary looking not a day over

"She whirled round again. 'Do you think you're in love with th at rejuvenated old dame who's granny's age if she's a day?'"

thirty, but they were able to endure it. Isabel Lawrence thought it downright immoral, and Polly Vane looked as if she had fallen into a stinking morass and only refrained from holding her nose out of consideration for her hostess. I think she feels that Mary's return is an insult to New York. Lily Tracy was painfully excited. No doubt she'll begin collecting for the Vienna poor at once and finding it necessary to go over and distribute the funds in person. Mary lost no time getting in her fine work for Vienna relief."

"But they'll all stand by her?"

"Oh, yes, she's Mary Ogden. We'd be as likely to desert New York itself because we didn't like the mayor. And she'll need us. It's the young women she'll have to look out for. My God! How they'll hate her. As for Anne Goodrich and Marian Lawrence—"

Clavering sprang to his feet. "Who's that? Jim?"

A man was running up the stairs.

"Janet," said Mrs. Oglethorpe grimly. "She's out."

XXXIII

"Don't be a flat tyre,
Don't be a dumb-bell;
Run from the dumb ducks,
Run from the plumbers.
Ha! Ha! Ha! Ha! Ha! Ha! Ha! Ha!"

Oglethorpe pounded on the door with his stick. There was a sudden hush in the room, then a wild scurry and a slamming door. He rattled the knob and, to his surprise, for he had assumed that these wild parties of his young friends were soundly barricaded, the door opened.

There were only four young men standing about a table covered with the remains of a chafing dish supper and many champagne bottles, but an excited whispering came through the partition. Young Farren was leaning against the table, his large moon-face pallid with fright. As he recognized Oglethorpe and Clavering fright was wiped out by astonishment and relief.

"Thought you were the police," he muttered. "Though they've got no business here—"

"I've come for Janet. Go into that room and bring her out at once."

"Janet ain't here. Haven't seen Janet for a week. Tried to get her on the 'phone early this afternoon and couldn't—"

"If you don't go into that room and fetch her, I will." As he started for the inner door, Farren with drunken dignity opposed his broad bulk.

"Now, Mr. Oglethorpe, you wouldn't do that. Ladies in there. Chorus girls—"

"That's a lie. Stand aside."

Farren, who was very young and very drunk, but who had a rudimentary sense of responsibility where girls of his own class were concerned, burst into tears. "You wouldn't, Mr. Oglethorpe! I swear to God Janet's not there. But—but—some of her friends are. They wouldn't want you to see them." His mood changed to righteous indignation. "What right you got breaking into a gentleman's rooms like a damned policeman? It's an outrage and if I had a gun I'd shoot you. I'd—I'd——" And then he collapsed on a chair and was very sick.

Oglethorpe turned to Clavering, had thought it best to remain in the hall and watch other exits. "Just stay there, will you?" He turned to the three gaping youngsters. "You are to make a move and I'll knock your heads together. Just remember that you're drunk and I'm sober."

He went into the next room, and immediately saw several forms under the bed. He reached down and jerked them out by their legs. They rolled over, covering their faces and sobbing with fright. Emancipated as they were and disdainful of pre-war parents, when it came to late parties in a bachelor's rooms they exercised strategy to slip out, not defiance.

"Oh, Mr. Oglethorpe," gasped one convulsively. "Don't tell on us, p-l-e-a-s-e."

"I've no intention of telling on you. You can go to the devil in your own way for all I care. I'm after Janet——"

"She's not here."

"That's what I'm going to find out." He opened the door of a wardrobe and another girl tumbled into his arms, shrieked, and flung herself face downward on the bed. But it was not Janet. He investigated every corner of the apartment and then returned to Clavering, slamming the door behind him.

"She's not there, Lee," he said, leaning heavily against the wall. "Where in God's name is she? I don't know where to look next. This is her particular gang. She has no other intimates that I know of. But what do I know about her, anyway?"

"You're sure she isn't hiding anywhere at home?"

"Searched the house from top to bottom."

"I suppose it isn't likely that she's gone to any of her aunts."

"Good Lord, no. She'd take a chance on mother, but never with any of the rest of the family, and she's got no money. I saw to that. D'you suppose she's roaming the streets?"

"Well, she can't roam long; legs will give out. Perhaps she's home by now or at Mrs. Oglethorpe's. Better telephone."

They went out and found a public telephone. Janet had not been seen nor heard from.

"You don't think it's going to be another Dorothy Arnold case?" gasped Oglethorpe, who seemed completely unnerved.

"Good Heavens, no, Jim! And she's able to take care of herself. Nobody better. She'll give you a scare and then turn up—with her thumb at her nose, likely. Better come up to my rooms and have a drink."

"Alright. I can't go home and I don't want to be alone anywhere. I'd go out of my senses. Anything might happen to her, and I shan't call in the police until the last minute. Filthy scandal."

"Police? Certainly not. And as Janet is cold sober, be sure she'll come to no harm."

A few moments later they were in the lift ascending to Clavering's rooms. "Hullo!" he said, as he opened the door of his little hall. "The fool maid has left the light on," and, as they entered the living room, "what the devil—" Cigarette smoke hung in the air.

There was a wild shriek from a corner of the room, a slim girl leaped across the intervening space like a panther, and flinging herself upon Oglethorpe, beat his chest with her fists. "You damned old plumber, you old dumb-duck!" shrieked his little daughter. "What did you come here and spoil everything for? He'd have had to marry me tomorrow if you'd minded your own business. I'll claw your eyes out." But her hands were imprisoned in her father's hard fists, and she turned and spat at the petrified Clavering. "I hate you! I hate you! But I'm going to marry you all the same. One way or another I'll get you. I meant to wait awhile; for I hadn't had fun enough yet, and I'd have precious little with you, you old flat tire. But when I heard that old Zattiany woman'd got hold of you—and then locked up and not able to do a thing—I thought I'd go mad. I dropped my diamond bracelet out of the window and one of the servants let me out—I won't tell which. You've been seen coming out of her house at all hours, but she's a thousand years old and nobody cares what she does, but I intended to rouse this whole house and I'd have been so compromised you'd have has to marry me. You're a gentleman if you are a damned old left-over, and you're a friend of granny's and dad's. I'd have had you tied up so tight you'd have toddled straight down to the City Hall."

Clavering stared at her, wondering how women felt when they were going to have hysterics. What a night! And this girl's resemblance to her grandmother was uncanny. He could see the Jane Oglethorpe of the portrait in just such a tantrum. And he had thought he knew both of them. He wanted to burst into wild laughter, but the girl was tragic in spite of her silly plot and he merely continued to regard her stonily.

"How did you get in?" he asked. "That's not easy in this house."

"I just got in the lift and told the boy I was your sister just arrived from the South and he let me in with the pass key. He took me for sixteen and said that as you weren't one for chickens he'd chance it."

"He'll get the sack in the morning."

"I don't care what happens to him." Suddenly she burst into tears, her face working like a baby's, and flung herself into her father's arms.

"Make him marry me, daddy. Make him! I want him. I want him."

Oglethorpe put his arms about her, but his sympathies were equally divided, and he understood men far better than he did young girls. "You wouldn't want to marry a man who doesn't love you," he said soothingly. "Where's your pride?"

"Who cares a damn about pride? I want him and that's all there is to it." She whirled round again. "Do you think you're in love with that rejuvenated old dame who's granny's age if she's a day? She's hypnotized you, that's what. It isn't natural. It isn't. It isn't."

"I certainly shall marry Madame Zattiany if she will have me."

"O-h-h." Tears dried. She showed her teeth like a treed cat. Her eyes blazed again and she would have precipitated herself upon him, but her father held her fast. "Oh! Oh! Oh! It can't be. It can't be. It's as unnatural as if you married granny. It isn't fair. How dare she come here with her whitewash and sneak young girls' lovers away from them?"

"Really, Janet."

"Oh, I know, you thought you didn't care for me, but you always did, and I'd have got you in time. I knew there was no chance for Marian and Anne; they're old maids, and I'm young—young. If I'd cut out the fun and concentrated on you I'd have got you. I wish I had! I wish I had! But you were such an old flat tire I thought you were safe."

"What in heaven's name makes you think you're in love with me?" exploded Clavering. "Your opinion of me is anything but complimentary, and I'm everything your chosen companions are not. You don't want me any more than I want you. You've simply been playing some fool game with yourself——"

"It's not! It's not! It's the real thing. I've been in love with you since I was six. Ask daddy. Daddy, didn't I always say I was going to marry him?"

"Yes, when you were little more of a baby than you are now. Can't you imagine how ashamed you'll be of such an undignified performance as this?"

"I ashamed? Not much. I always intend to do just as I please and damn the consequences."

"A fine wife you'd make for Lee or any other man."

"I'd make him the best wife in the world. I'd do everything he told me. No, I wouldn't. Yes, I would." Sheer femaleness and the spirit of the age seesawed inconclusively. "Anyhow, I'd make you happy, because I'd be happy myself," she added naively. "Much happier than your grandmother—"

"Perhaps you will oblige me by

"No, I won't. And the first time I see her when there's a lot of people round I'll tell her just what she is to her face."

"If you dare!" Clavering advanced threateningly and she swung herself behind her father, who, however, took her firmly by the arm and marched her to the door.

"Enough of this," he said. "You come home and pack your trunk and tomorrow we take the first steamer out of New York. If there isn't one, we'll take the train for Canada——"

"I won't go."

"It's either that or a sanitarium for neurotics. I'll have you strapped down and carried there in an ambulance. You may take your choice. Good night, Lee. Forget it, if you can."

As Clavering slammed the door behind them he envied men who could tear their hair. He had wanted to spend a long evening alone thinking of Mary Zattiany, dreaming of those vital hours before him, and he had been treated to a double nightmare. For the moment he hated everything in petticoats that walked, and he felt like taking a steamer to the ends of the earth himself. But he was more worn out than he knew and was sound asleep fifteen minutes later.

A $26,000,000 Investment in Canadian Prosperity

With the dawn of the New Year, another momentous chapter in the annals of Canadian industry starts its unfolding as the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, takes over possession of the new $12,000,000 plant at Ford, Ontario.

Only a few thousand people will witness the first turning of the wheels and see the awakening of this great industrial giant; but the influence of that awakening will be felt in every city, town and village in Canada and in the far corners of the earth, for the Ford industry is wide as the British Empire.

In Canada, the Ford industry is a very intimate part of the national life. It provides a livelihood for some 30,000, Ford workers and their dependents. It gives total or partial employment to an equal number of workers in Canadian factories supplying it with goods. It brought last year over $17,000,000 to Canada in export trade and it paid over $4,000,000 into the national treasury in the form of revenue.

The total Canadian Ford investment is now over $26,000,000—a huge investment based on an abiding faith in Canada's loyalty to Canadian industry—

Built to serve the transportation needs of Canada and the British possessions overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barnard Celebrate 64th Anniversary of Their Wedding--Pioneers of District

On Saturday last January 5th, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barnard, 549 Bethune street, celebrated quietly the 64th anniversary of their wedding day. Four years ago Mr. Barnard, who is 91 years of age, and his wife aged 82 years, commemorated their 60th anniversary, and on Saturday, another four years was added to the total that Time has rolled up since they were married on the 5th day of January, 1860, in the village of Keene.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnard are two of the oldest pioneer residents of this district. Both were born in South Monaghan and lived in that township and in the city of Peterboro all their lives. Mr. Barnard made the lime and the bricks for the house in South Monaghan to which he took his bride, 64 years ago, and where they lived, up to about 26 years ago, when they removed to the city. Both have been life-long members of the Baptist denomination, in the Bailieboro and Murray street churches, and both are in fairly good health and take a keen interest in their surroundings and current events. On Saturday, a number of their friends dropped in during the evening to extend their congratulations on their 64th anniversary.

Of a family of five children, four are living two daughters, Mrs. P. S. White and Miss M. J. Barnard of this city, and two sons; Howard and Ernest of South Monaghan. A daughter died two years ago.

QUEBEC CLUE WAS SUCCESSFUL ONE

This Clue Put Walter Duncan on the Trail of Red Ryan.

TORONTO Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Ryan, on his arrival at Toronto Jail yesterday, was stripped to ankles and given another outfit, later being placed in separate cell away from other prisoners, under armed guards. He was not allowed to mingle with others at jail as authorities thought it possible that one of his friends might have had himself arrested over week end in order to meet notorious bandit in prison.

Crown authorities urge speedy trial of Toronto charge against Ryan but that Ryans counsel will undoubtedly demand hearing before jury. This will delay for at least week or ten days.

Got Clue in Quebec

It was in the province of Quebec and not in Ontario that Inspector Walter Duncan of the Federal Government secret service came across the first clue that put him on the trail of Norman Ryan.

"When I started out the first clue was discovered in the province of Quebec," stated Inspector Duncan to the Examiner.

"Can you tell me where you got your information?"

"I cannot give out any information as to the source of my information," replied the inspector.

"Two are yet to be apprehended, Simpson and Bryans."

"It all happened within a week. I was away beyond Minneapolis as far as St. Cloud and then we doubled back to Minneapolis and took up our quarters there.

"The public believe that Ryan gave information to the police out in Minneapolis as to where they could find Sullivan. That is not true, Ryan did not give Sullivan away and that is the fact. Ryan has not been given a square deal as to that matter, a certain newspaper reporter sent out a false story."

"Well then who tipped the police off as to Sullivan's girl in Minneapolis" "I could not tell you that but as I said it was not Ryan."

"Who planned the escape at Kingston?"

"It was Ryan. He has the whole brains."

ENGINEERS WILL HOLD A MEETING

Town Planning Will Be Discussed at Next Meeting.

On Thursday evening, January 10, Mr. H. L. Seymour, A.M.E.I.C. Town Planning Engineer of Toronto will give an illustrated lecture on "The Commercial Urge for Town Planning," and will deal especially with the economic phases of Town Planning and its effect on business and industries, in the Chamber of Commerce. A invitation is extended to all bodies or individuals who are interested in the subject.

FALL OF DIXMUDE WAS CAUSED BY EXPLOSION

TOULON, France, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Medical examination of the body of Lieut. Grenadan, commander of the ill-fated dirigible "Dixmude," has shown that the officer received a violent shock, that all his limbs were broken and that he was dead before he fell into the sea. These facts, experts believe, show beyond all dispute that the dirigible exploded and that her cars dashed downward with a terrific speed, the bodies of the crew being hurled against the sides of the cars when the "Dixmude" struck the water.

Ill Health Forced Him Out Before He Got Started.

(By Anthony Pappayanakis, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ATHENS, January 7. —Ill-health has forced Eleutherios Venizelos to resign the leadership of Greek affairs.

Returning in triumph, hailed as the strong man of his country, Venizelos was no sooner elected as President of the National Assembly, than a troubleome heart forced him to retire.

The former Premier wrote to his followers that they must elect another leader, from the ranks of distinguished statesmen of the Liberal Party, and that if one could be found ready to undertake the formation of a Cabinet, Venizelos was determined to resign.

Two hundred and fifty Modern Democrats and Venizelists met today and deliberated on the choice of a leader.

All were agreed, however, that Venizelos must at all odds be persuaded to retain the party leadership, otherwise, it was proposed, the party should dissolve and await his convalescence.

The ex-Premier insisted that he would prefer that another take his place, while he went abroad in self-exile.

TAX REDUCTIONS IN THE STATES

Democrats Advocate a Lowes Figare for Middle Class.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.— Canadian Press).—Tax reduction proposals of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon are to be fought by the Democratic party through a substitute tax bill made pulbic yesterday, by Representative Garner of Texas.

The Democrats advocat, a lower income tax figure than Secretary Mellon. Under their plan the cut would be greater on smaller incomes an less on incomes of the wealthy. The substitute plan provides for a cut of as much as fifty per cent in tax on small incomes. Secretary Mellon proposed a 25 per cent cut. In making public the plan the Democratic spokesman admitted general public endorsation of the tax reduction programme.

The chief features of Democrats proposals are: an increase in exemption of heads of families from $2,500 to $3,000 and single men from $1,000 to $2,000. Reduction of normal tax rate to two per cent on incomes of $5,000 or less, to four per cent. on incomes from $5,000 to $10,000 and to six per cent on incomes in excess of $10,000. Maximum surtax of 44 per cent on net incomes in excess of $92,000 but with surtax rate to start at $12,000 instead of $10,000 as proposed by Secretary Mellon.

WOMAN SINGEING GOOSE WAS BURNED TO DEATH

WIARTON, Jan. 7.—A fatal accident occurred yesterday morning at the Arlington Hotel here. Mrs. T. W. Loney, a widow, 60 years of age, who was employed in the establishment as cook, was singeing a goose in the kitchen, using lighted paper for this purpose. Her clothing by some means caught fire and in a moment she was enveloped in flames. Mr. Lowry, the proprietor of the hotel, hearing her screams, rushed to the woman's assistance and succeeded in extinguishing the flames, suffering burns himself. Despite everything that could be done Mrs. Loney passed away.

WHAT ADOPTION OF LIVING WAGE WOULD END IN

Rotarian F. H. Dobbin in Address Fears Paternalism Sure to Grow in Canada.

HOW IT WORKS OUT

The conditions that might be expected were the living wage system to be adopted in Canada were pictured by Rotarian F. H. Dobbin in an interesting address before the Peterborough Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon at the Empress today.

The speaker developed his subject in a way that commanded attention, and his informative address was thoroughly appreciated.

President V. J. McElderry was in the chair. The attendance was large and there was a number of visitors, including Mr. Douglas Carlisle, who sang two numbers that were greatly enjoyed by the gathering.

Rotarian J. M. Greene presented the report of the Birthday Fund Committee, and announced that the money in hand was available for use in the work of looking after crippled children, a work that Rotarian Dr. A. W. McPherson would be ready to commence almost at once.

After pointing out that Britain did not appear to be greatly perturbed over the probable advent of a Labour Government, the majority of people feeling that no great harm would be done and Labour would learn by experience, Rotarian Doubin passed on to discuss the living wage experiment which is being carried on in Britain, and to apply it to conditions in Peterborough, he quoted Samuel Gompers' definition of a living wage as a wage that would help a man and his family in comfort, allow them to have a certain amount of what are called luxuries ,and still permit a sum to be laid aside for the period of old age.

Rotarian Dobbin showed how this would work out in Peterborough, pointing out that eventually it would lead to the dropping from the payrolls of the older married employees in favour of single men, who would not be paid as much under the living wage system.

Mr. Dobbin also believed that it would lead beyond a doubt to more paternalism, and that ultimately the Labour forces and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association would unite in urging the Government to assist the scheme by passing it on to the people of this country. Paternalism, as illustrated by the Workmen's Compensation Act, Mothers' Allowances, etc., was already draining the financial resources of Canada, and the speaker is convinced and the drain will become steadily greater.

NEW GOVERNOR OF QUEBEC IS TO BE APPOINTED TODAY

The Premier Will Not Make Any Announcement Until the Appointment Has Actually Been Made.

OTTAWA, Jan. 7. — (Canadian Press.)—Meeting of the cabinet has been called for this afternoon, when the new Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec will be appointed. Official confirmation of the announcement that Hon. Narcisse Herodeau, had been selected for the post, is lacking, and it is understood that the Premier will decline to make any announcement until the appointment has actually been made and approved by the Governor-General. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Hon. H. H. Beland, Minister of Health, conferred with Premier King this morning, and it is understood that the appointment was under discussion. Other appointments which are pending and which may be made to include judge of Supreme Court of Canada and Auditor General. The latter post has been vacant for about a year, the Premier stating that the government was trying to find the best man to fill it. The vacancy on the Supreme Court is due to the resignation of late Lieutenant-Governor Brodeur from the bench and is not of very long standing.

The appointment of a Canadian customs officer at New York is still to be made. There is a vacancy on the Board of Canadian National Railways, for which a Toronto man will probably be selected, two Senatorships and a number of Judgeships also remain to be filled.

LION CUB RESCUED ADOPTED BY COLLIE

OAKLAND, Cal., January 7. A baby lioness, born in a cage here recently has been adopted by a mother collie dog.

The cub had two little brothers, but their mother, Simba, perhaps believing that a life of captivity was not worth while for them, rolled on them and killed them. But the lioness cub was snatched away from this danger by H. A. Snow, the African game hunter and curator of the Oakland museum of natural history. He put her in a box padded with a quilt removed her to the museum workshop and fetched her a bottle of milk which she took to with avidity.

He then brought in the collie, which promptly licked the cub sympathetically and curled up beside her with a protective air.

ANNUAL MEETING RANGERS' BAND

Retiring President Has a Record of 45 Years

The annual meeting of the band of the Peterboro Rangers was held on Friday evening, and took the form of a convivial smoker. Election of officers for the ensuing year was held, resulting in the election of Sergt. A. E. Paterson as president, E. Gibson as vice-president, and G. H. Benson as secretary, the latter nominated by acclamation. These officers, with Bandmaster Perver as an ex-officio member, constitute the committee of management.

The retiring president of the band, Mr. W. "Dad" Dyer, leaves behind him a record of forty-five years spent in the musical profession and as bandmaster, in the Old Country and the city, where he has given over ten years to the work.

WELCOME REDS TRADE MARKET

British Labor Party Will Extend the Glad Hand and Others Will Follow

(By Ed. L. Keen, United Press.)

LONDON, January 7. — Even in the most hostile quarters it is now generally accepted that a de jure recognition of the Russian Government by Great Britain is certain.

In making this statement to the United Press to-day, Charles Trevelyn, who probably will be a member of Ramsay Macdonald's first Cabinet when the King calls on that Labour statesman to form a Government, added:

"It is highly probable that one of the first acts of the Labour Government will be the recognition of the Russian Soviet Government."

The probability of de jure recognition of Russia by Britain and the resumption of full diplomatic relations unde- a Labpur Government already has had its effect upon the various othe- European Governments.

There are indications that there soon will be a general scramble to get on the band waggon and prevent his country from bearing more than her share of the obvious advantages to Europe generally from the re-opening of the Russian markets.

Italy's negotiations for a commercial treaty with Russia are practically completed.

Premier Mussolini is expected to announce de jure recognition of the Russian Government.

One of the principal features on the agenda of Wednesday's meeting of foreign ministers of the Little Entente—Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia, and Roumania—is the discussion of the full recognition of Russia, the subject on which the first and last named of those States have recently been negotiating.

Germany, Poland, Turkey, and the Baltic States already are on friendly diplomatic terms with Russia.

President Millerand's opposition is at present the chief obstacle to Franco-Russian relations, but it is believed that as soon as France is assured that Great Britain intends recognition, President Millerand's opposition will collapse.

If France recognises Russia, Belgium will follow suit.

A. G. Marshall, who has been on a mission to Russia for the British engineering companies, declared today that contracts amounting to 100,000,000 pounds sterling are awaiting formal recognition of Russia by Great Britain.

BROCK STREET RINK OPEN FOR SKATING

Band Tonight and a Wonderful Sheet of Ice

Brock Street Rink opened for the season on Saturday evening with a very large crowd of skaters and a good band in attendance. The ice was fine until near the finish of the skating. The hard weather which has prevailed since, has given a great sheet, with thickness of ice as well, and to-night skaters can have a most enjoyable time. Band in attendance to-night, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday nights.

WRECKAGE DISCOVERED NOT PART OF DIXMUDE

ROME, Jan. 7.—A new turn has been given the "Dixmude" mystery. The French officers examining the wreckage discovered off Sciacca, Sicilly, report it is not part of the airship's equipment.

The wreckage consisted of wires and an anchor. The search for the wreck of the "Dixmude" will continue, but officials now believe that the airship may lie in deeper water.

RYAN SAYS HE DID NOT GIVE HIS PAL AWAY

Police Confirm Story that Sullivan Was Not Betrayed by Red Ryan.

LAST OVER WALL

TORONTO, aJn. 7.—(Special.)—Arthur Sullivan, Toronto bank robber, shot dead on the doorsteps of his sweetheart's home in Minneapolis three weeks ago, was not betrayed by Norman "Red" Ryan, his confederate.

Ryan in a talk with an Examiner reporter, denied the allegation broadboasted in newspapers that he had "squealed" on Sullivan and told the police where Sullivan's girl lived in Minneapolis. And to add to Ryan's denial, Detectives Meeghen and Marien of the Minneapolis police department, who came with Ryan to Toronto, also deny Ryan gave Sullivan away. Following Ryan's arrest, the next day Sullivan was tracked to his sweetheart's home and when the detectives called to arrest him, he was shot by Detective Meeghen as Sullivan made a desperate effort to get his automatic pistol out of his coat pocket. He was not quick enough on the draw and Meeghen's gun spoke first and Sullivan toppled over dead. A correspondent for a Toronto paper sent a story that Ryan tipped 'off' Sullivan's whereabouts to the police.

But Ryan says no. He feels the accusation keenly and did not mince matters in discussing the matter. "Toronto is my home, my relatives live here. They have suffered enough through my action and to couple the name of Ryan with a squealer is contemptible. I may be a bank robber—and it is true my record as such is a black one, yet I never gave a pal away in my life. Sullivan and I stuck together after we left Toronto and to say I did him dirt is stabbing a man in the back."

"Let's go back to the escape from Kingston penitentiary," said Ryan to the Examiner. "Who was the last man over the walli Who stood at the foot of the ladder and helped the others to get away. Who stayed till the last and fought off one of the constables and also Chief Keeper Walsh? It was Norman Ryan. We planned the getaway and I was the last over the wall when we made the break. I took the big chance. The others were gone. If I was not loyal to the rest I could have got away first and left the others to make the best of it. Do not think I am bragging about this or trying to pat myself on the back. I only want to put the facts before the public — the straight facts ,the truth. I have many friends in Toronto and I want to let them know I did not throw down Sullivan. Papers have published one side of the story. This is my side of it. Sullivan was loyal to me, I was loyal to him. I never knew him until we met in Kingston. I feel the accusation, but my own folks feel it worse."

There is one thing that has bothered Ryan since he escaped. That was when he struck Chief Keeper Walsh, who tried to prevent Ryan from climbing the ladder. The story is that Ryan and Walsh were on good terms .Ryan liked Walsh, and in the getaway Ryan struck Walsh. Ryan states he did not hit Walsh with a pitchfork ,but hit him with his hand. "Don't go, don't be foolish,' 'are the words Walsh is reported to have used to Ryan when he was trying to clamber up the ladder. "I got to go now, the rest have gone," Ryan replied. And ever since Ryan has regretted he struck Walsh.

One of the convicts who tried to prevent Ryan escaping was Frank Cooper, the forming dancing master now serving a long term for housebreaking. Ryan told the Examiner that as he and the rest were escaping in the automobile they were showered with shot. "I was hit many times across the back and in the legs," Ryan stated. "It was small shot like BB stuff. I picked it out of my back and legs. McMullen was hit by a lead bullet. If I had got the same stuff I would have been killed."

JAPANESE BANDIT PUT IN LOCK-UP

Threw Three Bombs at the Main Entrance of the Palace Grounds.

TOKIO, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—The Japanese government is evincing anxiety over the widespread anti-Japanese plots among the Koreans here.

Extreme police measures are being taken to avoid any future trouble, following the arrest of a 23 year old Korean, who threw three bombs at the main entrance of the palace grounds on Saturday.

The incident makes the second attempt on Royalty within a few days.

Immediately after the bombing a rigid censorship was established. The Yamamoto Cabinet, which took office while the earth was still trembling with shocks of the great earthquake, went into its final meeting to consider the attack. Its career ended as it began, amid excitement.

It is not believed that the attack will delay the wedding of Prince Regent Hirohito and Princess Kuni, but it may result in the wedding being celebrated with less public display than was contemplated.

PROTEST AGAINST GERMAN IMMIGRANTS

ST. CATHARINES Jan. 7.—St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce has launched a strenuous protest against the proposal to bring 3,000 German families to settle in Saskatchewan Province, and has asked other Canadian Chambers to join with it.

GOOD SERVICES AT THE TEMPLE

The Salvation Army services over the week-end were a great success and the Temple was crowded at very service. Major B. Taylor and his wife, both noted singers, were present, Mr. Taylor presiding. Mr. Taylor is from England and this is his first visit to Peterboro. He stated that he considered the Temple one of the best of its kind in Canada and he also spoke a word of praise and congratulation for the Army songsters. On Saturday afternoon, and Sunday, the Temple was filled to its capacity.

STEAMSHIP GEORGIA IS AGROUND IN ROUGH SEA

ST. AUGUSTINE, Flo., Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—S.O.S. messages from the steamship Georgia, reporting that the vessel was hard aground in a rough sea on the Mantilla Reef, opposite St. Augustine Inlet, were picked up by the Government wireless station here this mornig. The message said that two of her water tanks were full, but that the bottom bolts were holding and that the ruder and rudder posts were gone. The vessel is said to be lying easy.

AN EARLY ROBIN WAS SEEN AT GARDEN HILL

GARDEN HILL, Jan. 7.—It takes more than a fall of snow to daunt the robin. Mr. J. A. Waddell of this place reports that he saw a robin among the trees in his orchard, and although the trees were heavily laden with snow he was flying about and whistling quite cheerily Mr. Waddell managed to get within a few yards of him, so he is positive no mistake was made. He does not remember ever seeing a robin in January before.

Better than Riches

UNDER the dome of the Board of Trade in Manchester, England, is this inscription: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." The thought is considerably more than mere sentiment. It is good business.

A good name is recognized as the biggest individual asset a business can have. It is the very keystone of modern industry. Business to-day is done on such a broad scale—every merchant and every manufacturer has such a long list of customers—that it would not do to have a reputation for "slipping something over."

Advertising has standardized almost every article you can buy. You don't have to bargain and dicker and haggle to know that you are getting as good as you give.

That's why it pays to read the advertisments and to buy advertised goods. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its faithful performance and lasting usefulness or of its definite value. The advertiser would not dare to risk his good name by advertising an unworthy product.

If you value constant satisfaction—if you want to get your full money's worth every time—read the advertisements and buy advertised merchandise.

CRIMINAL'S CHANCES TO GET AWAY FROM PUNISHMENT ARE SLIM IN THESE COMMUNITIES

Efficient System Installed For the Checking Up of Offenders — Police Set Fine Record.

Records of the Windsor Police Department, when completed for 1923, will not show any increase in crime over 1922, Chief Thompson reports. Auto thefts have already shown a decrease, and the more serious crimes will not exceed the number recorded in the previous year. There was a larger number of convictions under the Motor Vehicles Act.

Speaking of traffic regulations, the chief said that the boulevard stop by-law was one of the most important pieces of civic Legislation enacted in 1923, and he strongly recommends all citizens to observe this regulation, which affects their own safety. The police have no desire to pile up convictions under this rule, but they must enforce it.

The department is keeping well within the estimates for the year, which is largely attributable to the greater facilities offered by the new building, and accurate accounts, which are itemized so that the smallest details are recorded.

Athletic Progress Is Important

Inxpector Wigle, who is in charge of the uniformed division, has been conducting a series of games of volley ball and hand-ball, which keeps the men in good physical condition, and tends to lessen sickness in the winter months. Other gymbastic exercise is taken also.

Once a week, the force parades for squad drill in the drill room. This is done so that the men will present a smart and military appearance on the street at all times. Drills and exercises are carried out in the winter months only.

While chief of Peterborough police, Chief Thompson saw the necessity of finger printing, and introduced it there. Coming to Windsor and finding that no system was in vogue for the recording of criminals' identification marks, he recommended that an outfit be installed. This was done, and now the Windsor police have one of the finest methods for the classification of incoming circulars and descriptions of men wanted. At present it is practically impossible for men passing through to escape the thorough system in the fingerprint department, if any records of them are there.

Owing to the fast increasing population of Windsor, it will be necessary for the chief to recommend the appointment of more constables. This must be done in order to cope with the situation in outlying districts, which are without adequate protection. One of the chief duties of the force is to watch for fire, and the beats are so large at present that some districts are without this protection. Fire insurance underwriters say that, without police protection, it will be necessary to raise fire insurance rates in the affected areas.

Cover 17 to 20 Miles in One Shift

The average distance travelled by a patrolman in Windsor during his eight hours of duty, is from 17 to 20 miles. This, the chief points out, is too much for one man.

The Windsor department is divided into different sub-divisions. The uniformed division, under Inspector Wigle, includes patrolmen and traffic officers. The traffic officers enforce all traffic regulations, as well as directing traffic at street corners. Three officers mounted on motorcycles endeavor to restrain reckless drivers and speeders. This department is under Sergeant Cade.

The detective department, which works in plain clothes, is under the direction of Inspector Reid.

The identification of criminals is the cause of considerable speculation amongst average people, and the chief cause of wonder is that of recognizing men wanted from other parts of the world, and who have never been seen before by local police. The explanation is found in "fingerprints," photographs and general descriptions which are systematically recorded by a department known as the identification bureau, which in Windsor is in charge of James Wilkinson, who holds quite a reputation as a fingerprint expert.

The bureau of identification was established in the Windsor Police Department in January, 1922, when the new police building was opened. Chief Thompson believed it advisable to adopt the system of identification, so that the efficiency of his department would be greatly enhanced. He is now able to present to the court a complete history of every person arrested on a criminal charge.

"Sift" Prisoners to Find Aliases

Every man or woman arrested in Windsor is carefully "sifted" to ascertain all particulars of past history, such as previous charges, and aliases under which they may be traveling, and if they are wanted by other police departments. In some cases, criminals have been wanted for offences committed years ago.

When a man is arrested, he is taken into the identification bureau where his name and aliases, if he admits having any, are taken. The split alphabetical list is then searched for the name. The list contains 655 guide cards, and amongst these are more than 3,000 circulars, describing men wanted in all parts of the world for criminal charges. If the prisoner under examination gives a name by which he is known to police, the identification officer can "make him" or find his record quite easily in the list. But if he gives an alias, it is necessary to examine the prisoner carefully for scars, moles, tattoos, peculiarities such as red hair, great or small stature like six feet or over, or five feet two inches and under. Other peculiarities looked for are cross eyes, bow legs, speech impediments, bald heads, glasses, gold teeth, amputated fingers or thumbs, or left-handed people, who can be noticed when they are signing their names. An athletic man usually prides himself in his prowess, and tells others, which also helps the police in identifying him. Talkative prisoners will also tell the nature of any peculiar occupations which they may have held. All of which greatly aids the identification officer.

If any marks are found, they are noted and looked for in the "peculiarity index system," and should a card be found bearing a description which seems to suit the prisoner, a number on it shows what card to look for in the Split Alphabetical List. This card will probably have photograph and record of charges for which he may be wanted elsewhere, as well as giving his correct name, or alias which he has given previously. Finger prints and photographs are then sent, and he is held until police come for him. Circulars 12 years old are still on file in the Windsor department.

Complete Descriptions Are Sent Out

If police in places such as New York, Chicago, Toronto or Detroit desire to have other police departments search for a suspected criminal, they send out as accurate a description as they can give, with fingerprints and photographs if possible, and stating the nature of the charge.

If fingerprints accompany the circular, these are classified according to the peculiar patterns of the ridges of the skin on the inside of the fingers and thumbs. The print is made by pressing the fingers and thumbs on a fine surface of printer's ink over white paper. These patterns are given four classifications, which are: Primary classification, sub-classified, second sub-classified and finally, classified, when a formula is given them. The formula may be like this:

(16) 1R 110 19
1U OIO 17

This is then compared with the few prints which are in that classification, and if the prisoner's fingerprints are on file, they will readily be found, although there are records of 6,500 fingerprints of more than 3,000 men wanted by the police.

Fingerprints left by criminals at the scene of their crime furnish the police with clues as to their identity. More could be said about this, but police do not consider it advisable to discuss the matter freely, as they wish to keep it secret as far as possible, so that criminals will not know how to overcome the police methods. People who find their houses ransacked or have other trouble with criminals are urged by the police to refrain from touching anything till the police have arrived, and have taken copies of finger prints left by the criminals.

Easy Matter to Find Fingerprints

When searching for a copy of fingerprints in the index, it is an easy matter for the experienced man to find the record, if one exists, because there are no two sets of prints alike.

The "rogues' gallery" in the local identification bureau contains more than 500 pictures of persons convicted during the last two years. Some of these are among the most notorious criminals in the American continent. Every one of them is known by Constable Wilkinson, who is able to give all details concerning their cases. If a man charged with crime is either suspended, or satisfies the police that he will observe the law in future, his picture is removed from the gallery, as they do not wish anyone to feel that he has a criminal record.

All photographs are developed and printed by the bureau in the dark room situated in the basement.

More than 250 identifications were made by the bureau in the past year, of persons who had been arrested on other occasions.

Fingerprints sent to other bureaux in the past year, for identification, proved positively that in the case in question had a record, and informed the magistrate that he was dealing with a "repeater." Only one man denied that he had been "finger printed." When records were received from Montreal concerning his case, he at once admitted the truth. A clever crook will never deny his identity if he has had fingerprints taken.

Last summer, on one of the ferry boats, a man was seen attempting to secure an old man's pocketbook. One of the other passengers saw it, and accused the man, who seemed greatly shocked. In spite of all protests, the accused was placed in custody. He refused to answer any questions at first, but later submitted and had his fingerprints taken. He claimed to be a man of means and high social standing, mentioning several prominent Detroit families as friends. When the prints were taken, no trace of them could be found in the local index.

Sample of Efficacy of Finger Printing

The officer called the Detroit police, and gave them the classification. The Detroit department stated his name was Tom Lally. Officer Wilkinson went to the cell and called to the man, who was lying on his back taking things easy. "Lally." Immediately he replied, "Yes, sir." Caught off his guard, he knew from experience that further denial was useless. He admitted that he was one of the most well known pickpockets on the continent. He had been arrested many times previously, but had never been convicted, because of his clever methods.

It may seem hardly possible that fingerprints could be identified by telephone, but it was done so less than 168 times in the last year in conjunction with Detroit. In the majority of cases, the work with Detroit has been done by telephone, and many cases have been recognized with previous records.

Officer Wilkinson is a graduate of a recognized school of fingerprint study. He has spent time in studying the subject, and holds the diploma of the school. He is also a member of the International Association for Identification.

The following is a list of headings under which records are filed in the index: persons wanted, persons missing, automobiles stolen, watches, showing make and number, stolen, bonds stolen, clothes stolen, jewelry stolen, furs stolen, nationalities of persons wanted, revolvers stolen, Italians wanted (a special index is needed for Italians, because of the great number. Most of them are wanted for murder); newspaper clippings about criminals in U. S. and Canada, nicknames of local wrong doers and outsiders wanted, modus operandi, file showing pickpockets, hold-up men, confidence men, bad cheque artists, drug addicts, chicken thieves, auto theives, and all classes of thieves. The index of peculiarities showing has 118 divisions.

Local criminal records, local photograph negatives, fingerprint negatives, reproductions of local persons wanted and taken from other photographs, fingerprint formulae attached to each person's name, latent fingerprint impress on file.

The above intricate system covers every possible method by which a criminal may be recognized.

NEW ERA OF PEACE FOR WHOLE WORLD

By HARRY B. HUNT)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The year 1924 will mark the beginning of an era of peace and understanding between the nations of the world, following a decade of war and strife, according to Madam Marcia, Washington astrologist, who reads the stars for hundreds of Washingtonians, including many high officials and diplomats, who are anxious to foresee fate. It was Madam Marcia who, in 1920, predicted President Harding would not live out the term and who, when he was taken ill, forecast the very day of his death.

The influences developing during the year, she says, will continue until, within three years, or by late 1926, the United States will have joined the World Court and a new period of good will, in which justice and humanitarianism will prevail, will have been established.

Predictions That Came True

Madam Marcia is celebrated as an astrologist of note. It was she who predicted both the nomination and death of President Harding.

Her first divination to attract public notive was that of the acquittal of Roland B. Molineaux, twice condemned for murder in 1891.

She also foretold that Mrs. Norman Galt, who later became Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, would one day be mistress of the White House.

Official Washington, her home, holds her in high repute. Madam Marcia, however, places great emphasis on her denial that she is a fortune teller. "I am a scientist," she says.

Within these same three years, she predicts, the United States will modify its prohibition laws by permitting the manufacture and sale of beer and wines, under a high government tax.

The political course of the country during the year will be greatly influenced by the death, late in May or early in June, of a leading citizen or high official. This death will be a controlling factor in the presidential election and have a very great influence on future affairs of state.

Predicts Mysteries

Early in the year, probably in March, the country will be swept, she predicts, by an epidemic "which doctors will not understand or be able to remedy."

Following on the heels of this will come equally widespread labor troubles, strikes and lockouts. Farm troubles will continue through the year and will combine with labor disturbances in the cuties to distugb the domestic political situation.

"The new year," Madam Marcia says, "will be one of transition from the influence of Mars, which has controlled through the last decade, to that of Venus. Venus, with her softening influence, her love of peace, her pleading for justice without conflict, will be the guiding influence leading this country into participation in the World Court. She is aided by Libra in the house of law and partnerships, which will give both people and nations clearer vision, better understanding. The scales of Justice will rule instead of the force of Mars.

"Public finance will play a big part in the adjustments to stabilize and maintain peace. Saturn sits on the cups of the House of Money, in the horoscope for 1924, and throughout the world money will be slow and hard to get. It will be the major cause of contention. As to our own finances, the adjustment of the foreign debt will be satisfactorily completed if Secretary Hughes is given a free hand in the negotiations. Hughes has Mars in the House of Money, and if let alone he will get every dollar owed this country.

Reason for Prohibition

"The modification of prohibition is forecast by the influence of the moon in the House of Money and of Cancer, which rules beer and wines, ruling in midheaven. The movement which will result in the return of beer and wines will begin next November or December and by 1926 beverages of low alcoholic content will again be permitted.

"Mercury parallel to Jupiter will cause an unprecedented amount of travel during the year. It is a year of change, of restlessness, of transition. There will be a hysteria of gambling, of betting on races—both horse and political.

"The outstanding indication of the horoscope for 1924, however, is that the United States has come to a point of departure—a cross-roads—a critical period in which there will be a careful balancing of the scales to determine which course to follow. But Venus, Jupiter and Mercury present combinations that make it certain the road chosen will be the one toward peace, justice and humanitarianism.

"This will bring a new growth in culture, a revival in art and music and literature beyond anything this nation has yet produced. There will be a more wholesome social growth, the development of a better social morale. Flapperism, scorn of conventions, the general slackening of social and moral lines will be checked and the nation and indeed the world definitely be started on a period of sanity and progress."

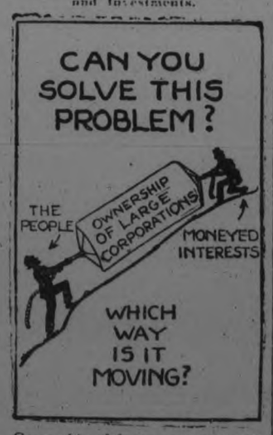
MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.



Ownership of large corporationsis apparently gravitating into the hands of the average man.

Years ago large corporations were owned by so-called interests. A few men owned all the stock. Is this still true?

Last year the United States Steel Corporation had about 97,000 common stockholders owning its 3,602,811 shares of common stock. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company had almost 249,000 stockholders for its 7,322,716 shares and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company reported about 141,00 stockholders to 4,992,657 shares of stock.

Here we have an example of a leader in each of the three main corporation fields, industrial, public utility and railroad, and each company has thousands of stockholders scattered throughout Canada and the United States.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

THE PROBLEM OF THE EAST.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: Philanthropists will have to take a big reef in their philanthropy, in fact, they will have to abolish it altogether so far as the preservation of the human race is concerned. We are at last up against the real thing, the facts of the case, and all this mad rush to save everybody with club and spoon will have to be given up if the warnings of world travellers are to be heeded. Science has nothing to do with feeding and providing room for humans. That's another branch of the great game, of doing things, and is in the hands of the good, kind people of the world, who see at a glance the mighty inconsistency of making a world like this which is ultimately to be too small, and is full of bugs anyway, and in the same breath telling us not to treat human creatures like that, but to cherish and save them. As if God needn't do any charity work and we will have to do it all. That is the way people look at God now. They don't like the way the world is run at all. This idea of the Creator of letting people who want to, go to ruin and hell, physically, spiritually and every other way, does not appeal to our philanthroists. It's God's way, they admit but it's not going to be their way. And so having saved everybody in the great East, we are up against the against the necessity of finding room for their overflowing population. We can't throw them back from our vacant lands, can we? The poor things we saved? Surely we can't press them to our bosoms with one hand and hurl them back into that vast system of slums known as the East, with the other. We have got to do better than that. "We have saved you from one form of death, O ye millions of the East, and we do not propose to shove you into another. Come to us, all ye people, black and blue, and green and yellow and brown, etc. Come to us. We have saved you from the wrath of God, and the way of nature, which is death, according to the law of nature, and now seeing you have no place to go we give up our millions of acres of vacant lands to you, and we who are international (like Labour) above all things, welcome you, as Dooley says: "to our mist." Education, as we know it, consists in learning what people have discovered for us, that is, in learning our own learning. It is human knowledge. That in its highest form is what we call science, and although it is merely finding out what already exists in fact what God made, we are so stuck up about it that we are comparing the knowledge of the Maker of it, and what we know of it, with honours all our way. They say that there are so many societies these days for doing all sorts of things that if you are not careful you will step on one and break it. People are quitting the worship of God, and are admiring themselves. Is that true? Is it? Look around you. Ask yourself. People are practical these days and with the help and management of women they are saving the world, which the Almighty was letting go to ruins. Indeed? Yes. But now the life savers are no [illegible] practical result of their practicalness. Are they going to allow the poor babes we saved [illegible] to have their life starved and crushed out of them? When we have so much land to spare? Look into it, ye know-alls. Get to work. Ye can laugh at the Bible but not at nature. Save the people you have saved. Try and read something besides novels. But for the love of consistency, get to work, and provide the East with a place to go to. "And stop talkin'."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Earton

MISSEZ PETER PETER PUMPKIN EATER

"Why, I'm Peter Peter Pumpkin Eater."

"Hello," called a voice bright and early next morning. "Who is living here now?"

"We are," said Nancy and Nick, sticking their heads out of their Christmas-tree house in Daddy Gander Land. "Who are you?"

"Why, I'm Peter Peter Pumpkin Eater," answered a little man all dressed up in yellow clothes with a large green hat. "Did you see my wife?"

"No, we didn't see her," said Nancy. "What does she look like?"

"Well," said Mister Peter, "she isn't fashionable. I don't believe in fashions. She's sort of old-fashioned."

"But, my goodness!" declared Nancy, eyeing his brave colors, "you are not so old-fashioned yourself. You have on brand new clothes and they are the latest style!"

"I—I mean for women!" said Mister Peter.

"I see!" said Nick, soberly. "Yes, we saw a woman go by with a basket of eggs. She said she was going to the Market Town Fair."

"Why that wasn't my wife," said Mister Peter. "That was Old Dame Trot."

"I saw another woman," said Nancy. "She was on her way to the butcher's to get her poor dog a bone. Perhaps that was your wife."

"Why, I'm surprised at you," exclaimed Mister Peter indignantly. "That old hag! My wife! Humph! I should say not! That was Old Mother Hubbard."

"And now I remember I saw still another woman go by," said Nick. "She was all bent double and had on a little ragged shawl. She said her house was under the hill."

"My goodness alive!" cried Mister Peter crossly. "That's the Old-Woman-Who-Lives-Under-the-Hill! Why, she's a perfect rag bag. What do you think my wife looks like anyway?"

"Well, you said you didn't believe in fashions," Nancy reminded him. "You ought to be glad if she did dress in rags!"

"I didn't mean that exactly," said Mister Peter Pumpkin Eater. "I just meant I don't approve of her spending every cent I give her on clothes."

"What did she buy with the last money you gave her?" called a teasing voice, and there stood Bo Peep on her front porch, shaking a finger at stingy Peter.

"I don't know! I never gave her any!" said Mister Peter before he thought. Then he got very red under his green hat.

"I thought so!" laughed Bo Peep, patting her blue satin skirt all caught up with bows of cherry ribbon. "We all thought so."

Just then Missez Peter Peter Pumpkin Eater turned the corner carrying a heavy basket. Peter took one good look at her and then glanced at his own suit.

"Polly, you need a new dress," he declared as she came near. "You never did pay enough attention to your clothes."

ENOUGH FOR PINKERTON TO SAY "GET THAT BACK"

Recovered Lillian Russell's Valuable Furs and Lingerie—All Except Pink Silk Nightdress

THERE is an old exaggerated saying that if a man sits on the portico of Sheppeard's Hotel, Cairo, Egypt, every man or woman he knows will pass by in the course of the afternoon. William Allan Pinkerton, one of the most remarkable detectives America has produced, who died the other day, seventy-seven years old, did not have to go to the land of the Pharaohs. Wherever was "Uncle Billy," as he was affectionately called, men and women passed before him, and, righteous, or wrong, he knew them.

He knew more men and women probably than any man in America. Whether he sat in the lobby of a hotel in Kankakee, New York, Shelby, Chicago or 'Frisco, he knew them all, good or bad. Aristocratic and influential men were glad to know him, for he was an amiable and most entertaining character.

So William A. Pinkerton died a millionaire, thanks to the kindly advice of his wealthy friends who loved him and to the business established by his father, Allan Pinkerton, like the son, a great detective.

"Uncle Billy" knew the members of the theatrical profession better than their own managers knew them. They loved him. He was ever ready to protect them against wolves. If, by bad luck, they were stranded, he floated them with funds.

Like everybody else, he admired Lillian Russell. She was in Cleveland, playing an engagement and stopping at the old Hollenden House. One afternoon, while she was at the theatre, a thief broke into the hotel suite she occupied and stole her most valuable jewels, besides furs and lingerie. Lillian Russell, in distress, called Pinkerton in Chicago by long distance phone. He got in touch with his Cleveland office; there is not a big city on earth where his agency is not represented.

His Cleveland operators got busy, reported to their principal, and Pinkerton, as always putting his finger on the man or mob capable of such a job, sent word, "I want that back!"

The thief had followed Miss Russell over half the United States. In Cleveland he got a job as a window washer in the hotel where she was staying. The rest was easy—until he ran up against Pinkerton. The thief yielded to Pinkerton's forceful demand, but retained a certain sentimentality. He answered:

"All right, governor. I'm sending the stuff to you, except the pink silk nightgown."

Pinkerton told Miss Russell.

"Oh, yes," she exclaimed, "by all means let him keep the nightgown"; then added: "It belongs to my maid."

He was a great criminologist. Scotland Yard, the prefecture of police in Paris, almost every police centre in Europe and South America, consulted him frequently. In pursuing a thief, a burglar or a forger, he had remarkable insight and intuition. He knew a criminal by his handiwork; if there were no fingerprints left on a safe they were left on Pinkerton's mind. He knew whom to seek and he knew the means of finding them.

His word was sacred. He never broke a promise to a criminal. He would not tolerate third degree methods. If one of the underworld vowed to him that he was trying to go straight, Pinkerton would help him. But God help him if he did not go straight.

He often said he had more sympathy with a thief than a liar; a thief might be driven by need; a lie is at the end of every man's tongue.

Pinkerton had a much lighter side. He was full of fun, which he maintained until his last day. He loved to play roguish jokes when he was at a dinner party. For example, by a little sleight of hand, to find a brooch, or watch, which he had placed in the possession of someone else.

William A. Pinkerton was a charitable man; he sent to prison many men and his philanthropy kept many unfortunates out of jail. Always he urged leniency for a first offender. He is known to have appealed to the governor of a state for the pardon of a man whom he had apprehended.

Modest, although he had an infinite number of friends among newspaper men, he detested publicity. It has come to him only after his death.

WHAT THE BAND PLAYED

THE genial Lord Shaw, of Dunfermline, has been telling yet another story against himself.

When he was solicitor-general for Scotland it fell to his lot to take part in quite a number of state functions.

One of the most imposing of these was when, in full legal panoply, and preceded by liveried outriders, he was in attendance on the Marquis of Breadalbane, the lord high commissioner.

Lord Shaw says that he rather fancied himself on this occasion. "Bosom swelled with pride," and all that sort of thing.

Then, as he was passing in procession, the band struck up, and the tune was "'E dunno where 'e are!"

Coolidge Sees the Dog Before He Eats Sausage

Registration of Humorous Protest Against Homely Hash—"It's All Right, Fellows; Let's Go Ahead"

WHEN Calvin Coolidge went to Amherst College he ate at a boarding house which was inexpensive but well conducted, says Edward Elwell Whiting, in a biography just published.

There is a story of this boarding house which is trivial, but may properly be quoted here simply because it emphasizes what ought to be emphasized frequently — that is, that although he was a serious-minded boy, he indulged in the same kind of nonsense that schoolboys have always liked. On the morning of the story, the piece de resistance at breakfast was homely hash. Coolidge tucked in his napkin, seized his knife and fork, then suddenly started in consternation as he gazed upon the dish before him.

Calvin Coolidge

"Maria!" he called. Maria was the waitress.

Maria entered from the kitchen.

"Maria," asked Calvin, "where is the dog?"

"In the kitchen," said the waitress.

"Bring him in," said Calvin.

Maria whistled to the dog, who came in through the kitchen door. He was a large, wholesome-looking dog. He wagged his tail and trotted out of the room again. Calvin resumed his grasp on the fork and began operations on the dish in front of him, saying, in a voice of relief: "It's all right, fellows, let's go ahead."

Now, as I was told that story, the piece de resistance at breakfast, as it had been for a succession of mornings, was sausage; and Calvin's request was that the dog be summoned was simply a whimsical protest against the continuance of sausage.

ZEAL TO KEEP INCOGNITO REAL ACTING FOR PRINCE

Lord Renfrew Tries to Be Just "Like Any Other Johnnie" on a Lark

THE Prince of Wales likes traveling "like any other Johnnie," and sometimes carries his zeal to surprising lengths. A train traveler was surprised not long ago to find himself vis-a-vis with the Prince at luncheon, the Prince insisting at the end on the man regarding himself as his guest; and, if the story of a certain Canadian immigration officer is true, the Prince filled in the information form at Quebec with all the serious precision of a traveler whose confession album was really required by the authorities. As "Lord Renfrew" —his nom-de-voyage—he answered the following questions:

Prince of Wales

Present occupation?—Nothing.

Future occupation?—Nothing.

Purpose of coming to Canada?—To enjoy myself.

Amount of cash?—Enough for my present needs.

Can you read?—Yes.

What language?—Some five of them.

The answers were quite satisfactory, and he was allowed to proceed on his way!

A CHOICE MORSEL.

DON'T blame the cat. No doubt a canary bird looks as good to him as a watermelon does to a country boy.

Antiquity Planting for the Kaiser Used to Amuse King George of Greece

Young Exiled Monarch Used to Laugh at His Uncle Willie—Mimiced Him for His Brother Officers—Has Always Wanted to Go to America—Deposition a Sad Blow to Queen Marie of Rumania's Dream of Federated Balkan States

Exiled King and Queen of Greece Lose Throne Again

THIS is the latest photo of George II., who has just abdicated the throne of Greece, and his Queen, Elizabeth. They have gone to Rumania in exile, to take refuge with the Queen's parents, King Ferdinand and Queen Marie, after having been given 1,000,000 drachmas and the promise of a pension of 1,500,000 drachmas a year.

WHO would be king of Greece?

Talk with young George of Greece and hear what he really thinks about it. "Being king is a rotten job. I have tried it for a year, so I know," he told an interviewer three months ago.

On the whole, though, there is something queer about these interviews. When they interviewed Georgo the other day he decidedly said: "I won't leave. Whoever dares, let him come here and try to remove me."

But that was just after the committee representing the Greek army and navy had paid a painful call on the young king at the royal summer palace of Tatoiou about twenty miles out of Athens. Of course, a man is apt to be a bit defiant when he is told to get out. That was about what the committee told George. They asked him to leave Greece until the national assembly has decided on the regime best suited to the country, with the uncomfortable implication that this may very well be a republic.

Besides, there is a possibility that George has been talking to his mother-in-law. It will be a hard blow to the ambitions of Queen Marie of Rumania, whose great dream is a big Balkan federation of kingdoms dominated by her children and herself. It was to George that she gave her eldest daughter, the Princess Elizabeth, as part of this magnificent scheme.

On the whole, everybody is sorry for George and Elizabeth. They are such pleasant, sensible young people. He is only thirty-three and she is just twenty-nine. They are good-looking. And they have a pleasant sense of humor.

George used to laugh at his Uncle Willie, the Kaiser. He was in the First Regiment of Foot Guards at Potsdam at that time. It was while his mother, Queen Sophia, reconciled not long before with her brother, was making her home with her children in Germany, virtually living apart from King Constantine in those rather dark years from 1908 to 1911. George belonged to the gay set headed by the German Crown Prince that regarded the Kaiser as an old-fashioned and eccentric crank.

One of George's stories about the Kaiser was recently repeated by "A Veteran Diplomatist." The Greek royal family have a country seat close to the Kaiser's famous villa near Achilleion on the Island of Corfu. George, on one occasion gave a graphic description to a number of his Prussian regimental comrades at Berlin of how he and his brothers and uncles used to make a practice of planting a number of bogus antiquities each autumn on the Island of Corfu, for their excavation with much pomp and ceremony in the following spring by that very eminent art expert and learned antiquarian, William II. of Germany. George's sense of humor is even secondary to his power of mimicry. The way in which he took off his uncle while in the act of unearthing these treasures, purchased in the shops at Athens, is said to have caused uncomfortable spasms of laughter.

There is no affectation about George. Even his battle scars are genuine. During the two Balkan wars he served in the field, not as a member of the staff, but as a lieutenant, sharing all the hardships that fall to the lot of a subaltern infantry officer on a hard campaign. Incidentally, on two occasions, he was wounded, though not dangerously so. He is, in fact, the only member of the reigning house of Greece who sustained any wound during these two wars.

He has always wanted to come to America; and now, perhaps his wish is about to be fulfilled. He can tell you all about that in as good English as you can hear anywhere. His wife, Elizabeth, knows English just as well as he does, for her mother, "the Royal Grandmother of the Balkans," is a daughter of the Duke of Edinburgh. Both George and his wife, as a matter of fact, are great-grandchildren of Queen Victoria, cousins to themselves as well as to their uncle Willie. But it would be far too tiresome to explain all that.

At least, George II. of Greece is free now free to go to America, if this is his wish. It must be a relief, because for the last fourteen months both the young monarchs have been virtual prisoners at Tatoiou. They could not leave the estate even for a week-end because Greek politicians thought they might never come back. They could not receive any distinguished visitors or their friends of the aristocracy. They did not even have enough money to pay their bills. But, like a couple of philosophers, they bore their trials with commendable calm; George ran the binder, while Elizabeth pruned the roses.

But before they go to America they have to visit Queen Marie at Bucharest. It is quite probable that they won't go to America after all.

DISAPPOINTED IN B-P

SIR ROBERT BADEN-POWELL can always be relied upon to tell a story worth retelling. At a recent dinner he related an amusing incident in which he and his wife were concerned while camping in a wood belonging to one of the newly-rich.

Lady Baden-Powell asked permission to put up a tent in the wood. After some hesitation sanction was forthcoming.

"But you must bring the general to see me," insisted the landowner.

Her ladyship pointed out the general, who was busy unharnessing the horse.

"That him?" exclaimed the landowner. "Good heavens! I thought he was tall, slim, and—well, handsome!"

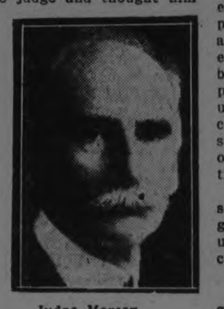
Judge Morson Keeps Christmas All Year Round

"Monty" Morson Has No Terrors for Law Student Who Catches Him Unaware

By R. R. S.

IF you were to question a law student attending Osgoode Hall as to his opinion of the charitable tendencies of Judge Morson of the Toronto division courts, he would be likely to start perceptibly, cast a furtive glance around, and say, "Very little chance."

The writer has quailed with others before the biting remarks of the judge and thought him rather a grouchy old veteran like the others.



Judge Morson

Then one afternoon as I walked up Yonge street to my boarding house, I saw the judge walking ahead of me with his stick in both hands horizontally behind his back and thinking, as I imagined, of his law student victims of the morrow.

Three ragged little kiddies were enviously peering through the glass of a corner sweet shop. Suddenly they were noticed by his honor the judge, and he cut one of his snappy strides in twain and, stepping over to the lads, gave them a piece of silver. In my surprise I did not notice the amount. It matters not.

"Monty" Morson, as we called him, had no terrors for me after that. It was only a trifling act of kindness, but many men whom the world calls "good fellows" would not have done it. A peep behind the scenes is good for the soul.

ALFONSO TALKS FROTHY DIPLOMATS HAVE "JUMPS"

Spanish Monarch Very Nearly Causes International Situation on Recent Mysterious Visit to Rome

ALFONSO has been talking "frothy."

This is the way they described the Spanish monarch's lively small talk during his recent visit with his new premier, General de Rivera, to Rome, where he chummed with Victor Emanuel while the general whispered with Mussolini about the menace of the black troops of France.

At the reception held at the Spanish embassy for the diplomats and the Italian aristocracy, King Alfonso was talking to the Hungarian minister.

"Oh," said Alfonso, in his quick, friendly way, "we have your kind living in Spain. We hope that he will soon be able to return to Hungary."

His majesty, of course, was referring to little Prince Otto, son of the late Emperor Charles of Hapsburg, who died in exile. And the efforts of the empress and certain Hungarians to put Otto on the throne are well known in diplomatic circles.

Only a very wise veteran of the diplomatic service avoided an international situation, it seems, when all the ministers of the small states that have grown up from the wreck of the Hapsburg empire, having exchanged significant glances, dashed for their code books and the telegraph forms.

"Push on to Higher and Better Things" Urges Dr. McMullen at Ninety-Two

Grand Old Man of the Presbyterian Church Preaches in His Ninety-Second Year—Recalls Great Preachers and Missionaries—Glad There Is Not Perfect Contentment

ON November 5th, 1856, eleven years before T. McMullen, a youth of just over twenty-five years, was ordained to the Christian ministry.

Canada became a dominion, Rev. Dr. W. On November 11th, still alert and keen, in spite of his ninety-two years, Dr. McMullen took the opportunity of delivering an anniversary message to the congregation of Knox Presbyterian Church, Woodstock, in which he labored faithfully for forty-seven years, and in the pulpit of which he has frequently appeared since he laid aside the active duties of his pastorate.

Without the use of a single note and with a memory untouched by the hand of time, the grand old veteran of the Presbyterian Church stirred his congregation with recollections of the men with whom he had been associated in the days of his youth.

"Who are some of the great preachers I was privileged to listen to? Among all the great preachers one stands out pre-eminently before me, the Rev. Dr. Bain, of Galt, one of the most eloquent men with whom Canada was ever blessed. He was born in 1807 and came to Galt in 1835. The great and powerful congregation of Knox church, Galt, is a monument to his ministry. In 1906, when the congregation celebrated the 100th anniversary of his birth, they looked over the church to find a minister who knew Dr. Bain when he was at his best, and there was only myself left. They sent me an invitation to preach at the morning anniversary service. The great church was packed full, and it was an impressive sight."

Dr. McMullen told of how the Rev. R. E. Knowles had asked him on the Saturday evening what his subject was to be, and he had replied that it would be better to wait until he heard the sermon. Following the morning service, Mr. Knowles rushed up to him, and insisted that he preach at the evening service. Dr. McMullen declined, whereupon Mr. Knowles replied: "You'll have to preach to-night, for you have taken my text."

Dr. McMullen also referred to having heard Henry Ward Beecher, to whom he referred as an illimitable talker, and also spoke of having listened to Dr. Talmadge.

"Who are the great missionaries I have had the privilege of seeing and hearing?" continued Dr. McMullen. "The name comes to my mind of Rev. Dr. Geddie, the first missionary sent out by the church of the lower provinces. He was a man small in stature, but it was an inspiration to come in contact with him as he pleaded the cause of missions. I can also recall Rev. Dr. Paton. I never saw a man with such snowy white flowing hair. He was a real patriarch in appearance. On the island where he labored there were none but heathen. Soon after going there, his wife died, and with his own hands he made her coffin and dug her grave. He persevered in his work, and when he left that island there were no heathen left."

The spirit of youth and progress still breathe from Dr. McMullen at ninety-two. "If I were asked the question, 'Is there more contentment at present than there was eighty years ago, what would my answer be?' The people of eighty years ago did not know any better than to be content with what they had, but I do not believe human contentment increases as we keep pace with the improvements and advances in all lines of human activity. I do not know if that is to be deplored, for the reason that if we had perfect contentment, advancement would cease and progress would come to an end. Because people are not satisfied with what they have, they push forward to the attainment of higher and better things."

AN old war correspondent was attached to the Chilian army during a struggle with Peru. On one occasion he complained to a general that owing to the absence of uniform on either side he found it difficult to distinguish the combatants.

"Oh, it's quite simple," returned the general cynically. "If you see a man running towards Chile he's a Chilian. If he's running towards Peru, he's a Peruvian!"—Tit-Bits.

BYNG BACK TO EARTH AFTER DAZED FLIGHT

Tells What May Happen to Governor-General Who Quotes Epictetus Unawares to a Lady

THE duties of his office keep Lord Byng of Vimy, governor-general of Canada, in the neighborhood of Rideau Hall most of the time. His trips beyond the boundaries of the province of Ontario are infrequent, and he usually has a busy time.

On his last visit to the west His Excellency was the guest of honor at a large semi-official dinner in a city, which, for the purpose of this story, shall be called Wheatville. The lady on his right proved to be a fluent talker, and it soon developed that she knew all about Mah Jongg and bridge — but nothing else.

Lord Byng

Lord Byng's interest in these two pastimes is largely academic, but long experience in being bored has made him pleasantly polite under difficult circumstances. All the same, he did not overlook the first opportunity to shift his attention to the lady on his left.

Being rather diffident, this lady found it somewhat difficult to reach easy conversational ground with the guest of honor. She fell back upon the banal statement that Lord Byng didn't come west very often.

The governor-general smiled.

"Of pleasures, those which occur most rarely give the most delight," he quoted.

"Do you believe Epictetus wrote that?" inquired the lady, now keenly interested.

"I don't know, really," answered Lord Byng, somewhat surprised by the question. "What is your opinion?"

"I rather think it bears the stamp of Pythagorean origin, in spite of what Schweighaeuser says on the subject," was the reply. "And, speaking of the ancient Greek philosopher—"

Thereafter they discussed philosophy, His Excellency probably deciding that as between Mah Jongg and Stoic Morals, he would choose the lesser of two evils. But in the end he had to throw up his hands when he was asked:

"Have you ever been able to trace the intellectual influence of Socrates on the tonic quality of Epictetus, or the singular consistency of Marcus Aurelius?"

"To tell the truth," confessed Lord Byng, "I haven't. I really know very little about philosophy. I didn't even know I was quoting Epictetus a little while ago!"

"Thank Heaven!" exclaimed the lady, fervently. "I was so afraid I'd have to keep on talking philosophy to you, and I've absolutely exhausted my knowledge of the subject."

The governor-general of Canada smiled broadly as he said:

"Suppose we get back to earth and talk about something we both know a little about, eh? . . . Always providing," he added in a whisper, "it isn't Mah Jongg or bridge!"

LLOYD GEORGE LETTER MASHED TO PULP BY GIBBS

In His Nervousness Destroyed Epistle to American Nation Worth Hundreds of Dollars

"STRANGER things happen to an English lecturer in the United States than in any other country. At least they happened to me," says Sir Philip Gibbs, in his new book, "Adventures in Journalism." "I shall never forget, for instance, how in the middle of a speech to the City Club of New York, I was thrust into a taxicab, hurried off to the 44th Street Theatre, received with a tremendous explosion (a flashlight photo!) in the dressing-room of Al Jolson, the funny man, thrust into the middle of a harem scene (scores of beautiful maidens), and told to make a speech on behalf of wounded soldiers, while the audience raffled for an original letter from Lloyd George to the American nation.

Sir Philip Gibbs

"Surprised by my rapid transmigration from the City Club, and by my presence in an Oriental harem, very hot, rather flustered, and not knowing what to do with my hands, I kept screwing up a bit of paper which had been given to me at the wings, and by the time I had finished my three minutes' speech it was a bit of wet, mushy pulp. When I left the stage, a white-faced man in the wings who had been making frantic signs to me, informed me coldly that I had utterly destroyed Lloyd George's letter to the American nation which had just been raffled for many hundreds of dollars. . . . After that I went back to finish my speech at the City Club."

BEST NAME FOR A BABY

"ONE of the funniest remarks I remember hearing," says Miss Ellen Terry, the famous English actress, was made by a man in the circle of a theatre I was visiting.

"A mother with a young baby that would insist on crying was sitting close by when the man leaned over, and said: 'Excuse me, but has that baby been christened yet?'

"'Why, no, was the reply.

"'Then may I suggest that it should be called "Good Idea"?'

"'Whatever for?'

"'Because it should be carried out.'"

THE two clubmen had wined and dined well. One was much more groggy than his companion, but with the aid of his friend's arm he managed to reach the second floor of the block of flats.

"Do you think you can manage another two storeys?" asked the more sober man of his inebriated friend.

"She'rtainly," was the reply. "I've got 'em at home ones."

LINDSAY TEAM STRONG IN OPENING GAME HERE

Old Rivals Clash Again To-Morrow Night in First O.H.A. Game of Season—Midgets Have Several College Acquisitions.

PRACTICE TO-NIGHT.

With good ice sure for tomorrow night and the old rivals, Lindsay and Peterboro intermediates, scheduled to meet in the first O.H.A. game of the season local fans are beginning to feel the urge of Canada's national winter game and they will be out in swarms tomorrow night. The Lindsay crew have always been good enough to give the Petes an awful scare—and sometimes more than that—and this year's team is the best that Midgetville has had for some time, thanks to the return to Lindsay of Killen and Wilford, who have been going to college in Toronto for several years. With McClory in the nets and Coombs, Killen and Wilford as the nucleus for the rest of the team there will be nothing weak in the line up that the Midgets will drop over the boards at Brock St. rink to-morrow night and the Peterboro management will be well advised in having its strongest line up in action. The Petes practice tonight and the team will be selected after the work out.

Tomorrow's game will attract a capacity house judging by the interest that is being shown around town.

There will be a bunch of Lindsay rooters here.

Of the Lakefield game Friday night the Lindsay Post says

"It should also be remembered that it was the opening game and that the locals have had very little chance to practice on ice. They showed very good condition and the finer points of the game will come as the blue and white shirts settle down to practice. The boys needs Coombs on the line. Coombs is a worker and makes others dig in. If they fail to do so his speed and aggressiveness makes the other look like has-beens. Coombs' assistance on the line will put ginger and pep into the entire aggregation.

For Lakefield L. Sabitino at center was the best man, closely followed by Simpson on left defence, who showed several streaks of good stick-handling. The boys lacked condition, due they claim to the fact that they have as yet no ice at Lakefield. They were unable, however, to make a better showing because of the persistent back-checking of the Lindsay forwards. Webster in goal had a busy time, and although awkward at times, he did fairly well. It was his first real practice of the season and he was bewildered with the bombardment he received.

Did you notice the new score board at the Lindsay St. rink. Getting more like the arena every day. There are many other improvements that the fans have noticed.

Considering that the Lakefield crew were never on skates before this winter they did well in last night's game. Get them on their own ice and the story may be entirely different."

OSHAWA CURLERS OPEN ON TUESDAY

Annual Games, President and Vice-President — Bonspiel Dates February 13 and 14.

OSHAWA, Jan. 5. — In anticipation of ice for the opening of the local curling season an Tuesday night next a standing room only crowd of curlers was held in the club rooms at the rink on Friday night, when with President C. M. Anderson in the chair it was decided to hold the President vs. Vice-President game on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week. The dates set for the open bonspiel of the local club weer Wednesdap and Thursday Thursday, Feb. 13 and 14.

Lawson O. Clifford, M. P., and Arthur G. Lambert were unanimously elected skips for the Ontario Tankard group games, wile Fred G. Carswell and Thomas Henderson were entrusted with bringing the District Cup to Oshawa. For the skips of local rink competitions 42 names were put on the blackboard, with 30 to be elected, and the following received the majority of votes:—C. M. Anderson, A. J. Stalter, W. A. Coad, L. O. Clifford, M.P., E.E. Hare, Dr. F. L. Henry, George Southwell, Fred Debney, Fred J. Bailes, Levi Clifford, George Miller, Charles F. Peacock, Arthur M. Germond, E. C. Hare, Lou R. Luke, George W. McLaughlin, T. H. McMurtry, Fred G. Carswell, Charles R. Bailes, Geo. E. Evans, Thomas Henderson, Wesley Lambert, William J. Holland, J. H. Cooper, Lou Stevenson, William E. Clarke, Fred E. Ellis, H. A. Porter John A. Thompson and H. E. Smith.

During the first part of the evening Secretary Thompson displayed the shield won by the local club as representatives of the local group of the Ontario Tankard games the past year.

Death Struck Near John D. Rockefeller

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Ashton Harvey, of New York, died suddenly on the Ormond Beach golf links Saturday while playing in a two-some with John D. Rockfeller, Sr., with whom he has been playing some occasional matches, the last five winters. He was about 70 years old. Mr. Harvey and Mr. Rockfeller had just started playing when the former was stricken.

Mr. Rockfeller and his caddy tried to assist him into a chauffeur's barracks nearby and were joined by two bell boys from the hotel. They had just gotten him inside when he succumbed.

Despite the incident Mr. Rockfeller went unescorted to his automobile, which had been called immediately, and stood up well under the shock.

ST. PATS LOST TO SENATORS

Ottawa Team Led All the Way, Opening With Four Goals in First and Two in Second Period.

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Toronto St. Pats were no match for the Ottawa Senators in the National Hockey League fixture played here Saturday night and were decisively beaten by seven goals to three. The locals retained command of the situation throughout and only good goal tending by Roach kept the score down.

Senators jumped into a four goal lead in the first period and added two more in the second. Their margin of six goals at the second rest was well earned and represented the difference between the two teams. In the middle session Ottawa used plenty of substitutes but St. Pats could not penetrate the defence. The visitors showed a flash of real form in the final twenty rattling the twine behind Benedict on three occasions. This was insignificant however, as the Senators had slowed down with their big lead, and Boucher brushed through for another, and the final goal, before time was up.

The hockey was not brilliant, but was consistent all through. For the first twenty minutes, Ottawas cut out a pace and attacked with a determination that was not to be denied. St. Pats tried bravely but could not stem the tide. The best hockey of the entire game was shown in the second period. Here St. Pats rallied and the play was lightning fast with puck travelling from end to end.

CANADIENS AVENGE DEFEAT BY TIGERS

Won in Montreal Saturday Night By 5-1 in Lightning Fast Game.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Canadiens atoned for the drubbing they received at Hamilton last Wednesday when they swamped the Tigers in a scheduled N.H.L. fixture at the Mount Royal Arena Saturday night 5 to 1. Tbout 5,500—the largest crowd that has witnessed a local match here this season—attended the game in which the Montrealers clearly demonstrated their superiority in speed, stick-handling, shooting and hockey generalship.

Seldom in N.H.L. games locally has such fast hockey been seen as that which marked the first period on Saturday night. The teams started with a rush that was maintained throughout the first twenty minutes without let up, the puck going from end to end in lightning-like rushes, but with Canadiens having the margin. The pace told and in the second period the players were content to take matters more easy, Canadiens played a waiting game in this session having the advantage of a two-goal lead and they allowed the Tigers to bring the play to them. It proved a clever move, for the visitors tired under the grind and in the final period although there were flashes of brilliant play by both sides the locals had an edge and held a safe margin.

RUGBY RESULTS.

MASTERLY PLAY BY ASTON VILLA

Won On Cardiff Grounds By 2-1, Duplicating the Victory of Previous Week--Total Attendance 550,000.

LONDON, Jan. 6. — (Canadian Press Cable)— The exhibition of Cardiff City against Aston Villa on Saturday when the former went down to a defeat of two goals to nothing, the Villa thereby clinching their victory of the previous week was masterly and outstanding for their control of the ball. Nevertheless on their own ground and surrounded by their own supporters, they had their colors lowered. While the Villa deserve their victory they were in a measure fortunate, for Cardiff played an aggressive game in which Len. Davies made several splendid efforts. There was no scoring in the first half.

Equally as interesting in the first division of the English League was the win acquired by Preston North End over Burnley when the latter were swamped by five goals. The disciplinary measures taken by the North End last week when they gave both Gilchrist, the ex-Celtic player and Laird, the former Glasgow Rangers' forward, two weeks' notice to terminate their engagement, had a salutary effect on their team and the fifteen thousand spectators who witnessed the game saw the best display put up by the home side this season. Burnley was completely over-run. Forty thousand people were present at the game between Chelsea and Arsenal which ended in a scoreless draw. Andy Wilson, late of Middlesborough sent the ball through the net for the Pensioners but the goal was not allowed, it being ruled that he had helped the leather on its way with his hand.

Rangers Beaten

In the Scottish League, the defeat of Glasgow Rangers at the hands of Ayr United was the sensation of the day. Rangers had had an unbroken record up to Saturday while Ayr had travelled throughout the season in the lowliest of company.

All contests yesterday direct attention to the cup ties, the first round of which is due on Saturday next. The majority of clubs concerned have already tightened up and training has become rigorous. The scoring yesterday was a direct reaction from the strain of the holiday games and in the circumstances could scarcely be otherwise than of a sensational nature. Watford registered eight goals against Newport County's two. Mummery was responsible for five of the counters, his change of position on the team from left-wing being decidedly advantageous to Watford. Newport did not play badly or even indifferently but the breaks all came Watford's way and they were not slow to pick them up.

Scoring Stars

The following players each scored three goals:

Ferris (Preston North and former Chelsea).

Cook (Brighton and Hove Albion) in the game where Reading, the tail-enders of the southern section of the Third Division lost by four to 0.

Sibbald (Southport) against Barrow.

Crockford (Chesterfield) against Darlington in a contest that resulted 5 to 1 in favor of Chesterfield.

Phillipson (Wolverhampton Wanderers) when Ashington were snowed under 7 to 1.

Millwall's three to one win against Brantford was a curious affair. Crawford, their goalkeeper stopped a couple of penalties, while on each side a player but the ball into his own net Orr, custodian for Luton Town was badly injured in the course of the game with South and United and had to leave the field.

Referee Assaulted

A sensational incident occurred in the tilt between Bristol Rovers and Bournemouth. The referee R. R. Crump, was walking onto the field after the interval when he was struck and knocked down by a spectator. He was compelled to retire behind the grand stand to recover. His assailant was arrested by the police.

Attendances totalled 550,000.

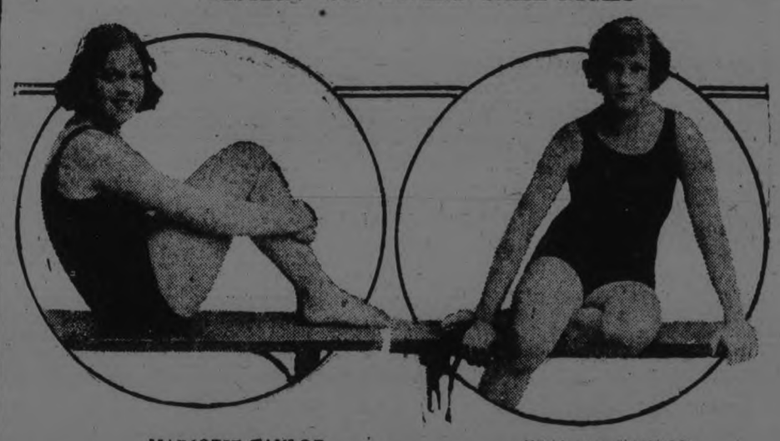
SISTERS WIN TITLES SAME NIGHT



MARJORIE TAYLOR. FRANCES TAYLOR.

Great swimmers seldom come in clusters. However, the Smith sisters of Columbus, O., formed a great swimming pair. Now come the Taylor sisters of Pittsburgh to rival them. The two Taylors, Marjorie and Frances, scored notable triumphs in a recent meet when the former won the junior championship of the Allegheny Mountain Association and the latter won the senior title. Both won their titles at the same meet, on the same night, and in consecutive tries.

AMERICAN GOLF ANNUAL MEETING

Limit Markings On Face of Iron Clubs — Two Million Golfers in the U. S. A. Last Year.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The election of Wynant D. Vanderpool, of Newark, N.J., as president of the United States' Golf Association; the approval of the dates set for the 1924 championship tournaments; the adoption of a new rule on punched and ribbed clubs, and the suggestion of the association's attitude on the questions of the stymie and the power of the golf ball, were the outstanding features at yesterday's annual meeting of the U.S.G.A.

Reducing the power of the ball in order that play may become "real tests of golfing skill rather than tests of strength and endurance," was declared by J. Frederic Byers, retiring president, to be the most important problem with which the U.S.G.A. must deal.

Mr. Byers expressed the hope that there would be no letting down of the bars in respect to the stymie and othernatural handicaps. His attitude was endorsed by President Vanderpool.

Rule on Markings.

The meeting unanimously approved the new rule to limit the markings on the face of the iron clubs, which became effective January 1. The rule is:

"Club faces shall not bear any lines, dots and other markings made for the obvious purpose of putting a cut on the ball, nor shall they be stamped or cut with lines exceeding 1-16 inch in width, nor less than 3-32 inch apart, measured on their outside edges. Both line and dot markings may be used, either alone or in combination, with the above limitations, provided all rough and raised edges are removed."

Two million golfers in the United States who expended 217,000,000 last year in dues, permits, golf equipment and caddie fees, made the season of 1923 the most notable in golfing history and revealed the tremendous popularity of the game, according to the report of the Executive committee.

Huge Investment.

"Keen popular interest in this pastime is becoming more and more evident," said the report. "It has been estimated that the yearly increase in clubs averages about 30 per cent. This percentage, however, does not appear to provide the necessary facilities for all players on both private and public links. There are over 3,000 golf and country clubs and over 2,000,000 golfers in the United States.

"The investment his real estate, buildings and construction of newly organized clubs during 1923 is estimated at $88,000,000, and the annual expenditure by membres of all clubs for the same period for dues, permits, golf balls, supplies and caddies total $217,000,000."

Sweden May Protest Three U. S. Ski-Jumpers.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 6.—Sweden doubts the eligibility of three United States' ski-ers who are trying out for the United States' Olympic team here, and probably will protest them if they are sent to France.

This became known yesterday when F. W. Rubien, Secretary of the United States' Olympic Committee and also of the A.A.U., wired G. B. Garton of the Minneapolis Park Board Recreation Department, also also a member of the United States' Nominating Committee, a duplicate of the message he dispatched to L. J. Sverdrup, president of the National Ski Association, in Waverly, Mo. The telegram read:

"Have wired Sverdrup as follows: 'Swedish ski jumpers and newspaper correspondents question eligibility of Hansen, Haugen, Omtvedt. They probably will be protested abroad. Are you quite sure your reinstated men will be eligible under rules of International Ski Federation or Commission'."

INVADING GOLFERS WON.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press)— Arthur Gladstone Havers, British open champion, and his touring partner, Jimmy Ockenden, French open champion, easily defeated Walter Hagen, former British open champion and Bill Melhorn of St. Louis, in a 36-hole match 7 up and five to play at the West End Country Club Saturday.

The field is said to be evenly matched. Among the favorites are Ernest Kockler and Carl Stockholm, both of Chicago, who won the last race here.

MATERIAL APLENTY FOR OSHAWA TEAMS

Intermediates Take On Bowmanville To-Night—Juniors in Action On Wednesday.

OSHAWA, January 7. — With the arrival of Jack Frost on Friday evening and all day on Saturday, with the mercury touching two degrees above zero, the hockey season will open this week with a full program.

To-night Bowmanville Intermediates fresh from their victory over Chief Constable Charlie Lavery's Whitby crew, will tackle Ed. Donald's local motor gang; on Wednesday evening Cobourg opens the Junior season here; on Thursday evening the Church League Midget and Juvenile Series opens, while on Friday evening the Junior and Senior Series of the same League gets under way.

Hockey this year in Oshawa should be far ahead of any the local fans have had for years as both Junior and Intermediate O.H.A. teams have abundance of material as was seen by the final prep given both teams on Saturday afternoon. Manager Ed Donald had four full teams on the ice—the two junior outfits going the full route from two o'clock while the intermediate squads took the ice at four. After the latter work out, Manager Donald gave out his likely line up for opening game on Monday night as follows:

TRAILS TEAM WITH PLANE.

G. M. LAIRD.

The St. Joseph (Mo.) basketball team keeps its owner up in the air a lot.

Or rather, it will next year.

G. M. Laird, who owns the team, has bought an airplane, and plans to leap from one town to another in his sky skiff just to keep close tab on the team's play.

Whenever possible, Laird plans to fly from his home town to the out-of-town points and back to St. Joseph the same day.

ENGLISH TEAM PICKED.

LONDON, Jan. 6. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The following team has been selected to represent England in the rugby international match against Wales to be played January 19 at Swansea: Full back, Chantrill; three-quarters, H. P. Jacob, H. M. Locke, L. J. Corbett and H. C. Catchside; half-backs, E. Myers and E. T. Young; forwards, to be selected from G. S. Conway; R. Edwards, W. W. Wakefield, W. C. Luddington, E. Robson, A. F. Blakiston, Shacks Novis, H. L. Price and R. Armstrong.

SKI-ER JUMPED 123 FEET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 6.—Anders Haugen, of Minneapolis, national ski jumping champion, to-day won first place in the tryouts for the Olympic team with a jump of 123 feet.

Hansen of Minneapolis was second, with 118 feet; Ragnar Omtvedt, Grand Beach, Mich., third, with 112 feet; Julius Blegen, Minneapolis, fourth, with 111 feet; and Barney Reilley, Colerain, Minn., and Lars Haugen, St. Paul, tied for fifth with 110 feet each. About 20 ski-ers competed.

MACK SIGNS SON AS COACH.

PHILADELPHIA, January 7. — Earl Mack, son of Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, has signed a contract as a coach for the Athletics.

He succeeds Harry Davis, who, however, will continue with the team as a scout.

Young Mack was manager of the Martinsburg team which last year won the pennant of the Blue Ridge League. The previous year he piloted the Moline Club and won the championship of the Three-Eye League.

He will accompany the Athletics on their Southern training trip.

The elder Mack denied reports that he was grooming his son to succeed him as manager of the Athletics.

"There have been times," he said, "when I have become disgusted with baseball, particularly after that long stretch in last place, but now I have both feet firmly planted, a good-looking ball team, and I am ready for a campaign. I have no intention of resigning."

ITS CEMETERY WORTH MILLION

But Villagers Refuse to Let Oil Men Who Made Them Rich Have It.

DETROIT, Jan. 3.—Smackover, that magic oil town in the Ozarks, out in Arkansas, has a "million dollar cemetery." It is only a little patch of ground, dotted here and there with raised mounds, grass grown and hidden, but it is the resting place of pioneers who braved the Indian, who fought and fell in the cause of the Confederacy, and Smackover is determined that no mortal hand shall disturb it.

But under it is at least a million dollars in oil, and around it the rumble of derricks, the shriek of newly opened wells, the groaning of cables, the fevered pulse of Progress beating tireless through the night.

Smack over, once a listless plodding village of 48 persons, razorbacks, as they called them, is now the home of millionaires—millionaires in oil.

Shall Not Pass

To these "razorbacks" the graveyard is sacred. It's the "home" of their loved ones and as the hedge of derricks surrounding Smackover's burial ground grew thicker, and oil covered the headstones, they held up their hands and said, "They shall not pass."

And they didn't.

Too well the oil men remembered the story of Meriman, that little town in Texas that not so many years ago flaunted wealth that the men who had risked the desert of Texas when the great red West was young might sleep in peace. They knew that to oppose the wishes of these kind hearted mountain folks would have meant Civil War. So, despite their longing for the wealth hidden in the bowels of the earth beneath this hallowed ground, they did not pass. Around this Will Farrell wrote his poem, "Not For Sale."

Back in the early days of the oil industsy, even up until a few years ago, coming into sudden wealth turned many a head. As the mushroom towns sprung up over night, there was an orgy of spending. Farmers who had slaved on small patches of ground, who always had been poor—suddenly started "cutting capers." They invested in automobiles and the "whoa, that, whoa," as they tried to stop the devilish things, was commonly heard. Ma and Pa were out to see the sights.

No Spending Orgy

But that is a picture of the past. As time changes so has the newly made millionaire. In the place of spending orgies, there is common sense. The fortunes are going into banks, or into land.

Such a condition one finds in Smackover. In fact there are some, though able to count their bank balance in seven figures, that regret the coming of oil. They long for the little old home in the hills on its small patch of corn and wheat, of the hogs that run wild and the sheep. Wealth means nothing to them, for it was in the hills that their forefathers settled, that their children were raised. It was home.

There's Uncle Billy McKenzie. For years he and his good wife squeezed through life on his confederate pension. They raised a little cotton and a few hogs. They were happy. Wasn't Lije Hardin and his good wife, and Trav Laney, living just down the road. The women folks would visit back and forth, in the evening, the men would congregate on Uncle Billy's lean-to porch, fill their pipes and talk. In fact, everybody was neighborly. Then the oil came. They were forced out of their homes, like outcasts. And those evening chats were no more.

Can't Buy Happiness

Uncle Billy built a "town house," which, at prevailing prices, cost around $1,000. His only daughter, who also suddenly became wealthy, does the cooking for her Ma and Pa. Instead of those new fangled electric lights, coal oil lamps still grace the center of the table. But Ma and Pa McKenzie aren't happy.

When an oil boom hits it plays no favorites. For years Uncle Jeff Flenniken, a slave Negro and now 80 years old, eked out a living on 15 acres. His official signature is a rudely scrawled cross. One day a "lease hound" visited his cabin and now Uncle Jeff is wealthy, but despite his new status in life he clings to one old friend—his mule.

"I'se got to hab my wagon fo I ain't spry no mo. You all kin hab you red debbils, but Jimnie fo me."

Too Much For Him

Up until last August, when the boom hit, Smackover had a one-man postoffice. Almost over night the population swelled to 1,000. One day a message was sent the postoffice department by Fred V. McDonald, the postmaster, who, meantime, had grown wealthy in oil lands. The message read:

The office is out of my control; letters arriving 5,000 to 7,000 daily; parcel post by the ton; can't open mail any longer; no place to put it; accept my resignation.

Thirteen assistants were rushed a few days later to Smackover and the postmaster's salary was increased from $600 a year to $2,500, but McDonald refused to stay any longer on the job than was necessary to break in a new man.

But in all this transition from poverty to wealth, there is, besides Smackover, a sacred burial ground, one other old landmark that remains undisturbed.

PITIFUL STORIES OF OIL VICTIMS.

Investor of Small Savings In Oil Promotions Never Had a Chance.

(By ROY J. GIBBONS)

FT. WORTH, Tex., Jan.—Dog eat dog!

That was the traditional maxim, policy and by-word in the game of the piratical promoter.

From start to finish the investor of small savings never had a chance for his money.

The fake oil stock promoter was out to cheat on a gigantic s a measure his conduct was tolerated—perhaps helplessly—by a law which could not reach him, since he "technically evaded it."

When fake promoters were not flooding the country with propaganda in search of fresh suckers, they were at each other's throats.

Seek More Victims

Living off the fat of the land, they filled skyscrapers with their offices and hundreds of employees.

For a new list of "suckers" in possession of some other pirate, a promoter would go the limit in payment.

Janitors in promoter-tenanted buildings were continually bribed to retrieve waste-basket gleanings and bring discarded envelopes containing return addresses—sucker addresses—at prices ranging from 10 cents to $5 an envelope.

One promoter in the course of little more than 16 months, paid a known $85,480.76 for such lists.

What the promoter didn't fleece the public out of, his crooked broker accomplice did.

Scores of cases are incorporated in the government's evidence, where crooked brokers "sold short" to the tune of hundreds of thousands of dollars on their promoter clients.

It was worked this way:

Most oil stock was purchased on time. At $100 a share, if the investor had paid $90 and a notice was sent him that the company with whom he had placed his money had struck dry wells, he laughed up his sleeve, thinking he had gotten the better of the promoter.

Broker Gets His

In reality it was the broker who snickered. He had sold the stock. And since the company was out of existence, the broker proceeded to pocket the entire $90. This operation gives some idea of the double-crossing methods worked within the ring.

It is also another reason why federal officials are having difficulty checking the total losses, since in the case of a "short stock selling deal" no actual exchange or record of sale of the stock has ever made.

Every train, from all parts of the compass, brings witnesses into Ft. Worth. And the hotels, once filled with swank oil promoters, now shelter countless evidences of disillusioned humanity, folks who trusted and lost.

To recite all the instances of broken faith and slender savings of lifetimes of labor wiped away in a single moment would fill volumes.

But I do particularly remember the tragic story of Mrs. Mary A. Phillips, 66, widow of a Civil War veteran, living at Coshocton, O.

Bent and gray, her face seamed with wrinkles and tottering with rheumatic step, on the witness stand Mrs. Phillips told how she had torn up the carpets of her home to obtain money to buy oil stock.

She typifies the sorrow and misery which trailed millions of the great American oil stock buyers, who fell for promises contained in the unceasing barrage of promotional oil literature which flooded the country.

Then too, there is the case of Guthrie P. Hastings, a feeble ex-cobbler of Boston, who had settled down from his 56 years of back-bending effort, to a life of expected mediocre comfort.

Hastings was on the train with me coming into Ft. Worth, to testify as a witness as to the manner in which he had been duped of his savings and placed in jeopardy of the poor farm.

Cobbler is Duped

"They promised so much. And I trusted them," the old man cried. "But now everything I owned is gone. I will be glad to die."

For stakes like this promoters fought with each other. Sued each other for such misery.

They promised rivers of oil. But they gave rivers of tears and teacups of oil.

A mountain of evidence substantiates all of this. A hundred indictments already returned confirm it. And 1000 more yet to be voted upon place it beyond the question of a doubt.

METHODS USED
Graveyard Wells

This is a holkus-pokus stunt through which promoters prey upon a superstitious tendency on the part of the oil-stock-buying public to prefer their wells near a graveyard.

An ordinary graveyard is no good. It must be a negro graveyard.

A score of promoters made a big killing by sinking some dry well holes near a cemetery of this kind during the early stages of the oil boom.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

REX HAS FINE MYSTERY PLAY.

Kept Capacity House at the Grand Last Night on Tiptoe — Showing To-night and To-morrow.

(Kingston Standard.)

Standing out and over all previous good performances staged by the Rex Company, the presentation of the mystery play "?" at the Grand Opera House last night captivated the capacity house which saw it and sent the audience away with the desire to see it again. From start to finish there was mystery and not alone one, but a string of them running all through the presentation keeping the audience on the tiptoe of excitement and each new development only intensified the situation. Rex certainly "called it right" when he said the presentation would be a mystifying and at the same time a pleasing one, once again the company made good his promise.

When one has seen the presentation one can easily see why Rex found it necessary to have a staff of firemen on duty at the exits, and a fire reel at the entrance, as well as to have the doors locked throughout the performance.

Not for one minute is it intended to divulge the secret of the mystery, or rather mysteries, which run through the show, nor the denouement—to do so would be to spoil the pleasure for the packed houses which will see the performance to-night, to-morrow afternoon and evening, but to those who enjoy real mystery, well staged and carried out without a hitch this play is strongly recommended. More cannot be said than to "see it for yourself," and those who do will agree with the opinion voiced by every one who saw the premiere last night that it is easily the best vehicle Rex has yet chosen to bring out the merits of his company.

NOTED ACTOR RETURNING.

Bransby Williams, the distinguished English character actor, who appeared at the Grand Opera House recently in "David Copperfield," is returning next Friday for two days, when he will present the romantic French drama, "Vidocq." This play is a drama full of interest, thrills and excitement. It is founded on the life of Young Vidocq, who afterwards became the famous detective and begins with a simple love story of Vidocq's infatuation for the daughter of the Vicomte de Bornai. Arrested on a murder charge, Vidocq is sent to the galleys—a punishment common in the early part of the 19th century. The Paris police suspect him to be a member of a notorious criminal society, the "Screech Owl." He escapes from the galleys, and in the disguise of a rag-picker is re-arrested. He is allowed two weeks to find the "Screech Owls." Adopting one disguise after another he finally gets into the gang and obtains a confession from the real murderer. The situations are intense and full of dramatic incidents and surprises. The audience is carried away with interest and just at the most exciting moment are staggered to find Vidocq is the hero of the situation.

Playgoers who were interested in Bransby Williams' portrayals of Peggotty and Micawber in "David Copperfield," will, in "Vidocq" witness a greater test of his versatility as a character actor.

"Vidocq" will be repeated at the Saturday matinee and an entirely different play entitled "Tatterley" presented on Saturday night. This has a delightful love story running through it with a strong appeal to the feminine sex.

The seat sale for this attraction will open Wednesday. Mail orders now.

"THE ORIGINALS."

The Originals of the old Dumbells, headed by Red Newman, Jock Holland, and Jimmy Goode delighted a big audience at the Grand on Saturday night in their closing performance of their second visit this season to Peterborough.

Since they were here early in September the Originals have trimmed down and speeded up their programme, and the whole production works like a well-oiled machine.

"Rapid Fire" is probably their best revue and there is not a mediocre number in the long programme.

Newman is as versatile and entertaining as ever, his chevalier imitation, his duet with Charlie McLean, "Dirty Work," and his big number, "The Stoker," being features. Jock Holland's songs, "Montie of the Mounted," "The Man Who Wrote The Sheik," "Waiting For Me," and "When Catherine Ruled," all went Pearson's wonderful soprano was utilised to great advantage in "Carmena," "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," and "The Last Rose of Summer." Tom Young, Jimmy Goode, Ted Charter, Bob Anderson, the quartette, and all the rest of the crew shone in their numbers, and the performance went with a swing throughout that is characteristic of these soldier entertainers.

Peterborough playgoers will look forward to seeing the Originals in a new revue next season.

AT THE ROYAL.

VAUDEVILLE TO-DAY AT ROYAL—THREE ACTS

In addition to what promises to be a bang up picture program the Royal is also presenting Three Vaudeville acts that come highly recommended Myers and Nolan "A little of this and a little of that" have a singing, dancing piano act with clever chatter thrown in for good measure. Will Kramer 'the phonograph boy' impersonates Al Johnson etc. Steel and Diel have a novelty musical offering.

The picture program includes 'Wild Bill Hickok and Baby Peggy in "Little Miss Hollywood." A seven people miniature musical comedy is being advertised for Thursday, Cal. Dean and his Senority girls.

WM. S. HART AT ROYAL

Famous Frontier Character Hero of William S Hart's "Wild Bill Hickok"

Probably few men have been more misunderstood than some of the famous gunmen who flourished in the palmy and romantic days of the old west. It is often assumed that these men killed through sheer blood lust but nothing could be farther from the truth.

There were desperadoes it is true, who slew for the just of killing. But these men were not the true gunmen they were outlaws and renegades. It was a brave and fearless crew, who daily risked their lives in the pursuit of duty as peace officers. They were Bat Masterson, who died in New York recently, Wyatt, Earp, who still lives, Charlie Bassett Bill Tighlman, Luke Short, Doc Holiday, Chalk Beeson and that most famous of all old time gunmen Wild Hickok in which role William S. Hart makes his return to the screen, and which Parmount picture will be shown at the Royal Theatres to-day.

Wild Bill first won fame as a scout. He drifted farther west in the vanguard of civilization and one day engaged in a desperate fight with a notorious gang of stage robbers, the McCord outlaws. It was one man against nine. Hickok, despite terribles wounds, killed eight of the gang and then fought a duel to the death with McCord the leader with bowie knives. McCord died and Hickok went to a hospital for a year.

Hickok's fame was now great. He became marshal of Hays, Abilene and Ellsworth, Wild Bill never killed a man until forced to. To uphold the law he had to kill forty-six men. For a time Wild Bill worked as a fara dealer in Dodge City. But Masterson was sheriff of Dodge City and he decided the place needed cleaning up. He appealed to Wild Bill to buckle on his six-guns and help. One day the storm broke and the most furious gun battle in western history swept Dodge City. The peace officers, headed by Bat Masterson, and the outlaws headed by the notorious Jack McQueen, fought for supremacy and the peace officers won.

It is in his true light that Wild Bill's picturesque career is told in the thrilling and faithful characterization by William S. Hart, who has come from retirement to produce "Wild Bill Hickok," for Paramount release. 'Wild Bill Hickok" is the first of nine special Paramount productions which Mr. Hart will make under the direction of Clifford Smith In this picture the star is supported by such prominent players as Ethel Grey Terry, Kathleen O'Connor, Carl Gerard, Jack Gardner, James Farley and others.

AT THE REGENT.

UNDERGRADUATES IN ALL THEIR GLORY IN "FIGHTING BLOOD" SERIES.

The college boys and girls of America, with their amusing pranks, their secret fraternities, their wholesome, jolly good times; the romances of the worldly youth of twenty and the utterly alluring flapper of seventeen; the joys and sorrows of first love, the hopes and disappointments and ambitions of youth, will be seen in all their co-ed glory in a picturization of H. C. Witwer's story of eager, pulsating young America, "Fighting Blood," one "round" of which will be shown at the Regent Theatre to-day.

You have heard or read of the startling denunciations aimed at the average college boy and girl. "Fighting Blood" will be able to convince you that the youth of America, the splendid, pulsating backbone of our glorious land are not the lounge-lizards and the whisky sodden flirtatious boys and girls so often portrayed on the screen and on the stage.

Young America is vividly portrayed in scenes of clean, wholesome, thrilling and charming drama in "Fighting Blood." Here are young boys and girls who might have stepped off the campus of your own college in your very own town! Here is Gale Galen who becomes a prize-fighter, not because he likes it, but because he is determined by any means in his power to secure the education for which his whole being craves, and win the beautiful girl of his heart!

George O'Hara, who looks like John Barrymore and fights like Jack Dempsey, plays the featured role in the "Fighting Blood" series with Clara Horton as the charming, coy little girl of his heart whose confidence in him raises him to heights of sublime achievement! The supporting cast includes such well-known players as William Courtright, Arthur Rankin, M. C. Ryan, Kit Guard, Albert Cooke and Mabel Van Buren.

PARIS SURRENDER TO SHORT SKIRTS

Whiteness and Simplicity With Slight Touches of Embroidery Trimming Will Predominate.

(By MARIAN HALE)

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—One just gets over the excitement of buying Christmas gifts and recovering from the bills when clothes for southern climes claim our attention, whether the climes do or not, and we pause to consider the advisability of doing our summer shopping early.

Experience has taught us that Palm Beach styles always seem more attractive and smart than those we are able to purchase a few months later, when the birds have come back home and there is some logical excuse for getting excited about gingham and garden frocks.

But whether we buy or whether we look, it is nice to take a peek ahead and see what is before us, and to cogitate during the long winter evenings on how much of last year's wardrobe may be salvaged for this.

For one thing, everything will need to be shortened, probably, for it seems Paris has given up trying to do anything about the long skirt, except for evening. Having learned her lesson, she is willing to let us have them as short as we like, and is raising the hemline rapidly.

White Triumphant

White is more of a rage than ever before—white, unrelieved by any color. Crepe de chine, satin-backed crepe and embossed materials are made into costumes of such simplicity and charm that you think they just can't be very expensive—until you actually get the figures.

Second in favor to white are the lovely pastel shades of blue, rose, yellow, tan and the softest, coolest green imaginable. Also, figured materials that are blurred and blended just enough so that last season's more blatant patterns seem out of key.

For trimming there is a most ingenious use of braid, buttons, bits of contrasting material, embroidery, lingerie collars and cuffs and vestees that alone cost as much as a frock, so exquisite is the workmanship.

Embroidery Stays

Embroidery and braiding are both more popular for spring trimmings than they have been for winter. Frequently, the short coat is covered with very fine embroidery or small designs in soutache braid.

One welcome hangover from last season is the embroidered monogram, which is seen on the very smartest frocks just as though it were something entirely new.

Footwear is more conservative than it has been, there are fewer intricate strappings and exaggerated buckles, but the effect is that of much greater elegance. Lasts are medium, neither exaggeratedly short or long, and heels are not so high as usual.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

LEAP YEAR.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Ancient customs which have come down to us, as shown by the desecration of King Tut's tomb, are numerous. The engagement ring is literally the sign that a man has an option on the girl wearing it. Then when he gets ready he closes the option and fastens a heavy ring on the girl. The idea of the ring is a link of a chain. So that the wedding ring is a link of a chain which binds the girl for life. But there was always a rule growing out of the kindness of human nature that the husband could divorce his wife, and now a woman can divorce her husband. When custom got to that pitch that a woman could divorce her husband and could even propose to him, that is make her wishes known regarding him, woman had come far on the road to equality. She wants equality of rights, but not of responsibilities. She still proposes that the man should keep her and defend her with his life. In fact he has all the dirty work to do while she does the grand and the voting. That is her idea now. Leap Year, now coming once in four, will soon be every year, and instead of the old ring and chain we will have a revenue stamp.

NEW METHOD TO RE-MAKE COLA

MOSCOW, Jan. 4 (By mail to United Press).—Russia has dis-covered a method by which it is claimed that coal of low quality can be changed into high grade fuel.

Heretofore the coal of Northern European Russia, Siberia, Turkestan and Transcaucasia was almost useless because it gave 38 per cent. ashes.

Professor L. N. Kuzentzoff has invented the following method: The coal is being washed on moving plat-

NEW GRADE WARNING ADOPTED IN SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 7.—Swedish railroads have tested recently, and found successful, a device to warn automobilists, as they approach grade crossings, of the coming of a train.

When a train is 1,000 feet from a crossing electricity is called into play to drop a bar over the vehicle road. The bar is 80 feet from the crossing, and takes a position seven feet above the road. From it hang light chains which, striking against the car, give warning of the oncoming train. After the train has passed the bar automatically is raised. Red and white lights help to emphasize the warning.

TO-DAY CELEBRATED AS CHRISTMAS IN RUSSIA

(By John Graundenz, United Press Staff Correspondent).

MOSCOW, Jan. 7.—Many of the older Bourgoisie and a majority of Russia's millions of villagers celebrated Christmas to-day.

What with Christmas trees, presents, the tolling of bells and the closing of shops, the scene was much more like the conventional celebration of Christ's birthday than was that a fortnight ago. On that occasion the new calander put into effect by the Soviet Government called for a Christmas on December 25 in other countries.

Many employees of Moscow firms took advantage of the opportunity to celebrate to-day.

SERVITUDE WOMEN IN UNITED CHURCH

Authorities Questioned by Mr. J. H. Burnham

Will the servitude of women in the Protestant church be continued in "our next," the new United Church of Canada? On behalf of a number of women, Mr. J. H. Burnham has asked the provisional authorities of the Church Union project at Toronto if women are to be admitted on equal terms with men to the ministry, and to all other offices of the new Church.

The answer may produce far-reaching results.

A HEAVY STORM SWEPT PROVINCE

Higher Temperature Today Reported in All Parts of Ontxrio.

TORONTO, Jan. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Central and Western Ontario to-day enjoys mild calm weathe following the blizzard last night, which interfered seriously with highway traffic and caused considerable delay to trains in some districts. The storm was accompanied by low temperatures in the southern counties of the Province, spent itself during the night, leaving highways impassable in many places, and dotted here and there with motor cars and other vehicles abandoned by their owners when they found it impossible to proceed in face of the blinding snowstorm.

This morning the temperature was reported to be rising rapidly all over the affected area, and at eight o'clock temperatures ranging between 20 and 25 degrees above zero were general. Moderate westerly and north-westerly winds are forecasted for to-day and Tuesday, and the weather is expected to be fair and moderately cold.

Kitchener was without street car service this morning on account of heavy drifts making the roads impassable in many places, but no other places reported such serious interference with public services. From most points come reports that radial services were operated throughout the storm, but schedules were badly affected..

LIGHT WEEK AT THE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

The news from the Employment Bureau for the past week shows that there is still a slackness in employment in the city, and the surrounding district.

During the past week there were 41 new applicants and 27 placements. Several men went to farms and a bush to the bush. There are bushmen still wanted, but these are experienced men, and the newcomers, as well as the local laborers who are not experienced in this line are out of luck. Things are pretty dull in the city and very few factories are taking on men.

Society

Miss Keith, sister of Rev .Henry J. Keith, a former pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, is the guest of Mrs. McPherson, Stewart Street.

Mr. Percy Patterson is recovering from his recent operation.

Mrs. L. W. Scott, Park street, is visiting her parents in Montreal, and will be absent until the end of the month.

Miss Edna Harris, who has been spending her Christmas holidas at her home in Barrie, spent the week end at the home of Mrs. Maud Nicholls, 238 Simcoe street, before resuming her duties as teacher at Curve Lake.

Mr. Fred. S. Matschke, of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Company, Cleveland, is in the city, visiting his mother, Mrs. Bernard Matschke.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Terrace, Auburn street, on Saturday, the guests numbering twenty-five. A sumptuous repast was served during the evening, Mrs. F. Munden cutting the ices and Mrs. C. Munden, the cake, while Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. T. Munden presided at the tea urns. The guests or honor were Mr. and Mrs. J. Montgomery and Miss Lily Hamilton. The evening was devoted to games and dancing. A pretty vocal solo was rendered by Miss Jessie Patterson and Messrs. Barnes, Wylie and Terrace also delighted the guests with comic selections. Mr. C. Munden gave several clever exhibitions of his skill as a ventriloquist.

Mrs. Kenneth J. McKenzie, who has been spending some time in the city at the home of her mother, the late Mrs. Adam Dawson, returned to her home in Chicago yesterday, accompanied by her sister, Miss Phyllis Dawson, who will remain in Chicago for the next two months.

Cadet T. W. Darcy, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Darcy, has returned to the Royal Military College, Kingston.

Mrs. Herbert C. Barber, of Toronto, is the guest of Miss Florence Cameron, Aylmer Street.

A kitchen shower in honor of Mrs. Harold Dunford (nee Miss M. A. Nelson) was given on Friday evening at her home, 346 Smith street when thirty-four of her friends gathered for a jolly evening during which a number of useful gifts were presented to Mrs. Dunford. Miss D. Ferguson and Mr. Robert Hendry entertained the guests .

Miss Elda MacNab, who has been spending the holidays at home, left this morning for Toronto.

Miss Florence Boa and Miss Archibald who have been holidaying at the home of Mrs. R. MacNab, left this morning for Montreal.

Miss Irene Manley has returned home, to Villier, after spending the week end with Peterboro friends.

Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7. — (United Press).—Private admissions of the defeat made by some of the staunchest adherents that the bonus measure has in Congress were the most significant developments over the week-end from a stock market standpoint.

In addition, the general list had the stimulus of indications that the usual first of the year wait for trade prospects would not have to be gone through this year. For in various lines, Iron and Steel, the Motors, Tires, Leathers and Petroleum Products, the signs are multiplying that the satisfactory activity maintained in December is proceeding without the usual period of hesitation at the turn of the year.

This situation created a brisk demand for stocks in the early dealings, the leading industrials displaying buoyancy at the highest levels of the forward movement which started at the end of October.

Steel again sold at par and new highs on the current upswing were reached by numerous speculative favorites.

Spirited bidding continued for the industrial leaders through the first hour. Steel Common reached its best figure on the current advance when it touched 100½, and new highs on the movement were attained by U.S.—Cast Iron Pipe, Continental Can., Congoleum and other specialties. Activity at rising prices spread into the rail list under the influence of pronounced strength in Southern Railway, which maintained the highest levels seen since 1906. One reason for the better market for the rail stocks is the growing conviction that there will be no adverse legislation.

According to the Railway Age, the railroads of the United States have under consideration plans for an expenditure of more than one billion dollars in 1924 compared with one billion seventy-five million in 1923. Many roads are delaying the placing of orders until they receive positive assurance that destructive legislation will not be enacted at this session of Congress.

SEDUCTION CHARGE AGAINST RUSSELL

Offence Took Place in November—Two Drunks Received Minimun Fine

George J. Russell, alias C. Wilson, was charged in the police court this morning before Magistrate O. A. Langley, with seduction, and remanded until Tuesday next He elected summary trial, pleading not guilty

The offense is alleged to have taken place in November, and the information recites that the prisoner then over the age of 18, did unlawfully seduce a girl over the age of 16, and under 18.

Russell was also held on a vagrancy charge, but this will be dropped if the more serious charge is upheld.

Thomas Cleary was charged with being drunk on Sunday, and pleaded guilty.

"What have you to say this time?" the magistrate asked. "$100?"

"That's up to you," nonchantly answered the prisoner.

"Was it Florida water this time?"

"Yes."

Magistrate Langley, to the Chief—"I think a man who drinks that ought to be let off. $10 and costs."

Another young man charged with being drunk in a George street cafe also pleaded guilty. This was his second offence.

His Worship remarked that to carry the Christmas or New Year season over until the seventh of January seems to be allowing too much grace, but eventually let the prisoner down with $10 and costs. This man's downfall was caused by St. Michael's wine and if he is brought before the magistrate again, it was said, he will receive a sentence that will make him hate the bubbly fluid.

MINER MADE MISTAKE THAT RESULTS IN DEATH

COBALT, Ont., Jan. 7.—His own mistake was responsible for the death of Matti Kempainnen, Finnish miner at the Menago property here, according to evidence given at the inquest before Coroner Dr. Kane on Saturday. Kempainnen rode from the foot of the shaft to the surface, a distance of a thousand feet, in the skip, and when his conveyance automatically dumped he was pinned between the skip and the shaft timbers. He died thirty hours later from peritonitis.

It was stated in evidence that Kempainnen had given the wrong signal to the hoistman and that he had admitted his error while awaiting removal to the mine's hospital. Verdict of accidental death was returned.

WEDDING BELLS

BURKE—FITZGERALD

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized at the church of the Sacred Heart on Wednesday Jan. 2 by the Rev. Father Butler when Patrick Burke was united in marriage to Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald of Toronto.

HUYCKE—AVERY.

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—The marriage was celebrated in St. John's Anglican Church on Saturday afternoon of Ottillie Wells, daughter of Mrs. F. W. Avery and the late F. W. Avery, of Ottawa, and George Meredith Huycke, of Toronto, son of His Honor Judge E. C. Huycke and Mrs. Huycke, of Peterboro. Rev. Canon J. F. Gorman officiated. The bride, who is one of the most popular of the younger set in the Capital, was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. John Basseet. The bridesmaids were Misses Ruth and Barbara Avery, sisters of the bride, and Miss Audrey Huycke, sister of the groom. Miss Betty Bassett and Miss Joyce Price of Quebec were flower girls. Mr. Wilfred Huycke, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Messrs. Ted Ketchum, Reginald Stratton and Hugh Aird of Toronto, and Mr. Edson Sherwood and Mr. Fred. Price of Quebec. The bride wore a gown of ivory brocaded meteor, draped and caught with diamente buckles. The train hung from the shoulders and was fastened with diamente buckles. Her long tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white and mauve orchids and lily of the valley. Following the ceremony, a large reception was held at the chateau Laurier, where the bride and groom received with Mrs. Avery and Judge Huycke. Mr. and Mrs. Huycke left for Lake Placid and New York for their honeymoon. Later they will reside in Toronto. Among those present from out-of-town were: Miss Rosamond Huycke, Mr. Douglas Huycke, Mr. Jack Kingsmill, Miss Esme Magann, Mrs. Plunkett Magann, Miss Lollie and Miss Helen Watson, Mrs. J. B. Watson of Toronto.

OBITUARY

MRS. ANNETTE DOVER.

Mrs. Annette Dover died Wednesday morning, January 2nd, 1924, at Boon County Hospital, Columbia, Missouri, U.S.A.

Mrs. Dover was born near Lewes, Sussex, England, in 1840, and came to this country in early life with her parents. Her father, the late Stephen Wood, lived in Otonabee, many years.

Mrs. Dover was married twice, her first husband being Colonel Crawford, of this place. He died many years ago. She is survived by her husband, Mr. Fred Dover, and two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Carruthers, of Reigate, Surrey, England, and Miss Dover, of the Department of Chemistry, University of Missouri.

Mrs. Dover had been failing in health for some time, and early in November she accompanied Miss Dover to Columbia, Missouri, in the hope that the milder climate might benefit her health.

Mrs. Dover was buried from St. John's church, on Saturday, January 5th, 1924. Interment in Little Lake cemetery.

UNITED STATES PLACES EMBARGO ON MUNITIONS TO HUERTA INSURGENTS

No Shipments of War Materials Except With Approval of the Government — Border Will Be Closed and Docks Under Surveillance.

PENALTIES HEAVY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. — The United States took further steps to aid the Obregon Government in Mexico yesterday. President Coolidge signed a proclamation which imposed an immediate embargo on any shipments of war munitions to that country except with the specific approval of the Government. A fine of $10,000, or two years imprisonment, or both may be imposed upon convicted violators of the embargo.

Action was taken by the President on recommendation of Secretary Hughes. No formal statement accompanied the proclamation when it was made public at the State Department. So far as known however, the Washington Government has no definite information as to intended sale of arms in the United States to the Mexican rebels, beyond the inquiry through the Department of Justice received from the De La Huerta agent in New Orleans concerning purchase and assembly in New Orleans for shipment to the rebel forces of arms and ammunition.

Border is Closed

Under the proclamation the United States Treasury Department would be required immediately to deny clearance at any port or along the border, to arms shipments of any character for Mexico except where the specific approval of Secretary of State Hughes for the shipment had been obtained. The Department of Justice presumably will instruct its agents to cause the arrest of any persons conspiring to violate the law. Unless arms smuggling in defiance of the embargo should reach proportions beyond the control of the civil officers of the Government orders for army and navy co-operation are not expected to be sent.

Will Watch Ships

President Coolidge's action in signing the proclamation foreshadows orders by the Treasury Department to the Customs and Revenue Cutter Service to prevent the clearing of any ships carrying cargoes of arms from the United States for the Mexican rebels. Orders probably will include directions to the revenue cutters to intercept United States ships at seas in the event of their surreptitious departure with arms cargoes from American waters. The Navy would be used for this purpose also, if needed.

Border patrols against liquor, drugs, aliens and other forms of smuggling probably will be instructed to watch for arms smuggling expeditions.

Bok Peace Award Pleases Geneva

GENEVA, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).— The proposals contained in the Bok Peace Award created immense satisfaction in League of Nations circles here last night. Basing their views upon a somewhat meagre summary of the project telephoned from Paris, League officials said the plan as outlined constituted an immense contribution to world peace and co-operation.

In the absence of the full text of the plan officials were wary in committing the League in any way; but they seemed to have received the impression that adoption of the American plan would be tantamount to the United States becoming an associate member of the League of Nations.

PLUCK FOREIGNER RIGHT IN BERLIN

Artistic Methods Used By Hotelmen — $10 a Day For Cheapest Room.

(By CARL D. GROAT)

BERLIN, Jan. 8 (United Press). —German hotels still regard foreigners as legitimate prey, even though nowadays they scarcely have any outside visitors to pluck.

Now, however, they do the plucking more artistically than they used to. Last summer and the summer before, the hotels and many stores made no secret of the fact that they were asking extra prices for foreigners.

Now, everybody is charged the same—theoretically.

Walk into a hotel and the clerk says the price is so and so much, generally in the first-class house from $10 to $200 a day per room. You protest it is a bit too much, especially when one thinks of New York, Paris and London rates.

"Ah, but this is the regular price," says the smooth clerk, producing documentary evidence thereof.

But he fails to let you in on the rest of the secret, namely, that the flat rate is a flat rate, but it is shaved and shaded for the German guest.

Berlin hoteliers are a charitable lot. Recently a charity ball was given in one of the larger houses. The hotel agreed to give 10 per cent of its liquor takings for charity—and promptly added 10 per cent to the usual rates.

Berlin restaurant prices would now make a New York establishment green with envy. Wines that the hotels bought for cents now command ten, fifteen and twenty dollars a bottle. Foods run double to treble the general New York average.

UNPRODUCTIVE HUSBANDS HALED TO DIVORCE COURT

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—(Associated Press)—A rush to the divorce courts has been produced by the regulation that women teachers, married to men who hold government positions, are to be dismissed to make way for women who have no husband to support them.

Feminists are up in arms, but the unemployment situation is so serious that radical measures apparently have public support, and divorce seems to be the only means by which married women teachers can be assured of continuation in service. Private schools also are following the policy of dismissing married women whose husbands earn salaries.

ARGENTINE GOING INTO THE COTTON BUSINESS

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 8.—(United Press).—The Ministry of Agriculture in its effort to further the production of cotton in the northern provinces of the Argentine, which due to their soil and climate, are the most adequate for this cultivation, has appointed a delegate who will tour the new provinces giving a series of conferences aided by cinematograph films.

He will distribute, free of cost, seed to all agriculturists. A draft of a bill will be brought up before congress which authorizes the establishment of experimental cotton stations which will enable the study of the different grades of cotton most adequate for the soil and climate of the northern provinces, as also the most appropriate methods for their cultivation.

JURY SYSTEM INADEQUATE, ARE CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS.

PRAGUE, Jan. 8.—(Associated Press)—Certain juries in Czechoslovakia recently have handed down decisions which are regarded with general dissatisfaction; they have been either unusually severe or unreasonablmild. Thus has the entire system of trial by jury come in for criticism, with a demand for reform.

It is set forth in partial explanation that the war and the subsequent revolution have brought about a noticeable uncertainty in the general popular conceptions of right and wrong.

THE WEATHER.

In marked contrast to the conditions prevailing here, with almost two feet of snow on the level, and huge drifts in some places, I was shown this morning a number of photographs taken of the "rose tournament," a floral parade, held in Los Angeles, Calif., a few days ago., in fact on New Year's day. The various floats, profusely covered with flowers, the upraised parasols, and light costumes of the ladies, and palm beach suits of the sterner sex, show that California deserves its reputation for having an ideal climate.—W.P.

NOT CONFIRMED.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 7.—The Winnipeg Tribune publishes the following to-day in its news columns:

"Premier King is prepared to take Hon. T. A. Crerar into his cabinet This important political development already forecast in Ottawa despatches was confirmed to-day when directors of the United Grain Growers met to consider the advisability of releasing Mr. Crerar for political duty.

"While it was declared to be an ordinary meeting called for routine business it is known that the big item on the program was discussion of the situation arising from the retiring of Sir Lomer Gouin and Mr. King's desire to take Mr. Crerar into the Cabinet.

"It is pointed out that if the present situation had existed at Ottawa when the Liberal Cabinet was first formed, Mr. Crerar would have been included in the slats. Only the presence and influence of Sir Lomer Gouin and Hon. W. S. Fielding prevented the entry of Mr. Crerar and A. B. Hudson at that time."

Several directors of the United Grain Growers, Limited, seen at the concluding of this mornings session denied that the matter of Mr. Crerar's entering the King Cabinet was discussed or that he had sought "leave of absence" from the company. Hon. T. A. Crerar had nothing to say regarding the Tribune report.

OSHAWA ELECTIONS HOTTEST IN YEARS

OSHAWA, Ont., January 8 (Canadian Press). — After one of the warmest three-cornered municipal election contests ever waged in Oshawa, W. J. Trick was elected as Mayor of Oshawa for the year 1924, having a majority over his nearest opponent of 205, the total vote for each candidate being W. J. Trick 1,630, John Stacey 1,425, Roland M. Moffatt 1,122.

The Council for 1924, as elected, will consist of Mayor W. J. Trick, Reeve George T. Morris, First Deputy-Reeve E. L. Vickery, Second Deputy-Reeve H. P. Schell, Third Deputy-Reeve J. L. Whattam.

Councillors — R. D. Preston, Geo. Hart, O. R. Burns, A. J. Graves, D. F. Johnston, Ed. Bradley, T. J. Sheridan, O. M. Alger, R. C. Henry, and Ed. Jackson.

The members of the Board of Education returned by acclamation were:

W. B. Nott, Stewart Storie, C. N. Henry, C. M. Mundy, and C. Liddle.

Water Commissioners also returned by acclamation were:

J. C. Fowlds and G. Conant.

THOMPSON DECLINES TO MAKE STATEMENT

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. Joseph E. Thompson, Speaker-designate of the Ontario Legislature, declines to take any part in the controversy as to the rights of the U. F. O. to the recognition as the official Opposition of the Legislature.

"I'm not Speaker yet," said Mr. Thompson yesterday, "and have nothing whatever to say in the matter. And I am not crossing any bridges until I come to them. If the matter ever comes to me for a decision, I will give it my best consideration."

POWERFUL RAY TUBE INVENTED.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(Associated Press)—Dr. Holst and Dr. Bouwers of Amsterdam, have invented a new tube which generate a powerful beam of X-rays practically like a searchlight, and which is said to eliminate any danger to the operator handling it. The rays can be directed on any local spot of the flesh for treatment with the greatest ease, as, in spite o the high tension of the electric current, the tube can be held quite safely in the hand.

When Nearly 40 Were Killed

Here is a cross-section of the starch plant of the Corn Products Refining Company, at Pekin, Ill., following the explosion in which between 35 and 40 persons were killed and 100 injured. Even the brick walls were crumpled by the dry dust blast. Ice from the water poured on the flames has greatly impeded search for bodies.

PRISON GUARD FOUND GUILTY

Arthur Twigg Fined $100 and Costs On One Count of Trafficking at Kingston.

KINGSTON, January 8 (Canadian Press). — Arthur Twigg, ex-guard of the Portsmouth Penitentiary, who a few weeks ago was found not guilty of trafficking with convicts, was yesterday afternoon found guilty of trafficking on 20th December, 1922, and was fined $100, and costs, by Magistrate Farrell, with the option of one month in jail.

On the second charge, that of trafficking on 20th June, 1923, Twigg later pleaded guilty and was remanded until called on.

In handing out sentence, Magistrate Farrell stated that he was convinced, on the evidence, that the accused was guilty. There had been the admission of the receipt of the letter from the Windsor lawyer, containing a cheque, and it was not the natural action of an ordinary person to send the cheque to the person who, he stated, was trying to "frame" him.

Twigg denied that he had trafficked with Convict Watson of the Penitentiary, and stated that a letter from W. Whiteside, a Windsor lawyer, containing a cheque for $25.00, came to his house and he mailed it to Warden Ponsford.

Twigg stated that he had never trafficked, but knew that the Warden and Deputy Warden were "after him" for months. He also stated that Detective Robinson, before arresting him last month, stated that if he, Twigg, would "equeal" on the other guards, he would get his back pay, and would be reinstated.

JULINE KILEN IS NOW BEING SOUGHT AFTER

(By Ray Marsh, United Press Staff Correspondent).

PEKING, Jan. 8.—Major John Magruder and Captain Woodrow Woodbridge proceeded to-day to the Honan Province to seek the whereabouts of Juline Kilen, woman captive of Chinese bandits, who has completely disappeared.

When last seen, Mrs. Kilen was mounted on a white horse, towering high above the squat figures of the bandits, who swarmed about her on foot as they led her steed away over the hills. The woman was captured when bandits raided a mission and shot several foreigners, imprisoning others.

Nothing further had been heard from the besieged city of Batang, near the Tibet frontier, where foreigners, including ten Americans, are reported to be surrounded by bandits. News travels slowly from the Sze Chuan Province, where communications are carried by junk down the river.

VESSEL SEIZED OUTSIDE LIMIT

Canadian Schooner Alleged to Be Engaged in the Liquor Traffic Reported Taken at Galveston.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—British Government officials were much interested yesterday in despatches from Galveston, Texas, reporting the seizure outside the three-mile limit of the Canadian schooner Muriel E. Winters alleged rum-runner. They will take no action in the matter, however, until they receive a full report from the British Embassy in Washington.

The continued activity of rum-runners under the British flag and their confiscation outside United States territorial waters by the United States form a source of irritation to the Foreign Office, and officials express the hope that no incident will arise to endanger the pending treaty extending the three-mile limit to cover such cases.

The British authorities thoroughly discountenance illicit liquor traffic under the Union Jack, but at the same time say they are placed in an awkward position by the United States revenue officers seizing British vessels whose captains insist upon the protection of the British vessels whose captains insist upon the protection of the British Government while operating on the high seas outside the existing international territorial water limitations.

MINISTERS MEET THIS AFTERNOON

Will Fill the Vacancy in Quebec and Discuss Other Matters.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press)....Cabinet will meet this afternoon to appoint a Lieutenant-Governor for Quebec Province, and to consider, among other things, the involved situation consequent upon the resignation of Sir Lomer Gouin and the illness of Finance Minister Fielding. In connection with the former the name of Hon. Narcess Perodeau is now most frequently heard and it seems likely that he will be appointed. It can be stated positively that Hon. H. H. Beland who has been mentioned as a possiiblity for the Lieutenant Governorship will not go to Quebec and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the House of Commons, has announced that he is not an aspirant for the office. From a political point of view the situation with the Government becomes increasingly interesting. The impression is growing that Hon. Ernest Lapointe Minister of Marine and Acting Minister of Justice since the resignation of Sir Lomer Gouin, will relinquish the former office and assume the latter.

SENATE REPORT CHARGES FRAUD IN VETS' BUREAU

Findings of Committee That Investigated U. S. War Hospital Contracts' Scandal Filed at Washington.

PARTIES NAMED.

WASHINGTON, January 8 (Canadian Press). — Fraud and corruption existed in the Veterans' Bureau under the directorship of Charles R. Forbes, John F. O'Ryan, of New York, general counsel for the Senate Veterans' Committees, asserts in a report filed with the committee.

Moreover, O'Ryan charges that Forbes himself was "a leading actor in an established conspiracy to defraud the Government," on hospital contracts, and he names as other parties to the alleged conspiracy, C. B. Hurley, president of the Hurley-Mason Company of Tacoma, Washington; J. W. Thompson, a St. Louis contractor, the late James W. Black, of Chicago; and Elias H. Mortimer, of Philadelphia, the chief witness in the committee's public hearings.

Ewing Laporte, of Pittsburgh, Pa., an assistant secretary of the Treasury in the Wilson administration, and E. L. Morse, prominent in Missouri Republican politics, are assailed in connection with the purchase of Morse's homestead at Excelsior Springs, Mo., for a hospital at $90,000.

O'Ryan charges that "this project was forced upon the public health service by the joint action" of Laporte and Morse.

SCIENTIFIC JASONS TO SEEK PIRATE TREASURE AMONG PACIFIC ISLES

British Party of Savants Have Planned Expedition of Research In Comparatively Unknown Corners of Southern Seas.

TEN MONTHS' TRIP.

LONDON, January 8 (Canadian Press). — Scientific investigations will be combined with the more romantic object of treasure hunting when 60 British scientists set off for the South PaPcific in the 1,000 ton yacht St. George, the latter part of this month.

Supported by the British Scientific Expeditionary Research Association, the party, which numbers some of the best known biologists, geologists, ornithologists, and entomologists of Great Britain, will cruise for ten months among the little known islands in the Pacific for scientific research.

Incidentally the party will have a fling at the outset at the treasure tradition says the pirate Morgan buried on the Cocos Island, off the Central American coast, a century ago, several vain searches for which have been made by various expeditions previously.

The members of the expedition are said to have received new information concerning the alleged location of the treasure, the value of which is placed by some accounts as high as $40,000,000.

The St. George will call on the way from England at Madeira and Trinidad, and proceed thence through the Panama Canal to Cocos Island.

Afterward the yacht will proceed on to the South Pacific, and carry out the scientific investigations as planned.

The trip will cover about 25,000 miles.

Heavy Purchases of C. P. R. Equipment

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Equipment purchased at a cost of more than $12,000,000 was added to the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. during 1923. The equipment covered a wide range from locomotives to gasoline cars. Chief items of the new equipment included 36 locomotives; 15 steel baggage and express cars; 12 mail and express cars; 15 first class coaches; 6 cafe parlor cars and 6 buffet parlor cars.

For the freight service there were added 1,000 box cars; 250 freight refrigerators; each of 75 tons capacity; and 50 oil tanks each capable of carrying ten thousand gallons. Further there were purchased an additional 300 automobile cars and 14 steel snow plows.

AID PROVINCES GUARD FORESTS

Federal Assistance Will Be Recommended If It Is Desired, Says Hon. Mr. Stewart.

OTTAWA, January 8 (Canadian Press). — Addressing the Provincial delegates to a forestry conservation conference which opened here yesterday, the Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, said that he was prepared to recommend Federal assistance for the Provinces in their efforts to reduce forest fire ravages, if such a step was considered necessary by the Provincial authorities.

"Conservation," said the Minister at the beginning of his address, "explains the objective of this conference. It is not the intention of the Federal authorities to interfere in any way with the rights and privileges of the Provinces."

Mr. Stewart suggested that there was plenty of opportunity for co-operation between the Provincial and Federal Departments, and explained that this was what the Government had in mind.

Referring to the Dominion Government's attitude toward assistance for the Provinces in forest fire prevention work, the Minister said:

"So far as my Department is concerned, I am prepared to recommend that a reasonable amount of assistance might be given to the Provinces if that should be necessary. If unnecessary or not advisable, then no harm has been done."

Excitement of Chase Causes Hunter's Death.

REGINA Jan. 7.— Excitement of the chase in which he was employing wolf hounds to hunt jack rabbits caused the death of Robert Crook, Humboldt farmer, on Saturday. Investigation showed that death was caused by acute dilation of the heart.

CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE

Chambers of Commerce once were only business men's clubs. Then they became commercial organizations designed to promote industrial development—more business—a bigger city. Now they are civic-commercial organizations working not only to make a city bigger, but also to make it better.

The idea is that things which promote the general welfare—better living conditions, betters parks and playgrounds, better schools, better social conditions—also are strong factors in the industrial and commercial progress which a city can make.

Hence you will find your Chamber of Commerce energetically at work on these civic activities. The public demands that the Chamber of Commerce be in a position to foster or support important civic activities.

The Chamber of Commerce is no longer a club; it is no longer strictly a business organization. It is a civic-commercial organization.

CARS DERAILED NEAR HASTINGS

HASTINGS, January 8. — The spreading of a rail about a mile east of here yesterday afternoon ditched seven box cars and an Imperial oil car. A temporary track was laid around the tangle of cars for the late evening traffic.

RED RYAN GETS LIFE SENTENCE

A Few Extra Lashes Thrown in For Good Measure--Back to the Pen.

TORONTO, Jan. 8. — Imprisonment for life, with thirty lashes, to be given at the rate of ten a month for three months, was the sentence imposed by County Judge Emerson Coatsworth this morning upon Norman ("Red") Ryan, bank bandit and desperado, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery with violence of a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia last September. Ryan will be removed to Portsmouth Penitentiary immediately.

Ryan's trial before County Judge Coatsworth followed a conversation with his brother, Frank, on the platform at the Union Station earlier in the mornig when the notorious bank robber was awaiting removal to Portsmouth Penitentiary to await trial at the Assizes on a charge of robbery with violence, to which he pleaded not guilty before the Police Magistrates yesterday.

The conversation between the brothers was brief but very earnest, and although only an occasional word could be overheard, it was plain that Frank was urging the other in a very emphatic fashion to change his plans and return for a speedy trial. It is understood that Frank Ryan feared certain interests are anxious to publish a book on the life and exploits of the bandit, and he feared that in order to get material the trial might be prolonged into a tedious legal battle.

Eventually "Red" Ryan changed his mind, and just as the train on which he was to have been removed to the Penitentiary steamed out of the station, he was hurried back to the City Hall. It is declared that the fear of a heavier sentence if his case went to a higher court and also the lash, impelled Ryan to change his mind and seek a speedy finish to his trial.

Ryan to-day disclosed how he managed to secret upon his person a steel saw which he handed to Major Hedley Basher, Governor of the Toronto Jail, yesterday. The day previous the bandit had been stripped in the presence of jail officials and given a new outfit of clothing. In addition, he was placed in a separate cell, where he could hold no communication with other prisoners.

In an interview with a reporter, Ryan declares that at the time of the search on Sunday morning he had the file, on each end of which was a small piece of sticking gum, in his coat pocket. When stripped he declared he dropped it to the floor and stepped on it with is bare foot, the saw adhering to it. He claims that with the officials gathered around him the opportunity to drop the saw unseen presented itself. Almost immediately he was able to pull on the pair of new sox given to him, thus concealing the saw from view.

Health and good looks

—the reward of internal cleanliness

HEALTH and good looks go hand in hand. If you do not keep clean internally, your looks and health are undermined together. A clogged intestine breeds poisons that reach every part of the body. These poisons ruin the complexion and undermine health. Constipation brings on such ailments as headaches, bilious attacks, and insomnia—each of which sapsyour health and vitality. Soon much more serious conditions follow.

Good Looks Throughout Life If You Keep Clean Internally

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation.

Physicians Favor Lubrication

The lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is not a laxative and cannot gripe. Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

Cleanliness Demands More Than Bathing

Don't give disease a start. Adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. Nujol is not a medicine. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

MANY MEXICAN REBELS ARE DESERTING RANKS

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—Tuxpam, an oil port in the State of Vera Cruz, was evacuated Monday by rebel troops of Adolfo De La Huerta, according to Government advices. Federal troops are advancing to occupy the city. There was no conflict.

Government reports said many rebels deserted so that the number remaining was insufficient to hold Tuxpam. Many rebel desertions in the State of Morelos also are reported.

HAVELOCK MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES' MEETING

Both Successful and Unsuccessful Candidates Heard From Platform—How the Vote Stood.

HAVELOCK, Jan. 8. — Reeve—Curtis 222, Sanderson 126, Joyce 12. Councillors—Campney 306, Spencer 281, Ketchen 227, Ritchie 199, Scott 187, Mathison 171, Johnston 139, Green 69.

Elected—Reeve, Curtis; Councillors, Campney, Spencer, Ketchen and Ritchie.

Last evening Mr. T. P. Lancaster, returning officer, acting as chairman, called a largely attended meeting, in the village hall, to order, with the above announcement.

After the chairman had expressed his pleasure at the orderly way in which the election had been carried through and extended to the lady voters his compliments for this, their first effort in municipal matters, the candidates were invited to the platform and given an opportunity to address the electors.

The newly-elected Reeve, Mr. W. F. Curtis, was first called on. He thanked the electors for the magnificent support given him through the day and expressed his disappointment that some did not exercise their franchise, but drew attention to the fact that the vote polled was large, when weather conditions were considered. He expressed satisfaction that while there were three candidates in the field for Reeve his election was secured by the small minority of 26 votes. Last year the Reeve was elected with a minority of 76 votes .He thanked the citizens for the support given his candidature and promised that he would to the best of his ability look after the administration of the affairs of the village both at home and at county council.

Richard Sanderson when called on, expressed pleasure at the good, fair fight between the candidates for Reeve, but was sorry that he could not feel the same towards some of the workers, as he knew stories had been circulated which, though untrue ,worked to his detriment and accounted for his defeat. He expressed himself as satisfied with the choice the electors had made for council and would do all he could to make 1924 a banner year for Havelock.

S. S. Joyce, then called on, returned thanks for the loyal support given him by those who wished to see him in the Reeve's chair. He was well pleased with the campaign so far as his opponents were concerned, but like Mr. Sanderson, was not pleased with reports circulated by those working against him, which were to the effect that he was small, tricky and mean, and as evidence that these qualities were not attributable to him he instanced the lucrative patronage he enjoyed from the citizens of Havelock in his business.

A Man's Duty.

Mr. R. E. Campney, the re-elected councillor, deemed it a great favor to be again on the council board for the year 1924, enjoying the good will of the citizens to such an extent as to be placed at the head of the poll. He considered it a man's duty when entering municipal life to get behind every elector's interest, even if not a supporter of his, and spoke of lending himself to any movement that tends to a higher moral tone for our village. With a few fitting remarks re the lady voters, he wished the village a most prosperous New Year.

Alfred Spencer was proud of having received so many votes that he would sit at the council board for 1924 and promised to work in the best interests of the village.

James Ketchen thanked the voters for their support and made known his desire to see that the best was done for the village for this year.

W. B. Ritchie, responding to the chairman's call, said that they must not expect much from him for he thought the Councillors should speak according to the number of votes they received and as he was the lowest Councillor elected he would have little to say. He expressed himself as very much pleased with the large vote recorded considering it a manifestation of increased interest by the ratepayers in the affairs of the municipality and thought it was up to the council for this year to maintain their high standard of interest.

James Scott, a defeated candidate was not present.

Joseph Johnston, a defeated candidate, thanked the voters on behalf of Mrs. Johnston for his defeat and informed them that Mrs. Johnston had told him to stay at home and not interfere in Municipal matters. He thought she had used good judgment in giving him this advice. However he was behind the council for the present year and hoped that matters would be carried on with an eye to economy.

Chas. Green, a defeated candidate, was not present.

School Board

The new members of the school board were elected by acclamation in the persons of D. A. Forde, Dr. A. S. Thompson and James Barlow, Trustee Benjamin Haig resigned before his term was completed and Ed. Fennell was elected by acclamationf to take his place.

Trustee D. A. Forde expressed surprise that he was called on to say anything at this meeting as he had thanked the electors on nomination night. Having been on the Board for the part two years he was becoming interested in school matters was proud of the high standard of our school and would use his best endeavours to maintain the same.

Dr. A. S. Thompson, a newly elected member to the school board returned thanks for the honor of election to a seat on this most important board and in a few well chosen remarks laid before the parents the necessity of discipline, most effective when first exercised in the home and drew attention to the advantage the pupil, brought up under these conditions, had all through school life. His motto was have your children obedient in the home and your strengthened the arm of the Board of Education, increased the efficiency of the teaching staff and get your moneys worth for the taxes required to make possible a high standard school.

James Barlow, when called, was not present.

W. A. McMaster, newly elected commissioner to the Hydro-Electric Commission thanked the electors for his election by acclamation.

The chairman at this time spoke of the almost certain likelihood that the C. P. Railway would during this year require Hydro Power for use in their shops. This would amount to, in the neighborhood of 75 horse-power and as it would be used off our peak load would in a large measur, be clear gain and would have a tendency towards reducing our rates. He also cited the possibility of reducing local expenses by other arrangements regarding the employment of a Hydro Superintendent for Havelock, working in conjunction with the Rural telephone system.

Husband and Wife Both Receive Benefit

Mr. N. St. Hilaire Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills to All Who Suffer.

Quebec man who suffered from pains in the back got relief immediately through using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

EAST ANGUS, Que., Jan. 7.—(Special).—"Both wife and myself have obtained great relief through using Dodd's Kidney Pills."

So says Mr. N. St. Hilaire who lives in this place. "I took 2 boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills for pains in my kidneys and back and they did me good immediately. I always keep a box in the house. My wife has also used them and they have done her much good, and she is very grateful. Today we are quite relieved thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills. I recommend them to all who suffer from kidney trouble and bad back."

Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate and strengthen weak kidneys. You will be surprised how quickly they begin to cleanse and purify, to soothe and heal the kidneys, at the same time backaches and rheumatism disappear.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not make sound kidneys.

Had a Weak Heart Was Very Nervous For Three Years

Miss Jessie Peterson, Zealandia, Sask., writes: "I wish to let you know how much good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me.

"For nearly three years I was very badly run down, had a weak heart, and was so nervous that sometimes I would almost faint away.

"I heard of many people who had recommended your Heart and Nerve Pills, so I decided to give them a trial. After I had used two boxes I found they had done me good, and after having taken five boxes I was completely relieved.

"I cannot recommend your Pills enough, and I would advise anyone having a weak heart or troubled with nervousness to use them."

Milburn's H. & N. Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The first three elected, with H. A. Elsn heading the polls.

H. Hubbeard, who was also nominated, withdrew.

J. L. McCamus was elected Reeve by acclamation.

A TIE IN WHITBY.

WHITBY, Ont., January 8 (Canadian Press). — E. R. Blow was yesterday elected Reeve for 1924 over his opponent, Albert W. Jackson, by a majority of 119, the vote being 524 to 405 in his favour.

Out of eleven candidates for the Council, L. W. Dudley led the poll, with Wm. Davidson, J. M. Kenny, R. S. Vickery, and David Mowatt next in order.

The next place is a tie between R. J. Underwood and Herbert Wilson. After the official count is made on Tuesday the returning officer will cast the deciding vote as to which of these men will be on the Council, provided the count still shows a tie.

R. N. Bassett was re-elected as Mayor by acclamation.

A. H. Allin and G. M. Goodfellow were elected to the Public Utility Commission, and E. L. Odlum, Wm. Downie, W. M. Jermin, and Miss M. E. Sleep to the Board of Education, all by acclamation.

CAMPBELLFORD ELECTS A. J. MEYERS FOR MAYOR

Close Run Between the Two Candidates--Davidson Back in Harness--Results of the Election.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 8. — A. J. Meyers was re-elected Mayor of Campbellford yesterday in one of the most exciting and closest contests ever known for an office in the town, heading out his opponent, W. J. Armstrong, by the narrow margin of five votes. This is Mr. Meyers' fourth term as mayor, but on each of the three previous occasions he has been elected by acclamation.

The vote was a heavy one, the number of ballots cast for the mayoralty being 1121 out of a total of 1580 on the list. Nearly all of the candidates worked hard up to the last. The heavy fall of snow Sunday night upset the arrangements of those who had engaged cars to take the voters to the polls as it was next to impossible to run an auto through the drifts. The election was conducted to the accompaniment of jingling sleigh bells, every available vehicle in town that sits on runners, some of them antiquated, being out up until the time the polls were closed.

Charles Davidson, Reeve.

Charles H. Davidson was elected reeve, defeating Reeve Anderson by a vote of 517 to 572, piling up his majority on the east side of the river, Reeve Anderson, leading in Wards 3 and 4. Mr. Davidson will be one of the leading candidates for the wardenship of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, at the next session of the Counties' Council.

Dorie for Deputy Reeve.

The most spectacular run made by any candidate was that scored by Councillor Dorie who was elected as Deputy Reeve over Councillor Burke by a majority of 325, one of the largest given any aspirant for municipal office in Campbellford. Councillor Dorie led in three of the wards, Councillor Cole beating him out in the first by 13 votes.

Councillors Defeated.

Besides Reeve Anderson and Councillor Dorie, two of the members of the old council, R. J. Allen, and W. J. Meiklejohn, went down to defeat. Councillor Cole made the grade in safety, standing fourth on the list.

There will be six new faces around the municipal board when the council meets next Monday: Reeve Davidson, Councillors Abernethy, Kingston, Johnston, McDonald and Redden. The list of the six successful candidates for the council in the order in which they finished at the polls is as follows: W. J. Abernethy (who fulfilled the expectations of his friends that he would head the field), G. A. Kingston, Samuel Johnston, R. H. Cole, Alex. McDonald and H. Redden.

Top Heavy Representation.

The west side will certainly be well represented in this year's council. Of the nine members six come from the sunset side of the river, and no fewer than five of these— Cole, Johnston, Redden, Abernethy and Deputy-reeve Dorie— reside in the third ward, which also returned Dr. H. O. Richardson as school trustee at the head of the polls. Upon Alex McDonald devolves the responsibility of representing the Fourth Ward alone. This bunching of the civic representatives is likely to revive the agittaion in favor of electing the councillors by wards instead of by general vote, a system once in vogue here, but which was abandoned some time ago.

Two Trustees Defeated

Two members of the Board of Education J. A. Irwin and J. C. Birmingham, fell by the wayside. It is the general opinion that the latter weakened his chances for re-election when he announced himself as a candidate for the council, but afterward changed his mind after he had resigned from the Board. D. W. Douglas, chairman of the Board or the past two years, made a brilliant run and came in second on the list, Dr. H. O. Richardson taking the lead.

Take 2 Campbellford

The other new trustee is John Hall. Mr. John Douglas has been one of the most consistent workers for a new High school and his re-election yesterday is taken as an endorsation of his stand.

Ladies Make Good.

Among the election officials yesterday were two ladies, Mrs. C. W. Turner and Mrs. Walter Lowe, deputy returning officer and poll clerk respectively in one of the polling sub-divisions in Ward 3. Although new to the work the ladies got through their duties without a stumble and in spite of the heavy vote had their count completed and the return made in good time.

As stated last week, A. E. Caddy was elected to the Water and Light Commission by acclamation. The following is the vote in the various wards:

FOR MAYOR.

Armstrong—Ward 1, 132; Ward 2, 120; Ward 3, 164; Ward 4, 142. Total 558.

Meyers— Ward 1, 190; Ward 2, 110; Ward 3, 137; Ward 4, 126. Total 563.

Majority for Meyers 5.

FOR REEVE.

Anderson—Ward 1, 103; Ward 2, 106; Ward 3, 165; Ward 4, 143; Total, 517.

Davidson—Ward 1, 211; Ward 2, 117; Ward 3, 128; Ward 4, 116. Total 572.

Majority for Davidson—55.

FOR DEPUTY-REEVE

Burke, Ward 1, 153; Ward 2, 90; Ward 3, 52; Ward 4, 55; Total 350.

Dorie, Ward 1, 140; Ward 2, 119; Ward 3, 230; Ward 4, 189; Total 678

Majority for Dorie, 328.

Diamond, Ward 1, 104; Ward 2, 34; Ward 3, 63; Ward 4, 61; Total 262.

Cassidy, Ward 1, 49; Ward 2, 59; Ward 3, 40; Ward 4, 23; Total 171.

FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Dr. H. O. Richardson, Ward 1, 128; Ward 2, 121; Ward 3, 219; Ward 4, 187; Total, 645.

Douglas, Ward 1, 171; Ward 2, 105; Ward 3, 116; Ward 4, 127; Total 519.

Hall, Ward 1, 94; Ward 2, 121; Ward 3, 148; Ward 4, 112; Total 425.

Irwin, Ward 1, 130; Ward 2, 79; Ward 3, 88; Ward 4, 81; Total, 368.

Birmingham, Ward 1, 98; Ward 2, 82; Ward 3, 71; Ward 4, 76; Total, 327.

Dr. Richardson, Messrs. Douglas and Hall are elected.

Notes of the Fray.

R. H. Cole failed to land at the top of the list as he did a year ago, but he demonstrated his popularity among his neighbors by leading the field in his own ward—the third.

There was no demonstration over the results. Some one blew a few triumphant notes on a euphonium about 10 o'clock, but otherwise all was quiet.

At least there is nothing like a ring in the new Council.

Yesterday was the first time in years that there was an election for the School Board, a venerable custom having been to elect the trustees by acclamation.

WORK IS SUSPENDED ON NEW POWER PLANT

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 8. — Work on the new power plant at Dam 8 has been temporarily suspended by the backing of the water from the river into the tail race that was well on toward completion. The machinery has been flooded and the Sinclair Construction Company who have the contract, are likely to be heavy losers.

If nickel becomes tarnished clean it by rubbing with a paste of whiting or a fine scourer.

Card of Thanks

Campbellford, Jan. 8, 1924.

To the Electors of Campbellford

I wish to thank all those who voted and worked for me in yesterday's elections. And I desire to assure them and all the Electors that I will again give the affairs of our town my careful attention.

With Best Wishes for the New Year.

Yours very gratefully,

R. H. COLE.

Campbellford, January 8, 1924.

TO THE ELECTORS OF CAMPBELLFORD:

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I take this means of thanking you sincerely for the honour you have again conferred on me by re-electing me as your Mayor. I appreciate your confidence very much, and I hope that under the Council's direction and with the cordial co-operation of all the citizens we shall accomplish further progress for our town this year.

I shall give my best endeavours to secure more efficiency in our public services this year, and in every respect I shall do everything possible to serve you in promoting the general interests of our town.

I feel deeply grateful to everyone who supported and assisted me, and I hope that I shall prove worthy of their trust in the performance of my duty to Campbellford this year.

To one and all I extend my best wishes for a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Yours sincerely,

A. J. MEYERS.

NEWS HASTINGS TOWN, DISTRICT

I.O.D.E. Chapter Held a Meeting and Received Three New Members.

HASTINGS, Jan. 8 —The monthly meeting of the Darontal Chapter I.O.D.E. was held in the rooms on Monday evening. After the opening exercises the secretary read the report of the last meeting. Moved by Miss O. Keogan, seconded by Miss K. Lawless, that the minutes be signed in the usual way.

Three new members took the oath —Miss McCue, Miss Rossie Hubbs, and Miss M. Malloney.

Mrs. James Cowan's name was proposed as a new member.

It was decided to hold the annual St. Valentine's dance in the Town Hall on February 14.

Mrs. Scott Fife is in Toronto, where she attended the wedding on Saturday of her sister, Miss Ella Armour, of Galt, to Mr. John Denike, of Toronto.

The ceremony was performed in Bloor Street Presbyterian Church in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. Mrs. Denike is a former resident of Hastings, and is well and favorably known.

The condition of Everett Hess shows improvement.

Miss Ellen Beavis, of Norwood, is visiting friends in town.

THE WISE WOMAN

SUNBURN AND FRECKLES.
(By Helen Granville Butler)

Any woman who either from choice or necessity spends much of her time out of doors, must be constantly on her guard against the effects of sun and wind. Fresh air and sunshine are very necessary to the preservation of youth and beauty, but an excess of anything is bad. When the skin is exposed frequently to the direct rays of the sun or harsh wind, the skin becomes thicker and darker in color. Tan or sunburn is often admired by some who do not realize the damage that is done to the skin. If the coloring pigment is not evenly distributed in the skin the result is not a coat of tan but a coating of freckles, varing in size and color with the skin of the individual. A little care before going out will save your skin an enable you to don an evening gown during the summer or early autumn without the consciousness of a demarkation line between the exposed and protected proportions of your skin.

Make it a point to wear a hat whenever you are out in the strong sunlight. If you have the very fine-textured skin that accompanies red hair, wear a light chiffon veil in order to protect your neck. If you are going on to the golf links or tennis court wear a long-sleeved waist to prevent burning your arms. Severe burning of the hands and arms not only coarsens the skin but also promotes the growth of hair. If possible wear gloves.

In order to protect the skin further rub on a light vanishing cream and powder the face and hands. This treatment will do much to preevnt burning. The same method should be followed to avoid freckles.

If you have already burned your skin slightly, a lotion of equal parts of glycerin, peroxide and witch hazel should be used. Apply the preparation evenly and allow it to remain on all night. Some skins are sensitive to glycerin and become irritated i much is fused. In that case put less glycerin in the lotion. If, however, you have been severly burned and the skin is badly discolored more drastic measures must be taken. It is best in such cases to seek the advice of a beauty specialist who can prescribe treatment that will meet the requirements of the individual. Do not, above all, try quack bleaches or hearsay remedies.

The best and safest way to deal with sunburn and freckles is to use preventive measure and thus avoid the struggle to remove them and bring your skin back to its normal condition.

SELECTING CHAIRMEN.

Peterborough's Council for 1924 is composed of a Mayor and ten Aldermen, all of whom have had previous experience in civic government, most of them for a considerable period.

There are no novices to break into the routine of the Council's work, and on this account they should be ready without delay to jump into the service for which they were elected.

The fact that all have had some seasoning, however, complicates to some extent the selection of chairmen for the various committees, as the majority of members doubtless believe themselves to be in line for one department or another.

This is a preliminary task in which there is usually considerable manoeuvring behind the scenes, and this jockeying does not always ensure the selection of the best possible chairmen.

There is nothing that the public can do to prevent these wheel-within-wheel tactics, but the Examiner hopes that the Council will tackle this chairmanship problem in the spirit of team-play, with an eye on the best interests of Peterborough rather than on personal aggrandizement and self-interest.

If the available material could be allocated to the departments in such a way as to ensure the best possible service, Peterborough's civic government would gain considerable in efficiency.

CIVIC COMMONPLACES NO. 4.

Continuing the series of fundamental principles of civic government, the Examiner today offers the fourth in the list, which to some extent at least applies to Peterborough, as it does to every other municipality.

It is, briefly, that the greater the number of administrative departments the greater is the difficulty of controlling expenditures and securing that thorough co-operation which is necessary to secure the greatest possible result in service from any given expenditure.

The establishment of a new department means the establishment of a new overhead.

It means a new spending body which naturally and humanly desires to magnify its own importance with dignified office quarters and a seemly quota of clerks and stenographers.

The more spending departments, the more spenders; the more spnders, the more spent; the more spent, the more paid by the taxpayers.

The fewer parts in the machine the more efficient, other things being equal, will the machine be.

The simpler the administrative organization of a city, Province or nation, the less will be the waste motion and friction and the greater will be the service in proportion to the total expenditure.

And yet some Canadian cities have from 15 to 25 or even more civic departments.

In practice, though not in theory, the attitude of the taxpayers seem to be—money is made to be spent, we have the money, it is our money and should be spent the way we see it.

If we desire to spend some of it in order to maintain a larger civic establishment than is absolutely necessary, that is our business.

And in municipal affairs is it not often true that the man who "pays the piper" and the man who "plays the tune" are quite different persons?

A wise saw runs, "He who pays the piper calls the tune."

May it not be true that "He who pays the piper" often forgets all about the tune?

A COMMUNITY NEED.

The absence in Peterborough of any convenience for indulging in such characteristically Canadian and splendidly healthful pastimes as coasting and tobogganing is frequently commented upon by visitors, and is a matter of regret for many citizens anxious to enjoy such sports themselves or to have their children enjoy them, under safe conditions.

At present there is nothing in the nature of a toboggan-slide, nor are there any facilities for bobsleighing, except on public streets where there is constant danger of traffic accidents.

The problem of coasting accomodation could be solved, as the Examiner has more than once pointed out, by following the example of other cities in designating a number of hills in the city as coasting zones during certain hours and have the streets used for coasting closed to other traffic during these hours.

It should be possible to work out a schedule that would cause minimum inconvenience to other citizens and afford maximum enjoyment to the coasters.

Toboggan-slides, too, could be arranged without a great deal of difficulty on such sites as Jackson Park, Armour's Hill and the eastern end of the Ashburnham Bridge, and probably the last named location would be the logical location for the first slide.

It is an era, of course, of professed municipal economy—ruling bodies are doing much talking about cutting down expenditures—and there is need of economy.

There, however, might be a start made towards providing facilities for a pastime that would do much to build up the health of the young people and provide them with harmless and commendable recreation—a start that would not necessarily involve much expenditure and would give rich returns for what was spent.

Visitors are surprised that more advantage is not taken of our winter weather, and that our people are not encouraged to get the benefit of the bracing, frosty air of the great outdoors, instead of spending their leisure times in overheated homes or in other places equally too warm and badly ventilated.

And toboggan-slides and safe coasting zones would do much to keep our younger people at least in better health and capable of better work.

MABEL NORMAND'S APPEAL.

Mabel Normand, moving picture star, threatened with the banishment of the films in which she has appeared because of the fact that she has been involved in another notorious shooting affair, pleads for a square deal.

Already Normand films have been barred in several sections of the United States, and in spite of Miss Normand's appeal her exile from the screen seems to be inevitable.

The Examiner knows nothing about the film star in question. She may be as innocent as a new born babe and possess every desirable attribute so far as our knowledge of her is concerned.

But it must be admitted that taking the most favourable view of it she has been very unfortunate in having her name connected with two shooting incidents, the first a murder and the second nearly one.

The scandal inevitably aroused by the first affair blew over eventually, but the second incident has redoubled the gossip, and just at present there are large numbers of people in Canada and the United States who have no desire to see Mabel Normand on the screen again, and thousands of parents who don't want their children to see films in which she appears.

Many motion picture stars have apparently been ruined by the large salaries they have so easily secured, and even the barring of the Arbuckle films failed to show them the rocks upon which they were drifting.

A similar punishment inflicted upon Mabel Normand might, however, drive home the lesson that the moving picture patrons of this Continent believe that the artists who entertain them on the screen should be like Caesar's wife, and that for those who do not chose to regulate their lives by the standard of morality and conduct of the rest of the community there is the alternative of earning their livelihood in some other occupation that does not bring them before the public.

Probably the majority of them would be more quickly hit through their pocketbooks than through their consciences.

THE BRITISH LABOR PARTY.

Powerful sections of the British Conservative Party beseeching Mr. Baldwin to make common cause with Liberalism to keep Labor from governing would appear to be circumscribed in vision. Labor's strongest card in the past election, and the strongest card that it can play at any time, is the cry that "the classes" are against "the masses." A combination of Asquith and Baldwin would lend foundation to that cry. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald would have his worst charges confirmed; Labor would be unified and solidified; and in due time, when the Liberal-Tory combination reached the end that sooner or later comes to all Governments, Labor would march into office untrammelled to do as it pleased. Today the position is different. Labor is powerful, and Mr. MacDonald will be called upon to succeed Mr. Baldwin; but national security against possible radical adventures is guaranteed by an anti-Labor majority in both Parliament and the country. Could there be a more favorable opportunity of giving Mr. MacDonald a chance?

Nor does conclusive reason exist to show that Labor would not govern sensibly. It is said that Mr. MacDonald would recognize Soviet Russia. What of it? Mr. Lloyd George proposed precisely that course at the Genoa Conference; and we remember a speech by Mr. Bonar Law supporting his stand. It is further said that Mr. MacDonald would scuttle the Army and Navy. Yet that seems an extremely remote contingency. Against its possibility there are three most potent reasons. There is the reason that Liberalism and Conservatism in Parliament could prevent such a thing. There is the reason that just on the eve of the election Mr. MacDonald himself wrote in the London Sunday Times that British Foreign Policy and the British Navy had to be preserved. And there is the additional reason—the greatest of all—that the workingmen of England, who are the bone and sinew of the Labor Party, and who gave so nobly and so unstintedly in the Great War, would hardly applaud such a step.

Moreover, Labor in office would soon find what are the difficulties of sound and vigorous administration. The possibilities of the Capital Levy would look less rosy after a few hours' conference with Treasury officials. The scheme of nationalization of mines (Once, by the way, supported by Lloyd George) would look less easy when facts realities, costs and revenue needs were investigated. And so all along the line.

It is easier to talk about a housing problem than to solve one. It is easier for a Socialist party to excite hopes among its followers than to gratify them. British Labor has conjured up visions of a larger and easier dividend than economic life in England or in any other country can yield. In due course Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's Government would find that out—just as John Burns found it out after he joined the Asquithian Liberals—and the discovery would bring good all around.

Meanwhile, no great peril exists. The British people in the last election voted decisively for the gospel of Adam Smith, but they voted just as decisively against the gospel of Lenin and Marx. That is adequate security for the present. But common sense would seem to urge that that security would become less adequate were Liberalism and Conservatism to unite and, with a campaign of indiscriminate abuse against Labor and its qualifications to govern, keep it from No. 10 Downing Street. "The best way to fight Socialism," warned Lord Rosebery several years ago, "is to give Socialists a chance to prove their worth."—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

English women are complaining that there was nothing for them in the King's New Year's honour list. Probably His Majesty thought that the majority of women had enough decorations.

Julius Caesar is being blamed for London's traffic conditions. Unfortunately, that alibi cannot be used in this district.

"Red" Ryan's boasting not withstanding, the bandit is back in Canada again. And his stay is likely to be a long one.

The citizen who was longing for a real old-fashioned winter doubtless was satisfied Sunday night that he was getting it.

The latest sensation is caused by the rumour that a man has been found who understands all about the new Sales Tax. The report has not been confirmed.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, once a Unionist, then a Progressive, may become a member of the Liberal Ministry. And yet they say there is nothing new.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Our Leap Year advice to single girls is leap before you look.

The best way for a girl to propose to a man is to sit on his knee until he proposes.

Ask your parents to object to your fellow during Leap Year. Then he will marry you for spite.

Sit on his knee, Run your fingers through his hair. Use flavoured lipsticks. Propose in the dark.

Keep the parlour shades down. Last Leap Year many a girl lost her chance because the shades were up.

Buy a comfortable cofa. A comfortable sofa goes a long way towards a successful Leap Year.

Good lights have ruined many a Leap Year prospect. Love is blind, so make it in the dark.

Tell him you can't shoot a pistol. A man may be brave and still refuse to marry a good pistol shot.

If your Leap Year prospect is skinny wear a bustle. You can sit in a chair after you get him.

Tell him others want to marry you. Never let on he is your last chance. Men don't like that

Learn to make home brew. Any man will marry any home brew maker This is more important than cooking.

If a woman lets a man brag about his past long enough he will want her to take care of his future.

Don't paint too heavily during the Leap Year. You can't propose to a man you have given painter's colic.

Look while kissing during Leap Year. No man wants to marry a girl who sticks her nose in his eye.

Don't grunt when you hug a prospective Leap Year husband. It may remind him of the price of pork chops.

Tell him he looks lonely. Tell him often and he will believe it. Then you can marry him easily.

Let him tell you the story of his life Pretend you believe it and you will have him half married.

Get your mothers to cook him a meal. Swear you cooked it. A full man will marry almost anybody.

If your prospective Leap Year husband chews gum this is nice. He can chew the rag with you later.

Buy a new dress. Tell him you made it. Claim your clothes cost a dollar a month. You can marry him.

Get all cleaned up. Put on a gingham apron. Let him supposedly find you at work. Propose quickly.

Look your best even when you feel your worst. You will have time to feel bad after you marry him.

CLEAN SNOW AWAY FROM THE HYDRANT

Fire Department Had a Busy Week End—Many Chimney Fires.

Fire Chief George Gimblett requests that the citizens who have a hydrant in front of their residence or near by, to clean the snow away from it so it will be more convenient for the firemen should the hydrant be needed.

Over the week end the Fire Department had a busy time answering chimney fire alarms caused by the high winds. Yesterday they answered four alarms and one this morning.

Yesterday morning at 10:42 the fire fighters were called out to the Campbell flour mill to fix a sprinkler head that had blown off.

Yesterday morning they also answered a call to a chimney fire at 12 Kirk street. No damage.

At 5:50 they were called out to a chimney fire on Townsend street.

At 6:19 they answered a call to 438 George street south to a chimney fire No damage.

This morning at 7:38 they were called out to a chimney fire at 222 Munroe avenue, East City.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 8. — Receipts were 250 cars, 3,834 cattle, 328 calves, 5,309 hogs, and 1,775 sheep and lambs. The quality was not a high average, and several loads of exporters had to be picked over. The exporters expected to get about 350 head and the top paid yesterday was $7.90 a cwt., and some were bought at $7.

The supply of medium to good butchers was plentiful, and prices were a little easier. The good butchers brought $5.50 a cwt. The top for heavy butchers about in the export class was $7.50 a cwt. and medium weight butchers for the best sold at $7 a cwt. Some of the export cattle had through billing, and added 20 cents a cwt. to the price.

The exporters took any short keeps available at around $6.50 to $6.75 a cwt. and some good bulls at $4.50 to $5. Butchers' cows were down 25 cents a cwt. Only a few choice cows went over 5 cents, and good cows sold from 3½ to 4 cents. The weigh up was slow during the morning, and a carry over of moderate size was generally expected.

The calf market witnessed no change, and prices were equally as strong as last week with tops around 12 cents a pound. Good mediums sold from 10 to 11 cents, and heavy calves at 8 to 9 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Wheat scored an advance to-day whereas corn was lower. Buying on the part of the northwestern interests, together with reports that European purchasing of Canadian wheat was the largest in some time, had much to do with lifting wheat. The market for wheat closed unsettled, 1-4 to 3-4c. net higher; May $1.08 5-8 to $1.08 3-4, and July $1.06 7-8. In corn there was 1-8c. to 3-8c. setback, with oats at 1-8c. off to 1-4c. to 1-4c. up, and provisions from 2c. decline to 22c. gain.

It was estimated that at least 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been bought since Saturday for sipment to Europe, and this circumstance was emphasized by an advance in wheat quotations at Liverpool and by the fact that temporarily Sterling, franc and Lire all showed an upturn. Bullish sentiment as to wheat was further stimulated by general scantiness of domestic receipts and by New York Stock Market strength, as well as by a decrease of wheat total in the United Sttaes' visible supply statement.

LIBERALS AND TORY PARTY MAY COMBINE

LONDON, Jan. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Lingering rumors of some eleventh hour arrangements, whereby the threatened action of the Liberals to help the Labor into the Government may be averted, include one given publicity by the Laborite, the Daily Herald. This report is vague, but it indicates the belief that a section of the Liberal party has already come to an arrangement with the Conservatives, whereby the present Government may be saved. Editorially, the Herald says: "Whether Labor takes government depends upon the success of this latest angle, which must be taken more seriously than Lord Rothermere's feverish demands that somebody shall save his millions from capital levy."

SEVERAL AMERICANS IN BATANG STARVING

(By Ray G. Marshall, United Press Staff Correspondent).

PEKING, Jan. 7. — Ten Americans are surrounded by Tibetan bandit hordes in the city of Batang in Western Sze Chuan and are in imminent peril of starvation, according to reports from the American Legation here.

Other foreigners are likewise trapped.

The savage Tibetans poured over the border into China recently, the report stated, and surrounded the walled city of Batang, burning and looting all the surrounding towns.

The Chinese garrisons of the district fled or had disappeared shortly before the appearance of the savages and assistance is declared to be impossible for weeks.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS FIFTH YEAR SHOWS ADVANCEMENT

Organization Has Been Completed and Its Work Extended to New and Wider Fields — Is Now Definitely Established and Active.

GENEVA, January 8 (Canadian Press). — Thursday next marks the beginning of the fifth year of the League of Nations. In connection with the anniversary the League has issued a statement declaring that 1923 saw the completion of the task of creating the main elements of its organisation and the extension of its work to new and wider fields.

"All the principal agencies of the League on questions relating to politics, law, finance, economy, transit, health and humanitarian activities" says the statement, "are now definitely established, and there has come into being a precise realisation of the part to be played in international life by an association of sovereign nations."

After sketching in detail the League's achievements during the year, including extension of international law, financial co-operation, and rehabilitation, the settlement of political difficulties by conciliation, the forwarding of international moves toward a reduction of armaments and improvement in international health conditions, and a world driv against the drug evil, the statement declares:

"It is obvious that 1923 has brought a profound widening and deepening of the League's organisation and helpful activity."

OLYMPICS BLANK KINGSTON STARS

Played Lime City Hockeyists off Their Feet in Final Period, Running in Five.

KINGSTON, January 8 (Canadian Press). — Playing the locals "off their feet," in the last period, and running in five goals, the Canadian Olympic hockey team defeated the local all-stars here last night 7 to 0.

The Olympics displayed all the class that had been credited to them.

Even the visitors say that the locals should not have been blanked, for they suffered the hardest kind of hard luck many times.

The local fans were delighted with the wonderful performance of the Canadian representatives to the Olympic Games, and they are positive that nothing can beat the Canadian aggregation.

The Granites did not "open up" until the last period, when they made rush after rush.

Watson, "Hooley" Smith, and McAffery caught the eyes of the local fans, but even greater than theirs was the brilliant performance of Collett in the nets.

PRESTON'S TEAM WORK DEFEATED GALT 4 TO 1

PRESTON, Ont., January 8 (Canadian Press). — In their first O.H.A. senior game at home Preston last night decisively defeated Galt 4 to 1 in a fast and most interesting exhibition, comprising a bit of everything, but free from any ill-will, though there was heavy body checking. Preston excelled in combination.

The work of both goalkeepers was a feature.

"Gunner" Arnott and "Toots" Skelly starred for Preston, while Hines and Woods played stellar hockey for Galt.

OVERTIME REQUIRED TO BEAT CANOEISTS

Aura Lee Were Victors by 5 to 4—All of Luck Was With the Winners.

TORONTO, January 8 (Canadian Press). — Aura Lee Juniors defeated Toronto Canoe Club in the first of an O.H.A. double-header in 20 minutes' overtime by a 5 to 4 score.

On the play, the paddlers had a two-goal margin, but the "breaks" were with the Avenue Road boys, three of whose goals were of the "flukiest" variety.

The first goal as almost earned, but the last three were a great surprise to even the winners.

One of these was scored when Smith, the paddlers' goal-tender, was serving a minor penalty.

Play was carried to the winners throughout the entire 80 minutes, and Goalkeeper Moore was kept busy.

New Marks Inscribed As Altitude Records.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The International Aeronautic Federation has accepted two marks set by Lieutenant Harold R. Harris, United States' Army, as world's records. The first of these records was for reaching an altitude of 2,049 metres, (2,241 yards), in 79 minutes, carrying a weight of 2,000 kilograms, (4,409 pounds), and the second for reaching 1,629 metres (1,782 yards), in 79 minutes with a load of 3,000 kilograms, (6,613 pounds).

Jean Laporte, the French aviator, has been accredited with a record for hydroairplane with an altitude of 5,535 metres, (6,055 yards), made December 1. S. A. Flory, Sweden, is asking acceptance of a hydroairplane altitude flight of 5,871 meters (6,105 yards) made September 30.

An occasional dose of DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN Keeps young girls fit

False Modesty Wrecks Health

THE young lady just assuming the responsibilities of a woman is very apt to be self-conscious of her physical functions, and in consequence neglect them. There is no time, however, when it is more important for her to look after them. Chief among her troubles is constipation, and her suffering will be serious when she gets older if she does not regulate her bowels now. Mrs. J. Charbonneau, 3410 Adam, Montreal, recommends Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to all her friends, and Mrs. Henry Joyce, Croton, Ont. says it is the best remedy for constipation she ever used.

Safe for Young and Old

Let mothers with growing daughters interest themselves in this matter and see that their judgment is enforced. A rule followed by many is to take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin once a week until the bowels function daily, and at such other times as there is headache, biliousness, sores and fever blisters, lack of energy and appetite, sleeplessness, indigestion.

A dose can be given in these conditions to any member of the family however young or old as Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a simple compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasing aromatics, and perfectly safe.

Public Recognizes Merit

You will quickly see the difference between a mild laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin and castor oil, or rough cathartics and physics. Syrup Pepsin acts gently and does not gripe. Increased doses are not necessary. A bottle can be had at any drug store, and a spoonful costs less than a cent. It has been successfully used for thirty years and is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles having been sold in drug stores last year. Keep Laxative Syrup Pepsin in your medicine chest.

ITALY ASKS TOO MUCH IN AFRICA

Negotiations With Britain Over Certain Promised Concessions Are Deadlocked—Other Interests Affected.

LONDON, Jan. 7.— Negotiations are proceeding here between Foreign Secretary Curzon and the Italian Ambassador regarding Italy's claims in Jubaland, formerly a part of German East Africa. For the moment there appears no immediate prospects of settlement, since Great Britain holds that Italy's claim for the extension of Italian Somaliland to Jubaland —which includes part of Kenya Colony and embraces about 30,000 acres of valuable cotton growing territory—is inordinate and in serious conflict with the existing boundaries.

The Foreign Office feels that the allocation of this land to Italy would deprive certain native tribes under British tutelage, of access to the water wells in the Lorian swamp near the Equator and would cut across several important caravan routes under British protection.

Lord Curzon is willing to compromise with Italy on the question of territory, but apparently is not inclined to dissociate the rectification of the Jubaland frontier from the question of the ownership of the Dodecanese islands in the Aegan Sea, which were taken over by Italy from Greece under the Treaties of London, Sevres and Lausanne.

This displeases Italy, which asserts that one of its conditions for entering the Great War was that, in the event of the requisition of German teritory in East Africa by the Allies, Italy should be entitled to a Liberal rectification in her favor in Somaliland and along the Libyan frontiers.

DYNAMITE PLOTTERS GAVE MAN BAD SCARE

ST. CATHARINES, January 7. — A miraculous escape from death through the work of dynamite plotters was experienced by Frank Scaduto of Merriton this morning, when he was awakened by the explosion of a stick of dynamite in his room just three feet from his head.

Although the end of the room was almost blown out Scaduto was not injured in the least. His parents who were sleeping in an adjoining room also escaped injury.

Not only was a large hole blown in the end of the house but most of the weather boards were loosened on the building.

RAILWAYS MUST DIVIDE PROFIT

U. S. Transportation Act Sustained By Supreme Court--Are Under I.C.C. Control.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Provisions of the Transportation Act requiring railroads to divide with the Government their excess earnings were sustained to-day by the Supreme Court.

The attack upon the constitutionality of the re-capture clauses was brought by the Datyon Goose Creek Railway Company, of Texas, but when the case reached the Supreme Court nineteen of the most important railway systems of the country joined in it.

Describing the Transportation Act as legislation intended to build up a system of railways prepared to handle promptly all the inter-state traffic of the country, and as aimed to give the owners of the railways an opportunity to earn enough to maintain their property and equipment in a state of efficiency, Chief Justice Taft declared in delivering the opinion of the court that the railroads of the country had been placed more completely than ever under the fostering guardianship and control of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

BREAD LOCATES MEN WHO DROWN

Professor H. Gladstone, Visiting Here, Tells of His Discovery of Georgian Bay Victims.

Harry Gladstone, who achieved fame in October by finding the bodies of two men drowned in Georgian Bay when all attempts had failed for several days, today explained to The Examiner the system on which his work is carried out. Mr. Gladstone is at present visiting with W. H. Howard, Rubidge street. His wife, nee Rita Johnston, of Greenock, Scotland, accompanies him.

Mr. Gladstone, known as Professor Gladstone and given the name Mem-o-rea by the Psychological Research Society of London, claims the discovery of 120 bodies which had been given up as lost, the recovery of jewels believed lost and papers thought destroyed, and the finding of relatives and friends for many hundreds who have sought his aid. He claims direct descent from Gladstone, the Grand Old Man of British politics, and says he is the seventh son of a seventh son. In Guelph recently he located a $1,000,000 estate for one Thomas Putt.

Referring to the finding of the bodies of Robert Parker and Captain Jones, who were drowned in Georgian Bay early in October, Mr. Gladstone said he used bread and lime. Taking seven loaves of bread with the centres filled with lime, he scattered them in a half circle around the spot where the bodies sank, facing towards the setting sun. The bread, working its way against the wind, he says, went to the spot where the bodies lay and there sank. He grappled at that spot and brought the body of Robert Parker to the surface in 25 minutes after beginning his search.

Science Used.

There is more to the affair than the mere scattering of bread on the water, however. The signs of the zodiac, the position of Mars, saturn, jupiter and other planets are all taken into his scalculations, Mr. Gladstone said. His work cannot be carried on in this way without the presence of a minister, in this case the Rev. James, Anglican missionary minister at Lion's head, near Owen Sound.

Before commencing the actual divination with the bread Mr. Gladstone had to find through his own mentral forces, he said, the location where the bodies sank. A hundred men had been searching day and night for fifteen days without success, and it was not even known whether these men had drowned or were lost on the mountains. "I do not claim to be spiritualistic" Mr. Gladstone said. "If I am then I don't know it. I belong to the Church of England. I don't claim to be a clairvoyant or a medium and I dont' wish to be classed as supernatural. I am a firm believer in prayer."

Professor Gladstone spoke respectfully of Coue, remarking that he does not attempt the cures with which Coue is credited. "I have proved, however, that thought transmission is practical."

Being the seventh son of a seventh son, the Professor believes he may have the peculiar attributes assigned to such persons. Nothing else could enable him, he believes, to find the bodies which sank without trace in Georgian Bay, reputed never to give up its dead.

Mrs. Gladstone, known as Rita Johnstone, holds the world's dancing championship, conferred upon her by John Lauder just before he went to the battlefield.

DRIVE LAUNCHED AGAINST REBELS

The Mexican Government Statement Says Offensive Is Under Way on Two Fronts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—A general offensive by the federal forces against the Mexican revolutionists "is already under way" on both the Vera Cruz and Jalisco fronts, the Mexican Embassy said, in a statement yesterday summarizing official advice from Mexico City. Rebels' reports claiming victories and adhesions to their cause were declared to be "absolutely without foundation," the statement asserting that they controlled "no larger areas than those held at the outbreak of the revolution."

"General Amaro," the statement continued, 'after holding a lengthy conference with President Obregon at Mexico City, has returned to the eastern front to begin the general advance against the rebel stronghold of Guadalajara, Jalisco.

"The Embassy has been advised that General Candido Aguilar, Secretary of Foreign Relations under the Carranza regime, was arrested with eight others last Saturday night while attempting to cross the Rio Grande into Mexico at a point near Laredo, Texas. Aguilar and his companions are being held by the United States authorities.

"Complete tranquility prevails throughout the remainder of the republic, where public services are running as usual."

LARCENY CHARGE AGAINST COLONEL.

Hamilton Man Arrested In New York As a Fugitive From Justice.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Charged with being a fugitive from justice from Hamilton, Ont., Omar Macklen, 40 years old, who says he was a colonel during the world war in the Canadian overseas forces, was arrested this afternoon in an office building at Wall street and Broadway, upon a descriptoin, by Detective John J. Mintern of the Old Slip Station. He will be held for Canadian detectives.

Description of Macklen with instructions that he was wanted in Hamilton on a warrant charging larceny of 2,500 and attempt to defraud, were received by New York detectives four months ago. Detectives Mintern obtained information that Macklen was engaged as a stock salesman in a Broadway office. Macklen denies the charges.

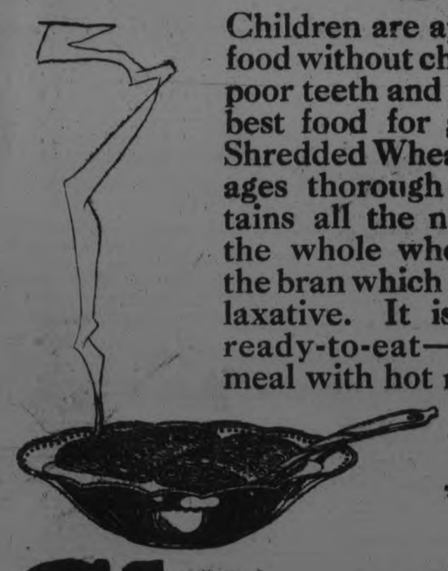
Macklen said he had lost his left eye and part of his nose had been shot away while leading his forces in battle in France.

DANES GUARD GERMAN BORDER.

SCHLESWIG, Jan. 8.—(Associated Press).—Germans today are leaving the fatherland in such large numbers, that the Danish government has reinforced its guards along the German-Danish border to prevent the passage of individuals whose papers are not in order.

Special instructions also have been issued in the matter of smuggling. There is a brisk illicit trade in meats, fish, canned milk, cheese and other staples into Germany.

Better than porridge



Children are apt to bolt down their food without chewing. That means poor teeth and poor digestion. The best food for growing children is Shredded Wheat because it encourages thorough mastication. Contains all the nutritive elements in the whole wheat grain, including the bran which is Nature's best food laxative. It is ready-cooked and ready-to-eat—delicious for any meal with hot milk, sliced bananas or other fruits.

"All's Right"—Says the Light

Finished is the little house; the furniture is all in place. And side by side they sit together looking forward into the years.

"Everything all right?" he asks.

"All right," says she. There is no echo, but on the table behind them the friendly lamp gleams its cheerful "All's right."

In every happy hour of life, good light plays its part. Since it is so important, why not be sure that you have the best—plenty of Edison Mazda Lamps properly placed. Look for the Dealer's window; the Edison Mazda Agent is trained in transforming homes with the magic of good light.

DAM BEING BUILT ON INDUS RIVER WILL BE GREATEST IN WORLD

Greatest American Projects Are Small Compared With Mile-Long Dam to Be Erected In India—Regulate Flow of River.

MANY CANALS.

LONDON, Jan. 8 (Associated Press)—The world's largest dam, the central unit in an irrigation scheme so vast in its conception as to make even Americans who are accustomed to gigantic irrigation and engineering projects marvel at its immensity, is being built on the Indus river in India. American government irrigation works in western states such as the Roosevelt dam, seem small in comparison to Indus River project near Sukkar, in the province of Sind.

The Indus dam, which will be known as the Lloyd barrage in honor of Sir George Lloyd, governor of Bombay, will be nearly a mile long. Two bridges will be built upon it, one at a low level slightly above the alignment of the river banks and the other at a high level. The railings of the high level bridge will be 770 feet above the foundations, or as high as the tower of the Woolworth building in New York. The foundations stone of the dam was laid on October 24, 1923, and 20,000 workers are employed, but the project will not be completed, even under favorable working conditions, until June, 1930.

Then the work of regulating and conserving the flow of the Indus by means of 66 massive steel gates, each weighing 50 tons, will be possible. While the dam is being built another army of workers is busy constructing a gigantic network of canals which will carry water over an area almost as great as England.

Immediately above the dam seven canals will carry the silt laden waters of the Indus over wide areas of the province of Sind. The Rohri canal will be 205 miles long, with 2,300 miles of branches. The central rice canal, 87 miles long will irrigate 500,000 acres of the finest rice growing land in India. Similar waterways will radiate in all directions from the central reservoir. Three of these canals will be wider than the Suez canal.

When the Lloyd barrage is finally completed, the Province of Sind through which the lower Indus flows is expected to share the prosperity of the Punjab, which is due mainly to the successful irrigation of the upper reaches of the river. Vast areas of arid desert land will become rich fields of rice, cotton and wheat; there will be large movements of natives from the densely populated districts of India, and the sparsely inhabited banks for 300 miles along the lower course of the Indus will become a hive of industry and form another great granary for India and the British Empire.

The whole scheme is being financed by the government of Bombay the estimates calling for $60,000,000, of which $17,500,000 will be spent upon the dam. It is calculated that the net annual profit to the government will be 14 percent.

BANDITS ATTACK MONASTRY

KIEFF, Jan. 7 (Associated Press).—Monks resisted strenuously when a group of bandits recently broke into the most famous monastery in Russia, the Petshorsakaya Lavra, near here. The Father Superior, Dobiansky, was killed in the fighting, but the bandits were forced to flee without taking any spoils.

Janet had her revenge. Words have a terrible power. And Janet's vocabulary might be as primitive as lightning, but unlike lightning it never failed to strike.

"That old Zattiany woman." "She's a thousand years old and nobody cares what she does." "That rejuvenated old dame who's granny's age if she's a day." "Much happier than your grandmother." The phrases flashed into his mind when he awoke and echoed in his ears all day. No doubt similar phrases, less crude, but equally scorching, were being tossed from one end of New York Society to the other. If Janet knew of his devotion to Madame Zattiany others must, for it could only have come to her on the wings of gossip. He was being ridiculed by people who grasped nothing beyond the fact that the woman was fifty-eight and the man thirty-four. Of course it would be but a nine days' wonder and like all other social phenomena grow too stale for comment, but meanwhile he should feel as if he were frying on a gridiron. Anne Goodrich would merely exclaim: "Abominable." Marian Lawrence would draw in her nostrils and purr: "Lee was always an erratic and impressionable boy. Just like him to fall in love with an old woman. And she's really a beautiful blonde—once more. Poor Lee." As for Gora and Suzan Forbes—well, Gora would understand, and impale them sympathetically in her next novel, and Suzan would read up on endocrines, blend them adroitly with psychology, and write an article for the Yale Review.

He avoided the office and wrote his column at home. Luckily a favorite old comedian had died recently. He could fill up with reminiscence and anecdote. But it was soon done and he was back in his chair with his thoughts again.

It had been his intention when he awakened on Sunday after a few hours of unrefreshing sleep to dispatch his work as quickly as possible, take a long walk, and then return to his rooms and keep the hours that must intervene until Monday afternoon, sacred to Mary Zattiany. But if man wishes to regulate his life, and more particularly his meditations, to suit himself he would be wise to retire to a mountain top. Civilized life is a vast woof and the shuttle pursues its weaving and counter-weaving with no regard for the plans of men.

It was impossible to ignore Mrs. Oglethorpe's appeal, and it was equally impossible to refuse to aid in the hunt for that damnable Janet when her distracted father and his own intimate friend took his co-operation as a matter of course. And even if he had remained at home, no doubt she would have wiggled her way in before he could shut the door in her face. Then there would have been the devil to pay, for she would have seen to it that he was hopelessly compromised. No doubt she would have run out on the balcony and screamed for help. Her failure was the one saving grace in the whole wretched night.

But she had planted her stings.

He was in a fine frame of mind to make love to a woman. He had pictured that scene as one of the great moments of life, so subtly beautiful and dramatic, so exalted and exulting, so perfect in its very incompleteness, that not a lifetime of suffering and disappointment could blur it. And he felt exactly like the flat tire of Janet's distinguished vernacular. Even his body was worn out, for he had had but nine hours' sleep in two nights. What a dead cinch the playwrights had. A man might as well try to breathe without oxygen on Mount Everest as attempt to give his own life the proper dramatic values. He was a cursed puppet and Life itself was a curse.

He excoriated himself for his susceptibility to mere words; he who juggled in words, and often quite insincerely when it suited his purpose. But "that rejuvenated old dame," and "that old Zattiany woman" crawled like reeking vapors across some fair landscape a man had spent his life seeking, blotting out its loveliness, turning it to a noisome morass.

He had used equally caustic phrases when some young man he knew had married a woman only ten years older than himself, and when old men had taken to themselves young wives. And meant them, for he was fundamentally as conventional and conservative as all men. . . . But he cared less that he would be the laughing stock of New York than that his own soul felt like boiling pitch and that he was ashamed of himself.

He looked at the clock. It was twenty minutes to four. There was neither love nor desire in him and he would [illegible] liked to throw himself on the di[illegible]nd sleep. But he set his teeth a[illegible]t to his feet. He would go throug[illegible]ay up, somehow.

He f[illegible]er in the nipping air and soon l[illegible] walk briskly. And then as he [illegible] Park Avenue and entered her str[illegible]w two men coming down her ste[illegible]ey were Mr. Dinwiddie, and th[illegible]nely good-looking young man wl[illegible]orne had brought to the was on[illegible]y night. The young man box smil[illegible]nously.

A wav[illegible]rage and jealousy swept Clavering from head to foot. She, at least, could have kept these hours sacred, and she had not only received this grinning ape, but evidently given him a delectable morsel to chew on. He could have knocked both men down, but he was not even permitted to pass them by with a scowling nod. Another contretemps.

Dinwiddie hailed him delightedly.

"Good old Lee! Haven't seen you in an age. Where've you kept yourself? Know Vane? Mother's an old friend of Mary's. He's head over like the rest of us. Who says we don't live in the age of miracles?"

"Yeh, ain't life wonderful?" Clavering's jocular faculty was enfeebled, but it came to the rescue. He was staring at Vane. Evidently this young man was unimpressed by searing phrases and he must have heard several, for, if he remembered aright, "Polly Vane" with "her head like a billiard ball," who "wore a wig for decency's sake," had been one of the most resentful women at the luncheon. For a moment he had a queer impression that his stature had diminished until the top of his head stood level with this glowing young man's waistcoat. And then he shot up to seven feet. Something had turned over inside him and vomited forth the pitch and its vapors. But he still felt angry and jealous. He managed to reply, however:

"Well, I must be getting on. Have an engagement at four. See you in a day or two, Din." He nodded to young Vane and in another moment he was taking Madame Zattiany's front steps three at a time.

Ask Your Druggist For Vicks

Is Best For Grippe and All Cold Troubles.

Mrs. Willie Hebert of Gulager St., Shediac, New Brunswick, says: "I have used Vicks VapoRub for a cold and obtained great results. My children were taken sick with the grippe and so I went to my druggist and purchased a full-size jar, and rubbed their chests good and they are all well now. I cannot recommend Vicks too highly and will never go without it in my home."

Vicks' VapoRub comes in salve form, and for chest colds, you just apply it over the throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. The body heat releases vapors that are inhaled all night long into the throat and lungs—Menthol, Camphor, Thyme, Eucalyptus and Turpentine. Vicks is also absorbed through and stimulates the skin, aiding the vapors to relieve congestion. Usually colds go in one night and croup is commonly relieved in 15 minutes.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W, Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

Fried Rye Muffins

(From Escondido, California, Mrs. S. sends this surprise in muffins. Quickly made. Delicious for breakfast or lunch)

1¼ cupfuls flour
1¼ cupfuls rye flour
3 tablespoonfuls sugar
2 eggs
½ teaspoonful salt
3 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 cupful milk

Sift all the dry ingredients together twice, beat the eggs until light; then add the milk and stir into the dry ingredients. Have ready a kettle of deep hot Crisco, dip a dessert spoon into cold milk to prevent batter sticking to spoon; fill it with the batter and drop into the Crisco, cook until thoroughly done, serve hot with butter or maple syrup.

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing it

When you wash children's hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else to pieces.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

MINISTERIALS OF VANCOUVER HEARD ATTORNEY MANSON

He Charged the Association With Being a Bunch of Pikers.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Charging the Ministerial Association of Vancouver with being "a bunch of pikers" because, he said, the association had not given him active support when he sought to have the Senate pass legislation giving the sole power of importing liquor to the Provincial Government, Attorney-General A. M. Manson raised a storm of protest from the members here yesterday. Later he withdrew the objectionable phrase and received a vote of thanks for coming from Victoria to address the association.

Mr. Manson told how forces were working against his proposal to the Federal Government last spring and asked where was the Vancouver Ministerial Association at that time. "I did not hear a chirp out of you. The women came to my aid, but where were you ministers of the gospel?" Then followed his accusation: "You are a bunch of pikers—pikers, that's what you are," he declared. "You never came to back me up—no you din't. You were pikers."

The Attorney-General told how he had conducted a single-handed fight against the nefarious forces of the illicit liquor trade.

STEAMER MADE STORMY TRIP

Battled in Storm Between Port Hope and Port Credit on Lake Ontario For Over Twenty-Four Hours.

WARNING USELESS

TORONTO, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Through blinding blizzards and buffeting seas, whipped up by the wind of hurricane velocity, thirty members of the crew of the Canadian National Railways car ferry, Ontario No. 1, fought for 24 hours an epic battle against the elements before finding anchorage nearly 100 miles out of their course in a lee of the land off Port Credit yesterday morning.

While they rode in the teeth of the storm, lighthouse keepers, C.N.R. vessel was unable to make a landing. So Captain Redfern cruised around Port Credit until after daylight yesterday morning, when he succeeded in anchoring.

agents and other volunteer workers made heroic efforts to guide and warn the sailors by signal flares and whistles at different points along the shore of Lake Ontario between Port Hope and Port Credit. Communication by wireless was kept up between the ship and Captain C. H. Nicholson, manager of the C.N.R. steamships and car ferrys. From Toronto, Captain Nicholson enlisted the support of the Weather Bureau and port authorities and directed by telegraphic despatches the efforts of workers, who were trying to guide the ship.

Under Captain C. E. Redfern, the Ontario No. 1 set out from Charlotte, N.Y., for Cobourg City Sunday morning. It was due to arrive at Cobourg at 3 p.m., and was weighted with train cars. Some time after the scheduled hour for the arrival at Cobourg advices were received by wireless that the ship was unable to land in the heavy seas, and that Captain Redfern had decided to ride into the gale and blinding snow.

The vessel had Toronto [illegible] at about 2 o'clock yesterday morning. Efforts were [illegible] master Allen and the [illegible] crew to render assistance, but the [illegible]

WEEK OF PRAYER OPEN THIS WEEK

First Service in All Saints' Church Last Evening

The first service in connection with the Week of Prayer was held last evening in All Saints' Church. The meeting was a true prayer service, not much time being given to the address. This was the hope of the Ministerial Association in arranging the services this year. It wished to emphasize particularly the need and importance of prayer and hoped that there might be a large number from all the churches who would come together to wait upon God in a ministry of intercession.

The programme as arranged by the Inter-Church Advisory Council, called for two addresses on Prayer last Sunday in all of our churches, and then throughout the week, that the addresses and the prayers centre around the following subjects:

Monday, prayer for our children and young people; Tuesday, our church and neighborhood; Wednesday, all the world and its peoples; Thursday, the rule of Love and Justice in all human relationships; Friday, Forgiveness and Consecration.

The meeting for this evening will be in the Murray street Baptist church. The subjects for prayer will be: Let us pray for our church and neighborhood.

1. That the spirit of true evangelism may possess both minister and people and the year be marked by a gracious ingathering. Luke 15; John 20:21.

2. That the entire membership may know the power of the indwelling Christ and discharge fully the stewardship with which they have been entrusted. Eph. 4:16.

3. That our church may know and do the will of God for its own neighborhood. Psa. 40:7,8.

4. That our community may be in all things, one in which it is good to live. Isa. 65:19-24.

The Great Commission Prayer League has recently sent out an appeal for prayer, a paragraph or two

Can it be possible that the church will cross the threshold of the New Year still wallowing in its unbelieving, prayerless impotency?

Will it be content to pass through 1924 as through preceding years, asking for mere fleshy toys to consume upon itself, rather than for neighborhoods and nations, hamlets and hemispheres, to lay evangelized at the feet of the world's Redeemer?

Does it not know that the execution of its Christ-given task of world evangelization will follow speedily world wide return to spiritual health of its own paralyzed body?

"Oh, that Thou wouldst rend the heavens, that Thou wouldst come down! Let [illegible] sant heart-cry from millions of indifferent neglected prayer chambers, and the answer will come. Simultaneously on earth means "suddenly from Heaven." Acts 2:1.

PUT EMPHASIS ON AGREEMENT OF CANADIANS

Andrew McMaster In Regina Speech Said Creed and Race Differences Should Be Sunk In Nationalism.

REGINA, Jan. 8.—Need for the development of a Canadian sentiment for nationals moulded about the watchword of the French revolution, "Liberty, Equality and Brotherhood," was stressed by Andrew McMaster, K. C., M.P., for Brome, yesterday in addressing the Canadian Club. He pointed to the wide geographical, racial and religious barriers of the Dominion and urged that these be overcome by a policy of finding some common ground.

In touching on the question of brotherhood, Mr. McMaster said: "Things which would unite Protestant and Catholic in a common deal should be given the greatest possible prominence. I would also seek common ground and accord with the Jews. We have no room for the Ku Klux Klan or anti-Semitisim. All differences in race or religion should be sunk in extensive nationalism.

"I want Canada to be a nation. I want it to be a sovereign nation. I believe we can attain this without loosening the bonds of the Mother Country or the other dominions but any association we enter should be an association of equals not one of superiors and inferiors."

Western Canada, he said, should show a greater appreciation of the French language.

He urged that no thoroughly Anglo-Saxonized citizens of Canadian birth might destroy many laudable traits. Many of British descent, he argued, lack an appreciation of music and art.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Before and during the recent municipal elections a great deal was made of the fact that by far the larger portion of the city taxes were for purposes over which the council had no control and consequently could not be criticised for the spending of the same. The following, however, is a matter entirely within the control of the council and I wish to point out how a considerable amount can be saved on this one item alone. I refer to the garbage collection if we did this by direct labor I figure it would result in a saving of from $3500 to $3750 dollars per year. The present contract is for around $8000 (eight thousand dollars) and when the contractor were asked for a figure on twenty extra houses they wanted $800 (eight hundred dollars) to do this work by direct labor I figure it could be done for the following:

To 4 horses at $200 each.....	$ 800
To 4 sets of harness at $60 each	240
To 2 wagons at $159 each.....	318
To 2 sets of sleighs at $62 each (for wagons for winter)	124
To 2 men at $1200 per year	2400
To Feed for 4 horses at $400 per year, each.....	1600
To For incidentals	100
	$5582

This would show a saving the first year after purchasing outfit of approximately $2500 or after allowing 20 per cent. (twenty per cent.) for depreciation which would mean we could replace the outfit entirely every five year $20 per cent of $1492 (the cost of the outfit) $296.40, leaving a saving in value of $1186.60 which added to the $2500 aforesaid makes a total saving of $3686.60 out of a present expenditure of just over $8000 for the year. Surely this is not a sample as to how our taxes are spent. If so, it is no wonder our taxes are high. Everyone will admit that the above figure are generous and I have understated rather than over stated the case.

Yours faithfully,
GEO. LEADER.

Italian Nobility Pay Respects to the Pope.

COLONEL MACKLEM ARRESTED IN U.S.

NEW YORK, January 8 (Canadian Press). — Charged with being a fugitive from Hamilton, Ontario, Omar Macklem, aged 40, who says he was a colonel in the Canadian overseas forces, was arrested yesterday in an office building at Wall Street and Broadway, on the charge of obtaining $2,500.00 under false pretences.

It was learned that Col. Macklem was a stock salesman in a Broadway office.

Macklem said he had lost his left eye and part of his nose in France.

He is wanted here, it is alleged, for obtaining $2,500.00 under false pretences from George Swanwick, proprietor of the Princess Theatre.

COLONEL PLASTIRAS IS TO VISIT SWITZERLAND

ATHENS, Jan. 8.—Before starting to visit his mother at Kardista, Colonel Plastiras, head of the Revolutionary Committee, yesterday sent his passport to the British legation, requesting a visa for Great Britain. This the legation refused saying that the Colonel must first communicate with the British Foreign Office. Colonel Plastiras intended to visit Great Britain after his sojourn in Switzerland.

OFFICE IN CALGARY MAY BE ABOLISHED

United Farmers of Alberta Are Losing Members and Must Cut Expenses.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 8.—The United Farmers of Alberta may abolish their central office in Calgary and establish district organizations which will function at less expense. The fact that H. W. Wood, the U.F.A. president, is also head of the wheat pool, is responsible for this plan, which will be submitted at the annual convention next week. The matter of establishing a provincial bank will also be discussed.

BAR YOUNG STRIBLING FROM ATTENDING SCHOOL

MACON, Ga., Jan. 8. — W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia school boy boxer, has been barred from attending Lanier High school here, and unless an arrangement can be made for the middle-weight sensation to finish his high school education in this city, his father has announced that he will move.

When "Young" Stribling reported for classes the principal informed him that he had been dropped from the roll, giving too many absences as the reason.

All Fat People Should Know This

Fat people owe a debt of gratitude to the author of the now famous Marmola Prescription, and are still more indebted for the reduction of this harmless, effective obesity remedy to tablet form. Marmola Prescription Tablets can be obtained at all drug stores the world over at the reasonable price of one dollar for a box, or you can secure them direct on receipt of price from the Marmola Co., 461 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Michigan. This now leaves no excuse for dieting or violent exercises, for the reduction of the overfat body to normal.

FARMERS AND AGENTS SHOULD CO-OPERATE

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—"We are firmly convinced that the only permanent solution of our marketing problems lies in the establishment of the co-operative agencies operated on the sound business principles and owned and controlled by the farmers themselves."

This expression of opinion is made in the report of the directors of the United Farmers of Manitoba, submitted at noon to-day to the twenty-first annual convention following a review of economic conditions. Directors said that a separate report later would be presented dealing with the proposed wheat pool which was, it was said, most important question which had received their attention during the year.

Convention opened with upwards of five hundred delegates present and J. Farmer, Mayor of Winnipeg, delivered an address of welcome.

C. H. Burnell, in his Presidential address attached special importance to virtues of co-operative marketing of wheat and all farm products.

LONDON WAS WITNESS OF LARGEST FIRE IN YEARS

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— One of the biggest fires London has seen in years was still blazing at daylight this morning in the neighborhood of the West India docks. The flames, which started at three o'clock yesterday afternoon up to an early hour this morning had involved no buildings of importance, but the fact that warehouses within the area of the fire were stored with rubber, oil and similar inflammables, caused a tremendous blaze.

No casualties have been reported, but the property loss represents a big figure.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. — (United Press).—Stocks developed further stimulation at the opening to-day from increasing favorable prospects that the tax reduction would be given consideration in Congress before the bonus measure was taken up. This outlook helped along the bullish demonstration that was in progress at the previous close and the whole market was buoyant in the early dealings. Erie Common was the leader of the railway list, making a new high since 1918, when it sold at 23.

Throughout the early dealings, pronounced strength was displayed by a broad group of industrial stocks with the motor stocks in special demand under the leadership of Studebaker, which went into new high ground on the current movement at 108¼. Stocks were turned over in heavy volume through the first hour and further gains were recorded in every section of the list.

Erie exceeded the 1918 high of 23 3-8 by a full point.

Great Northern Preferred went into new high ground at 59¼, up nearly ten points from the low point of the break precipitated by tax selling at the year end.

American Can. was the outstanding feature of the industrials, reaching the highest price ever attained at 110 1-8.

There has been fairly heavy selling of Can. since the recent dividend meeting. The rise yesterday forced many shorts to take losses. Earnings for 1924 are expected to surpass 1923, based on record tinplate purchases.

19 BELOW ZERO AROUND APSLEY

Foot of Snow Fell Saturday Night—Pioneer of North Country Buried.

APSLEY, Jan. 7.—The funeral of Mr. Robert McCauley, another of the old pioneers of the North Country, took place on Thursday in St. George's church, the body being interred in the family plot in the churchyard. The deceased was brought from Peterborough where he died, to his daughter's house at Haultain, where a short service was held on Thursday morning, after which the funeral cortege proceeded by sleighs on its journey of fourteen miles to Apsley. The service was conducted by Rev. J. L. Hughes, of Young's Point, assisted by Rev. C. Spence.

Real Winter

A real cold snap visited Apsley on Sunday, Jan. 6th, accompanied by an old-fashioned blizzard. During Saturday night the thermometer registered 19 below zero. Very few people were abroad on Sunday, and with twelve inches of snow on the level, and drifting badly with the gale, roads in places will be well nigh impassable.

Additions to Library

The St. George's Institute library has been further augmented by a very welcome gift of a number of books and magazines from Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, of Lakefield, for which the parish is extremely grateful.

The fifth and last of the Sunday School Christmas trees of the Apsley Anglican Mission was held at the schoolhouse at Loon Lake on Friday evening and was an enjoyable affair.

A short programme was well rendered by the scholars, after which all received a present from the tree. In all about 120 members of the Sunday schools participated in these events, Mr. Spence presiding at each.

Rumoured Fatality

A rumour is current in the village that a day or two ago, Bill Davis, a trapper, and well known in Apsley, being a frequent visitor in the trapping season, was shot at and killed while on his way to get marlied. No further particulars have been learned at the time of writing. The tragedy occurred, so it is said, somewhere in the vicinity of Tory Hill or Gooderham.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT

There was to be a prty in the House That Jack Built! A sort of house warming, you might say, for the house was just finished, and Jack and his mother and Jill, his sister, had just moved from their old house on Pippin Hill to the pretty little cottage on Broom Street, named in af of Mother Goose.

Jack thought they ought to change the name of the street to "Dust-Pan" in honor of the Daddy Gander, as Mother Goose was away so much, but Daddy Gander wouldn't hear to it. He said it was bad enough to have one secret to keep without another one to worry him. He mean the secret about the sign that he add Tom Tinker had changed 'round—the sign which said "Mother Goose Her Land!" They had turned it over adn printed "Daddy Gander His Land" on the other side.

Well, anyway, the party in Jack's house on Broom Street was going to be a wonderful affair. Peter Peter Pumpkin Eater helped to decorate, and to use his own words, as he had more empty pumpkin shells than fifty growing lobsters, he said he would cut Jack o' Lantern faces on every one and put candles inside, provided the Candle-stick Maker would donate them for nothing.

What's that, my dears? Fifty growing lobsters wouldn't have any pumpkin-shells? Why, of course not, they would leave empty lobster-shells! How stupid of me! But I do believe you knew what I meant all the time.

But to get back to the party! If we don't stop talking about decorations and lobster-shells and so on, the party will be over and there won't be any room to tell about it.

And Missez Peter, who was no end grateful for the Twins helping her to get a nice new dress, offered to make some pumpkin pies.

So I will say the Peterses did their part to make the party a success.

And the Bakerman sent word that as there would likely be a few like Jack Horner, who didn't care for pumpkin, he would be most happy to take a big mince pie and mark it with "J" instead of "T." He didn't say whether the "J" was to be in honor of Jack or Jill or Jack Horner. But perhaps it was for all of them.

That for pies!

And there was to be cider! The apples grew so thick and juicy on Pippin Hill that Jack's mother had had several barrels pressed into cider. And, indeed, it was reported that it was her own good cider-vinegar that had cured the little boy's head when he fell.

And they had ice-cream and cake, too! But there! I'll have to tell you about the party tomorrow. I've begun at the wrong end and told about the refreshments first.

NEW QUEENSTON PLANT OPENED THIS MORNING

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 8.—The ceremony of turning on the sixth unit of the Hydro-Electric power plant at Queenston took place at noon to-day in the presence of Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Premier of Ontario. A number of the members of his cabinet, Sir Adam Beck and members of the Hydro Commission who arrived at the mammoth power plant this morning.

The turning on of the new unit of 55,000 horse power brings the total development up to 330,000 horse power, which is all being utilized. Units seven and eight are being rushed to completion, while tenders are being asked for units nine and ten, to be ready in 1925. When the latter are installed the 550,000 horse power development scheme will have been completed.

HON. MEIGHEN STEPS ON GAS

Tears the King Government Fore and Aft in Quebec.

THREE RIVERS, Que., Jan. 8. —(Canadian Press).—Featuring the address of Right Hon Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition in House of Commons, at a banquet tendered him here last night by the Conservative Club was an attack on the King administration and an ironical review of record of the government. Mr. Meighen was supported by Hon. Messrs. Ballantyne, Fauteaux, Belley and Monty.

Canada, he declared was country not indeed in despair, but suffering from serious wounds and to certain extent in distress. There was too much importation and not enough export of Canadian goods. People were treking southward where conditions were seemingly better.

"This," said Mr. Meighen, "if I remember correctly is not what men of the King Government promised."

Recent by-elections at Halifax and Kent were only dark clouds to announce the sweeping thunder storm of a Liberal defeat, he declared. For greater part of two years which Mr. King and his followers had been in office he said, they had spent their time in an "ingenuous struggle to shirk their duties. They had however ventured to do certain things.

They have been treaty making expeditions said Mr. Meighen, Premier started out with intention, apparently, of being father to treaties all over the world.

"He is casting his eyes westward now that his right arm is torn off by resignation of Sir Lomer Gouin. Final pretense at tariff protection it would seem has at last been done away with and only hope of Liberals to-day is for coalition with Progressives.

But remember, all this at expense of Province of Quebec, of yourselves."

Former Premier spoke of numerous commissions and royal commissions functioning at moment he dealt in particular with pulpwood commission declaring that all their action is futile.

"Tariff of next spring," he said, "is not going to be built on any principle, but on bargain made between Mr. King and Mr. Crerar to get votes of Progressives."

YOUNG LADY GAINS 15 POUNDS

Miss O'Brien, of Peterboro, Finds Wonderful Relief From Digestive Disorders in Dreco, the Famous Herb and Root Remedy—Now Has Fine Appetite and Sleeps Soundly.

Mrs. D. O'Brien, of 621 George St., Peterboro, tells how Dreco is helping her 20 year old daughter regain her wonted health and spirits, by correcting digestive ailments that were making life a misery.

"For about a year, my daughter, Marguerite, has been suffering from stomach trouble," says Mrs. O'Brien "Gas would form on her stomach and she would have terrible bilious and dizzy spells. Her nerves were very bad and her whole left side would tremble. She had a very poor appetite and, in fact, was afraid to eat because of the suffering afterwards.

"She lost weight rapidly and although I must have spent hundreds of dollars seeking relief for her, nothing did any good and it was only when we discovered Dreco and decided to try it, that improvement commenced.

"Three bottles of this grand medicine have done wonders for her. She no longer has any trouble with her stomach, has a fine appetite and sleeps soundly at nights. Dreco has built up her entire system and she has gained fifteen pounds in weight since starting with it."

Dreco is a reliable tonic and corrective made from the pure extracts of herbs, roots, bark and leaves. It contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs. Everybody needs just such a tonic to keep their system in proper shape.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you.

Dreco is also sold in other cities as follows:
Lakefield—E. H. Northey.
Campbellford—J. E. Birks.
and by a good druggist everywhere.

LINDSAY SPECIAL FOR TONIGHT'S LOCAL GAME

Combs Will Be on the Visitors' Team With Wilford and Killen Who Played in Toronto Last Year.

PETERBORO'S LINE-UP

Lindsay intermediates will be accompanied by a special train of rooters for their game here to-night. The management announced yesterday they would have the team at full strength for their annual appearance in Peterborough. Wilford and Killen, who played in Toronto while at college last year, have turned out and "Snort" Coombs has again surrendered to the lure of the game and has turned out to practice. He will be with the team to-night, and with these reports from the enemy's camp the local fans are assured of a real battle and fast brand of hockey.

The local team will be as follows: Goal, Dwyer; defence, Parker and McMartin; centre, Collins; right wing, Burgess; left wing, Ranger; subs, Rose and McPherson. This is virtually the same squad that cleaned up Eastern Ontario last winter. Legon is missing, but is replaced by McPherson, who moves up from the junior rank.

Junior Practice.

Lou Lebarr and Walter Jackson have begun the pruning of the junior string. No less than thirty turned out on Saturday night and were all over the scenery. To avoid useless confusion the following are requested to report at Brock street Wednesday night at 7 o'clock: Jack LeBarr, Mel McCall, F. Holland, P. Mullholland, G. Collins, N. Collins, J. Thornton, M. McDougal and N. McDougal, E. Williams, W. Cheu, E. Maudsley, J. Pogue, A. Johnson, —. Clarke, E. Young.

TWO GIANTS SIGN UP

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The New York Giants announced today two veterans of the pitching staff had signed 1924 contracts. They are Wilfred (Rosy) Ryan, and Jack Bentley, southpaw star purchased for $65,000 a year ago from Baltimore.

Old Boxer Found Frozen to Death

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press)—Thomas Forrest, said to be a former sparring partner of two heavyweight boxing champions—John L. Sullivan and Bob Fitzsimmons—was found frozen to death yesterday in a shack in which he lived at Coney Island. He lived alone and was 71 years old.

Well-to-do more than a score of years ago, when he owned a $40,000 intedest in a Sheepshead Bay shoe manufacturing business, Forrest met with a series of misfortunes and died penniless.

TRENT LACROSSE LEAGUE RUMORED

Early Effort Will Be Made to Detach Large Group From O.A.L.A.

HASTINGS, Jan. 7.—While hockey at present holds strong in the land and summer seems a long way off the different lacrosse centres round about here are nevertheless already making plans for next season and judging by the rumors floating so thickly about there will be some great changes before the 1st of May rolls round again.

Some of the eastern towns are talking seriously of breaking away from the O. A. L. A. as the teams in the smaller towns have no chance of winning any series from Toronto.

The towns which will likely form the Eastern District will be Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock, Marmora, Trenton, Belleville, Deseronto Napanee and Tweed.

Deseronto were the undisputed champions of Eastern Ontario in the midget series while Hastings won the laurels in the Juvenile for 1923.

dian Packing Co., were not represented.

Rules Amended.

At a meeting of the Constitutional Committee on local football rules, Fred Sutcliffe read through the book and made amendments to the bylaws that were approved by the meeting. In future the Phelan cup entry money shall be two dollars each season. Also the rules and constitution of P. and F. A. shall be printed at an early date and distributed among the clubs at a minimum cost.

Not Lost his Leg.

Mr. Whitley gave a brief address and stated that Billy Williams is still in the hospital in Toronto under the care of Dr. Starr, the best bone specialist in Canada, who reports that Williams' leg is on the way to recovery, and that there is no truth in the statement that he has lost his leg. The secretary was instructed to write a letter of sympathy to him.

GOTHAM TEAMS BUY PLAYERS

Giants and Americans Trade Five Men and Over $100,000 to Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 8. — Five baseball players from the two major league baseball teams will grace the Louisville American Association roster during the 1924 season, being sent her, in exchange for Weyland Dean pitcher, and Earle Combs outfielder. In addition to this, baseball experts here are of the opinion that the Colonels received over $100,000 in cash for the two players.

A deal whereby Combs became the property of the Yankees was completed here early to-day by Bob Connery, Yankee Scout, and William Neal Business Manager of the Colonels, athough a cash consideration in the transaction was kept secret. It was made known, however, that the word's champions will send two players in part payment for the slugging outfielder.

Dean was purchased by McGraw Saturday for $50,000 cash and three players. As yet no intimation of the five players to be sent here has been made public.

Hockey Player Fined For Assaulting Police.

REGINA, Jan. 7.—Ambrose J. Moran, defence player of the Regina Capitals serving a short term for assaulting a police officer at Brandon, has been pardoned by the remissions branch of the Department of Justice, Ottawa, on the condition that he immediately goes to work, according to Wes. Champ owner of the Capitals.

Champ expects Moran to arrive here to-morrow and play Wednesday night against the Calgary Tigers

ABOUT 'BEING FUNNY'

Sometimes It Pays, As Altrock and Shacht Proved.

LEFT TO RIGHT—AL SCHACT BEING STRANGLED BY ALTROCK AS NICK THROWS A BASKET.

Does it pay to be funny?

Or is it the best policy to take everything seriously?

They say left-handers never are serious. Eddie Plank, famous pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, was a decided exception to that theory.

Baseball was a business with Plank. Winning ball games was almost a mathematical science with him. When he stepped on the rubber to start a ball game it was a mighty serious opposition.

Nick Altrock was the decided opposite of Plank. No matter how tense the situation, regardless of how thrilling the battle, Nick was always able to see a little humor in some phase of the setting, always able to smile.

Plank Was Thrifty.

Eddie Plank was thrifty. That was a natural result of his viewpoint of the game. It was a business with Plank, a precarious business which might be cut short at any time. A slight injury to the arm and overnight a pitcher drops from a big league star to minor league material. Plank intended to be fortified when the inevitable happened.

Eddie Plank quit baseball with a nice bank account to his credit. In social circles he would be considered well to do. He invested his savings in the automobile game and has a thriving business in his home town.

Easy come, easy go, was the motto Altrock followed during his days as a big league star. Money meant nothing in particular to Nick, other than the power it possessed to provide fun and amusement. When Altrock retired, the old left arm finally losing its cunning. Nick's bank roll was very light.

Well do I remember a comparison a well-known writer once drew of the prosperous Plank and the down-and-out Altrock. The moral of the story was that it was far better to take everything seriously rather than lean to the humorous side of life.

Perhaps the sermon preached by said writer is by far the best policy to follow, but the irrepressible Altrock was shot to pieces the theory that his light-heartedness, his lack of seriousness proved his downfall.

Turns Theory Around.

Altrock, the baseball comedian, is today drawing a bigger salary for clowning than he ever did as a star pitcher. His salary as jester to his majesty, the baseball fan, is far greater than any the star pitchers of his day received.

Altrock has become an integral part of major league baseball. No world series would be complete without him and his partner, Al Schact, former big league pitcher. As a member of the Washington club he vies with the great Walter Johnson as a drawing card.

Now Altrock has broadened his field by taking up basketball. Nick doesn't play the strenuous game, but simply puts over the pantomime of the ball field on the basketball floor. Nick being original has added some new stunts that have a basketball flavor.

Altrock has proved that a man can be a success without ever having a serious moment. With Nick, life is just one laugh after another, a round of pleasure.

Billy Evans Says

Has the pitching in the major leagues gone back so much, or is it the conditions under which the twirlers are compelled to work, that has cut down their effectiveness? Every major league manager is looking for pitchers. A majority of the big league leaders are satisfied with the rest of their team but not one is willing to stand pat on his pitching.

I am inclined to think that the conditions under which modern pitchers are compelled to work har greatly minimized their effectiveness, rather than loss of ability.

Go back a half dozen or more years and the records will prove that the pitcher ruled supreme. Pitchers' battles were the rule rather than the exception, as is now the case. Not satisfied with the margin they held, the pitchers began to experiment with freak or illegal deliveries in order to further increase their effectiveness. These freak deliveries which placed the batsman at a decided disadvantage were the undoing of the pitchers, and created the condition that now exists in baseball, the supremacy of the batsman.

..Late last season President Johnson in an effort to cut down the baseball expense of the American League brought out some interesting facts in connection with major league pitching.

The expense for baseballs used during the course of an entire season back 20 years was about 5,000 for the entire American League. According to President Johnson, the expense in 1922 for the American League was around $35,000. Some increase. In about August of 1923 it became evident to President Johnson that the expense of 1923 would rival that of 1922. He decided on an immediate curtailment in the use of baseballs, and sent out a bulletin to his umpires that far more care should be used in tossing balls out of play.

While President Johnson's move was made purely from a business standpoint, the throwing out of fewer balls had a decided change in the pitching. During the last two months of the season it was far more effective.

For several years the pitcher has been compelled to pitch a new ball almost constantly. In the old days it was not unusual for an umpire to finish a major league game with from six to eight balls. For several years from two to four dozen have been used in every big league game. During the last two months of the 1923 season American League umpires kept every ball into play until it became absolutely unfit. As a result, the grade of pitching immediately showed improvement. Not compelled to use a new ball almost entirely, such a ball being difficult to grip, thereby cutting down the break on the ball, the pitchers at once perked up and held their own. The old ball helped restore confidence.

Pitching is certain to be much improved in the American League next year, as Presidenf Johnson will again insist his umpires carry out his instructions as to care in throwing out balls, such a bulletin having cut down expenses and bettered the pitching, two much desired results.

INDIGESTION GAS ON STOMACH PAINS AFTER MEALS

Many people suffer terribly from gas and pains in the stomach after every meal, and are kept in constant misery.

For the past 44 years Burdock Blood Bitters has been bringing hope and joy to thousands suffering from various forms of stomach trouble, helping them to eat three square meals a day; helping them to eat anything they wish, without having to suffer for it after.

Mr. Fred. Nielson, Moose Jaw, Sask., writes: "All last summer I was troubled with stomach trouble and indigestion, and also gas on the stomach. I could not eat anything except some light food and even then I would be bothered with pains after each meal. I could not work a whole day without being done out. I had tried everything; doctors, medicines and pills, until I read about Burdock Blood Bitters. I have taken four bottles and it has nearly, if not completely, restored me to health again."

LADYBUG USED TO KILL OTHER BUGS.

Science May Soon Discover An Insect Enemy of Bedbugs.

"They've found the bug that eats the bug that fights the bug that bites us. They know the bug that knifes the bug that stabs the bug that jabs us." It was some years ago that a poet, inflamed by the vision of various types of insects engaged in turn in making a meal of the other insects that preyed on the human race, wrote a many-stanza'd poetical effort to the above effect.

In recent years, the propagation of insects whose main aim in life is to eat up their harmful brethern has become an organized business.

A journal devoted to the interests of the citrus' growers trade, shows in its January issue a cut of an insectary built and maintained by the San Gabriel Valley Pest Control Association at Lamanda Park. Here about four million beneficial insects were produced during 1923 at a cost of about $1,000 per month.

Approximately one million of this number were the mealbug destroyer, the Cryptolaemus montrouzieri, which, translated into ordinary language ,is simply our old friend, the ladybug. There was always, evidently, a feeling abroad that the ladybug was a friend, rather than an enemy of society. Even children who took delight in depriving a fly of its working apparatus or a bee of its stinger would place one of these matronly-looking little red creatures on a leaf and adjure it to "fly away home", to its burning house and lonely children. And now the beneficient qualities of the ladybug have been recognized to such an extent that, instead of destroying them, they are marked for increase in the states where the mealybug, the ravager of the citrus fruit, holds sway. It is estimated that, in the districts where the artificially-fostered ladybugs are liberated, the county which maintains the insectary will be reimbursed at a price of one cent per head, so that the time has at last arrived when people will pay for insects for their gardens, rather than destroy them.

The red spider, red, black and purple scale are other pests that contribute to the unhappiness of life for the friut-grower, and the Mediterranean friut fly, which, "should it become established in California, might mean the elimination of the commercial production of stone fruits and perhaps oranges as it already has done in the Hawaiian Islands."

The total value of California's annual agricultural crop is about four hundred million dollars. Estimated by the state department of agriculture, the total loss from insect pests last year was $37,350,000, and the grand total of loss from insect pests, fungus and bacterial diseases during the year amounted to over ninety-three millions of dollars.

The establishing of new steamship lines to the Hawaiian Islands and the Orient and the rapidly increasing automobile traffic is blamed for introducing many new pests into the country. The former quarantine officer of the state department of agriculture has stated that inspectors at the state boundary lines last year found in automobile bedding and baggage 814 violations of the law which forbids bringing into California contraband fruit from states where citrus canker exists. In 29,000 automobiles inspected at southern points, 700 live alfalfa weevils were found, 69 being found in one car.

An estimate of the amount of damage that can be done by insect pests is furnished in the example of the cotton interests in the States, who reported losses from the boll-weevil this year as in the neighborhood of three hundred million dollars. Congress appropriated $500,000 in an unsuccessful attempt to eradicate it. In 1921, control measures for the eradication of the gypsy moth cost the state of Massachusetts $821,000. So the Californians, in view of the rapidly-increasing menace to their biggest interests by insect pests, are getting busy and making "dog eat dog" in quite a satisfactory manner. The only danger in view is that of the ladybugs suddenly becoming tired of a steady diet of mealybug and developing a taste for citrus fruit on their own account.

BASKETBALL NEWS

WITH BELLEVILLE TEAM

The local team have an accession in Mr. Roland Doughty of Peterborough, now resident in the "Y" building. He is an accomplished basketball player.

Peterborough, Belleville and Queen's are in one district.

Philip F. Brockel, convener, has linked Oshawa and Belleville High School in the junior series of this district.

YANKS TRADE SMITH

NEW YORK, Jan. 7. — Elmer Smith, substitute outfielder, will be one of the two players the New York Yankees will give in part payment for Earle Combs, star outfielder of the Louisville Club, of the American Association, it was announced to-day by Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the world's champions.

A substantial cash consideration, making Combs' purchase price the equivalent of about $50,000, also is involved in the deal, but Colonel Rupert declined to make the figure public.

ROUGH WRESTLING ENDS IN WIN FOR J. STECHER

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—In one of the roughest wrestling matches seen in this city in years, Joe Stecher, former national heavyweight champion, finally wore down Yusef Hussane, Bulgarian, in 57 minutes and 15 seconds, and threw him with a head chancery and barlock. Both men weighed 220 pounds.

KNOCKOUT IN SECOND FOR SIKI'S OPPONENT

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—"Battling" Siki knocked out Toney Stabenau, local heavyweight champion, in the second round of a scheduled ten round bout here last night. Stabenau was down for the count of nine three times during the first round. The knockout cam ein the first minute of the second round. Siki's weight was reported as 176 pounds.

LOCAL FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

Ex-President Cooke Appointed President — Excellent Financial Report of 1923-1924 By Secretary Treasurer W. G. Nicholls

RULES AMENDED.

The annual general meeting of the Peterboro and District Football Association was held last evening in the Lyceum, Simcoe street, when a fair attendance of enthusiasts made an appearance to hear reports of the Association's business for the season 1922-23.

President's Address.

Mr. Cairns, president, gave a synopsis of the game throughout the world and mentioned that Belgium had played against England and lost by five goals to one. Two teams travelled through Spain and France and proved the standard almost equal to any country. Even China is represented in the soccer field when they defeated New South Wales two goals to one, but had to admit defeat to Australia five goals to one. So you will notice that football is making progress wherever there are players, especially in this city.

Fred Sutcliffe Praised.

As a member representing football Fred Sutcliffe, on the P.A.A.A., has served the Association well, and obtained a complete set of football nets which has been greatly appreciated; also as the O.F.A. representative he has travelled to all O.F.A. meetings, without any expense to the association, ultimately making a great finan cial asset.

Good Secretary Work.

"I do not want to go through the executive board," remarked Mr. Cairns, "but I cannot overlook the excellent secretarial work given by W. G. Nicholls during the year, as the balance sheets show."

On the motion of David Melton, seconded by Art Laws, the financial statement was adopted, as follows:

TIGERS WEAK AT SECOND

Manager Ty Cobb of Detroit still has two serious problems to settle before his team can be considered a logical pennant contender. He must get a capable second sacker and be fortunate enough in having Third Baseman Bobby Jones to be able to play regularly. Derrill Pratt is through at second. The veteran can no longer cover enough ground to be rated a regular. Getting a second sacker is the biggest worry of the Tiger leader. Cobb is hot on the trail of Jimmy Dykes of the Athletics.

LEADS WITH HIGH SINGLE FOR LADIES' PRIZE.

Mrs. E. McNeeley is leading for the prize for the lady rolling the highest single for the next two weeks. Her score is 140. The prize being given for the lady rolling the high score is a beautiful boudoir lamp, and is to be competed for in the next two weeks.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE.

The Nashua Paper took two of three from the Lockworks last night in the Mercantile Five Pin League at Solomon's Alleys. Some nice scores were turned by the bowlers on the different teams seven out of the nine men rolling, rolled over 500 in their three games. Parker was high man for the night with a dandy score of 642 for his three games. He had the high single of 243. Robinson also of the Nashua had a nice score of 579. Following are the scores:

THE PORT HOPE FANS WITNESS FAST GAME

PORT HOPE, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—In an O.H.A. Junior game here last night, Cobourg defeated Whitby by a score of 5 to 4. It took 20 minutes' overtime to decide a winner. The game was very fast and very few penalties were handed out. Both teams gave a splendid exhibition of hockey. A large crowd witnessed the game.

OSHAWA'S INTERMEDIATES WIN FAST OPENING GAME

OSHAWA, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Ginger Edger and his Bowmanville crew of Intermediate puck chasers, fresh from their victory over Whitby, came up here last night for the local opening game of Group 3, and a capacity house was out to see the locals perform against the eastern hosiery crew. The home team won by a score of 5 to 2.

BRAMPTON JUNIORS TRIM THE INGLEWOOD TEAM

BRAMPTON, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Brampton won the Junior O.H.A. fixture with Inglewood 6 to 1. The game was fast from start to finish, and got faster in the third period. MacAlgie was the star of the Brampton line-up, scoring three of their goals.

JUNIOR CURLERS ARE ON THE ICE

Sixteen Members Already Enrolled With Earlier Hours Than Seniors.

A new departure in curling activities was launched yesterday, when a junior organization was formed, for boys from the ages of seventeen to twenty years. Sixteen members, forming four rinks, are already enrolled and will have the use of the curling rink daily from four to 5.30 p.m. Officers of the new organization are: Honorary president; Mr. Aex. Kay, president; William Cormack, secretary; Ronald Fleming, executive Bruce Fraser, Lawrence Killaly and Ken Baker.

Curling News

Curling got off to an excellent start last night, every ice being taken up. Five schedule games were played and some very close and exciting finishes were witnessed by a good crowd of spectators. R. M. Waddell beat Ray Best by one shot after an extra end, while Billy Menzies counted four on the last end to win by two shots from W. J. Henry. Gray Copping pulled off the surprise of the night by beating Bob Sturgeon's quartette by three shots. The following is the personnel of the rinks and results.

TOOK THE COUNT AFTER A MINUTE

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— Substituting at the last moment in the main bout of the International Club show at the Coliseum here last night, Danny McDonald of Providence, R.I., weighing 114 1-2 pounds took the count after one minute of fighting in the second round with Pete Sarmiento, the Filipino bantam weight.

Hughie Shannon, of Buffalo, had his boy Tommy Ryan ready to meet Sarmiento in the top liner, but he claimed that the Filipino asked a prohibitive guarantee in order to evade meeting his bantam. Macdonald conceded five pounds in weight and was no match for the dusky fighter.

After wrestling through five rounds, with Eddie Pinchot, of Charleroi, Penna., 128 pounds, Joey Fox, of England, opened up in the sixth and won by a technical knockout. The referee declared Pinchot went down without a blow. The crowd hissed both boxers for a very unsatisfactory showing. Fox weighed 129 pounds.

It took George Fifield, Toronto, 135 pounds, just one minute to rock E. Bell, Cleveland, 136 pounds, to slumber with a righ hook to the jaw. Joe Bashara, a middleweight, from Norfolk, Va., won easily from George West, of England, in six rounds, but got a draw decision. Alex. Burlie, Toronto, flyweight, received the finest trouncing of his career when he stacked up against Johnny Lear, of Hamilton, weighing 113. Burlie had a good margin in the first three rounds, but from the beginning of the fourth to the finish his greatest concern was to save himself from a knockout. In fact he was out on his feet in the fourth after taking three counts, but was saved by the bell. He took another count in the fifth, but recovered and lasted the remainder of the bout, of six rounds. Lear won by a wide margin. Tommy McDonald, 117 pounds, of Hamilton, and Elmer Watt, 121 pounds, fought themselves to a standstill and a draw in six rounds.

OWEN SOUND JUNIORS WON FROM PARKDALE SQUAD

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Owen Sound Juniors did not let up in their game last night with the Parkdale Canoe Club Juniors, running a high score of 8 while the visitors notched only one. The locals got three in the first frame, two in the second and three in the third.

The game was an excellent one, and though one-sided, was decidedly interesting.

SPORT NOTES

The railbirds saw a squad of promising Junior O.H.A. players when more than two dozen youngsters performed at the Rink last evening. There will be no trouble in selecting a fast team to meet Lindsay Midgets here next Friday night in the first game of the double series. The Petes are well supplied with goalers, defence and forward players, the majority of whom are fit and ready for the championship race.

To-night, the Intermediate Rites make their bow in a championship contest with Coombs & Co. of Lindsay. The ice is fast, and weather conditions could not be more satisfactory. The opener promises to attract a capacity crowd.

"Yes, we have no Jackie Williams" is the parody now being sung at St. Thomas. Radiograms from Belleville tell the world that the bronzed traveller-pitcher remains in the Quinte town.

After issuing a defie to hockeydom Oshawa proceeded to win at home last night. The motor town crowd have an eye on Eastern Ontario honors and expect to dispose of all opposition, including the Petes. At this distance it looks like Oshawa, Belleville and Peterboro will furnish the excitement in February.

Billy Cutt's coming visit here on January 16th to meet Al. Williams is creating much interest in sport circles, and the bill promises to attract a large crowd. Boxing fans are eager to have a peep at the Rochester lad, who has hung up a lengthy string of ring victories since he left Peterboro.

Marmora Trent Valley puck-chasers invade Havelock on Friday night in the second game of the series. Brennan who played with the local Juniors last season will play with the railroad town team.

PRESENTATION TO CHIEF COMPANION

Mrs. S. Adlam Honored on Eve of Retirement From Office.

Last evening, members of Queen Alexandra Circle No. 36, A.O.F., gathered to honor their retiring Chief Companion, Mrs. S. Adlam, by presenting her with a gift and the following address:

"Dear Chief Companion,—As your co-workers and members of this Queen Alexandra Circle, we desire on this occasion to convey to you, in some measure, an expression of our sincere approval for your earnest efforts and great interest manifested during the past three years and a half, in furthering the interests of our Lodge and its entire membership.

"We request you to kindly accept this gift as a token of appreciation and sisterly feeling, extended to you at this time, and it is our earnest wish that you may be long spared to labor among us as zealously as ever in the glorious cause of our beloved Order."

Signed on behalf of the Companions,

Companion B. M. Wylder.

RICH, RED BLOOD BUILDS STRENGHTH AND NERVE POWER

To Renew Vitality We Must Enrich the Blood Which is the Driving Force of Life.

What gives the athlete his strength? Red blood. What drives the worker, and the business man, also, up the steep hill of (success Red Blood. What makes the glowing, vital beauty of woman? Red Rich, red blood is the supreme driving force of life. If our bodies no longer respond to Nature's processes that should re-build strength and vitality, then we should enrich it, nourish it. Red blood feeds the body tissues, stimulates the nerves, makes our systems tingle with the pulsing of life.

If we lack strength and nerve power we should always think first of our blood. Discouraged or exhausted men and women should get from their druggist to-day a generous size bottle of Wincarnis. Start this home treatment at once. It cost less than ten cents a day. In twelve days see the improvement Wincarnis, the blood builder, brings. No need to worry. Wincarnis will give you new strength, vitality, nerve force.

FAST WELLAND JUNIORS WON FROM HUMBERSTONE

PORT COLBORNE, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—In a fast and interesting Junior O.H.A. game here last night, Humberstone defeated Welland by the score of 4 to 3, the winners leading 2 to 1, first period, and 3 to 2, second period.

STRATFORD JUNIORS GO DOWN BEFORE KITCHENER

KITCHENER, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Kitchener's Junior O.H.A. champions had little difficulty winning their opening game of the season here last night from the Stratford Midgets, 7 to 2. It was a well-played junior game with plenty of nice combination and fast flashy individual work. The kids certainly played fine hockey for so early in the season.

COGNAWAGA RINK HAD A GOOD OPENING

The Cognawaga Club of St. James' church had the opening of their skating rink last evening and it proved to be a very successful affair. There were over two hundred present and the skaters enjoyed the two hours' skaitng. The band was in attendance and their music added interest and gaiety to the event.

The rink has been enlarged and a new lighting system installed and is in splendid shape.

The young men of the church are to be congratulated on their enterprise in providing this splendid open air rink, which will be open every night.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

The screen dramatization of "The Light That Failed," filmed from Rudyard Kipling's book of the same name, now showing at the Capitol Theatre, has for its hero Percy Marmont, the actor who took the principal role, that of Mark Sabre, in the screen version of "If Winter Comes." As Dick Heldar, he gives a convincing interpretation of the sufferings of the man who makes a name for himself as a war artist, then suddenly is stricken blind, at the moment of completing the painting which is to be his masterpiece.

Perhaps the most outstanding figure in the story is that of the little model, Bessie, played in splendid fashion by Jacqueline Logan. She falls in love with the man who has befriended her, Torpenhow, the war correspondent, enacted by David Torrence, and when his friend, Heldar, interferes with the infatuation, she breaks her vengeance upon him by destroying his beloved picture. The blonde heroine of the piece, Maisie Wells, is portrayed by Sigrid Holmquist.

The picture ends with an interrogation point, as far as the little Bessie, who commands the sympathy of her audience, is concerned.

The trials and tribulations of an elderly lady in search of romance and thrills, who embarks on an expedition with a movie camera and a strictly amateurish set of assistants, are portrayed in the comedy which precedes the feature.

AT THE GRAND.

A MYSTERY PLAY

The Rex Stock Company has something new for Peterboro playgoers in the mystery play which has been chosen as the vehicle for this week and which entertained and thrilled a big crowd at the Grand last night. The play is nameless, is given in one long act, and is a constant series of dramatic surprises, relieved by a wealth of comedy. It would not do to tell the plot because that would spoil the fun for those who will see the offering to-night or to-morrow night, but it is sufficient to say that all kinds of mysterious personages and incidents are involved in the action—$200,000, a body that refuses to stay "put," crooked politicians, a hermit, revolvers, talks of ghosts, and a lot of other ingredients, are combined to make a thrilling evening, and the final surprise leaves the majority of the audience amazed.

The Rex Company gives an admirable production of this clever play, perhaps the best all round performance that the organization has given here. Every member of the company is called upon during the action and there are no weak spots anywhere, while Larry Lauren e has provided a scenic investiture away above the ordinary. Rex, Zara Vaughan, Billy Seymour, Billy Yule, Herbert Lewis, Fred Dampier, and Hazel Williams are particularly good in their respective roles, but none of the company fall down and the whole production reaches a high standard.

There should be capacity houses for the rest of the run for no one who wants to be thrilled one moment and to laugh the next should miss Rex's mystery play.

BRANSBY WILLIAMS TO PRESENT GREAT FRENCH DRAMA

When the distinguished English character actor Bransby Williams returns to the Grand Opera House for two days next Friday with his all-English company, he will produce a Grand Guignol drama entitled "Vidocq". This play is founded on the life of the Great French detective of the same name who lived in Paris in Napoleon's time. It is a splendid detective story with excitement and thrills galore, and deals with the early adventures of Vidocq before he became the great man. Mariette, an orphan and heir to a large fortune is the ward of an unscrupulous innkeeper, who is in league with a notorious band of criminals. She is in love with Vodocq, a young captain, but is courted by the leader of the band, Villeneuve, who attempts to abduct her. The innkeeper is caught in the act of betraying the gang and is slain by Villeneuve. The crime is fastened upon Vidocq, who is found in the room with the corpse. The Paris police suspect him to be the leader of the gang, and believing that they can capture the whole gang if they allow him to escape from prison they arrange his release, Finding Vidocq has no connection with the criminals, he is rearrested and given two weeks to vindicate himself. In doing so he appears at the most opportune times in the most unexpected places and in the most extraordinary disguises, with the result that he is able to exact the necessary confessions in presence of the police, and all ends happily.

Bransby Williams as Vidocq, plays six different characters necessitating a change of costume fifteen times during the run of the drama. Leslie Barrie, who had the name part in "David Copperfield" a few weeks ago, is now seen as the leader of the gangsters; Eric Williams, son of the famous actor has the part of chief of police; Madeliene Temple, the old Mrs. Gummidge, plays the difficult role of mistress of the leading gangster, while Uriah Heep, in the person of Fred. Forrest, now is the secretary to the police chief. Little Emily is now Mariette de Bernai, Vidocq's sweetheart. The part is played by Nina Gerrard.

There will be the usual Saturday matinee. Another play entitled "Tatterley" will be presented on Saturday evening. This is of an entirely different type. It is a charming domestic drama dealing with the story of an old miser who impersonates his dead servant "Tatterly" to discover how his money would be spent after his death. It has a a delightful love story running through it. Seats are now on sale at the box office for all performances.

ZANA-VAUGHN

AT THE ROYAL.

Last night a well filled house greeted the opening of the new policy adopted by the Royal management, high class vaudeville with the picture programme. The three acts were all good examples of their kind. Steele and Diehl open the vaudeville programme with banjo and saxaphone selections. They are experts on both and were well received. Will Kramer, comedian and yodler ,made a hit. He impersonates Al. Jolson and other phonograph celebrities. Myers and Nolan, a singing, talking and piano act closes the show and if applause is any criticism the entire vaudeville programme is up to the mark. The picture programme includes a Baby Peggy comedy, "Little Miss Hollywood," and introduces intimate glimpses of screen celebrities, Mary and Doug., Charlie Ray, etc.

Wm. S., Hart in "Wild Bill Hickok," returns to the screen after a prolonged retirement.

Mr. Hart has scored more than a come-back in this picture, he has established himself more firmly than ever in the hearts of picture fans everywhere, if his personal success last evening is to be taken as a criterion. In his portrayal of virile western characters Mr. Hart has no rival and he stands alone as the most virile two-gun man on the screen. His versatility never was displayed to finer advantage in any picture. "Wild Bill" is the greatest thing he has ever done on the screen.

Ethel Grey Terry is Mr. Hart's leading woman and Kathleen O'Connor also has an important role. Among others in the cast are Herschel Mayal, James Farley, Jack Gardner and Carl Gerard.

WEDDING BELLS

FINNIE—WEDLOCK.

The marriage took place on Wednesday last, January 2nd, at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. Mr. Elliott, Baptist minister, of Toronto, of James Finnie, of South Monaghan, son of the late John Finnie and Mrs. Finnie, and Delia Wedlock, of Toronto, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Wedlock.

The young people left Toronto on the five o'clock train for Peterboro, where a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. W. Thompson, 82 McDonnel Street. They will reside in South Monaghan.

MATTT—CALDWELL.

The marriage took place quietly in Toronto yesterday of Madeline Caldwell, of Clydesdale, Ontario, to Adelard Matte, of St. Thuribe, Que. The bride was assisted by Miss Margaret Hudson, of Toronto, and the bride's brother, Leonard Caldwell, acted as best man. After January 14th, Mr. and Mrs. Matte will reside at 5 Wilmot Avenue, Toronto.

CLANCY QUINLAN.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, Jan. 2, in Immaculate Conception church of Mary, eldest daughter of Mrs. T. J. Quinlan, to Robert J. Clancy, son of the late Wm. and Mrs. Clancy.

The young couple were attended by Miss Myrtle Quinlan and Mr. Vincent Sullivan.

After a short honeymoon trip the young couple will reside in the city.

Society

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sullivan of Otonabee arrived home yesterday morning after a pleasant visit with friends in Palmo, Minden and Port Huron, Michigan.

Miss Kathleen Gilroy, of Nelson, B.C., is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Green, 375 Brock Street.

The patronesses for the Belmont Club At Home to be held on Friday evening Jan 11th., are: Mesdames R. H. Turner, R. Denne, H. W. Cressman, C. G. Graham, C. K. Lech, F. L. Roy, G. N. Gordon, W. H. Bradburn, G. D. McClelland, A. W. McPherson. Music for the At Home will be supplied by Al. Linton's Columbus Hall Orchestra.

Mrs. C. J. Henry of Buffalo, is visiting her mother, Mrs. M. I. Henry, Brock street.

Friends of Miss Margaret Buyers 479 Albert street will regret to learn she was operated on for appendicitis last evening, at Nichol's Hospital, but pleased to hear that her condition to-day is reported as favourable.

The engagement is announced of Hattie M. Anderson, Toronto, to George A. Martin, Lindsay, Ont., the wedding to take place quietly in Toronto Jan. 15, 1924.

RADIO NEWS

TESTS CARRIED OUT.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8. — Last night and early this morning a series of radio tests were carried on between the Northern Electric Company, Montreal, Station CHYC (experimental No. 9BM) and Robert H. Combs at experimental station 3UH, Toronto. The object of the tests was to ascertain at what frequencies signals broadcast at Montreal were received best in Toronto. The topography of the intervening country is said to be a determining factor.

The signals transmitted last evening at 341 metres were fairly satisfactory but the loudest and strongest results were obtained at 550 metres early this morning. This wavelength, however, is unsuited to the average receiving set and is not considered practical for broadcasting purposes for this reason. Tests were made at all frequencies between 300 and 550 metres, and it is expected that the wave length to by finally adopted will be in the neighborhood of from 340 to 350 metres.

PARLIAMENTARY SESSION HAS OPENED IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Jan. 8. Canadian Press. —A parliamentary session, which the political experts predict will be one of the most fateful in modern history of Britain, got under way this afternoon when the newly elected members of the House of Commons took their seats.

The critical nature of the session was evidenced by the large number of members arriving early to claim their seats.

The early routine proceedings were on the whole decorous but there was an undercurrent of excitement which at times found expression in mild demonstrations, percussory of a great clash of members which will begin next week.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

In the American Revised Version of the Bible the word "sheol" and "hades" has been left untranslated. Honesty and fear may have been the sole reason for not doing so. To translate "sheol" and "hades" to be "hell" in its general false meaning, would lead to contradicions and absurdities. To translate it truthfully (the grave) will give the words of Scripture no false, uncertain, unreasonable sound. Read the following passages in your American Revised Version, putting the word hell for "sheol' and "hades,' and read them again putting the word "grave" instead of the word "hell," and note the correct rendering: Ps. 9:17; Numb. 16:32, 33; Matt. 11:23; Ezekiel 32:27; Ps. 49:14; Gen. 44:31; Job 17:13-16. Ezekiel 31:16; Gen. 37:35; Job 14:13; Ps. 49:10; Ezekiel 9:10; I Sam 2:6; Ps. 139:8; Jonah 2:2; Acts 2:31; Rev. 1:18; Hosea 13:14. Rev. 20:13. In the last passage (Rev. 20:13) the King James version in the margin says "hell" means the grave, and in I Cor. 15:55, says the grave means hell. The words are interchangeable and the meaning is the same. Death and "hades" (grave) will be cast into the lake of fire, which is the second death. Rev. 20:14. Read Rev. 19:21; 20,10, 14, 15; 21:8. In both the Old and New Testament the Adamic death is called a sleep, but no such symbol is used in reference to the "second death."—M. T. Butcher.

CELEBRATION IN LONDON OF LABOR'S POLITICAL SUCCESS

BRITISH LABOR EXULTS IN VICTORY THOUSANDS IN ALBERT HALL CHEER M'DONALD AND SING "THE RED FLAG"

Speakers Put Damper Pedal On Socialistic Ideals But Frail Woman Reciting the Story of Christ and His Doctrine of Brotherhood Touched the Hearts of the Multitude — Radicals Approve Recognition of Red Russia.

NATIONAL ANTHEM WAS OMITTED.

LONDON, January 9 (Canadian Press). — In a great demonstration in Albert Hall last night, the British Labour Party celebrated its victories in the recent general elections, and pledged its united efforts to constructive work toward the rehabilitation of Great Britain, Europe, and the world at large, if called upon, as seems a certainty within ten days, to assume the task of governing the United Kingdom.

"We have been in the battle, and we have brought back the trophies," said J. Ramsay MacDonald, the Party leader and principal speaker, as he turned to the platform behind him, where most of the 192 Labour members of the House of Commons were seated. The great domed hall echoed and re-echoed with the cheers of nearly ten thousand voices.

As the meeting progressed, the enthusiastic rank and file of the Labourites cheered themselves hoarse as the election battles were re-told and the representatives of Labour presented themselves.

However, on the whole, the dominant spirit of the leaders in their first public utterances since the election seemed to be not one of jubilation, but of serious realisation of the heavy responsibilities that will confront the Party when it inherits what Mr. MacDonald termed "the bankrupt estate" of the present Government.

Sang "The Red Flag."

For a meeting of what has been considered in the past as Great Britain's revolutionary party, last night's demonstration was a tame affair. It began with the singing of the "Marseillaise," and closed with a vociferous rendition of "The Red Flag," which was probably enough to cause the Londoners living in their palatial homes in the vicinity of Albert Hall to lock their doors in alarm.

The Labour adherents failed, among other things, to chant or sing the National Anthem.

Nevertheless, the speakers indulged in little radical talk, and made no predictions of the approaching millenium. In fact, they gave every evidence that Labour does not intend to turn England upside down.

Mr. MacDonald pleaded with the press for fairness, if Labour assumed power. The crowds cheered approvingly, while he mildly reproved about fifty reporters grouped around the table before him for their reportorial shortcomings in chronicling Labour news, and said:

"If capital leaves the country it will be because of the panicmongers, and if Parliament is blown up, metaphorically speaking, the headquarters of the modern Guy Fawkes will be in the offices of the newspaper combines, not at Labour headquarters at Eccleston Square."

The Socialistic tendencies of the Labour movement were severely soft-pedalled during the victory demonstration.

Mr. MacDonald mentioned the word Socialism only once during his speech, and then coupled it with a broader term, as he proclaimed "Democracy and Socialism," as the aims of the Labour movement.

Radicals Heard From.

The only opportunity for a demonstration on the part of the radicals with Russian leanings came when Mr. MacDonald said that one of the first acts of Labour would be to end the pompous folly of aloofness. Scattered shouts of approval burst from widely separated sections of the crowd, but it was nothing to compare with the ovation later accorded Margaret Bonfield, a frail little woman, whose voice carried to the loftiest corners of the big building.

She seemed to touch the hearts of the whole audience, and everybody there joined in applauding her simple recitation of the story of "A Man Named Jesus," whose creed was the brotherhood of man. The Labour Party, she said, wanted to walk in His footsteps.

In addition to Mr. MacDonald, who had a tremendous reception, the speakers included John Robert Clynes, James Henry Thomas, Robert Smellie, George Lansbury, and thers who are likely to figure as ministers in Great Britain's first Labour Government.

Not Seeking Office.

Briefly alluding to the turn of affairs which had brought his Party to the threshold of Government, Mr. MacDonald repudiated any desire to take office, saying:

"Has any heir been so foolish as to hasten off the stage of this mortal life a father who is going to leave him a bankrupt estate."

Then, describing his Party as a party of idealists, dreaming of a social organisation more perfect than mankind had ever known, he said:

"But we are not going to jump there; we are on a pilgrimage. One step is enough for me."

Disavowing any idea of counting his chickens before they were hatched, the Labour leader declared that if Labour came into office, its task would be to mobilise all men and women of goodwill and safe judgment. He gave assurance that his Party was not aiming at another general election.

Fire Along Thames Did Heavy Damage

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The fire, which had been raging since Monday along the Thames in the neighborhood of the West India docks, was extinguished at noon yesterday. Buildings extending over an area of a quarter of a mile were consumed by the flames. The damage is estimated at more than £200,000.

The firemen labored throughout last night in relays, trying to stop the spread of the fire and keep it from coming into contact with the adjoining warehouses filled with inflammable goods. Large numbers of firemen last night watched the smouldering ruins, amid the fumes of frizzling rubber coming from one of the largest buildings destroyed.

BETTING AMONG BRITISH WOMEN HAS INCREASED

Report of House of Commons Committee Suggests a Tax on Bets and Legalizing of Pari - Mutuel Machines.

LAW DEMORALIZES.

LONDON, January 9. Canadian Press Cable. — Some remarkable sidelights on the growth of betting in the United Kingdom, especially among the women, appear in the report of the select committee of the House of Commons which was appointed some time ago to enquire into the matter with a view to the possible imposition by the government of a tax on betting. The committee's report was issued yesterday.

The committee at its final meeting, intimated that a tax on betting was practicable but the dissolution of parliament prevented them from sufficiently considering the draf. of the report of the chairman, Sir H. S. Causley, who proposed state control of betting and a scheme of taxation.

Millions Break Law.

The report says:

"There is a continual breaking of the law by millions of people by betting in the streets and the surreptitious passing of betting slips and the constant endeavor to avoid the police must have a demoralizing effect on character and establish a general weakening of respect for the law.

"The canvassing among women especially, in the absence of their husbands, the employment of children as messengers to carry betting slips, thus teaching the children to bet, the establishment of betting agents in manufacturing and other concerns to encourage betting by the payment of commissions, and these agents betting with children on their own account, are a very great moral danger to the rising generation."

Inequality of Law.

Dealing with the present state of the law with regard to betting, the commitee reports as follows:

"No principle in dealing with betting can be deduced. At no time and in no place has betting been prohibited. The law is confused and inconsistent. The rich man can bet to any extent without a penalty while the poor man is liable to a criminal penalty, as is also the bookmaker with whom he makes his bet. There is evidence that this inequality of the law produces strong resentment among large numbers of the population more particularly in the districts where street betting is practised."

The report states the evidence submitted to the committee establishes a fact that women are betting to a large and steadily increasing extent.

The chairman's draft report suggests that a tax of 2½ per cent on bets would yield 5,000,000 pounds annually. A portion of this, the chairman agreed, might be earmarked for the encouragement of horse breeding He also makes the suggestion that the establishment of totalizators and parimuteuls on racecourses should be legalized.

HON. NARCISSE PERODEAU NEW GOVERNOR OF QUEBEC

PREMIER NAMES SUCCESSOR TO LOUIS BRODEUR

Has Had Long Experience In Political Life of His Province — Professor of Law and Member of the Cabinet.

INVESTED THURSDAY.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.— Hon. Narcisse Perodeau, Montreal, has been appointed Lieutenant Governor of Quebec in succession to the late Hon. L. P. Brodeur. He will be sworn in Thursday.

Premier King announced the appointment of the new LieutenantGovernor of Quebec last night. He described Mr. Perodeau as a man eminently qualified to discharge the duties of the office.

Has Wide Experience

MONTREAL, Jan. 9—Hon. Narcisse Perodeau, newly appointed Lieut.-Governor of Quebec, has been a member of the legislative council of the province since 1897, and has been a minister without port folio since 1910 and leader of the government in the Upper House.

Hon. Mr. Perodeau was born in St. Ours County of Richelieu on March 26, 1851, and educated at the college of St. Hyacinthe, later attending McGill University, where he took the degree of Bachelor of Civil Law in 1876. Since April 1897 he has ben a professor of the law faculty of the University of Montreal.

Mr. Perodeau is a director of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated and Vice-President of the Provincial Bank of Canada and is interested in other organizations.

Takes Oath Thursday

QUEBEC, Jan. 9—Arrangements have been made here for the swearing in of Hon. Narcisse Perodeau as Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec in succession to the late Hon. L. P. Brodeur. The oath will be administered by Sir Francois Lemieux, chief justice of the Supreme Court, at noon on Thursday of this week.

Eulogies of the late Mr. Brodeur were pronounced in the House yesterday by Premier Taschereau, Arthur Sauve, leader of the Opposition and W. S. Bullock, M.L.A., for Shefford, senior English speaking member of the House. Regret was expressed by the three speakers at the death of Moise O'Bready, Conservative M.L.A. for Sherbrooke, who died during the adjournment, without having had an opportunity of taking the seat he had won at the general elections last February.

The prime minister referred to Mr O'Bready as an intimate friend of his own, a distinguished lawyer, and a man of ideals who would have gone far in public life had death not intervened.

VICTIMS OF MEXICAN INSURRECTION

Here is pictorial evidence that the rebellion in Mexico is real war. Th is picture was taken after the battle of Casas Grandes, and shows the rebel dead surrounded by some of the victorious federal troops. There not more than 40 rebel dead, but the federals, who did not show their casualties, lost more than 300 men. The turmoil south of the Rio Grande is far from being a sham battle.

OIL SUPPLIES SHOW DECLINE

Consumption Has Gained On Production and New Fields Must Be Found Before Long.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The rate of petroleum consumption is increasing more rapidly than the rate of supply, a committee of the Mining and Metallurgical Society of America, asserted in a report made public yesterday by Allen H. Rogers, president of the organization. As a matter of fact, the committee stated, the number of "days' supplies" of petroleum has been decreasing since June 1920, and the September figure represented only 199 days' supply, a situation reached or exceeded in 1917 1919, 1921 and 1922.

Production of petroleum from every field in the United States, it was stated, is either stationary or decreasing with the exception of the Powell Field in Texas. It declared also that "before long the United States will again enter the phase of this cycle which calls for the offering of rewards for the discovery of larger and more prolific fields than ever have been found to date, in order to keep pace with the ever-growing consumption."

"Reference to various authoritative estimates of the oil possibilities of the United States and the rest of the world," the report stated, "will show that there is every reason to believe there exists adequate sources of oil in the world to meet all present and future demands for many years to come."

ENGINE CREWS REJECT AWARD

Executive of British Association of Engineers and Firemen Seek Meeting With Managers.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The executive of the associated society of locomotive engineers and firemen, at the close of an all-day meeting this evening officially announced that the view of an an overwhelming majority of the society's members was against the acceptance of the award of the national wages board. The vote was 6 to 1 in favor of this decision, it was stated. The executive decided to request the general managers of the railways in the United Kingdom to meet its members to discuss the position before taking any further action.

It was stated recently that the railway wages board's award, which did not contemplate any serious reduction of wages, was regarded by the men's leaders as fairly satisfactory and that it was not anticipated that there would be any trouble in connection therewith.

Decision Adverse To Grain Exchange

WASHINGTON,, Jan. 8.— A Federal Trade Commission decision handed down yesterday found the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, said to be the largest organized grain exchange in the United States, guilty of unfair competition against a farmers 'co-operative grain marketing organization, and ordered it to desist.

The Equity Co-operative Exchange, at St. Paul, Minn., the farmers' organization concerned, was refused business connection with the Minneapolis Exchange and a quotation service from that market, the decision said, because it turned the earnings from its business to members of its organization in the form of "partonage dividends."

MADE EXAMPLE OF RING LEADERS

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9.—In an effort to curb housebreaking and petty thievery which has been prevalent in this city recently, Sir Hugh John Macdonald handed out heavy sentences to the ring leaders of a gang which is alleged to have broken into over half a hundred private houses and stores in this district and who appeared before him for sentence yesterday.

Theodore Hanna and Archibald McGuire, said to be the master minds of the gang, were each sentenced to seven years imprisonment in Stoney Mountain Penitentiary while William H. Bell, convicted on four charges of receiving stolen goods, and Jean Bell, a youthful girl were each sentenced to serve one year in the provincial jail. Eric Williams, charged with theft, was allowed his freedom on suspended sentence.

Two other alleged members of the ring are to come up for sentence on Friday next.

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB HELD FIRST MEET

Officers Elected and Reports Presented Covering Year's Work.

St. George's Young Men's Club held its first meeting last night for the New Year. The meeting was well attended, and the chair was occupied by the new president, Mr. Harry Rew.

Mr. Harry Snowden consented to act as secretary for another year.

Mr. A. Sims, vice-president, was appointed treasurer.

Mr. Simms read a financial statement showing that over $250.00 had been raised by the club during the year, most of it being spent on the church building.

Games were indulged in, and a very enjoyable evening was spent by the members present.

LEFT FOR FRANCE.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(United Press)—Travelling as an ordinary passenger, the Prince of Wales departed today for Paris for a short visit.

ANCIENTS OPEN FRENCH HOUSES

Deans of Senate and the Chamber, Both Beyond Four Score Mark, Given Honor of Precedence.

PARIS, January 9 (Canadian Press). — Speeches by the deans of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies opened yesterday a session of the French Parliament which will be its last before the elections in May to choose its successor.

In the Upper Chamber, Senator Gustave Denis, a nonagenarian, dealt in his opening speech with the task before the Parliament which he said now, five years after the Armistice, seemed to have become heavier than ever. He found comfort in France's freedom from unemployment, the calm prevailing in the country, and the prosperity of the people, which enabled them to struggle through their difficulties.

"I wish, in concluding," he said, "to pay homage to the League of Nations, the authority and prestige of which are steadily growing rmer. It is absolutely indispensable that this institution be assured of success in these day when all nations, whether monarchies or republics, see the spirit of democracy and of civilisation growing in their home lands. It is thanks to the League of Nations that universal peace will one day reign, and it may even succeed in drawing that unfortunate but interesting country, Russia, from the abyss."

The speech by 83-year-old Louis Andrieux in the opening of the Chamber of Deputies, was an effort which kept the House in continual laughter, the Dean of the Chamber being one of its most noted humorists.

French Army Shows Failure of Schools.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—(Associated Press).—France has been credited with the possession of an excellent system of education, but faith in it received a rude shock recently when the literacy statistics of two infantry regiments, recruited in 1923, were given out.

One-third of the young men, gathered largely from the farming districts of the Republic, could neither read nor write. Many of the total of 700 did not know a treaty of peace had been signed after the war, and few could tell who made the laws for their country.

NEW ACTORS ON HISTORIC STAGE OF PARLIAMENT

Re-assembling of British House of Commons Was Quiet and Uneventful—Labor and Women Members Provide Few Novel Departures.

Leaders Shake Hands.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The fifth Parliament of the present reign opened yesterday in a quiet and uneventful manner, apart from some natural effervescence on the part of the Labor members, elated at the prospect of their party taking office as the Government, which only a few months ago appeared to be quite a distant prospect.

The re-election of John Henry Whitley as Speaker of the new House was a foregone conclusion and therefore afforded no excitement. There was great animation in the talk and gossip, incident to the meeting of any new parliament, let alone a parliament holding such unusual possibilities as this.

Mr. Asquith was absent from the House owing to illness. Mr. Lloyd George entered, with but small recognition, and interest was centred elsewhere. The former Premier who heretofore had sat with his section of the Liberal party, signified complete Liberal unity by taking a seat on the opposition bench next to the one usually occupied by Mr. Asquith.

Pledge of Goodwill.

There was a humorous occurrence as the members rose to follow the Black Rod into the House of Lords to hear the commission read for Parliament. Mr. MacDonald, as leader of the Opposition, joined the Prime Minister, Mr. Baldwin, in the procession, whereupon a Labourite shouted "Shake hands!" This the two leaders did, amid general cheering.

The new women members of the House attracted much attention. The women Labor Members abandoned their hats and took seats temporarily in the members' gallery. Lady Astor was not present, but the Conservative women had a representative in Mrs. Philipson. Mrs. Wintringham was there, and next to her was the newly elected Lady Terrington. The latter immediately engaged in an animated conversation with the Liberals about her. She was attired in black with trimmings of white, which is not unusual, but the mere males hardly knew what to make of the lorgnette with a tortoise-shell handle which she used vigorously.

Distracting Lorgnette.

There was no revolution in the women's attire exhibited, but Lady Terrington's lorgnette and the absence of the Laborites hats was a distinct departure from the jealously kept customs of the House.

Interest in politics continues to centre outside the House in party conferences and intrigues. Although it now seems certain that another fortnight will see a Labor Government in office, some other development is not entirely excluded.

The Labor party is well aware of the strong influences still working to prevent it assuming office, to say nothing of the efforts which will be made to defeat it when it is in office. Apart from danger from outside its ranks Labor will also be threatened by a danger from within—from the irreconcilable group hailing mainly from the Clyde district, which will try to commit the party to all the extreme views of the Leftiest section of Labor, which certainly cannot be carried by a government supported only by a minority vote in the Commons.

BRAZIL NOT ARMING.

RIO DE JANIERO, Jan. 8.—(United Press).—Those interested Americans who are worrying considerably over the possibility of war between the two greatest South American republics—Argentina and Brazil— precipitated by alleged Brazilian "imperialism," undoubtedly will be surprised to learn that this country appropriates more money for her Ministry of Communications than for the War and Navy Ministries together.

The 1924 budget, just approved by Brazil's House of Representatives, estimates the total disbursements by the Ministry of War at 200,000 gold milreis, or less than $15,000,000. The 1924 estimate for the Ministry of Marine is 1,000,000 gold mirels, or only about $8,000,000. Thus, the total military and naval expenditures for next year will amount to about $23,000,000.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER

The second service in connection with the week of prayer was held last evening in Murray street Baptist church. The attendance was good and the service was inspiring and uplifting. It was led by the Rev. Mr. Manning, and the address was given by the Rev. Mr. Langford of Trinity church. The president of the Ministerial Association, Dr. Rose, is desirous that the services shall be devoted to prayer rather than to preaching, hence the leader, last evening, requested a large number to engage in prayer. The subject for which special request was asked was: "Our Church and Our Neighbourhood." Very earnest petitions went up to God that a true spirit of evangelism might be poured out upon all our ministers and all our people.

There are many who are feeling the need of special prayer to-day. Leaders, on whom God has laid the burden of prayer, are pleading with others to join them in a League of Intercession that God would pour out His Spirit on all flesh. What God has done in the past He can repeat in the present, if his people will only fulfill the conditions as they did then. It was in the midnight of the dark ages that the huge revival which we call the Reformation, breaking out in an Augustinian monastery, convulsed Europe, and changed the historyof the world. The conditions before the revival of Wesley and Whitfield have been thus described: "Death in the churches, rottenness in public morals, infidelity coming in like a flood." Conditions both in the church and the world to-day are truly alarming, but these conditions can be changed by prayer, if church members will only respond to the appeals which are being made to give themselves to prayer.

The subject for the meeting to-night in Trinity church is, Prayer for all the world and its peoples. Five subjects of prayer are given:

1. That a new vision may be given to us of the greatness of Christ's Kingdom.—Rev .11:15; Phil. 2:10-11.
2. That we may measure up to the glorious achievements of the past and to the challenging opportunities of to-day on the mission fields.—Rev. 3:8.
3. That the recent disaster in Japan may be so over-ruled by God as to make for the furtherance of His Kingdom in that land.— Phil. 1:12; Luke 21:13.
4. That in our own land every man may hear in his own tongue and see exemplified in our national and individual life the Gospel of Jesus.—Acts. 2:6:11.
5. That our Mission Boards may be divinely directed as they seek to give guidance to the work of the church at home and abroad.—1 Thess. 5:23-25.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Percy District L.O.L. Met Yesterday Afternoon — Officers Elected.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. . The annual meeting of the Percy District L.O.L. was held here Tuesday afternoon, the lodges represented by the delegates being Hastings, Castleton, Warkworth, Sentinel and Campbellford. After the transaction of the usual routine business officers were elected, those chosen, with the lodge represented by each, being as follows:

D.M., R. Brown, 1369.
D. Deputy, C. Copperwaite, 108.
D.G., O. Waters 108.
D.R.S., J. I. Adams, 108 (re-elected for the 18th consecutive year.)
D.F.S., R. A. Sims 2322
D.T., Alfred Barnum, 2322.
D.L., R. Free, 1369.
D.D.L., R. J. Bibby, 526.
D.D of C., H.G. Cassan, 526.

P.D.M. Brown then took the chair and installed the newly elected officers each one of whom made a short address. After the business of the day was disposed a sumptuous banquet was enjoyed at Long's, Bro. J. I. Adams acting as toastmaster.

The Loyal True Blue Lodge, with visitors, about forty in number, had an oyster supper on Friday night. Mr. Chas. Long presided and gave an address.

St Andrew's Young People Meet

The regular weekly meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Church was well attended Monday night and an interesting programme was provided. The topic "A New Start," based on the story of St. Paul, was taken by Miss Jennie Nelson. Mrs. Carl Reid sang very sweetly "My Task."

The address of the evening was given by the pastor, Rev. C. F. Mc Intosh, whose subject was "How God Become Man."

At The Regent

"The Three Must Get Theirs," Max Linton's burlesque on "The Three Musketeers," will be the feature picture at the Regent Theatre to night and Thursday, "Felix the Cat" will be seen again and there will be another Episode of "The Timber Queen," with Ruth Roland as the star.

SHE'S THINKING SELF TO DEATH.

Wisconsin Borgia Believed Slowly Dying, Haunted By Memories.

ELKHORN, Wis., Jan. 9.—Mrs. Myrtle Schaude, confessed poisoner of her husband, is "thinking herself" to death.

With the shadow of the scaffold ever over her, day and night Mrs. Schaude visions the horror of an execution night, she visions the scene of horror when her husband died in the convulsive agony of a poisoned man. She does this intentionally, hoping and praying that she may die before she is called before the bar of justice to answer for her crime. And she thinks and thinks of the terrible ride she took with her four children on which she tried to poison them, but repented just in time to rush them to a doctor's office.

Medical experts think she may succeed, and point to the case of Harvey Church, the youth who was hanged in Chicago and who precipitated himself into a state of coma before he was dragged out strapped into a chair to pay the extreme penalty. They point out that Mrs. Schaude already has weakened her constitution and her mentality so that her life is ebbing fast.

The Old, Old Story.

Behind the tragedy that is being woven in the barred cell in the Walworth County Jail here, is a tragedy even more gripping—the tragic story of a young woman married to a man many years her senior, gripped by the irony of becoming an "old married woman" before her time, of a youth who came to their home and whom she grew to love—the old, old story of a neglected wife and a youth.

A pretty winsome girl of 17, Myrtle was married to a man many years her senior. Came the hum drum of housework, dish washing, babies and more babies. The crisp, fluffy hair became tinted with grey; the dainty hands became red with work; her straight back became bent and tired.

Girls of her "set" before she had married began to "pass her up." She was no longer included in their good times. She longed to be one of them again, but slowly the fact dawned on her, until it became an obsession, that she was "an old married woman."

And then along came Ernest Kufahl, a veteran of the war, sickly and striving out in the prairie country to regain his health. He boarded with the Schaudes, for the continual addition of babies had made it necessary to have more money coming into the household to meet expenses.

Then neighbors began to comment. The droop of the "old married woman's" shoulders began to vanish. She smiled now, and once in a while she was heard to sing herself a cheery little song. Once neighbors saw her and Kufahl shovelling snow, and as he playfully tossed a bit of snow over her, she laughed gleefully and came back until they were having a regular snow fight. No, this would never do for "an old married woman."

Then Kufahl went away and one day "old man Schaude" died. It was given out that he died of pneumonia, though the old family doctor knew he died of poison. He thought he had killed nimself in discouragement, and, to save the feelings of Mrs. Schaude, he let it be accepted that the husband had died a natural death.

Children the Rub.

Two years passed and Kufahl and Mrs. Schaude corresponded. She says that he wanted to marry her, but suggested she do something with the children. This he denies, saying he suggested that it would not be wise to take them out into the far Western country just at that time.

At any rate, one day Mrs. Schaude bundled the little ones into the auto she had bought with her husband's insurance money, took them for a ride, and gave them some candy. A moment later she repented as she saw the agony spreading over their features, and rushed them to a doctor. Their lives were saved, but Mrs. Schaude then confessed all. And gossip once more began to ride, as she admitted she had poisoned her husband.

Now, in her cell, she conjures this all up in her mind, she visions the gallows, and prays that she may die herself—for all her romance is gone, nad she stands condemned before her own conscience.

PETERBOROUGH MALE VOICE CHOIR PRACTICE.

The weekly practices of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir were resumed last night after the holidays. The attendance was most encouraging for the initial 1924 practice, no fewer than 55 members being lined up, with Mr. M. B. Chenhall wielding the baton. The chorus work has not suffered with the holidays, and with one or two new numbers last night, the real hard work has commenced. It is hoped all members will attend every practice from now on.

Miss Muriel Bridge was introduced to the choir, as accompanist, receiving a hearty welcome.

A short business session brought out the fact that plans are being set in motion for the entrance of the choir in the Ontario Musical Festival in Toronto next April. The choir also agreed to assist, in ticket selling only, the coming Kiwanis two-day concert on behalf of the Y.M.C.A.

OPEN ROADS IN CAVAN FIELDS

North and South Lines Blocked By Drifts In Many Places — Shovels Were Used.

[illegible] 8.—The heavy snow [illegible] Sunday and Sunday, accompanied by high winds practically [illegible] roads in rural districts [illegible] Rev. M. B. Williams, was to hold service in St. John's [illegible] on Sunday morning.

There was no service in the Cavan Methodist church on Sunday night. Services were about thirty at the Sunday school in the afternoon.

Busy With Shovels.

Monday morning teams were out and men with shovels, to open the roads to allow people get their votes.

The roads take a zig-zag course around the fields. They were piled north and south.

The council was returned in total, with the exception of deputy-reeve Bland. Mr. Robinson will be deputy-reeve. Councillor Elson passed the poll.

Wind Silenced Phones.

The wind and snow played havoc with the telephone lines, many being quite unable to be used because of broken wires and entanglements.

Personal Mention

Miss Kelly returned on Sunday, with Kelly and Joe Munroe, from their visit with Mrs. Bertha Munroe, Windsor. They spent a couple of days in Toronto, on their return. While away, they visited friends in Walkerville and Detroit.

Mr. T. A. Kelly is remaining for a time with his sister, Mrs. Etta Wright Rockfort, Illinois.

Miss Muriel Matchett spent a couple of days last week with her friend, Miss Alex Johnson.

Miss Ruth Keegan has returned to Rochester Homeopathic Hospital to resume her duties as nurse-in-training.

Miss Preston taught Thursday and Friday in S.S. No. 7 but on Friday evening returned to her home Lakefield. She will not return for a few days owing to an infection in her arm.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Staples spent a few days of last week visiting friends in South Monaghan.

Ernie Davis has returned to Mr. R. Matchett's from Dr. Turner's Private Hospital, Millbrook to recuperate after his recent illness.

MANVERS ROADS BADLY BLOCKED

Ministers and Mail Carriers Unable to Cover Their Circuits.

BETHANY, Jan. 8.—The worst storm in years was witnessed on Sunday. A heavy snow and gale from the west continued all day, blocking all the roads.

Owing to the condition of the roads Rev. Mr. Walker, of Janetville, was unable to make the trip and there was no service in the Presbyterian church.

The rural mail-carrier had to abandon his trip on Monday. Telephone communication revealed the fact that practically the whole of his 18 mile route was impassable on account of heavy snow.

There was no service in the Methodist church on Sunday evening owing to the severe storm.

Mr. W. Freeman, of Grimsby, is visiting friends and relatives around the village.

Miss N. Wake was a visitor in Peterboro on Sunday.

Mr. Bert Holt, of Keene, spent a few days last week in the village.

Mr. Leonard Driver has given up the rural mail route and intends going to Detroit in the course of a month.

Mrs. Cox was removed to the General, Peterboro, on Monday. Mrs. Cox has been in poor health the past couple of months and was thought advisable to have treatment in the hospital and endeavor to have a complete recovery.

The funeral of Mr. Robert McGill was held from the family residence on Saturday to the family cemetery. Mr. McGill was in his 69th year.

Mr. Robert Caldwell was taken to Nicholl's Hospital, Peterboro, last week to undergo treatment.

CLEAR POLITICAL AIR OF RUMORS

Meeting of the Cabinet Council Likely to Produce Portfolio Changes At Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8. (Canadian Press) —Today's meeting of Cabinet council should clear away some of the prevailing uncertainties in the political situation. Not since the days which immediately preceded the swearing-in of the present Government has there been such a flood of rumors as has followed on the resignation of Sir Lomer Gouin as Minister of Justice. Relations between Liberals and Progressives have been the main point of issue.

Sir Lomer was opposed to anything in the nature of a Liberal-Progressive alliance and it was assumed that, following his resignation, attempts at a closer understanding between the two parties would be renewed. There were suggestions that Hon. T. A. Crerar, former leader of the Progressives, might be invited to join the Government with Premier Dunning, of Saskatchewan, as Minister of Finance, in case of the retirement of Hon. W. S. Fielding. Then came intimation that there would be nothing in the nature of a coalition Government representative of two separate parties. Today, rumors of endeavors to secure the inclusion of a Progressive representation in the Cabinet are repeated although they are with official confirmation.

Gouin's Successor

There seems to be little doubt as has previously been indicated, that Sir Lomer will be succeeded at the Department of Justice by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, now Minister of Marine. Mr. Lapointe is at the present time acting Minister of Justice, but is understood to be rather averse to accepting the appointment as a permanency. He has become thoroughly familiar with the working of his present department and is not anxious for the change. With the retirement of Sir Lomer, however, Mr. Lapointe becomes leader of the Quebec Liberals and as Minister of Justice—such is the point taken—he would have more time to devote to the general work of Government than in his present position with its greater administrative detail.

Shift Portfolios

Should Mr. Lapointe change his portfolio there remains the difficulty of filling the vacancy at the Department of Marine. Normally, if the balance of provincial representation is to be maintained, Mr. Lapointe would be succeeded by a French-speaking member from Quebec. But there has for some time been a movement in favor of the department being in the hands of a Maritime man and this may have considerable weight in making the appointment. Some shifting around of portfolios and cabinet readjustment will probable be necessary before the slate is again complete.

Hon. W. S. Fielding's condition continues to be reported as favorable. It is said to be such as to involve his practical retirement from public life.

EMILY ELECTION KEEN BUT VOTING WAS LIGHT

Cold Weather and Roads Barred With Snow-Drifts Tended to Keep Many Electors From the Polls.

Ice-Making Troubles.

OMEMEE, Jan. 8.—Election day passed off very quietly in Omemee, the Reeve and Councillors having been elected by acclamation.

In the township of Emily keen rivalry was evidenced, Messrs. Isaac H. Fee and T. A. McConnell being the candidates for the Reeveship. Mr. Fee has held the office for the last two years and was again elected with a majority of 49 votes. There was only a small vote polled, probably on account of the cold weather and heavy roads, but a sleigh load of village ladies, who have votes, turned out and swelled the polls at No. 3. Mr. McConnell, the defeated candidate, had been a member of the Council for three years.

The old council were re-elected with the exception of Mr. George Griffin. Messrs. Alexanedr Magahey and T. Chatten going down to defeat. Mr. Martin Carroll headed the polls with Mr. Jeff Ashmore a close second, then Thomas Rice and George Griffin.

There was no demonstration over the results, although many enquiries were received at the telephone office until a late hour.

Union Services

Special union prayer services will be observed in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches this week. On Wednesday evening the service will be held in the Methodist church when the Rev. J. A. Black will deliver the address, while on Friday evening it will be held in the Presbyterian church, with Rev. E. W. Rowland as the speaker.

Weather Against Rink

Manager Percy Parsons has been untiring in his efforts to have a good sheet of ice at the skating rink for about two weeks past, but the weather man seems to have been against him as not until Saturday was there any skating and being without cover, the heavy snow-storm of Sunday once again caused an exceeding amount of extra shovelling. However, Monday evening, after church activities were over, many young people, who had been eagerly awaiting to indulge in this winter sport, afforded themselves of the opportunity and enjoyed an hour's recreation.

Farmers Draw Wood

The recent snowfalls have made splendid sleighing and in some places many drifts are piled high and roads have been opened through the fields. Last week saw many farmers hauling wood to the village, mixed wood, stove length selling for $9 and $10, while hard maple sold for $12 and $13 per cord.

Series of Sermons

Owing to inclement weather on Sunday last, Rev. E. W. Rowland postponed his first of a series of sermons until next Sunday. The following subjects will be dealt with during the next four Sabbaths:

1. Discontent Leads to Recklessness.
2. Recklessness Leads to Folly.
3. Folly Leads to Want.
4. Want to Repentance.

Mr. Fred Evans has moved into his new bungalow east of the school.

Died in Lindsay

Much sympathy was expressed in Omemee over the death of Mrs. (Rev.) Francis Johnston, of Lindsay, whose funeral was held on Saturday afternoon to Riverside cemetery.

Deceased had resided in Omemee before moving to Lindsay, while her husband, the Rev. Francis Johnston, was stationed on the Bethel circuit, and had made many warm friends there.

Mr. Albert Ford has disposed of his butcher business to Mr. George Wilson.

Young People's Guild

The first meeting of the Young People's Guild, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, was held on Monday evening. The President, Mr. Harry Lamb, occupied the chair and conducted the devotional exercises assisted by Miss I. Black, convener of the Missionary department. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted by the Secretary, Miss Crystal Courtney.

Rev. J. A. Black gave the topic for the evening on the missionary work done in the West by Dr. Robertson, which proved a most interesting subject to the goodly number present.

Miss Margaret Parsons and Master Gordon Hayes were selected as Captains in a competition for new members, Margaret taking the "Reds," while Gordon accepts the "Blues." The winning side, at the close of the month, will be entertained by the losers. A small membership fee of 10c. will be charged, and the captains are already much enthused over the contest.

Next Monday evening the meeting will be in charge of the Literary Department, with Mr. Campbell Mackey as leader.

You Can Eat Anything You Like And Not Have HEARTBURN

In all cases of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach attended by a disturbed appetite, as when too much food is taken into the stomach it is liable to ferment and become extremely sour, vomiting occurs, and what is thrown up is generally sour and bitter. When you are in this condition you will find that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will give you relief right away.

Mr. Joseph H. MacDonald, Christmas Island, N.S., writes:—"Two years ago I suffered all the time from heartburn. I took one vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and have never been troubled since.

It is very nice to be able to eat anything you like and not have heart burn any more."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN DANGER

MONTREAL, Jan 9—(Canadian Press).—Claiming that the Presbyterian church in Canada is threatened with a "schism of serious proportions, amounting to hundreds of congregations and scores of thousands of Presbyterian communicants" who will withdraw if the projected union with the Methodists and Congregationalists is consummated, Rev. Dr. R. W. Dickie, pastor of the Knox Crescent church in this city, has addressed an open letter to Dr. Alfred Gandier, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in Canada, urging him either to refer the question of union back to the people of the church or to organize the parties in the church and arrange to have an honorable division and separation.

Dr. Dickie says in his letter that "we who wish to remain Presbyterian cannot bring ourselves to think of the church union bill that is being promoted before parliament as any thing other than a most unfair instrument of union."

IMMIGRANTS GET VERY LOW RATES

British Immigrants Coming to Canada Will Now Only Have to Pay $15 Per Head.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—By arrangement with the steamship companies, just concluded, British immigration will be especially encouraged by enabling all British settlers to come to Canada at a cost of twenty per cent., or $15 per passage, less than immigrants from other countries will have to pay.

The final agreements with the ocean transportation companies were successfully concluded after long negotiations conducted during the past four or five months with a view to working out some satisfactory scheme giving effect to the Government's desire to establish a practical immigration preference as well as a trade preference on the part of Canada towards Britain.

JAIL IN BLAZE TO GREET RYAN

Heavy Damage When Fire Attacked the Stock Room

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Examiner).—What has been termed a midnight reception for Red Ryan, took place at Portsmouth Penitentiary when fire broke out in the stock room of the store department, and heavy damage was done.

Kingston fire department were called, and it required two hours hard work to extinguish the blaze.

Spontaneous combustion is given as the cause of the fire. A large stock of manufactured boots and rubbers were destroyed. The fire was making rapid progress when the firemen arrived on the scene, but they were able to confine the blaze to the one department.

The guards at the prison formed a fire-fighting force soon as the fire was discovered, and had the water turned on and were fighting the fire when the department arrived.

After an absence of nearly four months, Norman ("Red") Ryan is back in Portsmouth Penitentiary to serve a life sentence.

The gates of the Penitentiary shut behind him shortly after 5.30 last evening. The party was met at the station by Warden Ponsford and a number of guards, and taken to the institution in motor cars. There was a large crowd present to witness the bandit's arrival, but there was no demonstration. Ryan gave not the slightest trouble on the way from Toronto to Kingston. Reports have been current that Ryan will be placed in solitary confinement, but Penitentiary officials point out that there is no such a thing nowadays. He will be treated as other prisoners. The officials do not bear any ill-will against him.

BUTCHER KNIFE AT CARD PARTY

TORONTO, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—George Wood, aged 32, was wounded last night when he was slashed with a butcher knife by a woman following a quarrel in her home on Carr Street.

Wood was removed to the Western Hospital, while Mona Smith, aged 38, is under arrest on a charge of wounding.

The police state a card party had been given last night in the Smith home. At midnight the Smith woman is said to have taken exception to the attention being paid by Wood to another woman at the party, and they started to quarrel. Seizing a butcher knife, she is alleged to have struck Wood several times.

A knife wound on the neck, the police stated, was within a fraction of an inch of the jugular vein.

COBOURG SAILORS WERE WELCOMED AFTER STORM

COBOURG, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—The big bell in the City Hall and the various church bells rang and whistles blew at the different local industries when Captain C. E. Redfern and his crew of thirty officers and men steamed into Cobourg harbor yesterday afternoon on the staunch car ferry Ontario No. I which had braved a gale seldom experienced by any craft on Lake Ontario.

SAYS HE CHANGED MALE INTO FEMALE

Scientist Claims He Has Overcome Nature — Experiments With Frogs, Roosters and Rats.

KOENIGSBERG, East Prussia, Jan. 9.—(Associated Press).—Roosters may some day be transformed into hens and thus help increase the egg supply if promises of scientists are fulfilled. The promises are held out after several years of experiments with bugs, rats, guinea pigs and frogs.

The trick of developing a regulation, sure-enough female toad from a youngster who starts out in the world as a male has actually been accomplished, it was announced here, and further experiments are being carried on with the view of bringing about perfection in these newest of freaks of nature. The discovery, announced by Professor Harms of Koenigsberg has attracted much attention in the scientific world, particularly among other experimenters who have been working for years on this particular sex problem.

Since Prof. Harms let the world know of his successes, with the humble toad, scientists from various parts of Europe have been flocking to his work room here to hear the details of the transformation. The trick, it is said, is quite simple, after once nature's ways have been uncovered.

Other scientists, including Professor Steinach of Vienna, who claims successes with gland operations on human beings, and Professors Hands and Schultz, have been experimenting along the same lines for years, principally with guinea pigs, rats and mice, and while they nearly reached their goal on several occasions, Old Dame Nature refused to be outdone by up-to-date scientists and held onto her secrets of the ages. Other scientists, spurred on by Prof. Harms' discovery, have started anew their experiments with roosters.

Mrs. (Dr.) Campbell returned home on Tuesday from visiting friends in Peterborough.

FARMER GROUP REMAIN INTACT

Robert Forke Addressed Farmers' Convention in the West.

WINNIPEG, Man., January 9 (Canadian Press). — The Progressive group in the House of Commons will remain intact, so the United Farmers of Manitoba in convention here last night were told by Robert Forke, M.P. for Brandon, the Progressive leader.

In the course of an address dealing generally with political and economic conditions, Mr. Forke referred for a moment to rumours of impending changes. "I don't know what is going to happen, so far as some individuals may be concerned," he said, "but I do not know that the Progressives at Ottawa are going to keep the banner flying. They will continue to advocate the principles for which they were sent to Ottawa. So far as I am concerned, the Progressive group will remain intact at Ottawa, to carry on their work as they have done in the past."

WATER COVERS STEAM SHOVEL

Backed Up In Trent Over Tail-Race at Excavation Work Below Campbellford.

Campbellford, January 8. — It was the sudden drop in the temperature, and the very heavy fall of snow on Sunday evening that caused the trouble in the new power house as noted yesterday. A dam had been constructed at the mouth of the tail race to keep out the water from the river while excavating was in progress, The formation of ice and snow interfered with the flow of the river, raising it higher than the top of the dam. The water poured into the tail race until yesterday it was 23 feet deep. The steam shovel and the other machinery are submerged. It is hoped however that it may soon be possible to resume work.

The blockade which caused the overflow is located for a distance of nearly ten miles down the river.

Induction at Christ Church.

A service of instruction and the induction of the new rector, Rev. G. C. Clarke, will be held at Christ Church Friday evening, the ceremony to be conducted by Right. Rev J. W. Sweeney, D.D., Bishop of Toronto. The special preacher will be Rev. W. F. Baynes of Tweed, Rural Dean of Toronto. The following clergymen are expected to be present: Rev. C. G. Clarke, the former rector, now of Belleville; Rev. F. O'Connor-Fenton, Rural Dean of Peterborough, as well as other members of the deanery.

LANTERN EXPLODED IN SEYMOUR BARN

Neighbors Turned in aud Saved the Barn and Contents.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 9. — While feeding his cattle about nine o'clock last evening a lantern exploded in the barn of John Varcoe, Concession 4, Seymour Township, and set fire to the straw. The barn was full of high-grade Holstein cattle, which were all saved through the timely assistance of the neighbors who turned in and pitched the blazing straw outside. Some of the barn timbers were burnt, but the damage will not exceed two hundred dollars.

C. N. R. AGENT DEAD.

MITCHELL, Ont., Jan. 8.—John H. Dore, of this town, died on Tuesday at noon at the age of seventy-eight years. For several years past his health was none too good, but prior to his death he had only been confined to his bed for a few days. His long service as G. T. R. agent in Mitchell made him well known by thousands of travellers.

HON. CRERAR EXPECTED IN OTTAWA TO-MORROW

TORONTO, Jan. 9.— A special despatch from Ottawa says:

Hon. T. A. Crerar, former leader of the Progressives, and Hon. Charles Dunning, Premier of Saskatchewan, are expected here on Thursday. They come on invitation of the Prime Minister and it is understood will discuss with him the re-organization of the Federal cabinet with a view to increasing its representation from the prairie provinces.

"Until such time as these gentlemen reach Ottawa and have had an opportunity to meet the Premier and his colleagues, any estimate of what re-organisation will take place are mere guesswork.

"However, it may be taken for granted that Messrs. Crerar and Dunning will be willing to enter the government if the conditions are acceptable."

Why Cough Your Head Off

Make Your Own Cough Mixture for the Whole Family and Save Money. It's Easy.

When you can make in your own home a wonderful cough mixture far ahead of any you can buy ready made, why not do it?

This home made mixture will stop the most stubborn cough and is fine for chest colds and acute catarrh. Children love it.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make half a pint—that's all there is to it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

Any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

ENFORCING BYLAWS.

A reader showed the Examiner a clipping from a Peterborough paper of 1881 giving the inaugural address of Mayor H. H. Smith.

One point that is stressed by His Worship was the fact that "as much of the happiness of the inhabitants of the town depends upon the prudent management of the finances, the conservation of health, the proper repairs of roads and the ornamentation of the town, bylaws for these purposes have from time to time been passed, but, unfortunately, they are seldom enforced, and the consequence is the reverse of all that is desirable in municipal government."

That was forty-three years ago.

A good many bylaws have been added to the list since Mayor Smith complained that those already passed were not being enforced.

It would be interesting to know how faithfully the regulations set forth in all these bylaws are observed in this year of grace, and how many of the bylaws have become dead letters.

There must be many of them that are meaningless at present.

CIVIC COMMONPLACES NO. 5.

The last in the series of civic commonplaces as laid down by the Citizens' Research Institute concerns a feature of civic administration that has more than once been discussed in Peterborough, but that has so far never progressed beyond the conversation type.

It is brief and to the point.

Centralization of purchasing power and centralization of purchasing control give proper administration and save money.

How many Ontario cities have any systematic plan of purchasing the supplies required in the various civic departments?

The majority maintain a system of departmental price-getting and purchasing.

In some the practice of individual employees buying nails, wire, putty, glass, etc., at the handiest store has not been altgether unknown.

It has been said that in some cases different prices have been paid by different departments for the same commodities.

It has even been stated that in some cities Aldermen have been consulted as to where purchases should be made.

All very chummy and informal and generally delightful.

Why do anything to destroy the beautiful spirit of camaraderie and other worldiness?

Surely taxpayers would not be so inhuman as to object to passing all the good things around.

Sometimes, though rarely, they are.

PAYING A TERRIBLE PRICE.

Considerable comment has been heard over the amount of space and the painstaking attention to detail considered necessary by a Toronto newspaper in describing the journey of Bandit "Red" Ryan to Toronto.

There was one column after another of piffle about Ryan's talk and actions until the reader began to wonder whether or not there was a case of mistaken identity and the paper was perhaps talking about some god-like young hero who had risked his life a score of times in saving others, who had perhaps jumped into ice-cold river to rescue a drowning child, or climbed into the window of a burning building in time to help a fellow human being to safety.

There is nothing heroic about "Red" Ryan, nothing chivalrous, nothing self-sacrificing.

He is merely one of many young men who think that the world owes them a living and that it doesn't much matter how they get it.

Ryan chose to get his by means of a gun and a burglar's kit, and yesterday—if the truth had not been revealed to him before—he learned that the game he had started out to play had only one or two logical endings.

The scaffold he escaped because there has been no charge of murder against him, but he goes to the old grey penitentiary at Portsmouth for life, and thrice in the next three months the vicious sting of the dreaded lash across his naked body will tell Ryan and those of his kind everywhere that the man who tries to wrest luxury from organized society at the point of a gun has a terrible price to pay in the end.

The picture that adventurous young fellows should remember is not the newspaper bandit written about as a popular hero, but the captured crook, shut off from everything that makes life worth while and writhing under the bite of the lash.

THE BURDEN OF TAXATION.

Canadians grumble much and often about taxation—yet it is a matter for wonder whether they really realize just how heavy the burden of taxes they have to carry.

For instance, a Government statement issued recently showed that during the last calendar year the customs and excise revenue was $40,000,000 more than in 1922.

Some people seem to find that announcement a source of satisfaction, but what does it mean?

Well, if it means anything it means that the people of this country were taxed in these two departments alone $40,000,000 more in 1923 than in 1922.

Taxation, however, does not stop there.

From five or six other sources there was heavier taxation exacted.

A decade ago Federal taxation in Canada was practically confined to custom duties.

Today, although custom duties have nearly doubled, they form less than half our Federal taxation.

The per capita Dominion taxation figures in recent years are interesting.

1918	$31.33
1919	36.91
192[illegible]	40.52
1921	49.53
1922	42.60

[illegible] better than

And for the present fiscal year it is estimated that Federal taxation will amount to about $400,000,000, or $45 per head of population, while Provincial and municipal taxation will double that amount.

Realize that the Dominion taxation alone represents $215 per family of five, and with Provincial and municipal taxes added the total will be nearly $500 for every Canadian family of five, and you begin to understand what the Canadian people are carrying at the present time.

THE MAN IN JAIL.

Well, we hope you make a success of it, says the London Advertiser.

That is the greeting of the average citizen to Milton Shaw, appointed recently as Governor at Kent County Jail at Chatham.

He wants to be something more than a mere jailer.

"It is my business to turn out a better citizen of a person sent to jail. A man is either going to leave prison better or worse. My job is to make him better."

Governor Shaw is not telling all his plan. "He perhaps has seen too much to attempt to write his formula down one, two, three.

The late Dr. Gilmour, who was for some years head of the prison farm at Guelph, had the peculiar faculty of dealing with men. It would take a pretty hard case to come in contact with him and feel no better for having done so.

Governor Shaw is shooting at a high mark when he seeks to have a man leave jail better than when he entered. It is not an easy task. Most men resent confinement; they chafe under what they consider to be a combination of evil circumstances.

That is probably all the more reason why a man in the position of Governor of a jail should feel the challenge of circumstances. There is nothing that makes a man so excellently active as the suggestion that it can't be done.

Go ahead, Governor Shaw. There may not be much that we on the outside can do, but we can at least tell you that there is a large company on the side lines ready to cheer for you if you make good.

BULGARIA AND THE JUGO-SLAVS.

While the hegemony of the Balkans can never be accomplished until Bulgaria becomes a member of the federation, events of the past few days seem to show how wide is the gulf that separates Jugo-Slavia and her eastern neighbor. The resentment of the Serbs is natural in view of the history of the last fifteen years. The second Balkan war opened in June, 1913, with an attack by the Bulgars on the Serbs, and the rigours of the Treaty of Bucharest signed less than two months later, bore fruit in Bulgaria's choice of allies during the World War.

When that war came the German plan required the elimination of Serbia. Its execution was not left to Bulgaria this time for Germany could not afford a failure, and an army under von Mackensen, the hero of Galicia, was concentrated north of the Danube, while another composed of picked Austro-Hungarian troops was massed along the Sava. Four days after the bombardment had begun and it seemed certain that Serbia would be crushed by the weight of Austrian and German artillery, the mobilisation of Bulgarian troops was ordered. Serbia was under no illusion as to the meaning of this order. The Germans evidently meant to blast their way through Serbia as they had done on the Polish front and the Serbians accordingly withdrew a short distance and awaited the attack.

Every possible calamity now seemed to fall on Serbia. Without declaration of war the Bulgars fell upon their rear, and although the Serbians held their own around Pirot for two weeks, they found themselves in a position of grave danger. There was no hoping of stemming the torrent and Serbia began that trek along the road of sorrows that is one of the most tragic epics of history. Through the mountains of Central Serbia by narrow paths and muddy track under a pitiless rain the people pressed southward towards the Plain of Kossovo. It was a race against their pursuers, and time and again the Serbians just managed to escape the deadly grip of the Austro-German pincers. Serbia at last reached the end of her resistance. She could fight no more, but she refused to surrender. Across Northern Albania, the most savage region of Europe, where the hostile Geg tribes carry on their brigandage, the army travelled with a few of the intellectuals and civilians who chose to take part in the great martyrdom. The retreating army became a herd of starving, despairing fugitives, eating the dead bodies of their horses, gnawing at their boots and at their paper money to alleviate the pangs of hunger. Thousands perished along that road of the national Calvary, until they at last reached Valona. In spite of their trials 150,000 survived the retreat and six months later 120,000 of these were clamoring for shipment to Salonika and to get into the fight again. It was this gallant army that by defeating the Bulgars helped to turn the defenses of the plain and give Monastir to the Allies.

With such a historical background is it to be wondered at that Serbian garrisons along the Bulgarian border are again polishing their swords and looking to their ammunition as an answer to the war speech made by the Bulgarian Premier last Saturday. If the Balkans are still the breeding ground of the racial hatreds that lead to war they are also the fermenting vats of a burning and zealous patriotism which has inspired men to deeds of high courage.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

YOUNG'S POINT

YOUNG'S POINT, Jan. 7.—The death took place on Saturday, January 5th, of Madelon, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cephas Bullock, aged four months and fourteen days. The funeral took place on Monday at one o'clock to the Lakefield cemetery. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the entire community.

Next Sunday, January 13th, Holy Communion will be celebrated in St. Aidan's church, at 9.00 a.m. instead of the usual 8 o'clock morning service. Evening service will be held at 7.00 p.m. On account of the snow-storm no church was held in St. Aidan's church last Sunday.

Owing to the recent heavy snowfalls and the great difficulty through the winter months, for Rev. J. L. Hughes to carry on his duties in the different churches of the Mission, St. Mark's church, Warsaw, services are being taken by the Lakefield rector, Rev. Walter Cox, during the winter season.

Rev. Hughes still continues his duties in the remaining churches of Stoney Lake Mission, Haultain, Hall's Bridge and Young's Point.

Miss Annie Thompson, of Mount Julian, who spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thompson, has returned to Bishop Bethune College, Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thompson and daughter, Miss Annie, of Mount Julian, visited Rev. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hughes on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Israel McFadden, of Apsley, passed through the village on Saturday.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—The best medium weight butchers are being bought for the local trade in small lots up to 7½ cents a pound.

Good medium weight and a few of the best of the handyweight butchers are selling at 7 cents, and good medium butchers are traded in at 6 cents. Some heifers of just good killing quality sold this morning at $5.50 a cwt. and common butchers at $5-75 a cwt.

The market for calves continues strong. Choice calves are bringing 13 cents, and poor mediums 10 cents a pound. Common heavy calves sold yesterday at 7 cents.

Choice light lambs are being bought almost regardless of price. Jack Cook had 10 thoroughbred sent down from Cookstown yesterday morning, and these were taken at 15 cents a pound by the Harris Abattoir. The run of other good lambs went at 13¼ cents, and heavy rough lambs at 12½ cents.

The hog market has struck another period of unsettlement with packeres talking $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b. and sales being made at $8.25. Conditions appear to favor the packers.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, January 8.—Although firmer at first to-day in sympathy with an advance at Liverpool, the wheat market here turned easy after ward as a result of selling in Chicago against buying at Winnipeg. The close was unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to ¼c lower; May $1.08½ to $1.08 5-8, and July $1.06 5-8 and 3-4c. In corn there was ¼c to ⅜c lower; May 78 3-4c to 79c, and July 80 1-4c to 80 3-8c. Oats were ⅛c to ¼c lower; May 46 3-4c to 47c, and July 45 1-4c to 45 3-8c. Provisions were unchanged to 1-8c higher and provisions varying from 2c decline to 7c advance.

According to some reports the Liverpool rise in wheat prices was at last partly due to heavy rains impeding the movement of the Argentine crop. Another bullish factor was the gossip current that snow covering of considerable winter wheat east of the Mississippi River was scanty or absent during the recent severe cold weather. The demand here, however, failed to develop much volume and the market readily gave way when spreading operations between Chicago and Winnipeg became the dominant factor.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, January 8. — The quality of eggs offering on the farmers' markets is reported to be very much higher since grading stations were established. In the case of the Ottawa market last Saturday, with the exception of one small lot of fresh firsts all the eggs offered graded fresh specials and extras. The grader reports that the farmers are now grading as to size and out of several hundred dozen graded not a single bad egg was found. Another important feature is that storage eggs have disappeared from the farmers' market.

Toronto—Jobbing prices unchanged.

Montreal fresh easy, storage unchanged.

Car of British Columbia pullet extras arriving 30 f.o.b. Vancouver.

Some small lots of United States fresh offering but quality reported unsatisfactory.

Winnipeg jobbing, fresh extras, 60 to 65c; firsts 53 to 55c; seconds 32 to 37c.

Saskatchewan Alberta and British Columbia markets unchanged.

Prince Edward Island country points, extras 33c; firsts 34c, seconds 38c.

St. John, N.B. P.E.I., fresh extras, jobbing 65c; storage extras 45, firsts 40c.

New York unchanged.

Chicago spot delivery 43; storage, unsuitable for the Canadian trade 38 1-2 f.o.b. fresh first, January delivery, 36; April delivery 34c.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, January 8. — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day: Sterling demand 4.4000; sterling cables 4.4036.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8. — The cash grain market was stronger to-day in sympathy with the continued upward tendency of values in the Winnipeg market and prices were up 1 to 2½c per bushel. The tone of the flour market was very firm. A fair business continues in mill feed and the market for rolled oats was easy.

There was no improvement in the demand for baled hay. There was no change in the storage egg market. The tone of the potato market was very firm. The demand for butter is steady, but the feeling in cheese is easy.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, January 8. — Cattle, receipts 15,000; fed steers and yearlings closing fully steady, spots $90 and above; top $11 paid for yearling, handyweights and matured steers; loads of yearlings averaging 869 to 1070 pounds at $11; bulk fed steers $8 and $10; few to killers under $7; fat she stock weak to 25c lower; other classes generally steady; weighty bologna bulls $5 to $5.25; veal calves to packers $11.50 to $12; outsiders upward to $13.50 and above; stockers and feeders, scarce, $5.50 to $7.

Hogs, receipts, 64,000; opened 10c lower; closed slow, around 10c to 20c off; good and choice medium and heavyweight butchers $7.35 and $7.40, top $7.45, desirable 160 to 210 pound averaged mostly $7.15 to $7.30; packing sows $6.70 and $6.80; better grades weighty slaughter pigs $6.50 and $6.75; estimated holdover 10,000.

Sheep, receipts 25,000; fat wooled lambs 15c to 25c lower; clipped lambs, slow, weak, to 25c lower; sheep steady to strong; feeding lambs steady; bulk fatwooled lambs $13.35 and $13.75; top to city butcher $13.90, prime yearling wethers around 110 pounds $11.25; best fat ewes $8.35; good to choice feeding lambs $12.75.

Seventh Radio Station Opened at Yarmouth.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Canada will have seven direction finding stations in operation after the opening to-day of one at Yarmouth, N.S., by the Radio branch of the department of marine and fisheries.

The station at Yarmouth is the third Direction finding station placed in commission within the last year. The list of stations is: Cape Race, Newfoundland; St. Paul's Island; Canso, N.S.; Halifax Harbour; Yarmouth, N.S.; St. John, N.B.; and Pachens Point, B.C.

In addition three automatic radio beacon stations have also been established during the year at Cape Ray, Newfoundland and on the Heats Point and Lurcher Lightships.

Alberta Legislature Meets on January 28.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan 8.—The Alberta legislature is called to meet on Monday, January 28. Proclamation to that effect has been made and all the official machinery is beginning to move in preparation for what is expected to be one of the most important sessions in the history of the province.

Acting Premier Hoadley says that it is not the present intention of the government to issue a call for the two by-elections before the session.

MARMORA CLASS ELECT OFFICERS

Cheerful Workers of the Methodist Church Prepare For Another Year—Rink Is Flooded.

MARMORA, Jan. 9.—On Friday evening the young ladies of the Cheerful Workers Class of the Methodist church, met at the home of Mrs. James Reid.

The meeting was in the first place for the purpose of electing new officers and the following were chosen:

President—Miss Jennie Connor.
Vice-president—Miss Flossie Boyd.
Sectetary—Miss Grace Warren.
Assistant Secretary—Miss Jean Thomson.
Treasurer—Miss Alma Osborne.
Social Committee—Mrs. Myrtle Loveless (convener); Miss Myrtle Naylor, Miss Gertrude Potts, Miss Gladys Bonter, Miss Thelma Neal, members.

Visiting Committee—Miss Violet Deacon (convener); Miss Margaret Clare, Miss Vera Cooney, Miss Bessie Sweet, members.

Other items of business were discussed amongst which were plans for a play to be presented later in the winter.

An enjoyable social hour was spent afterwards before lunch was served.

The class is soon to miss two of its most faithful members, the Misses Dora and Edna Reid, when the family of Mr. James Reid move to Wellington.

Over twenty members of the class were present at the meeting even though the weather and long walk were unfavourable.

The funeral of the late Mr. W. Fry was held in the Methodist church on Saturday afternoon. The service was led by the Rev. D. R. Clare.

Mr. Ernest Osborne, Mrs. B. Osborne and Mrs. Oliver visited Belleville last Thursday.

Miss Hilda Philips returned to her school near Meynooth on Saturday.

Snow Hampers Rink

The youngsters are eagerly watching progress at the work of getting the skating rink in shape. Mr. Walter Donnelly has taken over the rights of the Marmora Skating rink Co., and as he previously owned the property he now is in full control. The heavy fall of snow is greatly interfering with the work of getting a sheet of ice.

Roads Are Heavy

Motorists say that the heavy fall of snow is making the roads almost impassable. The road between Marmora and Doloro, at least, should be kept open for motor traffic as many of the workmen at Deloro are driving their cars to and from work.

Are Departing

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Reid are sorry to hear that they are about to leave town. Mr. Reid has taken the position as section foreman for the B.C. N. R. at Bloomfield, Ont.

Visited Parish

Rev. Father Traynor went on his anual visit to the northern part of the parish and as a result there was no Mass on Sunday.

Mr. Francis T. Maloney, Niagara Falls, N. Y., visited his uncle, Mr. Michael J. Maloney, over the week-end.

Dr. Lloyd Curtiss visited his Toronto and Stratford friends during the past week.

Mr. Daniel Campain was in Kingston on business for a few days last week.

Messrs. Bernard Hughes and Howard Blecker have returned to Queens University, Kingston, after spending the holidays with their families.

Proposal of German Immigration Opposed.

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 9.—The protest from St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce against the proposal to bring 3,000 German families to Saskatchewan was received by the local board of trade yesterday. Officials declined to make any comment but the letter will be considered at its monthly meeting Thursday night.

BOYS FINED FOR THROWING EGGS

Magistrate Payne of Campbellford Heard Odorous Case Revived From Last August.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 8.—The police court was jammed to capacity even standing room being at a premium, by Rawdon township farmers yesterday afternoon, when the charges of assault against two young boys were disposed of, the defendants being Alfred Simpson, aged 15, and James Trotter, 17 years old. The complainant was Robert Cleugh.

The case arose out of an incident at a threshing on August 25 last. While work was in progress the four hands in the grain mow, pitching sheaves to the machine, came upon a nest of eggs with which two of the boys pelted other men in the barn. Robert Cleugh was hit six times according to his sworn testimony. Last week he met Alfred Simpson on the road and recalling the affair of last August, took the law in his own hands and cuffed the boy soundly. For this he was fined $15 and costs. He retaliated by laying complaints against Simpson, Trotter, Harold Simpson and Bert Hay. The charges against the two latter were withdrawn yesterday for lack of evidence. T. A. Humphries appeared for Mr. Cleugh and D. J. Lynch for the defendants.

Anyone familiar with agricultural affairs knows that at a threshing the gang automatically divide into two parties just as soon as the men take their allotted places. The men in the grain mow profess disdain for those who merely stow away the straw.

When the mow men found the eggs they looked for a target and Robert Cleugh, who was working in the straw, was made the victim. When the supply of eggs gave out, crab-apples were throw until Mr. Bedford interfered in the interests of harmony.

Mr. Cleugh, Harry Bedford, Cecil McLean and the two dependants were examined as witnesses. Simpson, who pleaded guilty, owned up that he had struck Mr. Cleugh, claiming that he had been urged to the attack by a man whose name he did not know. Trotter admitted that he threw apples and eggs around the barn promiscuously without aiming at any one in pascular. If Mr. Cleugh got in the pathway of one or more of the flying missiles that was his misfortune, Trotter disclaiming either malice or intent to do bodily harm.

Mr. Lynch for the defence called attention to the fact that a provision in the criminal code gives a magistrate the right to dismiss a case when the offence committed is trivial as he maintained it was in this case.

Mr. Humphries argued that the evidence clearly showed that the complainant has been assaulted. He would not ask for a heavy fine, but believed that the boys should be taught a lesson. Mr. Humphries regretted that the man who incited the boys to target pratice could not be brought into court and fined instead of their dupes.

Magistrate Payne imposed a fine of $2 and costs of $7.3 in each case.

Egg Circle Meets

The annual meeting of the English Line egg circle will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the farmers' club room in the Fers block.

ORILLIA MAN AGED 10 IS REMARKABLY ACTIVE

ORILLIA, January 9. — John Peters, Orillia's oldest inhabitant, celebrated his 105th birthday on Sunday, 6th January.

For his advanced age Mr. Peters is remarkably active, up and around the house every day, and enjoyed conversations with the many who called to extend congratulations.

Mr. Peters spent the greater portion of his life on a farm, but for several years has been residing in Orillia with his son William.

NEW AUTOMOBILE ON THE MARKET

The Chrysler Six Just Announced at the New York Motor Show.

Walter P. Chrysler's widely heralded new automobile, the Chrysler Six, representing what he believes the public has long desired in a medium-sized motor car, was announced at the New York Automobile Show now being held. Advices from that city say that in it is embodied an entirely new conception of an automobile.

The Chrysler line embraces six body styles of a distinctive appearance hereto before associated with only the finer European styles. There will be two touring cars, roadster, brougham and two sedans.

In the design are a score or more of fundamental and revolutionary changes in automobile design. The major results of these improvements pointed out by Chrysler engineers, are:

Elimination of practically all friction at the junction of moving parts.

Rapid efficient and full power development through thermo-dynamic the science of heat distribution in relation to power development)— a tremendously important engineering achievement.

Absolutely vibrationless power at any speed.

Achievement of 68 horse power and a maximum speed of more than 70 miles an hour from an engine of only 201 cubic-inch displacement.

An entirely new spring arrangement insuring riding comfort on a light weight car surpassing anything heretofore known even to the biggest and heaviest automobiles.

Heavier crankshaft than in most cars of twice the weight, totally eliminating crankshaft whipping by roller bearings.

Tremendous flexibility, both in the engine and throughout the car.

More than 20 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Novel and improved methods of lighting control.

Filter through which both oil and water must pass, by which impurities in each are removed.

The Chrysler Six, with its many contributions to improved fundamental engineering design, operation, reliability and performance, is the outgrowth of more than three years of study, design and tests by which Mr. Chrysler himself and his special engineering staff, headed by Fred M. Zeder, O. R. Skelton and Carl Breer, have devoted themselves. The Gillespie Garage will handle this car.

Mirror Adds Safety to Level Crossings.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 8— The use of mirrors at railroad crossings a new expedient for the reduction of accident, is being tried out by the Swedish State Railways.

The first of such "warning mirrors" have just been installed at certain crossings for tests and approval by the general public. They are slightly convex in form and reflect the image of a approaching train which may be seen by drivers at a considerable distance down the road. They are particularly valuable at night because of the bright reflection of train lights.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pain and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

TWO MOTHERS APPLY TO DURHAM COUNTY BOARD

Only One Cavan Township Family and None From Millbrook Receiving Aid From Mothers' Allowance Commission.

MILLBROOK NEWS.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 7.—A meeting of the Mothers' Allowance Board for the County of Durham was held in the Council Chamber, Bowmanville, on Friday at 10 a.m., the president, E. M. Galbraith, of Port Hope, in the chair. Other members of the Board are A. Van Camp, Burketon, vice-president; Mrs. A. L. Nichols, Bowmanville, secretary; H. Bland, Cavan, and Miss Pearl Burnham, Millbrook.

Two cases came up for discussion at the meeting, one in Port Hope, and the other in Bowmanville, and were recommended to the Provincial Commission the chairman of which is Rev. Peter Bryce, Toronto. At present there is but one family in the township receiving help from this source, and none in Millbrook since the removal, last spring, of one beneficiary. It is gratifying to learn that only approximately four per cent of the mothers receiving help have proved unworthy, and one per cent of the allowances have had to be cancelled.

Ninety-six Boards

There are ninety-six local boards serving gratuitously in the province, and the secretaries particularly deserve recognition as they are obliged to spend many hours in correspondence, so far without any remuneration though the matter of making them some financial return will probably be taken up at the next session of the Provincial House.

Family desertion is one of the frequent causes why claim is made upon the Act, and is a social problem of real magnitude. Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs in various parts of the province are rendering splendid service in caring for fatherless boys. Municipalities have co-operated in paying promptly their share of the expense of local beneficiaries, fifty percent being their liability, the province paying fifty and also bearing all the expense of administration.

Local Investigation

Miss Bury, of Peterboro, holds the office of investigator for the counties of Durham, Northumberland, Prince Edward Island, and Hastings. These officials, who visit the most remote parts of the province, are doing remarkably effective public service. Beneficiaries of the Mothers' Allowance Act are by no means charity but rather considered in the employ of the government giving thousands of children an opportunity for health, education, home life and happiness that would have been impossible without the Act.

Tribute to Miss Eastcott

Miss Edna V. Eastcott, B.A., who spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Eastcott, returned to her position in the science department of the University of Toronto on Friday. Miss Eastcott is associated, in research work, with Professor W. Lash Miller, vice-president of the American Chemical Society. The latter addressing the annual meeting of that organization recently held in Cincinnati, Ohio, gave a concise description of recent experimental work with a somewhat mysterious chemical substance known as "bios," which was discovered twenty years ago, but of which as yet comparatively little is known. In his address Professor Lash gave credit to Miss Eastcott who had undertaken a survey of the distribution of bios in the vegetable world, finding that the substance is contained in large quantities in white of egg, mushrooms, malt, barley, etc., and that its growth-producing power is striking. There is a close affinity between it, Miss Eastcott found, and one of the vital elements of food. Further experiments are now being carried on which, it is hoped, will result in more accurate knowledge of its chemical nature.

Mrs. L. Rea, and Miss Blanche Clarry attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Francis Johnston, which took place in Lindsay on Saturday. Mrs. L. F. Clarry, of Calgary, only daughter of the deceased, came east for the sad event. Mrs. Johnston was a sister of the late Dr. Rea, of London, Ont., Mrs. Weldon, of Lindsay, being the only surviving sister. Mrs. Rea is remaining for an extended visit with Mrs. Weldon.

Mrs. W. W. Gillott, of Oshawa, is the guest of her sister-in-law, Dr. E. F. Gillott, Anne street.

Week of Prayer

The first week in January is usually observed, in most Protestant churches, as a week of prayer, and as a fitting subject for the first Sunday of the New Year when the Christian life is specially emphasized. Rev. S. T. Tucker took as his theme on Sunday morning, "Saving Faith," illustrated by Peter's confession, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God." The expression in words of the newly-found heart belief marks a change of character, and in Simon's case, as later in that of Saul of Tarsus, a change of name. Christ's commendation of Simon show shows His joy in the open confession as He replies, in effect, "You say I am the Christ, and I also say, you are Peter, and upon this rock of this experience I will build a great company of believers."

Confession of the wonderful experience of salvation, publicly made, is a necessary step which brings God's approval and heart confirmation of the blessing received. From hi- open avowal we reach the conclusion that Peter was the first to actually enter the Kingdom, and the door was saving faith. But this experience is open to all and in an earnest closing appeal the pastor urged his people to take possession of their great inheritance in Christ.

The theme reached a fitting conclusion by the singing of the closing hymn, "What a Friend we have in Jesus."

Worship in Basement

For the remainder of the winter the Methodist congregation will worship in the basement of the church, the pastor explaining, on behalf of the trustee board, that as much fuel is required to heat the auditorium upstairs for one Sunday as will heat the Sunday School hall for a month. As the church is feeling the financial stringency as much as any other organization the saving is well worth while.

Died.—In Millbrook, on Sunday, January 6th, Francis Kinsman, beloved wife of James Hunter, in her 74th year. The funeral will take place from the family residence, Hunter street, on Tuesday, January 8th, at 2 p.m. Interment in the Presbyterian cemetery, Millbrook.

ANNUAL MEETING BURNBRAE SCHOOL

Officers Elected and Reports Received — Burnbrae News.

BURNBRAE, Jan. 8.—The annual meeting of Burnbrae Sunday School was held at the church on Friday evening. Devotional exercises were conducted by the minister, Rev. J. J. Black.

Mr. Malcolm Totten, who for the past 14 years has been Superintendent of the school, presided and made a short address, reviewing the work of the school and the progress made during the year.

The reports of the secretary, treasurer and conveners of the different committees were then given. All the reports were very encouraging and indicated a successful year's work. The balance in the treasury amounted to $66.30. It was decided to retain $20.00 of balance for supplies for the first quarter and the remainder to be divided equally to missions and to purchase additional books for Sunday School library.

Mr. Totten was nominated for president, but asked to have his name withdrawn. He felt that after 14 years of service he should be relieved, and some one else should take hold of the work. Mr. Totten's resignation was a source of grief to his fellowworkers in the church school.

Short addresses were made by John Rannie, Harvey Donald and Mr. Black, expressing regret at Mr. Totten's resignation and speaking in the highest terms of the work he did for the children of the community during his 14 years of service.

The new executive is as follows:

Supt.—Mr. John Rannie.
Vice-Supt.—Mr. John Murray.
Secretary—Mr. Chas. Little.
Treasurer—Mr. Donald Craghead.
Cradle Roll Supt.—Mrs. J. Rannie.
Home Department Supt.—Miss Jean Craghead.
Organist—Jean Craghead.
Assistant Organist—Gertrude Nelson.
Leaders of Praise—Harvey Donald and Mrs. John Thompson.
Librarians—George Donald, W. S. Milne, Oscar Rannie.
Committee to Select Books for Library (Librarians)—Mrs. Totten and Mrs. Black.

It was decided to close the Sunday School for the first three months of the year. The work to be carried on in the homes. In other words, the school was turned into a home department. The Supt. of Home department to see that the literature and offering envelopes and report cards are sent to each home and duly collected before end of March. This plan has proved successful for several years.

Mrs. (Rev.) Douglas, of Kembal, Ont., is spending the month of January at the home of her father, Mr. Norman Masson.

Rev. and Mrs. R. G. Fry left Friday, Mr. Fry to continue his studies at Union Theological Seminary, New York, Mrs. Fry to teach school at Barriefield, near Kingston.

Mr. Robert Matthews, on the 7th line of Rawdon, was seriously ill Saturday and Sunday, but is now making progress towards recovery.

Miss Alice Milne, who has been confined to bed for several weeks with inflamatory rheumatism, is able to be around again.

Mr. Mitchell Rannie, of Menie, has left Monday morning for Guelph, Ont. Mr. Rannie is taking advantage of the short course offered by the Agricultural College. He was accompanied by his father, Mr. John Rannie.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Watson, Burnbrae, on the birth of a son.

Miss Marjory Rannie and Miss Freda Hay are visiting Miss Hay's relatives this week at Kenmount.

LONDON PRINCIPAL HITS SCHOOL LAW

Declares Boys Who Wish Should Go to Work

LONDON, Jan. 9.—William B. Prendergast, principal of the London Normal School, is not in favor of the Ontario Adolescent School Attendance Act and is frank in his criticism of the measure.

He declares emphatically that no child sent to school, after a certain age, could be expected to accomplish much, no matter how good the educational facilities.

"A boy who does not want a high school education should be allowed to go to work," said Mr. Prendergast. "There are many under the Adolescent Attendance Act who are simply marking time at school and are wasting what little effort they are putting into their studies.

"They are simply waiting for the time when they will reach the prescribed age when they will no longer be subject to the provisions of the law and can leave school."

To work and be honest were the two main essentials of character, in Principal Prendergast's opinion, and no boy or girl who was forced to attend school when their natural inclinations were to engage in some vocation could expect to make a success during the brief period in which they were compelled to attend high school.

CLOSE FIGHT FOR MARMORA COUNCIL

One of the Keenest Contests in History of the Village—Hockey Starts This Week.

MARMORA, Jan. 8.—The election of Councillors for the village Council this year was one of the most exciting and most keenly contested in the history of the village. Six men were in the field for municipal honours and the count resulted as follows:

John Reade, 197; Frank N. Marrett, 189; Fred Johnston, 163; A. T. Neal, 129; D. E. Bell, 125; James P. Morrin, 99.

The first four were elected.

Marmora Township

The results of the election of a reeve for Marmora Township were: Richard Bonter, 223 and John Richardson, 115, giving Mr. Bonter the reeveship for 1924 with a majority of 108. A small poll is yet to be heard from which will not greatly alter the result.

Mr. Wm. Stiles, who has been teaching school, has re-entered the local Continuation School.

In order to enable the electors to get out to cast their ballot on Monday the local county road men ran a snow plouth over the principal streets of the village. This was necessary after the blizzard Sunday night.

Game on Friday

Prospects seem brighter for a rink in the near future. A hockey game is scheduled for Friday and already the rink is looking as though in several days the ice would be fit for use.

The stores of the village all close at 6 p.m. for the mid-winter months, making quite a contrast to the busy scenes in the weeks immediately proceeding the Christmas season.

Mr. Ernest Osborne spent the week-end in Trenton with the Rev. W. Woodger.

The Rev. P. C. Watson took his own services on Sunday. Mr. Watson has been ill for some weeks and on that account no services have been held in St. Paul's Anglican church.

Irish Government May Not Try Rebel Valera.

DUBLIN, Jan. 9.—(Associated Press).—It is stated in Republican circles in Dublin that the Government has no intention of bringing De Valera to trial, and this decision is believed to apply to other prominent Republican leaders now in custody.

The release of the more influential of the leaders, however, is not at present contemplated. If they are to be held after February some Parliamentary provision extending the temporary power to hold them will have to be made, and this may be done as part of the usual measure for continuing various acts which expire annually unless renewed.

MORE CLOTHES WORN BY PARIS SHOWGIRL.

PARIS, January 9 (Associated Press). — Clothes are becoming more ample on the Paris stage, and the latest spectacular chorus productions have shown a decided reversion to pre-war displays of gorgeous costumes. This revival of clothes for stage girls has had its effect upon the box office, for seats have gone up 20 per cent. in price to pay, it is averred, for the extra yards of silk.

Front row orchestra seats now cost 36 francs in Paris, as against 20 francs after the Armistice, and 10 francs before 1914. These rates apply to the music halls that are always crowded with foreign tourists.

Legitimate theatres are unable further to raise prices, their patrons being principally French people who find that the Armistice prices were hiyh enough.

Venizelos Recovering Resumes Conference.

ATHENS, Jan. 9.—The health of ex-Premier Veniezlos, who was taken ill early this week, is continuing to improve. Yesterday he was able to resume his conference with the political leaders, including the Royalists. The latter reiterated to him their conviction that it would be necessary to recall King George and then dissolve the Assembly and hold new elections, in which the Anti-Venizelists would participate.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Jan. 7.—The icy pavements have been responsible for a number of serious falls among pedestrians and the ice in country places as well. Mr. Joseph George, who lives just north of town, when going out to his drive shed, fell on the ice and fractured his arm near the wrist and also put the wrist out of joint. The accident will debar him from any aggressive work for some little time. The ice, though, did not prevent some of the big trucks that carry merchandise from Toronto to the lakeport towns, coming east regularly as far as Cobourg, from making their regular trips last week.

Saturday a Dull Day For Trade

Although the sleighing is now good, the weather was so inclement on Saturday that only a small percentage of the usual country visitors came to town. Consequently there was no rush either in the stores or at the market. Last week the country ten to fifteen miles back, was covered with its wintry blanket of white and sleighs were running about merrily. Friday's storm linked up the country sleighing with the town, greatly to the satisfaction of many.

Death of Mrs. Brisbin

Mrs. Brisbin, formerly Martha Harriman Rolston, who resided for the greater part of her life in the vicinity of Dundonald, East Northumberland, died at Natrona Hospital recently, after a five years illness. She is survived by one son, Dr. W. J. Rolston, of Natrona.

The Late Capt. Stephen Taylor

Capt. Stephen Taylor, a former well-known mariner on the Lakes, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Howard Davidson, Corunna, and was buried at Lakefort, where he formerly resided, on Monday. Capt. Taylor was born at Brighton and had reached his 73rd year. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. P. H. Quinn, of Cobourg, Mrs. Howard Davidson, Corunna, and Miss Marian Taylor, graduate nurse of Cleveland, Ohio.

Presentation at Newcastle

Mr. W. J. Richard, choir leader of the Methodist church at Newcastle, and Mrs. Rickard, were guests of honor at a gathering held in the Methodist school room at Newcastle on Wednesday evening. Rev. E. B. Cooke, pastor, presided over a happy assemblage. Mr. W. D. Bragg read an appropriate address, and Mr. Mark Allen and Mr. Orm Parker, on behalf of the congregation, presented Mr. and Mrs. Rickard with two handsome wicker chairs, upholstered and a round top study table with wicker legs. Mr. Rickard made appropriate reply. Rev. Roy H. Rickard, B.A., Northport, was among the guests present. Dr. Edgar Allen, Edmonton, was also an interested visitor.

Accepted Call

Rev. G. S. Wood, of Melrose, Prince Edward County, has received and accepted a call to North Gover in the Ottawa Presbytery. The stipend offered is stated to be $1,800 with a free manse and one month's holidays. Rev. D. C. Ramsay, Belleville, was appointed interim moderator of the vacant charge.

OFFICIAL MEXICO TO RECEIVE TAXES

American Oil Companies Ignore Demand From De La Huerta That Payment Be Made to Him.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.— Instructions were dispatched yesterday to representatives of American oil companies in Mexico directing the method of to be followed in paying the Mexican Oil Production Taxes due on Thursday.

While the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico, which forwarded the instructions, declined to disclose their nature, because of the "ticklish situation in Mexico," it was understood that all payments would be made to the Obregon Government and that no notice would be taken at this time, of the decree of Adolfo De La Huerta, revolutionary leader, that the taxes be paid to him.

Officials of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company expressed no concern over the shutting down by direction of the Mexican rebels, of the company's wells and pipe lines in two fields near Tuxpam, comprising about 25 per cent. of the corporation's Mexican production of 100,000 barrels daily.

It was pointed out that no fear need be felt as to the revolutionary forces damaging the property and that plenty of petroleum is available in storage to prevent possible delay to deliveries.

Boris of Bulgaria Looking For Bride.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 9.—(Associated Press).—King Boris opened the Bulgarian Parliament in person a few days ago, thus reviving a national custom that prevailed before the war, and also giving rise to the belief that it is the policy of the present Government to give full recognition to the royal prerogative in Bulgaria.

During the Stamboulisky regime of three and one-half years there were many evidences that the peasant Premier sought to eliminate King Boris from official or personal activity in affairs of state. The King was distinctly a subordinate figure. He lived in retirement, and there was never such a thing as a royal entertainment.

In contrast the King gave a diplomatic dinner recently, in his palace at Vranja, to a group of Foreign Ministers and Commissioners, and it is now reported that he is preparing for an extended trip to several of the European courts in January, possibly with a view to marriage.

TOOK MOST OF NOBEL PRIZE FOR INCOME TAX

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—(United Press) —More than half of the Nobel prize for medical chemistry, awarded to Dr. Fritz Pregl, was confiscated by the Austrian government as "income tax", according to reports reaching here.

Pregl, professor of medical chemistry at the University of Graz, received 3,750,000,000 Austrian crowns for his work in the field of medical chemistry—the fist Nobel award ever granted an Austrian. A few days later tax officials visited the happy scientist in his home requiring him to pay over 2,225,000,000 crows as income tax—leaving the professor with only 1,500,000 crowns —which, at the present rate of 70,000 crowns to the dollar, means that Pregl retains the equivalent of $21,429, while the Austrian government gets the equivalent of $31,799.

The trustees of the Nobel prize awards plan to appeal to all countries to eliminate Nobel prize money from income tax requirements. Efforts are being made to get the Austrian government to return the 60 per cent taken from Pregl, though the efforts so far have been unsuccessful.

UKRAINIANS FLY GERMAN PLANES

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Jan. 8— Several Dornier aeroplanes which were constructed here and taken to Russia have been operating since last summer in the Ukrainian air service and are reported to have made an excellent record in commercial work.

Vaudeville Halls Would Sell Booze.

LONDON, January 9 (Associated Press). — Drink as an illuminant for brightening London did not appeal in a very convincing manner to the members of the staid London County Council when they recently heard applications from several of the vaudeville hall proprietors for permission to sell alcoholic liquor to their patrons during the show.

This question has become a "hardy annual" for the Council to consider, but each year it has met with the same refusal. This year, however, the applicants had hopes that their prayers would be granted because a committee had reported favourably to the Council on the proposal.

However, after a full dress debate had taken place before the full Council, the application was rejected by ten votes.

NEWS OR NORWOOD AND THE DISTRICT

NORWOOD, Jan. 8.—The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Andrews, widow of the late John Andrews, was held on Monday afternoon from the residence of her son, Mr. Richard Andrews, Killarney Corners, Asphodel. The deceased who was seventy-eight years of age, was twice married and leaves to mourn her loss five children, namely, Mrs. Wm. Andrews and Mr. William McMillan of Dummer, also Mr. Richard Andrews of Aphpodel, Mrs. George Hamblin, of Norwood, and Mrs. Fred Richardson of Lakefield.

The services at the house and the grave were conducted by Rev. W. P. Rogers, pastor of the Norwood Methodist church, of which she was a staunch member, assisted by Rev. John Glover, of Campbellford, a grandson by marriage.

GIRLS DESERTING STAGE.

LONDON.—There's a dearth of pretty chorus girls in London now. Higher wages in the business world are attracting them into offices and shops. Many beauties have quit the stage in recent months, according to one old-timer who's been in the theatrical business half a century. And it's going to be difficult, he declares, to find others equally as charming.

IMPORTS ENGLISH THOROUGHBRED.

NEW YORK, January 9 (Associated Press). — New English blood will be added to America's thoroughbred stock through the acquisition of Craigangower by J. N. Camden, Kentucky turfman, who will use the horse in his Hartland Stud.

Craigangower is a son of Polymelus, and out of Fortuna, dam of many winners. He is four years old. As a two-year-old he won several prominent stakes and finished third in the 1922 Derby to Captain Cuttle, after having a rough time at the gate and in rounding Tattenham Corner.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

AYRSHIRE CLUB ENDORSE DAIRY STANDARD ACT

Request Minister of Agriculture to Prevent Its Repeal—President John Locke Re-elected at Campbellford Meeting.

Hold Judging Classes.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 9.—At the annual meeting of the Menie Ayrshire Breeders' Club held yesterday afternoon in the Farmers' Club rooms in the Ferris Block, a resolution, moved by Alex. Hume, endorsing the Standard Act was unanimously adopted. A copy of this will be forwarded to the Minister of Agriculture, who will be asked to use his influence to prevent the repeal of the measure. Mr. Hume stated that the Act was an honest effort to pay the farmer full value for what he sent to the cheese factory, and that men opposed to it before it went into effect were in favor of it after a trial.

In his address President John Locke reported a year of prosperity for the owners of Ayrshire cattle. Cows of this breed may not produce the only high-grade milk in the country, but they maintain a good average. The Standard Dairy Act has increased the demand for these animals so that there were many sales during the year in this district. The owners of Ayrshires had a good exhibit at the Campbellford Fair last fall. The club, he added, had been organized 12 years ago, and the founders, Alex. Hume and William Stewart, were still members and both were present. President Locke congratulated Mr. Stewart on having celebrated his golden wedding last October.

The report of the Auditors showed a balance on hand. E. A. McCook, on behalf of the Prize List Committee, reported the special awards made at the last Fair. The club gives $25 to the Fair Board, the latter duplicate this amount and the total is awarded as fourth prizes in several of the Ayrshire classes. It is now proposed to offer a fifth prize and the details will be worked out by the committee, which was continued in office, consisting of E. A. McCook, Thomas Kerr, Robert Little and Fred. M. Rutherford.

A committee, consisting of the President, Vice-President and Secretary-Treasurer, was appointed to arrange for a series of stock judging classes at different farms in the district during the winter. It will also be decided later whether a banquet will be held this year. All owners of Ayrshire cattle in the district will be asked to become members of the club.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected for the year: Hon. President, William Stewart; President, John Locke (re-elected); Vice-President, R. H. Little; Secretary-Treasurer, F. M. Rutherford of Bonar Law (re-elected); Auditor, W. A. Hume.

HALF-MAST FLAG TO BURY A DOG.

United States Ship Steams Seaward to Bury a Pup With Service.

HONOLULU, Jan. 9.—(Associated Press).—The United States coast guard cutter Mojave steamed into port recently ahead of her schedule. Immediately she docked, members of her crew got an automobile and rushed the ship's mascot, a dog named "Soup," to a veterinarian in an endeavor to save his life. But "Soup" had no chance to live, the doctor declared, and he was mercifully chloroformed. The next morning, with her flag at half-mast, the Mojave steamed slowly out of the harbor to sea where, after a brief service, the remains were consigned to the deep.

"Soup" joined the Mojave at San Francisco and served aboard during the Alaskan tour of duty. He became ill shortly before the cutter was due here, and nothing that could be done seemed to help him. The commander was appealed to, and he gave permission to increase the speed of the ship to capacity in order, as soon as possible, to secure the services of a veterinarian.

GERMANS LEAVING THE FATHERLAND.

HAMBURG, January 9 (Associated Press). — Passenger traffic between German ports and America continues so good that the de luxe steamers Resolute and Reliance are beng continued in the service.

The demand for cabin accommodations justified their retention.

German emigration has not been as great in 30 years as it was in the first half of 1923. Cheap passages are in especial demand.

CEASE WORK ON HIGHWAYS HERE

Big Storm Played Havoc With the Roads Near Bailieboro.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 9.—On Monday morning, after Saturday's and Sunday's storm, all of the men living beside the local roads had their own share of shoveling snow.

Some of the side lines running north and south were blown full of snow even with the fences. These roads had to be dug out, and in a great many cases the fences had to be torn down and the road made through the farmers fields. On some of back lines the path-masters did not get the roads broken out until the middle of the afternoon.

Although one big truck made its way through the snow from Peterboro on Saturday, after having had to be shoveled out several times, the road now seems almost impassible for car traffic.

The road gangs, who have been employed on the Provincial highways here received notice to cease work for this season on the highway.

Up to this time they have been almost steadily employed dragging the road, and drawing gravel where it was most needed.

The road seems to have been left in a splendid condition to receive the winter's snow and frosts.

The box-holders of mail route No. 1, South Monaghan, were disappointed in not getting their daily mail for the first time this season, when the mail-carrier did not make his rounds on Saturday night last.

Miss Flossie McIndoo of Parry Sound, is a guest of her uncle, Mr. Jas. McRoberts.

Miss Viola Lang, of Peterboro, has been a guest of Miss Geraldine White, during the past week.

Mr. Wm. Reid, of Oshawa, has been visiting friends in Bailieboro during the past week.

AUNT MARTHA'S OWN COLUMN

One Woman writes:—

"Dear Aunt Martha:—
"I have taken your advice,
"and am now a regular patron
"of the Dominion Store here
"in my town. I have been surprised, and gratified, at how
"a few cents saved here and
"and few cents saved there'
"mounts up. I figure that I "am saving 10 or 15 dollars a
"month on my groceries. Of "course, I have a large family
"but that is all the more reason
"for saving, isn't it?"

Indeed it is, good woman. How growing, chubby youngsters do eat. It is a pleasure, though, to watch them, but what of the expense? This is such a good argument for us—the Dominion Stores. We do help you save—a few cents here and a few cents there—but it means a new pair of shoes or a cunning little dress, perhaps.

We help—we promote thrift—and that's why I like our business. We are doing, I think, a real service. The man with the little store is going his best, too, but his purchases are only one three-hundredth of ours, and he can't hope to match our prices regularly.

When Mary Zattiany had reached her bedroom on Sunday morning she had leaned heavily on her dressing-table for a few moments, staring into the mirror. Then she curled her lip and shrugged her shoulders. Well, it was done. She had been as bald and uncompromising as she knew how to be. A picturesque softening of details, pleas to understand, and appeals to the man's sympathy, might be for other women but not for her. Life had given her a respect for hard facts and an utter contempt for the prevalent dodging of them.

She had told him that she was determined to relate her story in full as much for his sake as her own. But she had told it far more for her own. Before going any farther she was determined to know this man, who may only have intoxicated her, as thoroughly as it was possible for a woman to know any man she had not lived with. If he met the test she could be reasonably sure that for once she had made no mistake. If he did not—well, perhaps, so much the better. Surely she had had more than her share of love, and she had something to do in the world of vastly greater importance than wasting time in a man's arms. And did she really want passion in her life again? She with her young body and her old mind! Did she?

She recalled those brief moments of complete and ecstatic surrender. Or tried to recall them. She was very tired. Perhaps she might dream about them, but at the moment they seemed as far away as her first youth.

She awoke the next day only in time to dress and go to Mrs. Ruyler's for luncheon. She attended a concert in the afternoon, and she did not return from the Lawrences' until midnight. On Monday she lunched with Mrs. Vane and brought "Harry" and Mr. Dinwiddie home with her. She would give herself no time to think and brood. She was too wise to harden her heart against him by bitter fancies that might be as utterly unjust, and assuredly she had no intention of meeting disaster weakened by romantic castle-building. Not he. Let events take their course. Whatever came, she had the strength to meet it.

As Clavering entered the library he was standing by the hearth, one hand on the mantelshelf. Her repose was absolute as she turned her head.

"She had leaned heavily on her dressing table, . . . staring into the mirror."

In her eyes was an insolent expression, a little mocking, a little challenging. for?" he demanded, glaring at her from the door. "You set this hour for our meeting and I just missed finding them here in this room. I should have thought you would have wanted to be alone before I came——"

And then for a moment Mary Zattiany's mind felt as young as her body. It seemed to her that she heard ruins tumbling behind her, down and out of sight. Her head felt light and she grasped the mantel for support; but she was not too dazed to realize that Clavering was in anything but a love-making mood, and she managed to steady her voice and reply lightly:

"I lunched with Polly Vane, and her devoted son was hanging 'round. Mr. Dinwiddie was also at the luncheon, and as they both walked home with me I could do no less than ask them in for a moment. But I never have the least difficulty getting rid of people."

"Ah!" He continued to stand staring at her, and, as he had anticipated, he saw only Mary Zattiany. As far as he was concerned Mary Ogden had never existed. But he still felt no immediate desire to touch her. He came over and stood opposite her on the hearthrug, his hands in his pockets.

"What have you been through?" he asked abruptly. "I've been through hell."

"So I imagined," she said dryly. "I can't say I've been through hell. I've grown too philosophical for that! I have thought as little as possible. I left it on the knees of the gods."

There certainly was neither despair nor doubt in that vital voice of hers as she looked at him, and she was smiling. He twitched his shoulders under those understanding eyes and turned his own to the fire with a frown.

"I don't believe you had a moment of misgiving. You were too sure of me."

"Oh, no, I was not! I know life too well to be sure of anything, mon ami. Unlike that nice Vane boy, you have imagination and I gave you some hard swallowing. Poor boy, I'm afraid you've been choking ever since——"

"Don't 'poor boy' me. I won't have it. I feel a thousand years old." He glared at her once more. "You are sure of me now—and quite right . . . but I don't feel in the least like kissing you. . . . I've barely slept, and I feel like the devil."

For the first time in many days she felt an inclination to throw back her head and give vent to a joyous laugh—joyous but amused, for she would always be Mary Zattiany. But she merely said: "My dear Lee, I could not stand being made love to at four in the afternoon. It is not aesthetic. Suppose we sit down. Tell me about it."

"I'll not tell you a thing." But he took the chair and lit a cigarette. "I'm more in love with you than ever, if you want to know. When will you marry me?"

"Shall we say two months from today?"

"Two months. Why not tomorrow?"

"Oh, hardly. In the first place I'd like it all to be quite perfect, and I'd dreamed of spending our honeymoon in the Dolomites. I've a shooting box there on the shore of a wonderful lake. I used to stay there quite alone after my guests had left. . . . And then—well, it would hardly be fair to give New York two shocks in succession. They all take for granted I'll marry some one—I am already engaged to Mr. Osborne, although I have heard you alluded to meaningly—but better let them talk the first sensation to rags. . . . They will be angry enough with me for marrying a young man, but perhaps too relieved that I have not carried off one of their own sons. . . . Polly is in agonies at the present moment . . . we'll have to live in New York more or less—I suppose?"

"More or less? Altogether. My work is here."

"I believe there is more work for both of us in Europe."

"And do you imagine I'd live on your money? I've nothing but what I make."

"I could pull wires and get you into one of the embassies——"

"I'm no diplomat, and don't want to be. Rotten lazy job."

"Couldn't you be foreign correspondent for your newspaper?"

"We've good men in every European capital now. They've no use for more, and no excuse for displacing any of them. Besides, I've every intention of being a playwright."

"But playwrighting isn't — not really—quite as important as poor Europe. And I know of several ways in which we could be of the greatest possible use. Not only Austria——"

"Perhaps. But you'll have to wait until I've made money on at least one play. I'll be only too glad to spend the honeymoon in the Dolomites, but then I return and go to work. You'll have to make up your mind to live here for a year or two at least. And the sooner you marry me, the sooner we can go to Europe to live—for a time. I've no intention of living my life in Europe. But I'm only too willing to help you. So—better marry me tomorrow."

RAINBOW FASHIONS STORM ST. MORITZ.

New Sports Creation All One Color—Glaring Red, Green or Orange.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—"Rainbow fashions" are due to hit Lake Placid resorts from St. Moritz, Switzerland, soon with all the velocity of an avalanche.

The greatest and most changeful advance in women's sport wear for winter since skiing became fashionable is the rainbow fashion which resulted from the inspiration of Madame Lambert, a Parisian genius who jumped into fame early in the winter by the invention of fleecy woollen clothes, designed to resemble furs.

The rainbow costume is not varicolored, but consists of snow boots, tall leggings which come four inches above the knee, short knickers fastened to gaiters, and a tiny, fluffy, outstanding skirt resembling that of a ballet girl and which is so short that it reveals the tops of the gaiters. Finally there is a thick sweater surmounted by a close fitting bonnet.

But the amazing feature of this dress is that it is all one color—either a vivid crimson, a glaring green, a riotous orange, or a stormy blue—from boots and sash to the cap.

It is reported that "the beautiful Mrs. Joan Nash," the American woman who was called the "best dressed woman in Europe," has broken off her engagement to Prince Sabit Bey of Egypt. The Prince is said to have fled to Cairo.

The Messames Sudreau, who before they married the Paris detective and his son, were the widow and daughter of "Emperor" Jacques Lebaudy, inheriting his enormous sugar fortune, with their husbands, are among the leading gamblers at Cannes, where the smartest society has begun to assemble. Just now they are among the lucky players, but thousands of dollars of the late "Emperor of the Sahara" have crossed the green tables as a result of their enormous bets.

The Crow of Croup A Warning To All Mothers

Croup starts with a dry cough and rattling in the throat; after which the croup crow gives warning of the diseases. The child, after tossing restlessly about, will start up with a flushed face, protuding eyeballs, and a distressing look of terror and anxiety. There is a struggle for breath, and the expectoration of the mucous matter is so difficult to get rid of that the effort appears to threaten strangulation.

On the first sign of the "croupy crow" mothers should administer Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thus give the child prompt and permanent relief, and perhaps the life saved by taking this precaution.

Mrs. H. A. Langhorn, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"My little boy was very bad with the croup and I could not get anything to relieve him until I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I cannot praise it too highly for the relief it gave him."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

LOST PIES

You may imagine how fine they looked.

Everybody was happy on account of the big party that Jack and Jill were giving in the house that Jack built.

When it came half past six o'clock every dish in Daddy Gander Land was wiped and put away and all the kitchens swept out.

When it came seven o'clock all the water taps were running and everybody was having an extra bath.

At half past seven o'clock every necktie was tied and every sash was smoothed out and every shoe was buckled. And you could hear doors slamming and keys turning everywhere as this, that, and the other family started off for Jack's house.

Mister Piper, Tom's father, was to play the music for dancing, so he got there first in order to tune up his pipes and have them ready so he wouldn't keep things back.

Bobby Shaftoe called for Bo Peep wearing the fine silver buckles handed down to him from his greatest grandfather.

Georgie Porgie, who was a fine young fellow in spite of the silly rhyme about him, called for Mass Muffet.

And Jack Horner took Margery Daw.

Nancy and Nick went with the Sprats. Nancy called up Daddy Gander on the telephone at supper time and told him she couldn't go to a party very well in her every day clothes, or Nich either, so he told them to look in the doll bureau in their Christmas-tree house and help themselves.

Nancy had found a lovely pale blue satin dress trimmed in rosebuds and Nick had found a George Washington suit—wig, silk stockings and all. So you may imagine how fine they looked as they rang Jack's doorbell.

but everybody was glad to see everybody else for that matter. It was the jolliest party ever!

Everybody was glad to see them. The house wasn't very big and every once in awhile it shook dreadfully. Once when the Fat Man and Missez Sprat were dancing, three bricks fell out of the chimney onto the roof and almost broke through.

But nothing serious happened and after while Jack's mother and Jill went to the kitchen to cut the pumpkin and mince pies and pour the cider and serve the ice-cream and cake.

But suddenly they came rushing back. "Everything's gone!" they screamed. "There isn't a cookie left! Somebody had been here and run off with all the refreshments. They were right in this cupboard. Oh, who could it be? Who can it be?"

"Count noses at once," commanded Daddy Gander, Mother Goose's husband. "It can't be anybody here. So it must be somebody who isn't here!"

"It's Taffy the Welshman!" cried Jack's mother. "I invited him but he sent word that he would be busy tonight and couldn't come."

"Well, he told part of the truth, anyway," said Daddy Gander sternly. "He's been very busy, it seems, We must go after him at once."

CROP REPORTS

The following is a summary of returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat has been still further protected by snow during the week, and reports are to the effect that everything so far is favorable for the crop.

Marketing, which has been quiet owing to the holiday season, is becoming more active, although more or less influenced by local conditions.

Brant: Wheat is still selling at $1.00 per bushel . There is very little movement with oats or barley as yet. What little hay is sold in this district has brought about $10 per ton at the barn, or $12.00 delivered. Turnips are selling at 20c per bushel. Potatoes are still running at $1.00 per bag on the market, the stores paying about 80c per bag.

Peterborough: Fairly heavy shipments of whole milk and cream are being made every day. Whole milk is bringing $2.00 per cwt., and cream 42c. During the holiday season practically all the geese and turkey sin the district were disposed of.

Leeds: Where cheese factories have shut down, many of the patrons are shipping milk or cream to condensaries or creameries, as the demand is good for any kind of dairy produce. Cheese, 16c per lb.; cream, 48c per lb.; creamery butter, 50c; whey butter, 40c.

Kenora: At present there is quite a scarcity of milk owing to the cold snap and the supply is being supplemented by the use of canned milk, a state of affairs which should not be in a district like this where dairying the year round could be profitably carried on if a proper outlet was provided, in the form of a creamery.

Temiskaming: Pulpwood is bringing $6.00, f. o. b., in 4-foot lengths, on the cars, which is only considered a fair price.

Kenora: The past week the weather has been quite cold, ranging between fifteen and thirty below zero, and, as a result, the muskegs and lakes are now considered safe for heavy teaming and farmers are busy hauling in pulpwood for which they are receiving $7 per cord at the mill. Work can be had for men in the bush cutting wood at $2 a cord without board, but unless they are in really hard circumstances they prefer to remain around town and run chances of getting work in the mill.

Leeds: Very hard to secure help of any kind. Farmers are offering from $300 to $400 per year for married men, with cottage, wood, milk found, also garden stuff. Live stock are now being fed a little better, especially dairy cattle in prospect of freshening.

Brant: Pigs have been selling at $8.75 for smooth fats to club members and little pigs still run about $8 per pair. There have been few sales during the past month consequently little movement in live stock outside of the egular butcher trade.

Dufferin: A large number of animals marketed this week with a good percentage in very much better condition than usual. Lambs appear to be nearly all marketed, and hogs are coming forward very freely. Prices were stronger during the week.

Middlesex: A number of hogs are being marketed this week due to the increase in price to around $8.50 to $8.75.

Victoria: Hogs sold during the week at $8.50 on the thick smooth basis f. o. b. Horses are a drug on the market.

Frontenac: Livestock throughout the country are in good condition and are wintering well. On account of low hog prices, few pigs are being wintered, as grain is more profitable to sell than to feed to live stock at present prices.

Temiskaming: Live stock that is getting any kind of attention or chance at all, are holding their flesh fairly well, and promise to come through the winter in very good condition. Hogs and lambs are in fairly good demand. Lambs bring as high as $10 to $12 each. Dressed beef is not selling very well, and is bringing from 6 to 8 and 9 cents per lb. by the carcass or half carcass.

On Thursday last I had an Alberta farmer in the office from the vicinity of Calgary. He took a chance on bringing a carload of horses into the district, and is holding an auction sale on January 8th. Horses are not in very keen demand just now.

RADIO NEWS

By ISRAEL KLEIN.

Recent reports that wired wireless, under Government supervision, will replace the present system of radio need bring no fears to the dyed-in-the-wool radio fan. Receiving concerts through rented sets only, and over accredited electric light or power lines, may be the outcome of present difficulties in broadcasting, but loopholes present themselves.

England started broadcasting to radio sets that were rented from the manufacturers. There was a general system of co-operation between manufacturers and Government, by which concerts were to be paid for through rentals and licenses for receiving sets.

But the officials and radio engineers failed to include the real fan, the amateur who makes his own set with what little wires and tubes and other paraphernalia he can collect. Setting up a monopoly in such a "commodity," it is found, is practically impossible.

Attempt at Solution.

So the British have tried to solve their problem by reducing the license fee and trying to induce outsiders to pay the lower tolls. That is left altogether to the discretion of the outlaw fans, who can't be routed out whatever the inducement, and who can go on listening in on the broadcast concerts.

A similar situation may be expected in this country if the practice of renting and licensing radio sets is put into effect. In fact, the number of outlaw fans would be proportionately greater in this country than in England, as the number of radio fans here is today. And in England, the officials estimate 200,000 outlaw radio sets are in use.

Leave it to the ingenuity of the amateur to find a way out. He can build any kind of a set with the scraps he has on hand, and he can find a way to tune in even on the wired form of wireless.

Try to Stop 'Em.

The result of a monopoly in radio broadcasting might be a monopoly in the manufacture of radio sets for rental only. But parts would also be built and these parts would easily go into the individual sets that amateurs will put up for their own use. How can they be stopped?

Limitation of manufacture of radio sets and parts, and institution of a fee on the manufacturer for each set, might be even a better way to collect funds for payment to the lecturers, singers and others who are asked to broadcast their specialties. Monopoly of broadcasting by wired wireless—the light and power companies—seems to be just as good an answer to the problem of broadcasting as has been the unsuccessful British monopoly.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

ANTI-UNION COMEDIES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir:—

Rev. Dr. Ephraim Scott has forsaken "fiction" for "tragedy." In both of these realms he displays powers of imagination. It might relieve the Church Union controversy from heaviness and over-seriousness to turn in the direction of comedy. In this connection one is amused to find that Dr. Scott has played a double role in his attitude toward the "Basis of Union." He has spoken with two inconsistent voices; which voice are we to believe—in the popular phrase, "Philip sober, or Philip drunk?"

I have just stumbled upon Dr. Scott's high tribute to the statement of doctrine in the Basis of Union when years ago it first appeared. "Its excellence," he wrote as editor of the Presbyterian Record, "must impress every thoughtful reader. It It is full, simple and Scriptural. There are few Presbyterians who can find any substantial difference between it and the Shorter Catechism or the Confession of Faith. Methodists and Congregationalists will doubtless find it in equally substantial accord with their accepted beliefs. Even if organic union should be delayed the work of these committees has not been in vain. Their statement of doctrine will be of permanent value to the Christian world. It will be a standing testimony to the essential unity of the Protestant Evangelical Church, both in this and in other lands, and will be of value in helping to set before the world the substance of the Protestant Christian faith. It may also serve as a standard or model to other churches contemplating union." This was the verdict of Dr. Scott in his sober mind before being warped by animosities. Now he says that the United Church is to be creedless, and that the Basis of Union provides "an open door for every error, especially that error which takes from Christ His Crown of Deity and takes from sinners a Saviour, making Him only a man. It would mean the death of a living evangelical Church, desolation and barrenness in spiritual results." Is not this Philip otherwise than sober in mind?

There is surely a subject for comedy in the amusing fact that while Dr. Scott holds his present official position by direct appointment from the General Assembly he repudiates the authority of that body and leads in a revolt against it and all the constituent courts of the Church. Can he expect allegiance from others while using his position to support a propagandist insurrection against the body that appointed him?

TIMBER LANDS ARE TO BE PROTECTED

OTTAWA, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Definite dedication to forest purposes of lands not suitable for agricultural activities formed the subject of discussion ot yesterday's session of Federal and Provincial forest officials who have been in conference here.

The purpose of such dedicated lands was to protect timber. It was not the intention, however, of proponents of the scheme that such timber should not be utilized. The idea was not to exercise discrimination in cutting timber.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Just as the business man takes his annual inventory, so should homemakers check up expenses and determine their progress toward financial independence.

Most people would like to be financially independent. Anticipation of the time when investments will bring in a living income and when the pressure of need for earning will lessen seems very delightful. But only a few plan their spending to make sure that happy days of independence really come.

The wise man takes his home inventory each year. He finds the answers to these and many other questions:

How much of last year's income did we eat?

How much did we wear?

How much was spent for equipment more or less permanent? (The sleeping porch, the piano, new furniture, etc.)

How much was spent for doing things to keep up with the neighbors?

How much did we invest?

Plain business sense applied at home pays.

If you are puzzled as to why you have less to invest than you had planned, start home bookkeeping and you will find what is wrong. This information is right at hand for the man or woman who will take ten minutes a day to get it.

There is no virtue in merely setting down figures in a household account book. All that this does is to tell the total amount spent. What you want to know is what you got for what you spent. This requires some simple sort of system.

Classify spending under some six main headings, such as investment, operating, food, clothing, advancement and luxury and set every single penny spent down under what appears the most suitable heading. It won't take even ten minutes a day once you get the habit.

At the end of every quarter, or oftener, add your entries, and the answer to your question, "Why can't I save money?" will lie before you.

FRANKLIN HARSH CRITIC OF WOMEN.

Compared Those Too Fond of Clothes With Monkeys —Rapped Love-Making.

PHILADELPHIA, Jn. 9. — "When I reflect on the interest women take in each other's clothes I cannot conceive you to be human creatures, but a sort of species, hardly a degree above a monkey, who has more diverting tricks than any of you and is an animal less mischievous and expensive."

You won't believe it but those words are attributed to none other than one Mr. Benjamin Franklin, philosopher, et al, and as a portion of his address to a young woman about to be married, he address forming a chapter in his book, "Reflections on Courtship and Marriage." The book was recently purchased at auction for $70 by Dr. Asa Don Dickinson, librian at the University of Pennsylvania, in charge of the Franklin collection. The "Reflections" comprise a volume of less than 100 pages and were written in 1746, Franklin then being young and unfamiliar with society, according to Dr. Dickinson. The known copies number not more than three.

Continuing on courtship, Franklin writes: "That hodge-podge of nonsense which many call 'love-making, such as using toothy and intemperate sallies of fancy, as found in novels and romances, must be avoided. Instead endeavor to inspire he young woman with sentiments of esteem at steadfast friendship."

LAKEFIELD RINK OPEN FOR SEASON

First Skating Brought Out Big Crowd—Cars Balk at Drifts on Country Roads.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 9.—The rink opened for the season on Saturday night for skaters only. The expectation is that the curling ices will be ready for use tonight. There was a splendid attendance of skaters on Saturday night, and there is a prospect of a good season.

Roads Blocked.

The country roads are blocked at present as far as motor traffic is concerned, so motor car owners are enjoying (?) a rest and the faithful horse is having a renewing of his popularity. The roads have been very heavy during the past few days and the farmers have not brought in much wood. After a few days when the roads are beaten down there will probably be a considerable amount of wood offered for sale in the village.

Church News.

Sunday being the Feast of the Epiphany, was fittingly observed in St. John's Anglican and St. Paul's Roman Catholic Churches.

The members of the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church held their corporate communion on Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was dispensed at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning. The usual preparatory service was held on the preceding Friday evening.

The week of prayer, in which the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches unite, will be held this week, with the following schedule of services to be held at 7.30 p.m.:

Monday, Jan. 7—Presbyterian Church.
Tuesday, Jan. 8.—Methodist.
Wednesday, Jan. 9—Baptist.
Thursday, Jan. 10—Presbyterian.
Friday, Jan. 11—Methodist.

Hike Replaced Drive.

The sleigh drive which was arranged for the A.Y.P.A. for Monday evening was postponed owing to the inclement weather. The members went for a hike instead.

Y. P. League.

The third of the series of moving picture entertainments under the auspices of the Young People's League of the Methodist Church was held on Thursday evening last and was well attended. The picture, "From the Manger to the Cross," was excellent and was especially adapted to the Christmas season.

Bought Sawmill.

Messrs. R. H. and Arthur Knox Lane bought the timber limits and sawmill of Thomas Gordon, of Harvey Township, and intend cutting a considerable amount of timber this winter. Mr. Gordon has bought the Lakefield property of R. H. Knox.

Won Drawing Contest.

Miss Alice Dench and Hector Edwards won the prizes in the drawing contest held last week by the management of the Queen Street Theatre. Miss Helen Porter won the prize for the best story on "The Brawn of the North." All the contestants were given free tickets to see Jackie Coogan in "My Boy."

Lakefield Personals.

Misses Lauretta and G. Northey, who spent their vacation at their home near Selwyn, have returned to resume their studies in the Lakefield High School.

A. Quinn, of Milnet, Ont., is visiting his family in the village.

Hilliard Payne left on Monday to take up his duties in the Sterling Bank at Aurora. Mr. Payne has been transferred from the local branch of the Sterling Bank.

Mrs. G. H. Rowe and sons, Edwin and Sherman, of Peterboro, visited friends in the village last week.

Rev. and Mrs. Walter Cox were in the village from Toronto for the week-end. They expect to move to the village very shortly.

Misses Margaret and Myrtle Darcy were guests of Peterboro friends last week.

Miss Gwen. Simpson of Buckhorn spent the week-end at her home in the village.

Haulon Payne left on Monday for Pakesley, where he will spend the winter.

KING DOLLAR HAS BEEN DETHRONED IN GERMANY

New Gold Mark Takes Its Place, Temporarily at Least, in Money Market of the Fatherland.

By GUS M. OEHM.

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—(United Press).—King Dollar has been dethroned in Germany. At least temporarily.

The German people, always great believers in the German mark, now value their own money as high and, in some cases, more highly than American dollars which, until recently, were at a premium.

The so-called Black Bourse, where money changed hands at values far different from those set by law, is dead, and with it died the pulling power not only of dollars but of pounds, gulden, Swiss rancs, Austrian crowns and all the array of so-called stable monies which retained their buying power while German marks crashed.

How long this will last depends on how long the German Government is able to keep its money from somersaulting into the abyss again. This is a mooted question—some say for weeks, some say for years and some say forever.

Fall of the Mark.

At any rate, be it for long or no, it is here. A few weeks ago the dollar was the most sought-for, bought and sold piece of merchandise in Germany. With an artificial mark rate instituted and the printing presses still grinding out trillions upon trillions daily, the value of foreign money continued to increase so that when the dollar "officially" reached 4,200,000,000,000 marks, traders on the Black Bourse were obtaining between 7 and 10 trillions. This was in Berlin. In Danzig and Cologne they obtained 35 trillions.

Express passenger trains between Berlin and these points were loaded with so-called money "bootleggers," who bought up the dollars and pounds and what not in Berlin at double the value set by the Government and then sold them in Cologne at four times what they paid for them. Then they rushed back to Berlin and sold their marks—at the same time giving the Berlin buyer 100 per cent. more than the banks would pay. Naturally prices immediately adjusted themselves and far surpassed the Black Bourse rate.

Banks which had done almost exclusive foreign exchange business, changing checks, money orders, drafts, express orders, etc., were deserted. Everybody furnished himself with actual dollar notes, obtained by mail or courier from London or Paris. These the bootleggers bought without question, though they fought shy of ordinary checks.

The One Question.

When the Black Bourse operated, every hotel, cafe and street corner was a bit of the general illegal stock exchange. Money changing was in the air. Everywhere one went the eternal question was: "What did you get?"

Now the trains to Danzig and Cologne are empty. The printing presses have stopped. Unless one has a good butcher friend who still buys his meats in foreign markets and who mut have foreign money every day, one is out of luck as far as getting anything more than the official rate or one's dollar.

The German paper mark at this writing stands 4,200,000,000,000 to the dollar, of course, but the Government is buying them up with its new renten-marks, etc. The only question now worrying the German people is how long will the few renten-marks last and—then what?

Many see a repetition of the mark devaluation process—renten-marks and their successors plunging from one value today to another tomorrow. Others see the carrying through of a new tax and budget policy which will maintain the new mark and its followers at their printed value. Which set of speculators is right, time will tell. Meantime, the mark has dethroned the dollar and the Black Bourse is no more.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

NERVOUS SIGNS

The laws of health and hygiene provide for certain signs that show unmistakable evidence of one's physical or mental condition. If there is a greater demand or drain on your bodily powers than your system can stand, warning signs are displayed.

If you find that your sleep is not restful and you frequently awake at three or four in the morning, unable to go to sleep again, check up on your condition at once.

Do you find yourself becoming suspicious of your business associates or are you beginning to worry over the future business prospects? Are you losing your grip, through lack of exercise? Understand that running around an office or factory, keyed up to a high pitch and giving orders to somebody about something is not exercise, no matter how legweary you may be at night.

Do you sit in a bad posture or tap on the desk or table nervously? Your circulation is probably bad, and your diet and digestion need attention at once.

In other words, you are showing nervous signs from some cause or other. Taking stock of your bodily health is far more important than any other stock-taking.

Don't resort to a dose of medicine or some dope to bolster you up for a short time. This only puts off the smash a little longer. Don't take stimulants in order to drive your bodily powers. It's bad business.

Try a rest, if you can possibly get away. I don't mean away from home, but away from work, worry and hustle. Rest is a wonder-working tonic.

Anyone inclined to a nervous condition should not eat meat more than once a day. Use plenty of green vegetables, sea-food and milk.

Avoid tea and coffee for a month or two and mark the results. Consult your physician on a program of relaxation. Learn just what complete rest means.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Bananas are an excellent winter fruit. They are known as a "sweet fruit" and supply a small amount of heat and energy.

While green bananas are very starchy, ripes ones are not, the ripening of the fruit changing the starch to sugar. By cooking the sugar is made more digestible for many persons and the heat changes the starch of green bananas into the more easily assimilated sugar.

If bananas are served raw the fuzzy sort of coating should be scraped from the fruit.

These recipes may help solve the sweet problem for a meal or two.

Baked Sponge of Bananas

Cover bottom of buttered baking dish with a layer of split lady-fingers. Add a layer of whole bananas, allowing one for each person. Sprinkle lightly with sugar and the juice of one lemon. Cover with shredded cocoanut and cover dish. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven and serve with custard sauce or whipped cream.

Scalloped bananas make a nourishing dessert without eggs.

Scalloped Bananas

Choose bananas that are not overripe. Butter a baking dish and arrange bananas in layers, slicing crosswise. Sprinkle each layer lightly with sugar, a few drops of lemon juice and bits of butter. When the dish is about three-quarters full cover fruit with a layer of coarse bread crumbs. Sprinkle with sugar, one-half teaspoon cinnamon and pour over theee-quartrs cup of thin cream. Cover dish and bake in a slow oven for 30 minutes. Remove cover and quickly brown the top.

Banana Cream

Choose perfectly ripe bananas, peel and scrape. Rub bananas through a sieve. To one cup of pulp add one cup of cream and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Add four tablespoons powdered sugar, one teaspoon lemon juice and beat with a dover beater until light and frothy. Soften one teaspoon granulated gelatin in one tablespoon cold water and add two tablespoons boiling water. Stir over hot water until dissolved. Beat this into first mixture. Let stand on ice until very cold and firm to the touch. Serve in high glasses garnished with preserved cherries.

Bananas With Nut Sauce

Four small ripe bananas, 1 cup cream, 2 tablespoons pwodered sugar, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ½ cup finely chopped nut meats.

Peel and scrape bananas, sprinkle lightly with salt and lemon juice. The lemon juice prevents them from discoloring. Whip cream until stiff, add sugar, vanilla and nuts and mix well. Pour over bananas and serve very cold.

GUARDSMEN WILL UPHOLD THE LAW

Scene of Street Battle and Fight With the Ku Kluxers.

MARION, Ill., January 9.—United Press. — Three companies of National Guardsmen to-day were bivouaced in Williamson County, the scene of the Herrin massacre, "to prevent a possible outbreak of fighting between moonshiners, dry agents and the Ku Klux Klan, and an anti-Klan organization, the Knights of the Flaming Circle."

The guardsmen, who were from the surrounding towns of Mount Vernon, Salem and Cairo, arrived silently, with fixed bayonets, marched through the streets, past hundreds of men and women, just as silent, and unrolled their beds in the big court room on the second floor.

They are the first troops ever called out as the result of efforts to enforce the prohibition law in the United States.

The Salem company was sent at once to Herrin, close to the Lester strip, where 25 men were killed in the battle between guards and striking miners, in June, 1922.

A large element of foreigners there has caused the forces attempting to enforce prohibition to centre attention on this mining town, known as the hotbed of any trouble that may start in the coal mining district.

JAPANESE NAVY MAKES REPAIRS.

Will Take Fifty Millions to Repair Damage By Earthquake.

(By CLARENCE DUBOSE)

TOKYO, Jan. 7 (United Press).—The Japanese Navy is staging a fifty-million-dollar comeback—but the time that will be required for that comeback is not known.

To a lyaman's eye the Japanese Navy seems about as good as it was before the earthquake, so far as ships are concerned. For fighting ships, afloat in the water, were not destroyed, or even damaged to any extent.

The damage was done on land—to arsenals, machine plants, stores and supplies—all the equipment for making and maintaining the floating fortresses. Naval officers say all this shore damage can be repaired and replaced for Yen 100,000,000 (fifty million dollars).

Meanwhile, until those repairs and replacements are made the fighting force at sea is weakened by not having the usual supply backing from ashore.

Officials here now minimize the damage done to the navy as a fighting sea force. The damage ashore is obvious. But they say the fleets are not greatly weakened for combat purposes. But there is a technically, for fighting ships on the sea must have oil, shells, guns, replacements, supplies—and the shops and stations ashore that supplied those things were for the most part destroyed.

Navy Hard Hit

After personal observation, to the extent possible, and conversations with numerous authorities, it seems to me that a fair appraisal of the condition is: The navy has been hard hit probably considerably in excess of the official figures. But money and a year's time can put the navy back where it was—that is, stores of oil can be re-established, arsenals, machine shops, ways, etc., at the naval base, can be rebuilt. Whether or not the people will stand for spending the money is yet to be seen—although the chances are that they will.

A group of foreign correspondents were permitted by the naval authorities to make an inspection of Yokosuka recently. This was the great naval base twenty miles south of Yokohama. It was almost completely destroyed. Vast quantities of supplies, including 70,000 tons of oil, were burned. Half a dozen machine shops and the electric plant are about all that remains.

Temporary Structures

But sheds and shacks and temporary structures are going up, oil is being bought, supplies are being accumulated. Two submarines in the harbor were slightly damaged, and have since been repaired. Out of the thirty seaplanes at the base, twenty-nine were damaged, and sixteen of these have been repaired to a point of serviceability, officials say. Otherwise, according to the authorities, no damage was done to completed fighting craft.

The "Amagi," a battlecruiser in the ways under construction, was warped in the keel. By agreement with the Washington treatory signatory powers, Japan will, therefore, scrap the "Amzagi" and substitute for her the "Kaga," which under the agreement, would have been scrapped. The "Kaga" will be converted into a seaplane carrier, as the "Amagi" would have been. It is a technically resulting from the earthquake, and making no important difference in the scrapping scheme.

Irony of Quake

The "Satsuma," "Mikasa" and "Aki" are now being scrapped at Yokosuka. We saw the guns and turrets taken from some of these and workmen ripping away at the others. Amid the general scene of desolation it seemed singularly ironical that so much time and effort and expenditure were necessary for further destruction—further destruction of instruments created at great cost and for just one purpose—that they might destroy. The earthquake demolished so much—but didn't harm the ships that have to be scrapped!

NEW RUSSIAN COINS MINTED

PETROGRAD, Jan. 7 (Associated Press).—Petrograd mint has finished the execution of the order made by the comsariat of finance for the minting of gold chervontzi, and also silver coins with denominations from 10 kopecks to one rouble.

No copper coins have been minted. The coins have not yet been put into circulation.

IF YOU ARE LONELY

You are lonely. You are in the world but not of it. Nobody cares. In a crowd you feel as lonely as Robinson Crusoe before the arriva of Friday. That is what depressio does for one. You quote "No ma careth for my soul," and believe i [illegible] God seems abstract and remote, and as far away as the cold, passionless stars. There does not seem much to live for. It is all grind and turmoil and vexation of spirit. Job on his ash-heap were happier. Certainty has been dethroned by Doubt. Soon, like the grass, you will be cut down, dried up, and withered.

May I quote something for your comfort, as Jeremiah quoted of old? "For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, saith the Lord, thoughts of peace, and not of evil . . . Surely that lifts the cloud! God ceases to be something and becomes Somebody. You no longer reflect on the First Cause, the Supreme Power and Force. They are hard terms for One Who is Love. Your heart warms, your mind becomes more normal, and you remember that Jesus told us to call Him "Our Father." Not much room for depression now, is there? And God has thoughts so have you. The matter becomes personal and in time ate You realise to some extent that the Kingdom of God is within you, and not remotely distant. Depression has gone like fog before a gale.

So once again the Good Book has come to our rescue. It always does and it always will if we give it the opportunity. What should we think of a starving man who neglected to open his cupboard in which he knew there was good food? The soul needs refreshment as well as the body, yet somehow we neglect the one and seldom the other, despite the fact that the Bible is on the shelf in front of us.

IF YOU ARE NOT WELL HERE IS YOUR KEY TO HEALTH!

Hattonford, Alta. — "Being run-down after the 'flu' I was in a weakened condition, had dizzy spells and shortness of breath, followed by faintness. The middle age period made things seem as though I'd never feel well again, but I was determined not to give up. Hearing of Dr. Pierce's famous Golden Medical Discovery I sent for a bottle, followed the directions, and soon felt less tired and faint, and finally I got back to my normal state. I have thanked God many times for the restoration of my health so I could remain with my family, and I gladly recommend his Discovery of Dr. Pierce's for it is so pure, and worth a trial to any one who is run-down."—Mrs. Gertrude White, Crystal Springs Farm.

Golden Medical Discovery is put up in Dr. Pierce's Labratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., and sold by all druggists in both tablets and liquid. Send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial package of tablets.

Folks Back Home

Sketches by J. H. Striebel

By Robert Quillen

Captain Hoyle

Captain Hoyle wears a long coat and a goatee. He fought and bled for the Lost Cause, and hasn't done a stroke of work since 1865. He owns a ramshackle little hut at the edge of town, where he lives with an aged negro servant and three hound dogs, and he owes every grocery store in town.

He held several minor offices after the war, winning each campaign easily on his record as a soldier; and when the passing year's brought a new generation of voters who didn't know or care much about the war, so that his record no longer was a political asset, he suffered but one defeat at the polls and then found a new means of appealing to the voters. He made casual reference to his empty sleeve, and intimated that a man thus handicapped deserved the sympathy and assistance of his fellows.

This plea worked for a number of years, but sympathies grows less as the world becomes accustomed to an affliction, and after six or eight years the old captain found himself jobless and unable to think of any appeal that would win the hearts of the voters.

He has been a long time idle, depending largely on the subtle charity of his neighbors, and the youngsters have forgotten that he ever held an office.

But an ancient wag said this week: "Doc Snow tells me Captain Hoyle has got the itch, so I reckon he's fixin' to run fo' office agin. He ain't never had a mo' appealin' platform."

Willie Willis

The mother of little Willie Willis discovered Tuesday that her son had been permitting his pup to share his bed since the cold spell began. In order to save her pride she made him explain to the druggist what the powder would be used for.

Famous Guys

MACHIAVELLI: This Florentine, born in 1469, when the world was full of dukes and dukelings on whose good will one's health repended, was one of the few men in history who had traits sufficiently pronounced to justify turning him into an adjective.

Mach was the original hard-boiled egg. His hero was Cesare Borgia, who was himself no three-minute egg, and everything that Cesare did caused Mach to give three rousing cheers.

There were few idealists holding places of power in those days, but some dukes and princes resorted to murder with some reluctance and this softness struck Mach as very unbecoming in regular he-men. He believed in massaging the necks of enemies with a large two-edged sword, and he was strong in the faith that only weaklings tell the truth when a first-class lie promises a profit.

His best known bit of literature concerns the art of bossing a country and keeping the tax-payers in their place. His schemes were cold-blooded, but they have an efficient sound. There can be no doubt that the easiest way to keep a knocker quiet is to kill him.

Yet Mach was like other efficiency experts. He could tell others how to run the world, but he fell down on the job of feathering his own nest. He lost his place at the political trough and had to write to earn his rations.

The Butcher Boy and His Bride

Hiram Has Competition

"He wears a white apron and fibre cuffs, and has sawdust on the floor."

It never rains but it pours. Last week, when Hiram the butcher boy and the girl across the street were preparing to move into their new bungalow, fire made ruin of their hopes and now nothing of their dreams remain except three black and dismal chimneys that stand against the skyline. They rallied gamely, as youth will, and began to dream anew; but now another misfortune threatens. A man from the county seat has rented the old Rodgers' store building on the lower end of Main Street, and has opened a rival meat market. He wears a white apron and fibre cuffs, and has sawdust on the floor—niceties that Hiram, feeling secure in his monopoly, has never considered essential to prosperity.

There isn't enough patronage in town to support two markets, and many of Hiram's friends express the fear that newcomer will take the field. It is probable, however, that they fear to much, for the people here are clannish and inclined to consult their sympathies more frequently than they consult their purses. Old man Scruggs, for example, to'd a group in the postoffice lobby Thursday morning that he hadn't tried to eat beefsteak since his last upper teeth came out, but that he intended to buy something from Hiram every day if he had to swallow it whole.

The girl same over this morning as we were eating breakfast to lessen her troubles by sharing them.

"I'm not scared about the new market," said she. "We have friends enough to stick to us, and anyway, now that our house has burned I feel like the worst has happened and nothing that can happen now will hurt us any worse.

"I'm not going to be a baby about it, anyway. Lots of young folks don't have houses, and I wouldn't mind living in a cave so long as I had Hiram. I'm going to help him, too, now that I haven't anything else to keep me busy. I've made a list of eighteen families that have bought meat from the new market, and I'm going to make eighteen social calls today and tell 'em how wonderful it is to have all our friends stick to us in our trouble. After I get through being grateful, they'll be ashamed to buy a little dog meat from the new man."

Ah, well, Pericles has his Aspasia.

Aunt Het

"I'm glad Pa is dignified. Ever' time I want a new hat I can begin to talk about the way he acted that time he drunk too much blueberry wine."

FALSE ONES DON'T COUNT.

"My dentist was a fine fellow. Each time he extracted a tooth he gave me a glass of whiskey."

"Don't you go to him any more?"

"I haven't any more teeth."—Le Rire (Paris).

CIGARETTE ASHES.

Cigarette ashes will polish silver very neatly. A dentist is the authority for stating the ashes are also excellent for cleaning tartar from the teeth.

OH, PARDON US!

"Terribly rough, isn't it?" she observed, as the roadster jolted over the road.

"But I just shaved this evening, dear," he replied.—Ohio Sun Dial.

Better than Riches

UNDER the dome of the Board of Trade in Manchester, England, is this inscription: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." The thought is considerably more than mere sentiment. It is good business.

A good name is recognized as the biggest individual asset a business can have. It is the very keystone of modern industry. Business to-day is done on such a broad scale—every merchant and every manufacturer has such a long list of customers—that it would not do to have a reputation for "slipping something over."

Advertising has standardized almost every article you can buy. You don't have to bargain and dicker and haggle to know that you are getting as good as you give.

That's why it pays to read the advertisments and to buy advertised goods. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its faithful performance and lasting usefulness or of its definite value. The advertiser would not dare to risk his good name by advertising an unworthy product.

If you value constant satisfaction—if you want to get your full money's worth every time—read the advertisements and buy advertised merchandise.

Pearl Alley

by Jack Lait

"Let go," Said Molly, Through Her Teeth, "or I'll kill you!"

UNLESS a girl be born to pearls, pearls are a climax in her life.

Pearls come into her vision only after certain evolutions. Every chambermaid sizzles with a yearn for a diamond ring; but pearls, the aristocrats of baubles, mean nothing until diamonds have become a bore—and then they mean so much!

Pearls are so skilfully and cheaply counterfeited these days, that stenographers, as they screw up their brows while cogitating on how to spell "remittance," fiddle with strings of semi-pearls, demi-pearls, near-pearls, pseudo-pearls and other commercial counterfeits that would fool an oyster.

This, however, instead of vulgarizing the real pearls, enhances them. There is still something about the bona fide ones that all the chemists and onion-skin layers in Chicago, Syracuse and Kansas City (homes of the phony pearls) cannot impart to their specious product—any more than one can give it to home brew or false teeth—and that is character.

Pearls are almost human. They have individuality. They have moods. They are temperamental, whimsical, elusive, cryptic, mysterious, ornery. Only the factory-made mail-order ones are exactly matched. And when the shrewd merchants go a step further and make them slightly odd, to throw off suspicion, they shriek their shame from the powdered neck of the shipping clerk's bride and the janitor's sweetie. Machinery, only, can be perfect; nature, only, can be perfectly imperfect.

Pearls are a frame of mind. Rather, they express a crystalized consciousness. Coming from the innards of the lowliest of beasts, they yet breathe forth the indefinable, superior something which is best conveyed in the slang term "class."

Now, "class" obtains in many classes. It is comparative. As far as it is exemplified in pearls, it presupposes possession of sufficient funds to buy and maintain pearls, since they are one of the few specific manifestations of "class" that cost much. But there are many differentiations and demarcations among the many groups that have the single common characteristic in an ability and a desire to acquire pearls.

But all pearl-wearers are at the top of their division. Be they among the well-born, the very rich, the courtesans, the stars, the crooks or the queens, they are of the elect not alone as against the great world of nonentities, but in their own groups.

There is only one stage beyond wearing pearls in all the catalogue of human equations as confessed by external adornment. And that is an extreme. And that extreme, like most other extremes, meets its antithesis. As intense heat is the same as intense cold, so is the post-pearl period utter nakedness of gems. And only the destitute and the super-super have the moral courage to go so stripped.

Not of either of these was Molly Parkinson. She had been the central figure in a hectic progression of atmospheric adventures since pre-flapperhood, starting as the precocious scandal of the village where she was reared and developing into one of the trickiest, most treacherous, cleverest, cold-bloodedest and swiftest gold-diggers and pearl-divers in the metropolis whither she had gravitated—not drifted—and through which she had squirmed her determined way through poverty, past luxury, to quality.

In a subdued, tapestried, sombre, sequestered home on a by-way, just off the main drive which popular songs mention as the Main Street of "society," Molly Parkinson lived—to all appearances from without—like a lady. She had discarded her very best car and used a little town model that attracted notice only from the cognoscenti, but could wiggle through the traffic and not get a tumble where some chorus girl's gaudy roadster or some brash climber's imported limousine had even traffic cops gawking.

They say the development of "class" in one generation is rare, but Molly was notorious for rare deeds and results outside the statistical permutations. With very little schooling and no breeding, she had passed the field, although she was not more than usually pretty, had never revealed any artistic talents, was neither an actress nor a model, was never really very virtuous or very wicked.

As a youngster she had shocked her village because she was restless, discontent, daring, rather than what our child-welfare sharks like to classify as "incorrigible."

In her early days in the Big City she had been rather a young eagle, sitting gracefully in the air overhead and picking the lambkins on which she would swoop than a frenzied chipping sparrow bobbing about after this crumb and that. No one could ever charge Molly with being that which women love to spit out as the last word in social excommunication—"promiscuous." Though many men had "come into her life" between the village and the home off the drive, Molly had still never been easy to meet.

No one man could brag that Molly Parkinson was his. A big-time buccaneer without classified means of support, she nevertheless was nobody's bird in the cage she kept gilded, for her game was neither selling spurious "love" nor dealing in heavy sugar.

Molly was a speculator—in everything. She had started her capital with moneys borrowed from admirers; but thereafter she had made her way by canny investments. Her associates were men of large affairs, and their tips had aided her along until, by constant study and natural gifts of calculating effects from causes, she had become a bit of a sharpshooter who sensed when she did not actually know just what to buy and when to unload.

Her early companions — even her early benefactors—she had tossed into the past. Molly was no snob, but she realized that in her precarious situation as a sniper she must be studiously circumspect. Few called at her house and she was never seen in restaurants or public resorts. Her neighbors knew almost nothing of her, except that she was a quietly disposed woman who lived alone, who maintained the retinue of servants customary in that zone, who had few visitors, who never gave "parties," and who had no known "connections."

The maids, who fraternized with those of the other nearby households, could add little to this impression. Their mistress was discreet, paid wages regularly, had occasional dinner guests and now and then a gentleman in the drawing-room, rarely telephoned except to her broker, had no sub rosa alliances, appeared to own no relatives, read quite a bit, smoked some, but drank quite sparingly, and had no freak habits.

Molly was not the only householder along Pearl Alley whom the Blue Book jumped. "Society" has never yet been able for long to trench off its domains. It is an unwritten fact in all history that peregrinations of hounded and scourged tribes have been as nothing to the constant movements of the rich and effete before the relentless press from all directions of the new-rich, the prosperous tradesmen, the lately retired demi-mondes and all the other gold-lined rabble dissatisfied and as snobbishly as did any of the registered blooded blue-ribbon wearers. She felt herself an old citizen in the precinct, having been the pioneer non-society-pager to crash the sotto voce block.

She had begun to feel with the established citizens, to be one of them by personal persuasion, if not by mutual recognition, to share their problems and synchronize with their vibrations as citizens, taxpayers and rooted residents.

She had no campaign laid out for gradual election into the closed circle. A remote hope lay hidden in the nub of her heart that some day she would be on visiting terms with the Vans and the Des. Surely, she would so comfort herself that they in time might come to let down the bars a little, through sheer continuance of "good behavior."

A chance fire on the street, late at night, brought her into contact with several neighbors under circumstances that slackened some of the taut formalities, and she felt that, although they might not have addressed or answered her in a less fortuitous situation, and might never again, she had at least come through without regrets. And now she drew an occasional hat-tip from the men as she encountered them while entering or leaving her motor, and sometimes a woman smiled fleetingly and restrainedly—but still smiled—when she encountered her neighbors at her modiste's or in her bank.

Thus she lived patiently, watchfully, unobtrusively, properly along. At the opera she sat just far enough front to be in and just far enough back to be not forward. She dressed in the best, but neither quietly enough to be conspicuous nor flamboyantly enough to be garish. Her servants wore livery, but not uniforms. Her home was lighted sufficiently to remove it from an abode of mystery, yet it was never "lit up."

She paid her tradesmen with a careless regularity that stamped her as neither a cash-discount grabber of vulgar promptness, nor a true society stalker that had to be threatened and dunned. She drove two cars, neither funereal black nor rococo yellow. Her name never appeared in the prints except as a donor to a public charity, when she gave liberally but not extravagantly.

Her neighbors could neither say that she sought to penetrate nor to show up. She tried not to outdo them in either suppression or expression.

So it went on for a year or more since Molly Parkinson had taken possession of the Pearl Alley forty-foot-front and shared party walls with the widow of a Governor and the family of a financier. So it should have gone on until she grew gray in her astute respectability, to be buried at least and at last from the best block in town, in itself a monument to the career of the girl who had run away from Judkins Junction because she was spanked for swinging on a gate with a traveling man after nine o'clock.

So it would have gone on, if——

But Molly, seated in a yielding Moorish chair in her boudoir, reading, heard a jangling clanging at her doorbell. She expected no callers and delivery men always used the basement entrance. It was hard on bedtime. Molly had entertained dinner guests, who had departed at ten, and had relaxed into her favorite seat of perusal and contemplation for an hour with a book before turning in. Who could this be, whanging away at the button? Most of us can read much in the touch of a push-button; a ring or a buzz can speak in many humors. Molly felt that this address was hostile—it could be no less than an intrusion.

Her houseman responded. Molly, slipping to the head of the stairs, heard him say that Miss Parkinson was out, as he was instructed, always, with unexpected inquiries.

"You're a liar," answered a voice, a male voice.

Molly's heart jumped, then sank. She did not immediately recognize the voice, but she knew she had heard it before—long, long before, when such voices and such words were not so strange to her ear. What agitated her above all was that there covering that money is not all, and that financial indigestion cries for the pepsin of "class."

Molly's pearls were not the only ones thereabouts that had not been inherited. A certain notorious ballroom danseuse had lately bought a residence catacorner over the street with the checkbook of an indulgent clothing nabob; the Greenwich Village bride of a bucket-shop manipulator had been ensconced in a dwelling up the walk which had traditions and legends; a successful shyster was readying another brownstone front hard by, for heaevn knew what.

Molly resented these intruders as heartily was to be a "scene"—and that her servants would leap over fences to the other back doors to send the word along the street that at last Molly Parkinson had played true to form.

What the nature, the outcome or the direction of the episode would be did not as much panic her as that it would be a scene—that was enough!

"I'm very sorry, but Miss Parkinson is out," reiterated the houseman, whose phraseology was by rote according to an exact manual memorized, with a speech for every anticipated contingency.

"Oh, go lay an egg," answered the voice. "I been pipin' off the joint for three hours. I seen her come in, an' I seen them chumps blow out o' here ten minutes ago. Now, you go an' tell Molly I'm here—Jim Tattersall—an'——"

Molly felt herself swaying. Tattersall! He had been her sweetheart, back in that buried interim between her arrival in the Big City and her realization that she was a piker, a bushleaguer and a fool. Tattersall, a ruffianly "sport" of the stratum which the world calls the underworld and the underworld calls "the world," had brought her to an understanding that she was headed down the wrong tracks.

And now—now!

Molly pulled herself together and swept down the stairs. There would be no more colloquy between Tattersall and her servants than had already transpired. Two more sentences and the whole hidden mess would be exposed.

"You may go, Loughberry," said the mistress of the house.

"Hello, Molly," said Tattersall. "You've come up some since the old days at Reisenweber's."

Reisenweber's!

Of all damning, incriminating words — that. Had it been almost any other place, any other name, it might have left room for doubt. But Reisenweber's had been a nationally known night-life hangout, frequented by rounders and roisterers, giddy flappers and chorus girls, out-of-town spenders and local gadders. The government had abated and closed it as a bootlegging nuisance. And Loughberry had heard!

There was nothing further to hide.

"What do you want?" snapped Molly.

"Hey—don' bark at me. Let's sit down an' have a li'l talk. Got any hootch?"

"Not for you. Talk up and make it breezy. This is my house. Now, what's on your chest?"

"Well, if you run me out o' gas—it's this: I'm flat, see?"

"Oh, you are? And for that you bust in here, where nobody knows me, and—and— Why, you lowdown heel. You beat it before I call a cop."

"You ain't gonna call no cop, Molly. You don't want me to spill all I know about you."

"Cough it up—all of it. There's nothing left to save—now. See that door?"

"Yeh. I come in t'rough it. An' I'm going out t'rough it again when I got a li'l bankroll."

Molly started for the door, to open it. But Tattersall's hand swept up, as she crossed him, and seized the long string of pearls about her throat.

"Let go," said Molly, through her teeth, "or I'll kill you."

Tattersall yanked. The pearls cut into Molly's neck. But they were strung on piano wire. Loughberry, hearing high voices, had returned. Molly swung at Tattersall, who threw back his head. She kicked at him, managing to plant one foot in the pit of his stomach. With a howl he let go and fell back.

"Loughberry, call the police," ordered Molly.

The servant scurried to the telephone. Tattersall picked himself up.

"All right, you cheap skate," said Tattersall, "I'll go."

"Over my dead body, you'll go. You'll get a chance to tell all you know about me—in court. You've jimmed up my future, now you can let loose my past. Loughberry's a witness—you'll go up the river for this."

Tattersall made a dash for the door. Molly Parkinson flung her strong arms about his neck and bore him to the floor. They wrestled, they bit, they struck, they scratched, they swore. A patrol-wagon gong was heard. Feet ran up the outer steps. A policeman rang the bell. Loughberry answered, stepping over the wriggling, fighting forms of his mistress and Tattersall. The first bluecoat collared his man. Molly threw on a cloak and went along to the station to sign a complaint. The newspapers had it all next morning—the location of the adventure making the story.

There is a house for sale on Pearl Alley, and a string of pearls is available in the shop of the city's foremost jewelers. A certain millionaire about town has ordered furnishings for a giddy apartment just off the "rialto" and is rubbing his thin white hands, for Molly Parkinson has come off her high horse. And the neighbors along the quiet street, punctuated only by the incongruous presence of the elevated former ballroom danseuse and the bucket-shopper's bride, say they expected it—that Parkinson woman had always acted queerly.

HOUSING SHORTAGE IS HARD ON CUPID

German Men and Women Encounter a Difficult Situation.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. — (United Press).—German men and women are finding marriage and divorce alike increasingly difficult because of an acute housing shortage, according to Frau Scheiber, member of the Reichstag, visiting here.

Frau Scheiber said that one of the most curious and serious social results of the Germans' present condition was that young people were unable to live together, and married people wishing a divorce were unable to separate.

People wishing to divorce cannot because they would have no place to live apart, said Frau Scheiber.

"There has been so little building since the war that the housing shortage has become unbelievably acute.

"I know examples of men and women, divorced, who had to continue to live together because neither could find another room.

"The same is true of young people wishing to marry. They have to wait until they can find even one room in which to live together."

FARMERS BELIEVE IN MARKET SCHEME

Co-operative Marketing Endorsed at Winnipeg Convention.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—"We believe implicity in principles of co-operative marketing," declared directors of the United Farmers of Manitoba in a special report to the convention today on the wheat pool, and a system of selling our wheat through voluntary contract pools should, we think, give efficient management and whole hearted loyal support by all farmers, tend immeasurably to improve our marketing conditions and secure a greater return to the producer. Addressing the convention last night, Robert Forke, M.P., leader of the Progressives, said he had learned Canada was not an easy country to govern, because of its varied interests, but he was persuaded that the policy of the Progressive party would suit the requirements of a larger share of the population than any other policy.

Financially, Canada was sound, but was the agricultural industry sound? That was the problem he wanted solved. The equilibrium of the economic machine was out of balance. The drain on Canada's population, he said, would continue to the United States so long as living was more expensive and taxes higher here than across the line.

SITUATION TENSE AT THE CAPITAL

Crerar and Dunning Speeding East For a Parley.

OTTAWA, January 9. — Canadian Press. — Not since the days which preceded the formation of the King Government, has the political situation aroused so much interest and comment.

The arrival to-morrow of Hon. T. A. Crerar and Premier Dunning, of Saskatchewan, will, it is expected, herald the opening of direct negotiations for wider western representation in the Cabinet. So far an an agreement with the Liberals and the Progressives is concerned, the emphatic declaration of Robert Forke, the Progressive Leader, that the Progressive Party is "going to keep the banner flying" next session, is regarded as preluding any possibility of a formal agreement between the two party organizations.

As a matter of fact there has been little expectation in political circles here that any formal alliance between the two parties would be reached, or even proposed by Premier King.

It is recalled that scarcely a month ago Progressive whips met with Mr. Forke at Winnipeg and decided on a vigorous and intensive organization campaign and laid down certain definite lines of policy for the coming session.

No Need to Be Dyspeptic

If Stomach Sours, Gets Gassy and Heavy, Sweeten and Lighten With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

One never grows too old to forget the delights of eating. And yet old people will sometimes play on these memories and bring on dyspeptic attacks even though the diet be simple. Every family should be supplied with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. From childhood to old age they daily overcome or prevent the distresses due to indigestion. They sweeten the stomach by giving it the alkaline effects as in health, they absorb the gases, they lift off the feelings of heaviness, they stop sour risings or heart burn, they actually assist in the digestion of food, and from all points of view are one of the most invaluable aids to health to be found. So, no matter what you eat, if your stomach rebels, always remember that a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will keep your stomach sweet and thus aid to prevent much of the distress that comes late in life.

MANY CHILDREN THREATENED BY DREAD DISEASE

School Doctor's Report to Board of Education Shows 75 Per Cent. of Prince of Wales School Children Are Susceptible.

LAST MEETING

A full attendance of the Board of Education marked the last meeting of the 1923 board last night when the slate was cleaned of all 1923 business.

The most interesting report was that of the School Medical Officer, Dr. A. W. McPherson, in regard to the making of the Schick test for diphtheria and the administration of the toxin anti-toxin. The test was taken in the Prince of Wales School with the assistance of Dr. A. Y. McNair. In that school 121 pupils were tested, and it was found that 90 were susceptible to diphtheria. This is 75 per cent. There were no ill effects. Dr. McPherson reported, and no objection was made by even the kindergarten class. The work will be continued, Queen Mary School being the next on the list.

Dr. McPherson's report for the month of December showed that 91 children had been examined and 48 defect slips issued. These covered 27 cases of defective teeth; 18 defective tonsils and four defective vision.

Class-room inspections by the nurse numbered 358; 32 children were excluded by the nurse for rash and uncleanliness, and 10 for sore throat.

The financial statement, presented by Mr. Denne, showed that a credit balance of $15,700 remained after the year's business had closed. Mr. Denne referred to the stand taken by the board in beginning the year that economy must be the watchword, and pointed out the excellent showing made. The statement was received and referred to the city auditor.

On motion of Dr. Neal and J. M. Greene, W. G. Morrow was reappointed on the public library board for the term of three years from February 1.

Valedictory

A. A. Fowler, chairman of the board, thanked the members for their faithfulness and kindness during his term, and for the respect they had paid to the chair. "Every member worked hard to advance the interests of education in Peterboro'," he said.

He thanked G. H. Thompson, secretary of the board, for his sympathy and help, and remarked on his efficiency. "He is really another Simon Armstrong," Mr. Fowler said. "No matter what hole you get into he can get you out."

Moved by R. Denne and E. B. Fowler, that the payment of the following accounts be confirmed: Bell Telephone Co., $29.04; Peterboro' Sales Agency, $425.00; Salaries, Instructors at Night Classes, $1,812.00; T. H. Girven, $6.40; McBride and Franks, $69.00; F. Drake, $5.00.

M.O.H. DENIES DISEASE RIFE

Only Five Cases of Chickenpox Reported in Five Months—Condemns False Reports.

Following a statement made by School Inspector A. Mowat to the Board of Education last night that the attendance at the schools had been interfered with by an outbreak of chicken pox, The Examiner today interviewed the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. T. W. H. Young, and examined the contagious diseases record of the city. From this investigation it appears that the outbreak of chickenpox is not so serious as Mr. Mowat's report might cause some citizens to suppose There have been only five cases of chickenpox reported to the Sanitary Inspector, the Medical Health Officer and the Board of Health since the end of July, and at present there are no cases listed.

The following are the figures:

August, 0; September 0; October 0; November 1; December 4; January 0.

Dr. Young told the Examiner today that the city is in a particularly clean condition, and gave warning that anyone knowing of a contagious disease, and not reporting it to the proper authority is liable to a fine of $20.

The city is practically clear of other contagious diseases, there being only one case of diphtheria listed, the first since October 11. During all of 1923 there were only three cases of typhoid. Two of these were conclusively shown to be caused by outside sources, and indications were that the third case also might be attributed to sources outside the city.

Dr. Young expressed to The Examiner this morning strong condemnation of false reports of disease in the city which tend to give it a bad reputation throughout the country. In this connection, he said, a statement made a few weeks ago by Dr. N. H. Sutton to the effect that the typhoid cases resulted from contamination in the city was incorrect. The city water supply is pure and wholesome, and there is no cleaner city in the Dominion.

During the entire year 1923 there were only 20 cases of scarlet fever in the city.

LABOUR PARTY CLEARS DECKS

Officers Elected and Plans Made For Assuming Office.

LONDON, January 9 (Canadian Press Cable). — The Labour Party to-day is appointing its prospective Cabinet.

Ramsay MacDnald, of course, will take the leadership of the Government in the event of Labour being called upon to form an administration, and J. R. Clynes will be the deputy leader.

The latest peculations as to the probable Labour Cabinet, however, carry us no further than this.

That Ramsay MacDonald will combine the Foreign Secretaryship with the Premiership seems certain.

Philip Snowden is likely to become Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Patrick Hastings probably will be Attorney-General.

Sydney Webb, who for years has done more to build up a line of thought for the new democracy than he has yet been given credit for, is spoken of as probable Minister of Labour.

William Adamson, member for West Fife, probably be Secretary for Scotland.

As for Court appointments, it is on the cards that the Labour leader would leave the Court to make its own appointments.

These offices in the present days, to all intents, are innocuous, so such a procedure on Mr. MacDonald's part would constitute a fine gesture of loyalty to the sovereign, as well as being followed with whole-hearted sincerity.

The Parliamentary Labour Party, at a meeting in the House of Commons to-day, presided over by J. Ramsay MacDonald, re-elected its officers en bloc temporarily, pending possible developments in the political situation.

The meeting endorsed the decision of the two national committees and the executive officers of the Parliamentary Party that in the event of Labour being invited to form a Government, the opportunity should be taken.

The Parliamentary Labour Party will meet again next Tuesday to consider Speeches from the Throne and the drafting of an amendment to it.

JACKIE COOGAN REVEALS GREAT GENIUS IN "DADDY"

With his appearance in "Daddy" little Jackie Coogan about completes the cycle of human emotions, for in this newest picture play, written for their boy by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coogan, the youthful genius is called upon, in one scene, to sound the deepest of tragic notes. It was the performance of this role and scene that evoked from Will H. Hays his tribute of tears and the remark that "the world needs more pictures like this."

While "Daddy" sounds depths of tragedy and pathos, it is mainly devoted to the surface of smiles and laughter. Jackie, after every discouragement, plods on, and after every misfortune finds comfort: in the end he achieves complete happiness—if complete happiness is ever found!

Nobody better than Jackies' parents could write a story for him, calculated to explore every angle of the boy's versatile genius. In "Peck's Bad Boy" the impishness of the lad was specially revealed; in "Trouble" the note of pathos was injected with the merriment that is Jackie's birthright; in "My Boy" humor abounded and in "Oliver Twist" the courage, tenderness and nobility of an upright youth was revealed. In "Daddy," the capacity of Jackie Coogan as a tragic emotionalist is so superbly disclosed that his work in this picture will forever stamp his as one of the greatest actors of all time, regardless of age!

"Daddy" is a First National picture and will be shown at the Capitol, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

AT THE GRAND.

BRANSBY WILLIAMS ACTOR AND EMPIRE BUILDER TO RETURN.

Playgoers who witnessed a performance by Bransby Williams of Dickens' "David Copperfield" recently at the Grand Opera House will be glad to know that this clever actor and his London Company will return here next Friday for two days, in the romantice French drama "Vidocq". It is founded on the life of young Vidocq who afterwards became the famous detective, and begin with the simple love story of Vidocq, a young French naval captain, and Mariette, the daughter of the old Vicomte de Bernai. Vidocq, quite innocently, is accused of murder. It is believed that he is a member of a notorious criminal society, the "Screech Owls." He is sent to the galleys, escapes in disguise, is rearrested and given two weeks to find these criminals. In order to accomplish this he disguises himself, first as a ragpicker, then an aristocrat, and old hag, a drunken sailor, a dumb man, and finally as the leader of the society. The situations are intense and full of dramatic sensations and surprises. The audience is carried away with interest and just at the most dramatic moment are staggered to find that Vidocq is the hero of the situation. After many exciting adventures Vidocq discovers the gang of 'Screech Owls" earns his freedom and the girl of his heart. Playgoers who were interested in Bransby Williams' portrayals in Micawber and Peggotty in Dickens' David Copperfield' recently, will in "Vidocq", witness a greater test of his versatility as a character actor. "Vidocq" will be repeated at the Saturday matinee and a different play "Tatterley" presented Saturday night. This is a charming domestic play dealing with the peculiarities of an old miser who impersonates his dead servant in order to find out how his money would be spent after his death. It has a delightful love story running through it and has already proved to be a favourite with Canadian audiences.

AT THE ROYAL.

CAL DEAN AND HIS SONORITY GIRLS MINIATURE MUSICAL COMEDY, THURSDAY, IN ADDITION TO DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR.

Cal Dean and his girls in a miniature musical comedy has been booked by the Royal management for the last half of this week, in addition to young Douglas Fairbanks in "Stephen Steps Out." It is a somewhat different girl act because it has a plot and is full of fun and comedy situations. The girls are pretty, and sing special songs written for them, and the costumes are many and up-to-date.

A PICTURE OF YOUTH.

All Will Welcome Doug. Fairbanks, Jr., in "Stephen Steps Out."

Boys and girls of all ages, everywhere, will rejoice at the news of the presentation of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.'s, first Paramount picture, "Stephen Steps Out," at the Royal Theatre next Thursday. The story is one of a typical American boy, a high school pupil. Stephen Harlow, Jr., like most red-blooded boys of his age, has an aversion for text books. As the story progresses, Stephen goes to Constantinople, where his father has sent him to study Turkish history. Contrary to expectations, Constantinople is full of excitement for Stephen—if a revolution, the kidnapping of the Sultan's son and street fights galore count for anything.

"Stephen Steps Out" is a fast-moving comedy throughout. It is a picture all will enjoy. Theodore Roberts is featured in support of the star and others in the cast include Noah Beery, Harry Myers and Frank Currier. Joseph Henabery was the director.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

MONTREAL, January 9 (Canadian Press). — A woman was burned to death when the firemen refused to go outside the city limits without authority.

ANOTHER EFFORT CLEAN UP TOWN

Philadelphia in the Throes of a So-Called Clean-Up Campaign.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Jan. 9. —(Canadian Press).—An exodus of gamblers, bootleggers and other notorious characters of Philadelphia's underworld was reported in full swing to-day as a result of Brigadier-General Butler's orders to the police to clean up the city in forty-eight hours after he had been sworn in by Mayor Kendrick as director of the Department of Public Safety.

Raids conducted by police yesterday revealed that many disorderly houses had already closed their places and proprietors left the city. Cider saloons which had prominently displayed "never closed" signs were shrouded in darkness to-day and not a drink was to be had in any of the establishments that had been blamed for flooding the city with poisonous liquor.

The cleanup in the red light district was quick and sure after General Butler had called two of the Lieutenants in charge of his office and warned them that they would have to "get busy" at once or be "busted."

TROUT FISHERMAN WON INTERNATIONAL RACE

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Jan. 9.—City Engineer L. R. Brown, one of the most enthusiastic fishermen in this section of the country, has just learned that he has been awarded the first and second prizes for the largest rainbow trout caught on the continent last year in the contest conducted by a publication dealing with outdoor life.

Mr. Brown took first prize with a 14-pound rainbow trout which he caught in the rapids here, and second prize with one weighing eight pounds one and a half ounces, which was taken in the tail race of the power canal.

LINDSAY LACKED PUNCH AGAINST DWYER'S SQUAD

Peterboro Intermediates Won Handily By 6-1 In Opening Game of Season — Game Was Fast and Clean In Spite of Slushy Ice.

GOAL DISPUTES.

The Petes got away to a flying start in their chase for the O.H.A. intermediate honors by beating their old rivals from Lindsay at Brock Street Rink last night by 6 goals to 1, in the first local game for the group title. Lindsay's strengthened team were expected to give the home crew a terrific battle for the decision but although they proved formidable opposition they lacked the final punch around the nets and were a well beaten team when the final bell rang.

Despite soft ice and the fact that both teams are far from being in shape the pace for the greater part of the game was very fast and the crowd enjoyed the fracas, although their pleasure was marred by a long wait for an official referee who failed to put in an appearance, after all, Pete Sprate of Lindsay being finally agreed upon when it was realized that the O.H.A. had failed to assign an official to handle the bell.

The well known Peter made a good job out of a difficult task and there was no kick from either side about the refereeing.

Unfortunately the goal umpiring was not so satisfactory. Lindsay claimed they should have been awarded two counters in the second period and spectators at that end of the rink agree with them. The offending official was removed at the end of the period. The visitors got one of these markers back again in the third session when they were given a goal on a shot that hit the iron on the outside of the net and the Lindsay goal umpire was chased at the request of the Petes. Lindsay in turn objected to a decision of the second Peterboro goal umpire on a shot by Ranger that hit squarely in the corner of the nets and again a change was made in umpires, but this last kick was not warranted, the goal being a clean one.

Giving the visitors the benefit of the doubt on the two they claimed in the second period and taking away the counter they were awarded but did not score in the last period the Scugog crew would have still been beaten 6 to 2 so the disputed markers did not have any efect in deciding the winner.

Lindsay Had Speed.

With Coombs back in the game and Wilford and W. and J. Killen in line again after playing for some years in Toronto the visitors dropped a dangerous looking team over the boards. They had a lot of speed and some good stick-handling ability but they lacked the finish and effectiveness of the Petes in front of the nets and it was this failure on the part of the visitors to attack with any system that enabled the local squad to register a decisive victory. During the greater part of the game the Coombs-Wilford-Killen collection did their gunning from outside the defence and although they pumped in their shots fairly accurately and with a lot of steam behind them, beating Dwyer from that range is about as easy as doing up an elephant in a shawl strap, and the bulky Peterboro goal tender had a big night blocking these long heaves. Seldom was the Peterboro defence pair beaten cleanly and with Dwyer performing as usual the tactics used by Lindsay had little chance to succeed.

On the other hand the Petes worked in close before shooting and all but one of their cunters were scored at close range, giving McClory no chance to save.

Parker the Star.

Harold Parker carried off the individual honors for the Peterboro crew, scoring three goals after spectacular rushes that were beautifully executed on ice that was not conducive to good stick handling. His first came after Parker had outwitted the Lindsay forwards, the local defence man catching McClory off his guard with a quick accurate shot from outside the defence. He came back in the second period with a dash through the whole Lindsay team winding up by pulling McClory out and flipping the rubber into the empty net, and practically duplicated the performance in the last period, this time poking the puck past McClory at close range. McMartin was also very effective, both on the defence and in his frequent rushes, but although he had as many shots as the telephone company has wrong numbers, he failed to register.

Forwards Were Good.

All the forwards, Collins, Burgess, Ranger, Rose and McPherson went strong all through the piece and in spite of the soft ice Collins and Ranger showed some combination efforts that promise very effective team play on fast ice and with a little more practice. With these five in line the Petes should be able to develop an attacking force that will stake some stopping as all are fast good stickhandlers and tireless backcheckers.

Dwyer's work has already been commented on. The veteran goalie has lost none of his ability and he is a tower of strength for the Petes.

For the visitors the palm for effectiveness went not to Coombs or Wilford or Bill Killen, although all three were good, but rather to Buffer Reeves, the defence player, who was the most useful puck carrier and most tireless worked on the Lindsay line up. Reeves checked well on the defence and he came down the ice time after time and was dangerous frequently on these trips. Coombs started out at centre but went back to the defence in the second period. He tried hard but was evidently not in shape and for that reason was not as effective as usual. Wilford did his best work in the last period, while Williams was effective all the way. McClory in goal had a bunch of work to do and despite the fact that six beat him he was a big help to the visitors.

A big crowd, including 150 fans from Lindsay, who came down on a special train saw the O.H.A. lid pried off.

The ice looked good at first but the presence of the big crowd and the long wait soon caused it to sweat and before the first period was half over it had become very sticky. There was water on the surface in the second period, and it was tough going for teams far from being in mid-winter form.

The teams:

Lindsay.

Goal—McClory.
Defence—Reeves, W. Killen.
Centre—Coombs.
Right wing—Williams.
Lef wing—Wilford.
Subs—J. Killen, Davis.

Peterboro.

Goal—Dwyer.
Defence—Parker, McMartin.
Centre—Collins.
Right wing—Burgess.
Lef wing—Ranger.
Subs—Rose, McPherson.

The Scoring.

Lindsay had the first shot, but it was long range and easy for Dwyer. The play was quickly carried to Lindsay territory and after a minute's play, Collins took a pass in the mouth of the nets and although in a tangle of Lindsay sticks flicked the rubber past McClory for the first goal of the night.

W. Killen was chased for slashing and while he was off the Petes ran in their second counter. Ranger passed out of the corner to Collins, whose shot was blocked by McClory. Ranger, however, secured the rebound and registered.

For the next ten minutes there was no score although the Petes had the edge, and despite penalties to McMartin for tripping Reeves, and Burgess for dumping Wilford, kept McClory busy. Finally Parker broke away, skated through the Lindsay forwards and let drive as he reached the defence, beating McClory cleanly. That made it 3 to 0 and it remained that way until the end of the period.

Early in the second period after Coombs had served a penalty for dropping Collins, Parker increased the Petes' lead with the prettiest goal of the night. He stickhandled around practically the whole Lindsay team, fooled Reeves and then when McClory rushed out he went round him and shoved the rubber into the open net.

Soon after Lindsay apparently scored on a shot into the corner of the net and a little later claimed another in a scrimmage but the goal umpire's hand remained down and play went on with honors about even for the balance of the session. McPherson and Ranger for the Petes and W. Killen for the visitors served penalties before the period ended.

Early in the third period Williams shot from the side and a goal was awarded by the Lindsay goal umpire, who was removed.

It didn't take the Petes long to get this one back, Ranger and Collins combining for a beautiful goal, Ranger taking the last pass and flipping the rubber in as he fell. There was a kick over this counter and the umpire was chased, but the goal was earned.

Parker got the last marker of the night after another spectacular rush that wound up with his tapping the rubber through after he had fallen close to the net. He would have had another a little later but Killen tripped him and averted a score.

The summary:

First Period.

1 Peterboro—Collins, 1 min.
2 Peterboro—Ranger 2 min.
3 Peterboro—Parker 14 min.

Second Period.

4 Peterboro—Parker 3 mins.

Third Period.

5 Lindsay—Williams, 1 min.
6 Peterboro—Ranger 2 mins.
7 Peterboro—Parker 6 mins.

CHESLEY DEFEATED IN FAST OVERTIME PLAY

CHESLEY, Ont., Jan. 9. Canadian Press. — Owen Sound defeated Chesley in overtime, in a northern league hockey match here last night, 7 to 4. The score at full time was four all. In ten minutes of overtime play Owen Sound secured three goals.

The game was fast in spots, and comparatively clean, only a few minor penalties being issued.

PENALTIES KEPT ORDER IN PALMERSTON BATTLE

PALMERSTON, January 9. — Canadian Press. — The locals lost the O.H.A. intermediate fixture here last night to Listowel 6 to 0. The stellar work of Fred Johnson in goal for the visitors and their better team work was responsible. "Rus" Sandercock issued 18 penalties and was successful in keeping the game well under control by so doing.

Solomon's Methods Are Still Working

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 8.—A precedent set by King Solomon was followed by athletic officials of the Young Men's Hebrew Association here, in determining which or two runners who tied for first place in a series of races should receive the trophy, a silver cup.

When Earl V. Hart and John Peterson crossed the finish line in the sixth and last of the series of five-mile jogs and their points were totalled it developed that each had earned twenty, the top score.

Club officials then left it to the pair of them to decide whether a deciding race should be run or how the winner should be determined. John and Earl, however, apparently had their full of running, for the time being, anyway, and after a little discussion it was decided to cut the trophy in half.

Accordingly, this was done. Each half was mounted on a plaque and presented as an individual award.

AMERICANS FEAR CANADIAN TEAM

But Expect to Carry Off Honors in the Olympic Hockey Games.

NEW YORK, January 9 (Canadian Press). — The United States Olympic hockey team will sail to-day from Hoboken on the President Garfield, of the United States Lines, for Chamonix, France, where they will compete for international honours during the latter part of this month and the early part of February.

Members of the team are: Justin McCarthy, Irving W. Small, Willard W. Rice, Alphonse Lacroix, John A. Langley, and Frank Sinnott, all of Boston; Harry Drury, of Pittsburgh, and Clarence J. Abel, of St. Paul.

Accompanying them will be William S. Haddock, president of the United States Amateur Hockey Association, and Patrick Murray, their trainer.

Mr. Haddock said the team fears most the Canadian combination. He was confident of success, however, asserting that the two defeats the sextette recently received over-confidence and created better morale.

Five or six days' practice before the games open will, in his opinion, bring the needed team work.

The addition of Drury and Abel has added strength, he said, to the nucleus of the team, which was from the Boston Athletic Association.

LEARNING TO SKI TRY SMALL HILLS

A Few Hints For Beginners in the Most Thrilling of All Winter Sports.

As a number of people in the city are trying for the first time this season the following hints for beginners may be of interest:

Buy a pair of skis; there is no economy or satisfaction in cheap ones, hickory or ash, clear straight grain, any reputable dealer will sell you the right kind. Skis of moderate length are recommended for beginners.

If possible, buy regular ski boots and have them fitted to the skis at the shop. One cannot ski properly unless the irons and harness fit the boots perfectly; this is of first importance. Boots should be large enough to take two pairs of socks or stockings, woollen. Keep your boots well oiled.

Poles are now universally used. The bamboo ones are the best, of moderate height, coming just to below the shoulders.

Make your first attempts under the tutelage of some experienced skier; there are many useful and necessary elementary points that can quickly be learned by personal instruction. Choose a moderate slope free of trees; don't try the big hills until confidence has been gained and a fair amount of control obtained. A beginner's skis have an unpleasant and unexpected way of going where they are least expected to.

Keep the feet and skis together when running down a hill one foot about twelve inches behind the other, knees slightly bent, body leaning slightly forward. The skis should make but a single track in the snow. Trail the poles at the side and behind; never carry them in front, serious accidents have happened from doing this.

Learn how to stop and turn, as soon as possible; there is no mystery about the Telemark or Christiana, but they can be acquired only by trying and practice. Spend a little time in doing "stunts" and results will follow fast.

Carry in the pocket a good knife, strong twine, and a piece of ski wax or candle to wax the skis in soft weather.

Don't take chances. Be extra careful when in strange country, and always keep under control. When you have to stop and stop quick, sit down.

Join the local ski club if you are not already a member. The club's field committee are giving special attention to beginners.

FINANCE U.S. TEAM.

NEW YORK, January 9 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. James Carroll Fraser, who was Miss Elizabeth K. Van Rensslaer, has accepted the chairmanship of the committee to obtain the Washington, D.C., $350,000 quota of the fund to finance the United States Olympic team, it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Fraser was chairman of the Comforts Committee of the Navy League during the war, and president of the Belleau Wood Memorial Association after the war.

PRINCETON'S NEW GRID CHIEF IS A HOCKEY STAR

"BUZZ" STOUT

VERSATILITY may be a badge of mediocrity, but not in the case of "Buzz" Stout of Princeton.

Stout, one of the stars of the football varsity and captain-elect of the 1924 squad, is also one of the outstanding hockey players in the university.

Stout plays left wing on the ice team and is considered as essential to the success of the puck chasers as he is important to the hopes of the gridiron machine.

POINT MAKERS IN BASKETBALL

By Ernest A. Blood

PLAY NO. 3
Signal No. 1, Variation 13.

Centre (5) tips ball to left forward A, who dribbles to B and shoots, or passes to the right forward C.

This play is used when the guards stay back to play on the defense at the tipoff. Roosma of West Point, Thompson of Syracuse, Hames of Penn State, Keasler of U.P., former Passiac players, all scored heavily on this play, and they were also All-State selections when playing for me.

SIMCOE DEFEATED GALT.

GALT, January 9 (Canadian Press). — In the opening game of series Simcoe defeated the local sextette last night 4 to 1.

The visitors were too heavy and speedy for the Galt boys.

STRATFORD BEAT KITCHENER TEAM

STRATFORD, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—To the joy of 2,200 Stratford fans the locals defeated the Kitchener green shirts four to two in the senior O.H.A. fixture here last night. The game produced a fair brand of early season senior hockey.

Kitchener combined after a fashion most of the game, showed occasional bursts of speed and had the advantage in weight, but the team fell considerably behind Stratford in the trick combination, constant speed and condition.

Boring in with all the dash usually witnessed toward the end of the season, the visitors had easily the better of the play in the first period, and had the home fans scared for some minutes with forward line attacks.

KITCHENER BEAT TORONTO VARSITY

TORONTO, Jan. 9. —(Canadian Press.)—Kitchener upset the hope and beat University of Toronto seniors in a rather poor exhibition of hockey at the Arena last evening in an O.H.A. fixture six to four.

Kitchener opened the scoring, but the blue and white soon took the lead. The Twin City players were inclined to rough matters a little, though not illegally. The University of Toronto team could not stand the rough going. They seemed to tire in the last period, while Kitchener finished strongly.

Both teams set a fast pace and both maintained it for two periods. After this the local team showed lack of condition and slowed up somewhat. Play was mostly between the two defences.

The game was remarkably free from penalties for senior hockey.

SARNIA STEPPED UP TO LONDON'S LEVEL

SARNIA, January 9 (Canadian Press). — Sarnia stepped up to a place with London at the head of the local O.H.A. district last night by defeating Glencoe 6 to 1.

The game was rough, many penalties being drawn for the heavy checking.

The Sarnia defence stood up well, and besides warding off the Glencoe attack, scored most of the goals.

The human body generates enough heat during the day to melt 44 pounds of ice and raise the liquid to boiling point.

It takes a weight of 4500 pounds to crush a cubic inch of best brick.

HOCKEY IS STRONG IN CAMPBELLFORD

Twenty Aspirants for Positions on Team—Hard to Pick and Choose.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 9.—Aspirants for positions on the hockey team to represent Campbellford in the Trent Valley League, held another workout at Covert's arena last night when Manager Charlie Davidson trotted out about twenty candidates. In the absence of the manager, Percy Sanders, secretary of the club had charge of the workout and he divided the players into two squads and made a regular game out of it .He had Tommy Stewart in one goal, with Pete Hankinson and Jack Cowell in front of him, with the front line composed of H. Wood, J. Archer, R. Ayrhart and W. Blue working against them. At the other end he had Sanders in goal, Flint and McArthur, defence, with Bulford, L. White, Labrash and Brown forwards.

While most of the boys are lacking condition they showed enough hockey ability to assure the fans of some splendid exhibitions of the great winter pastime.

Johnston was an absentee, but will likely form the regular defence with Hankinson, Wood, Archer and Ayrhart are the likely ones for the forward line and they'll make the rest of the teams in the league step to keep them off the score sheet. Bray can play either forward or defence, and will likely be the first sub. Bulford, Labrash and Lefty White will fight it out for the extra sub.

The boys are all young and rather light, but have plenty of speed and on good ice will make it interesting for Hastings' crack team when they play their first league game in that town on Friday night. They will practice again to-night and have a light workout on Thursday in preparation for this game, when Manager Davidson hopes to get away on the right side of the ledger by handing Dad Clapper & Co. a defeat right in their own back yard.

OLYMPICS TAKE ANOTHER SCALP

MONTREAL, January 9 (Canadian Press). — Furnishing one of the most finished exhibitions of hockey witnessed in Montreal in a long time, Canada's Olympic team easily disposed of the local all-star team at Mount Royal Arena last night, winning by 5 to 2.

The Olympic players were under restraint the greater part of the time, displaying their speed and combination only in the second period, when they scored on three occasions, fairly outclassing their opponents.

In the other two periods the visitors were satisfied to play just hard enough to keep in front of the locals.

Frequent changes were made by Manager Hewitt so as to give each of the eight players an opportunity of figuring in the game.

GRIMSBY WON AT HOME FROM DUNNVILLE TE

GRIMSBY, Ont., January 9 (Canadian Press). — Dunnville Intermediates, headed by President W. Fry of the O.H.A., journeyed to Grimsby last night and defeated the locals in the O.H.A. fixture by 3 to 2.

The game was one of the best witnessed here this season, and was fast and clean from start to finish.

GREAT RECORD OF KANSAS

In speaking of undefeated football machines, don't overlook Kansas University. The Jayhawkers trotted through the season without tasting the bitter pill. Moreover, their goal line wasn't crossed. Three field goals made up the opposition's scoring.

The Nut Cracker
by Joe Williams

It is said that Willie Hoppe was so excited at winning the billiard title again that he actually stopped to inquire the name of his opponent.

* * *

Accounts of the match reveal that Mr. Hoppe "babied" the balls. . . We imagine this is where the nurse stroke comes in.

* * *

There should be a state law prohibiting able-bodied young men from wasting their time trying to win the billiard championship from Hoppe.

* * *

While it may be true that Hoppe did not fiddle with his cue this time, yet Cochran will tell you he played a fine funeral dirge with it.

* * *

The news that Ralph Greenleaf is going after the three-cushion title is interesting, but it fails to say whether he is to enter a pillow fight or a lounge lizard contest.

* * *

It seems reasonable to believe that at least 11 persons in the world agree with Walter Camp in his All-America selection.

* * *

American croquet is now being played in Australia. . . . Which shows how an evil will spread if not checked in its infancy.

* * *

The bewhiskered Los Angeles newsboy who is a fighter ought to go to New York. . . . That's where all the hair-line decisions are being handed out these days.

* * *

It is unlikely, however, that Joe Beckett will ever take up croquet. . . . There is nothing in the game that requires a contestant to assume a horizontal position on the turf and listen to the mathematics of a referee.

* * *

Minneapolis may have to call off ski contests because of absence of snow. . . . Things have come to a pretty pass when even the snow refuses to fall for ski-ing.

The seating capacity of the Harvard Stadium is to be increased to 100,000. . . . This probably means that Tex Rickard is to be offered the job of head coach.

You gotta say this for the foreigners, they will go to any extreme for work. . . . Here's Mons. Romere of Chile, for instance, challenging Dempsey.

Newark Club Backer Denies Embezzlement.

NEWARK, N.J., January 9 (Canadian Press). — Michael McTighe, member of a syndicate of Newark business men who recently bought the Newark Club of the International League, last night declared he was innocent of charges of embezzling of $4,738 that have been made against him by Irving Johnson, of Stapleton, Staten Island, in connection with the payment of a mortgage.

Mr. McTighe was arrested yesterday on the charge, and was later paroled in the custody of his counsel for a hearing on Friday.

Johnson stated he had paid McTighe the money to pay off a mortgage, but that the promoter had appropriated it for his own use.

To Outlaw Players on Cleveland Club List.

CHICAGO, January 9 (Canadian Press). — The Cleveland Club of the American League is the only major league club that has a clean slate, as far as retired and ineligible players is concerned, according to a list compiled yesterday by Commissioner Landis.

Fifty-three players are listed as "outlaws" on one of the lists, while there is a "general" list, which includes players who are outside the jurisdiction of baseball law.

This list includes the Chicago White Sox players involved in the 1919 World's Series scandal. Phil. Douglas, who was released by the New York Giants; and Eugene Paulette, who was turned loose by the Philadelphia Nationals.

KEON, TWEED PITCHER, LANDS IN BELLEVILLE

Hugh Keon, the right-hand pitcher, who has been with Tweed for the past two years, is announced by the Belleville Intelligencer of Monday's date as having been secured by the Belleville Grand Trunks for the Central Ontario League. "He will be employed at the Canadian Industrial Alcohol plant, commencing his duties immediately," says the Intelligencer.

If the residence rule remains January 1st, as seems likely, Mr. Keon's arrival in Belleville apparently a week after that date, is not likely to help the Grand Trunks very much. He was likely rounded up when Jack Williams left the Belleville management holding the bag on almost the last available day for importing new talent.

Curling News

The local curlers had another work out on good ice last night. Six scheduled games weer played and a good crowd of spectators were present to witness some fast playing.

J. W. McDermid won the best game of the evening, winning from H. Foote's aggregation by 2 shots. T. O. Donaldson also won a fast game from J. Moore's Quartette by 3 shots.

Billy Evans Says

Last season was a particularly tough one for minor league umpires. Close races in many leagues, which made for much excitement and frenzied fans, naturally caused much woe for the umpires. In some of the leagues the umpires in order to protect themselves were compelled to call upon their knowledge of boxing. All in all it was a strenuous year for the minor leaguers. Incidentally, it should act as a warning to minor league presidents and club owners that if worth-while men are to take up umpiring more ample protection must be provided.

The woe that befell the minor league umpires last season recalls to mind a story once told me by Dominisck Mullaney, well-known minor league ball player and umpire. Mullaney umpired in the American League one year.

Prior to coming to the American League, Mullaney had officiated in various minor organizations, among them being what was then known as the Connecticut League. According to Mullaney, that league was a wild-west affair, a regular Ranch 101. When he wasn't making some player take the count for refusing to listen to reason he was busy separating rival ball players eager to clash.

One day Mullaney received a letter from the president of the league, asking him for information as to the ability of a certain umpire. Mullaney, who had a keen sense of humor, wrote back:

"What's the difference? You don't need umpires. What you want to hire is a lot of pugilists and fight reefrees." A few weeks later Mullaney himself was looking for a job. Proving that very often the truth hurts most.

BOARD OF EDUCATION WILL FLOOD THE RINK

School Inspector Mowat reported verbally that last term was one of the best in the history of the city for attendance, and this term has started well. There is only one teacher temporarily absent through illness. Chickenpox, he said, is responsibles for many of the absentees among the children.

"School attendance," Mr. Mowat said, "had been interfered with, by an outbreak of chickenpox but was better lately.

Put Rink in Shape

On motion of R. Denne and Mrs. W. R. Morris the skating rink at the Collegiate Institute will be flooded and put in shape for the pupils. "When the Board has gone to the expense of fitting up the rink," Mr. Denne said, "I don't think the boys should be compelled to flood it themselves. Surely we can spend a little more to put it in shape for them."

An amendment by J. A. McKone that the city be asked to give the rink the first flood was withdrawn by him on Mr. Denne's statement that it would not be done for a week in that case.

Instruction will be issued to have the rink flooded and prepared immediately.

SIKI AGAIN BARRED.

CINCINNATI, O., January 9 (Canadian Press). — The Cincinnati Boxing Commission has decided that Battling Siki, the Senegalese, cannot box in Cincinnati unless he has been reinstated by other commissions which have barred him, it was announced yesterday.

Local fight promoters have been endeavouring to arrange a match for Siki here.

MARK ST. LADIES HELD A TALENT TEA YESTERDAY

A very enjoyable talent tea was held yesterday afternoon and evening under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of Mark street Methodist church, at the home of the president, Mrs. W. H. Morton, 42 Sophia street. Mrs. Morton was assisted in the receiving of her guests by Mrs. A. Throop and Mrs. Jno. Speer. Mrs. S. Matchett and Miss J. Millage had charge of the tea room, which was prettily arranged with narcissus, assisted by the Misses Ollie Stenton and Ruby Hamlin. A pleasant programme of vocal and instrumental music and recitations was rendered during the afternoon and evening, the following taking part: Mrs. J. Ellis, Mrs. J. Smith, Miss Cox and Miss Jean Hurl, in instrumental selections, the Misses Lillian and Alice Brown in a duet for the piano and violin, the Misses Mabel Bettes and Alma Beavis and Master J. Ellis in vocal solo and Mrs. H. Turner, Miss Alberta Throop and Reg. Cuffe in readings.

Jewels will be presented to a number of Past District Deputies, members of Hiawatha Encampment, after which a banquet will be served.

ENGLISH INTERESTS BUYING UP PULPWOOD

QUEBEC, Jan. 9. — Canadian Press. — It is authoritatively stated here that English interests, of which the Rothermere interests are said to be the principals, which recently successfully bid for a block of timber limits on north shore in the basin of the Manicouagan River, will erect a pulp mill and later a news print mill, a few miles from Quebec, at an expenditure of sixteen million dollars. More than one thousand men would be employed by the new mill.

Concurrent with this report is the announcement that the Stregis Company will build a mill in the same section near the parish of St. Augustin, at an expenditure of four million dollars.

JUVENILE COURT REQUIRED HERE

Story of Neglected Children Reported to the Children's Aid Society

The first regular meeting for this year of the Board of Management of the Children"s Aid Society was held yesterday afternoon in the board room at the Chamber of Commerce, with a good attendance. In the absence of the president, B. F. Ackerman, in Toronto, the chair was taken by Mrs. W. H. Gibbs. The folowing members were present; Mesdames Fanning, Knox, Holmes, Hill Kimberley, Hopwood, Devey, Miss G. L. Brooks, Messrs. Edgar Powell, Abraham, Stocker, Cummer, Hopwood, Rev. C. W. Rose, Rev. W. H. Young, Rev. P. Costello, Rev. M. C. Mackinnon, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, and Mayor-elect J. J. Turner.

A visitor at yesterday's meeting was a small well-behaved little boy who slept through most of the proceedings waking to clap his hands softly at the mention of a Juvenile Court

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, J. Edgar, who also gave the matron's report. The agent's report was read by G. W. Powell, and the report of the purchasing committee was given by Mrs. J. Fanning. Three new members, Rev. Dr. Rose, Rev. M. C. Mackinnon and Mayor-elect Turner were welcomed to the board of management, and invited to say a few words to the meeting.

Mayor-elect Turner expressed his appreciation of the hearty welcome accorded him, and spoke encouragingly of the work of the society and of his interest in its welfare.

Juvenile Court

Rev. Mr. Mackinnon brought up a question which he considered lay within the province of the Board's consideration, when he asked what could be done in the case of a family, such as one of his experience, in which there were seven wage-earners, and the children appeared to be in a neglected condition. The Salvation Army, the Methodist and the Anglican churches were interested in the family already, with no apparent improvement. Rev. Mr. Mackinnon enquired whether there was a Court of Domestic Relations or a Juvenile Court in the city that would have authority to deal with such cases, and was informed that there was no such body. "We could have a Juvenile Court as soon as we like if the Council would pay the expenses," was one remark.

Rev. Dr. Rose, in a few words, recorded his interest in child welfare work and his pleasure at being a member of Peterboro's Board, remarking on his previous experience with such work in his recent charge.

The Society's Grants

The question of approaching the City and County Councils, with regard to grants for the society, came up, and was left finally in the hands of the president and secretary, to appoint a committee to wait on both bodies. The grant from the County Council, formerly $600, was increased to $800 last year. This year, it was declared, the society, on account of having purchased new property, with a consequent cutting-off of revenue from bonds would be obliged to ask both city and county council for a grant of $1,000 each.

Lot in Cemetery

In an answer to an inquiry as to available accommodation in the Little Lake Cemetery for wards of the society, Mr. Edgar read a letter, giving the information that the lot adjacent to the present piece of land belonging to the society, which has only one grave space left, was vacant. A motion was passed to the effect that the society would be very glad of a donation of this adjoining space, in the same manner in which the present lot was donated about twenty years ago.

Rev. Dr. Blagrave asked for information regarding a case in which a mother, is anxious to reclaim possession of a child who was made a ward of the society some years ago.

The report of the agent, G. W. Powell, included the notification of having made wards of four children taken from the care of a mother whose case came up for consideration at last month's meeting. The action was approved by the Board.

Reports

The matron's report showed a total of 17 children in the Shelter during the month of December, with three brought in and seven sent out. No sickness was reported.

Mr. Powell reported five applications for children; three children returned to parents (not wards); 1 sent to the Industrial School; 4 wards placed out and 4 wards returned to the Shelter.

Accounts were recorded as follows by the purchasing committee: Comstock & Son, $14; J. N. Heard, $12.40; R. Denne, $3.75; Mrs. Rogers, 71 cents; Telephones $6.16; G. W. Powell, $14.40; Total: $51.42.

Donations were recorded: Mrs. A. Mowat, apples; Dean's candy store, candy; Mrs. Meagher, candy; Mrs. Hugh Bertram, oranges, nuts and candy; Friends nuts, and candy; Thos. Barrie candy, oranges, apples; F. Hungerford, (Woolworth store), toys and handkerchiefs and stockings, Mrs. C. H. AT THE GRAND.

The mystery play with which the Rex Stock Company is entertaining Peterborough audiences this week, had an appreciative crowd of Rex fans for last evening's performance: Labelled as a mysterious comedy in one act, it holds the attention from start to finish, and involves in its hilarious situations various sorts of mysterious people and happenings, that calls into play the assortment of talent contained in the Rex organization; who give a good production of a vehicle which brings out their many faculties of entertainment. To-night is the last showing of this clever mystery play.

BOY LOST HIS LIFE AT SCARBORO BLUFFS

TORONTO, January 9 (Canadian Press). — Venturing out on the thin ice on the lake shore beneath Scarboro Bluffs last evening, Bert Sawyer, aged six years, of Birchcliff, fell into the water and was drowned.

Seven-year-old Alex. Miller, his little companion, made a very heroic but futile attempt to save him.

When young Sawyer fell into the water he managed to keep himself up until the Miller boy grasped him by the hands.

In this position they remained for about twenty minutes.

C. F. White, engineer at a nearby brick works, who ran to the assistance of the boy, was within two feet of the boys when the mitts on young Sawyer's hands slipped from little Miller's grip, and he sank into the water.

Dragging operations to noon to-day had not succeeded in recovering the body.

U.F.Y.P.O. DEBATE FOR LAST NIGHT POSTPONED

The debate between the U.F.Y.P.O. Clubs of Centreville and Indian River, which was scheduled for last night, to take place at the U.F.W.O. Rooms on Simcoe Street, was postponed on account of the two clubs being unable to get through oyer bad roads.

The local club held a short business session in the roons, which was featured by a talk on matters of interest to the club, delivered by Mr. H. B. Cowan.

HEAD ON COLLISION ON AMERICAN RAILWAY

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 9th Engineer and fireman of one train were killed and more than fifty persons injured, three probably fatally, when two Missouri Kansas and Texas railway passenger trains met head-on at Hillendahl eight miles from here last night. Wreck is thought to have resulted from misinterpretation of orders.

GAVE ADDRESS TO THE NURSES HERE

Local Red Cross Society Enlisted in Home Nursing

At a meeting of the Peterboro Chapter of the Graduate Nurses' Association of Ontario, held yesterday afternoon in the Public Library, Miss L. Davidson, of Toronto, secretary of the Red Cross Association, was present, and explained the innovation which the National Council of the Canadian Red Cross is promoting at the present time, in the inauguration of Home Nursing Classes throughout the Province, in furtherance of their crusade for "The Promotion of Health, the Prevention of disease and the mitigation of suffering." The help of local Red Cross Societies is enlisted in this work, also the aid of various local organizations of women who are willing to help with such classes for the spread of knowledge in connection with home nursing. The need of making available to women and girls of the province, especially those resident in the rural districts, such knowledge, is keenly felt by the association.

At yesterday's meeting, attended by about thirty of the members, Miss Davidson asked nurses to co-operate in every possible way in this campaign, and spoke of having already enlisted the services of several women in the city who were nurses before marriage. The members present promised to help out as far as possible.

Classes of about twenty members are formed and a small fee is charged for the course of twelve lessons. To teach women and young girls the proper care of the sick, methods of keeping well, and of preventing disease, are the avowed objects of the course, which has a manual to be used as reference book. The course will be given by a graduate nurse, each period including a short talk by the instructor, and a more lengthy amount of time devoted to practical demonstrations and practice by members of the class.

RYAN PUBLICITY BEING PROTESTED

Big Brother Directors and Toronto Presbytery Expressed Disapproval.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.— The sensational publicity given the later movements of "Red" Ryan, the notorious criminal, in the evening press of this city, has drawn forth pointed and emphatic protests from certain representative and influential organizations in this city. The publicity is condemned on the ground that a certain glamor is thrown about sordid crime, which cannot have other than a harmful influence upon the youthful generation.

WHO GETS REWARD FROM THE BANKS

Inspector Duncan Qualified for Part of Reward Offered for Ryan's Capture.

TORONTO, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press). — There is considerable speculation here regarding the payment of the reward offered by the Bankers' Association for the apprehension of Norman ("Red") Ryan, the bank bandit, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in Portsmouth Penitentiary by Judge Coatsworth yesterday. It is possible a reward of $5,000 may be paid, but the Association reserves the right to determine the amount on a consideration of the nature of the case.

The reward goes to whoever "gave information that led to Ryan's arrest." Inspector Duncan, of the Criminal Investigation Department, Ottawa, may receive it, or the person who supplied him with the first information. Provincial and Toronto police may also have a claim to the reward.

Inspector Duncan has already been able to claim the reward of $500 offered by the Federal Government. On his representations, however, the reward was distributed between the Minneapolis detectives, Meehan, Marxen, Lalley and Forbey.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, January 9 (United Press).—President Coolidge's stand in favour of priority for the Tax Bill caused a further decrease in the bonus sentiment, which in return reacted favourably on the stock market in the early dealings.

Trading maintained the brisk pace set in the previous session, and the industrials were in demand at the highest levels of the current move, which was within a point of last May.

Constructive news also developed the fact that Prairie Oil and Gas advanced crude oil prices 10 cents a barrel, and this move was immediately followed by Sinclair.

Continental Can, this morning declared a dividend of 5 per cent. in stock and the regular quarterly $1.00 in cash on the common.

Further remarkable strength developed in various sections of the list in the first hour. Buying of old-time rail shares such as Union Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Reading, and Chesapeake and Ohio refuted the theory that Tuesday's demonstration in the low-priced issues was due to the upholding of the recapture clause of the Transportation Act. Demand for all classes of rail stocks has been stimulated of late by increasing interest in American securities displayed by European investors.

International houses with London connections have been heavy purchasers of low-priced rails like Erie and Rock Island.

It is not to be supposed that the standard carrier stocks would be entirely overlooked in a movement of this sort.

F. W. Woolworth to-day declared the regular quarterly $2.00 common dividend.

Back of the jump in Remington common shares of 10 points in the last twenty-four hours is understood to be the fact that Remington is negotiating for the control of the Noiseless Typewriter Company. As the presidents of both companies are out of town, this can not be confirmed officially.

It is estimated that United States Steels unfilled tonnage statement on Thursday will show only an insignicant gain over November. December orders were slightly in excess of shipments, but the results may be affected to some extent by the cancellations.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Jan. 9.—(Special).—The week of prayer is being observed here by union meetings which opened last night with a largely attended meeting held in the Methodist Sunday School Hall. The pastor of the church, Rev. R. F. Stillman, presided. Rev. W. A. Bremner and Rev. J. N. Merton led in prayer, and Rev. Canon Sawyers read the Scripture lesson. "Our Children and Young People" was the subject, and Rev. J. W. Pedley, of Toronto, temporary minister of the Cobourg Congregational Church, gave an address of outstanding interest on this all-important theme. Dr. Pedley would have the Church look upon the child as being born into the kingdom of God; and a candidate for the best that life has to offer in the way of service and life investment, with the responsibility resting upon parents, teachers and pastor to foster and nourish in it the Christ-like graces that they may grow abundantly and bring forth much fruit. He is a forceful speaker, and was heard with a great amount of interest and profit. When the hour for opening arrived the large room was filled with a thoroughly representative union congregation.

The Quinte Conference.

Opening next Monday, January 14, the Bay of Quinte Winter School will assemble in the Methodist Church here. Some hundred or more delegates are expected. Rev. E. Harston, Woodville, the originator of the school, is president, and Rev. H. A. Bunt, Canton, is secretary. Among those whose services have been secured to carry on the work of the school are: Rev. Manson Doyle, Mr. Taylor Statten, Toronto; Miss Mary Allison, of the Girls' Work Board, Toronto; Rev. Prof. Maine, of Albert College, Belleville, who takes up religious education, and many others. Rev. Harold Young of Peterboro will address a vesper service each evening, and also assist in the morning worship. The group Bible studies each morning will be conducted by Rev. Roy Rickard, Northfort; Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, Brighton; Rev. Monson Doyle, Rev. S. T. Tucker, Millbrook; Rev. J. W. Band, Port Hope; Rev. C. C. Washington, Courtice; Miss Mary Allison, Dr. Taylor Statten, Rev. Roy McWilliams, returned missionary from Japan, will speak each day on foreign missions. Every afternoon also Conference officers will give fifteen-minute addresses in the interests of their various departments.

Rev. J. T. Wardle Stafford, of Toronto, is to lecture on Friday evening, and on Monday night Miss Jessie B. Tuite, of Albert College, Belleville, will assist in a concert. Cobourg Enworth League takes charge on Tuesday evening of the entertainment, and Port Hope League on Wednesday evening. On Thursday night there is to be an impromptu concert, and on Friday night pageants.

At the Sunday services, Rev. R. Forbes Stillman, pastor of the Convention Church, and Rev. E. Harston will preach.

The other officers of the Winter School besides the President and Secretary are:

Business Manager and Treasurer —E. H. Brown, Port Hope.

Assistant—Miss L. C. Beatty, Port Hope.

Book Steward—Rev. A. McLaughlin, Keene.

Registrar—Miss Alice Scarfe, Cobourg.

Physical Director—Capt. M. Best, Kingston.

Historian and Reporter—Rev. C. C. Washington, Courtice.

Musical Director—Rev. F. J. Horwood, Camborne.

Song Leader—Rev. Roy Rickard, Northport.

HON. F. C. BIGGS WILL GIVE HIS DECISION

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 9.—Hon. F. C. Biggs, ex-Minister of Public Works, will give his decision at the end of the week as to whether or not he will accept the leadership of the Farmer-Labor party in the House. Approached on two other occasions, the former Minister declined the office. When spoken to yesterday afternoon he said he was considering the offer again, but would not commit himself. "I will likely know by the end of this week," he said.

WHY BLAME HIM?

MA—You ought to be ashamed to be at the foot of your class, Willie!

WILLIE—But it ain't my fault, Ma. The feller that's always at the foot is home sick with the measles. —Judge.

BAD EPIDEMIC HAS INVADED COLLEGES

The Students Are a Drinking, Dancing and Social Impurity Mob.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—An army of "hard drinking, cigarette puffing, licentious amazons" such as the world never has known before has invaded the College Campus to-day, Dr. Charles J. Smith, president of the Roanoke College, Salem, Va., declared to-day at the opening of the National Lutheran Educational Conference.

Drinking, dancing and social impurity, Dr. Smith charged, had disrupted the college social life and even had extended to the theological seminaries.

"What can we do," he asked, "when daughters of the so-called best people come out attired scantily in clothing, but abundantly in paint, carry a bottle of liquor, dance as voluptuously as possible, call for frequent intermissions to smoke cigarettes, quench their thirst, and engage in violent petting parties?"

WEDDING BELLS

KEITEL—SHERLOCK.

A quiet wedding was solemnized yesterday, January 8th, by the Rev. S. C. Moore, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Tapson, Bowmanville, when Mrs. Tapson's sister Margaret Sherlock, of Peterborough, was unitedin marriage to Mr. Alexander Keitel.

Mr. and Mrs. Keitel left on the afternoon train for Ottawa, and will be at home to their friends after February 1st, at 503 Bolivar street, Peterborough.

OBITUARY

HELEN SMITH.

The death occurred on Monday evening of Helen Smith, widow of John Smith, of Harvey Township.

The deceased was born in Scotland, but has resided in Harvey Township for a number of years.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon from the family residence, Harvey Township, and thence to Lakehurst Cemetery.

KING GEORGE HOME AND SCHOOL HELD A MEETING

Last evening, a business meeting of the King George Home and School Association was held, the president, Mrs. V. Hamilton, in the chair. The association decided to continue its practice of encouraging sport among the boys and girls of the school by providing the two dollars per night fee for the use of the Mark street rink for school hockey games and practices, supervised by two of the school's teachers, Mr. Leo Copp and Mr. J. E. R. Munro.

ANOTHER DELAY IN HOME BANK CASES

May Be Some Time in April Before Trial is Started.

TORONTO, January 9 (Canadian Press). — The Crown to-day applied to Mr. Justice Ferguson at Osgoode Hall for permission to withdraw its application for a stay of the mandamus proceedings in the Home Bank case, which order had been issued by His Lordship on 27th December.

Mr Justice Ferguson to-day held that he had made the order last month on the understanding that no new charges should be laid until ten days after the Court of Appeal had heard the case.

In accordance with the above view, he refused the application.

As the case now stands the Crown cannot proceed with the conspiracy charges in the Assizes, which open on Monday next, because Mr. Justice Ferguson has ruled, with the concurrence, he states, of Deputy-Attorney-General Bayly, that these charges shall not be tried until ten days after the pronouncement of judgment on the pending appeal.

It is now expected that the trial will be delayed until April at least.

AVALANCHES IN CITY FRIGHTENED HORSES

Several near accidents occurred in the business section of the city today due to avalanches of snow which descended from the roofs. One horse parked on Hunter street was startled when a half ton of snow landed beside it, but stood the shock well. He simply turned from the danger zone to the centre of the street.

Another horse driven by Tom Cox, of the Ocean Blend Tea Co., was of a more nervous disposition, and when a snow slide occurred on Simcoe street at 2:30 he ran away, leaving his rig behind. He was caught by Charles Harrison on Water street, having negotiated the corner of Simcoe and George by a narrow margin, but safely.

IN MEMORIAM.

CAMPBELL. — In loving memory of Robert Campbell, who died Jan. 9th, 1923.:
We who loved you sadly miss you
As it dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are always near.
When the shades of night are falling,
And we are still alone,
There often comes a longing,
If only father could come home.
—Sadly missed by his wife and family.

EXPLOSION OF WHISKEY STILL BELIEVED CAUSE OF FAMILY'S HOLOCAUST

Two Women and Three Children Were Trapped By Swiftly Spreading Flames--Charred Bodies Found Behind Bolted Door--Two Flung Themselves From Window.

Had No Chance to Escape.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Two women and three children, all members of the same family, were killed in a fire that swept through three Brooklyn apartment houses late yesterday. The dead are: Mrs. Mary Esler, 48; her five-year-old son, Steve; her daughter-in-law, Mary, 28, and two grandchildren, Harold, 6, and Catherine, 12, children of Mary and George Esler, Jr.

The fire started in the centre of three buildings that stood in a row. It was in this building that the Esler family lived on the third floor. Harold was killed when he jumped from a window of the apartment and his father was seriously injured when he also jumped from the flames.

"Still" Exploded?

Although the origin of the fire was not definitely established, those directing three investigations—the Fire Marshal's, the District Attorney's and the Fire Department's—worked on the theory that a whiskey still had exploded. They searched for a roughly dressed young man who was reported to have run from the centre building just before the flames broke out.

The victims had no chance to escape, so rapidly did the flames spread, and the first fireman to arrive found the three buildings unconquerable infernos.

Charred almost beyond recognition, the Eslers were found in a heap just inside the front door of their apartment, which was locked.

HALDANE UNLIKELY TO BE LORD CHANCELLOR

Some of Ramsay MacDonald's Appointments Arouse Much Speculation As to Where Incumbents Are to Come From.

LONDON, Jan. 10.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—As has been indicated already it is unlikely that Lord Haldane will be selected as the first labor Lord Chancellor. This is partly because his health is not satisfactory and also because, for rather obscure reasons, the labor leaders are not now so amicably disposed towards him as they were some time ago.

Where the Lord Chancellor is to come from, among the existing peers, is a mystery.

"Truth" makes the interesting suggestion in its issue yesterday that Ramsay Macdonald might resort to the practice of putting the great seal in commission. The lord chancellor, as keeper of the great seal, is not supposed to be privileged to leave England, but when he does, three judges are appointed commissioners to "keep the King's conscience," affix the seal to documents and generally discharge the duties of the lord chancellor.

This of course would deprive the country of three lords justices for judicial work, but there are plenty of ex-lord chancellors available for this.

Another expedient would be the revival of another office known as that of the lord keeper, who would be able to perform the usual duties of the lord chancellor but need not necessarily be a peer and of course would not be able to preside over or address the house of lords.

Such suggestions are very interesting, but it is rather doubtful if the first avowed democratic government in this country would resort to the expedient of reviving usages which were established in the days of King John and were ended when James II. fled the country.

Lawyer's Bid For Reward Ignored

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—The case of Emma Skaffer and Cecile Kwalwesser charged together with their father, now an absentee, with conspiracy to defraud the creditors of the Real American Cap Co. of which Kwalwesser was the proprietor, of $150,000 was again adjourned here yesterday until January 16, the Merchants Association of Montreal, who are prosecutors, being unable to proceed.

Counsel for the association said that a reward of $1,000 had been offered for information regarding the whereabouts of Kwalwesser. Counsel for the defence at once took this up and said that he would give the man's address in court if he were handed the reward. The offer was not accepted. It was stated that Kwalwesser is at present in New York.

TWO KILLED IN FLORIDA FIGHT

Officers Used Machine Guns In Clash With Outlaws in the Everglades.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 10.—Two men were killed and a woman was injured yesterday during a clash between officers and citizens and a band of outlaws in the Florida Everglades, 26 miles north of here. The officers ,using machine guns, fired on the outlaws' camp early yesterday morning. The fight raged all day and last night posses of several citizens and officers were searching the swamp lands for escaped members of the band known as "The Ashley Gang."

Deputy Sheriff Fred Baker, 35, leader of the posse, was shot and killed early in the morning, and Joe Washley, 65, member of the gang, died from gunshot wounds this afternoon.

"King of the Denver Vags" Admits He Didn't Know How to Keep Money—Frittered Away Ten Thousand.

ASK FOR A BED.

DENVER, Jan. 10. — Prosperity was too much for William A. P. Skull, formerly known as "king of Denver Vags," and to-day he is back with the itinerants and down-and-outers who depend upon the whims of fate for a meal and frequently apply at the city jail for a night's lodging.

"Yes, I'm back again," laconically replied Skull, when a desk sergeant at police headquarters uttered a surprised exclamation when the aged man appeared before him Christmas night. "Can I have a bed?"

It was just a year ago that Skull fell heir to a legacy of $10,000 from a sister, Mrs. Fanie Fillmore, who died in Williamsport, Pa.

For five years the old man — he is now 69—had been a familiar character on the streets of Denver, and was known as an "old timer" around the police headquarters. When the announcement came that he was to receive the sizable fortune from his sister's estate Skull was "doing" 30 days in the county jail for vagrancy.

Through the good offices of city chaplain "Jim" Goodheart, he was released and sent on his way rejoicing —with the $10,000.

Skull was born in Pennsylvania. He came to Colorado in his youth, being a pioneer in Sterling, a northern Colorado city. He was successful as an undertaker and amassed a considerable fortune. But about seven years ago his wife died. He then seemed to lose all interest in life, became indolent and rapidly frittered his money away.

And the ten thousand inheritance apparently slipped away from him.

"I took the money and went back to the old town—Sterling," he told police officials. "I thought I would resume the undertaking business but competition appeared too stiff, so I just drifted along.

"I bought some new clothes, and so on—well, I just don't seem to know how to keep money—and I'm down and out again."

Skull has two sons in Sterling, prosperous business men, both of whom are anxious to care for the man, but he prefers to walk the streets of Denver, and when the last dime is gone, go down to the police headquarters for a "flop."

Skull was given a sleeper's ticket to the municipal lodging house but warned that his name will again go to the police books—which will mean a 30-day vagrancy sentence—unless he shows some visible means of support within a reasonable time.

Ask Royal Commission On Bank Amalgamation

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—A special despatch to the Montreal Le Devoir from its Quebec correspondent says that it is very probable that the opposition in the Provincial Legislature will demand a Royal Commission in connection with the amalgamation of the Banque d'Hochelaga and the Banque Nationale. It adds that the Provincial Government will not refuse this demand, so that the whole matter may be threshed out before the Royal Commission. On the other hand the despatch says, the opposition may be satisfied with a parliamentary enquiry.

Farm Machinery Prices Going Up

CALGARY, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—An advance of between 5 and 10 per cent. on the prices of farm machinery and equipment will be made this season, states the Calgary Herald yesterday. The paper adds:

"Either the prices must be advanced slightly, or the manufacturers of farm implements must go under the hammer, definitely state the larger dealers. Labor and the increased cost of raw materials are given as the principal reasons for the advance of prices."

JACK JONES RESENTED ABSENCE OF PEERS AS CONTEMPT OF COMMONS

Small Attendance in the Upper Chamber Aroused Labor Extremist's Delicate Sense of Dignity and of Strict Adherence to Formalism — His Colleagues Embarrassed By Incident.

BALDWIN SEES END.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—An appreciation of the approaching responsibilities of office, which has brought a tone of moderation to the language and sentiments of the leaders and most of the members of the Labor Party, has not yet extended to some of the extremists of that party. The humdrum proceedings of parliament which was engaged yesterday in swearing in the members—a process which was still incomplete when the House adjourned last night—was broken by the violence of John Joseph Jones (Jack Jones), Labor member for West Ham, who because of some fancied grievance against the House of Lords, came into conflict with the Speaker and thereby earned the openly expressed disapproval of the other members of his party.

The occasion was the procession of the Commoners to the Upper House to hear the King's message of approval and the election of the Right Hon. John Henry Whitley as Speaker. There is a mere formality, and only a sprinkling of peers were present. This seems to have incensed Jones, who, with the other members of the House of Commons was in the gallery, from which point of vantage he audibly voiced his resentment.

Alleged Contempt

On the members returning to their own House, Mr. Jones, on a point of order, complained to the Speaker that the peers had treated the Commons with contempt. The Speaker vainly tried to mollify the angry member by promising to inquire into any grievance, but Jones persistently continued the altercation, to the evident embarrassment of his fellow members, who tried to induce him to resume his seat, which they eventually succeeded in doing, and the incident ended.

There were other trifling disturbances of the proceedings owing to the Laborites ignoring the proper order on presenting themselves to the Speaker to take the oath. During the Jones incident another Laborite began to whistle "The Red Flag," but was brought to order by a chorus of shouts.

Some of the London papers complain that at the Albert Hall meeting Tuesday night the audience read ily chanted The Red Flag, but omitted the customary singing of the National Anthem.

Air of Unreality

All political activities of the present moment reflect great uncertainty brooding over the future. The Labor Party, at its meeting yesterday merely re-elected its officers temporarily, pending further developments and this air of unreality surrounds the doings of all the parties. Tht King's speech has still to be drafted and until its terms are known Ramsay MacDonald cannot draft an amendment which will pronounce non-confidence in the Government.

It is even alleged that the ministers are trying to word the royal speech in such a way as to prevent Mr. MacDonald from framing a non confidence amendment that would secure the support of the Liberals. The newspapers are busy making Mr. MacDonald's cabinet, but up to the present, the Labor leader has effectually kept the secret of his proposed appointments.

Question of Salaries

One question much discussed is whether the Labor Party on coming into power will maintain the same sale of salaries for ministers as here tofore. Many references are made to the dictum of the famous Laborite John Burns that no man was worth more than £500 per annum, and it is believed that some of the Labor men are disposed to make a big cut in the scale of the ministerial salaries.

It is recalled however, that when the opportunity presented itself, John Burns accepted £5,000 as president of the Board of Trade.

It is stated, apparently on good authority, that Mr. MacDonald has decided to make no change, because to reduce salaries although it might be popular with the working classes would bring Labor into needless con

Statistics Show Fewer Marriages

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Fewer people are assuming the responsibilities of matrimony in Canada according to vital statistics for March, 1923, prepared by Government officials.

Figures appearing in the report deal with all provinces except Quebec. It is shown that the number of marriages in the registration area covered decreased from 3,761 in March 1921 to 2,607 in March 1922 and 2,591 in March 1923.

The Maritime and Prairie Provinces show decreases while Ontario and British Columbia show fairly good increases.

HUNDREDS DEAD FROM SMALLPOX

Epidemic Rages in Hong-Kong and Kowloon — Hospitals Filled — Vast Number of Vaccinations

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 10.— A smallpox epidemic is raging in Hong Kong and Kowloon and has claimed hundreds of victims according to advices received here from the Yokohama Maru, in-bound from the Orient to Seattle. People dying in the streets, hospitals filled with dying ,and thousands afflicted in lesser degree, are the harrowing details told by the passengers and crew as the Yokohama Maru landed at Victoria yesterday.

A vigorous vaccination campaign has resulted in 230,687 persons receiving injections. In Hong Kong the number of persons vaccinated now totals 170,313 and the Kowloon figure reaches 50,718.

Since Dec. 1 all immigrants on trains and boats from Canton have been directed to the medical depots for vaccination. Over one thousand a day are thus handled.

Each day in Hong Kong about three thousand persons are vaccinated, and in Kowloon the daily average is 1,200. There is a big decrease in the number of vaccinations in the western district and a slight dtcrease in the eastern district. Earlier in the course of the epidemic the number of inoculations in a day reached as high as 10,000.

A distressing feature of the disease is the high mortality among infants.

RAGS FROM RUSSSIA

BERLIN—The German steamship Sophie Marie from Petrograd has brought to Hull, England, 1500 bales of rags, consisting of cut-up uniforms worn by Russian soldiers in the war. There were also many Russian soldiers' shirts and socks.

Chased Bailiffs Kiss Unnecessary

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—Canadian Press)—"It is not necessary to kiss a bailiff on the cheek," said Judge Enright in the Enquette Court here yesterday afternoon dismissing a charge of interference with a police official in discharge of his duty, against J. E. Gervais.

It had been claimed that Gervais prevented two bailiffs from executing a writ of seizure when they called at his house on December 3. Evidence showed that Gervais when the bailiffs told him of their mission, took off his coat, rolled up his sleeves and shouted: "Get Out". The bailiffs went and later had Gervais arrested on the above charge.

"The bailiffs can hardly be expected to be received with open arms," said Judge Enright in dismissing the charge, "and it is not necessary to kiss a bailiff on the cheek."

MANITOBA POOL FOR 1924 WHEAT CROP ENDORSED

Only Three Delegates In Four Hundred Voted Against Approving Resolution — Aimed at Grain Exchange.

LINK UP PROVINCES.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—With three hands raised in protest out of about 400 registered delegates, the United Farmers of Manitoba decided yesterday afternoon at their annual convention to proceed forthwith with the organization of a voluntary contract wheat pool to handle the 1924 crop. Delegates to the convention of United Farm Women meeting apparently at the time, passed the resolution unanimously.

The resolution, which was submitted on behalf of the directors, reads as follows:

"That this convention goes on record as approving of a voluntary contract pool for Manitoba on the general basis now operated in Alberta, looking to the formation of an inter-provincial selling agency and further we recommend that this convention instruct the board to proceed immediately to complete organization."

Five Year Contracts.

The convention discussed the form of contract which Manitoba farmers will be asked to sign. It provides for proceeding with the pool when 40 per cent. of acreage is signed up, instead of providing for fifty per cent. as in Alberta. Otherwise the form is the same as is being used in the western provinces. Contracts are for five years and penalties are provided for non-compliance with their terms. A campaign for signatures will be opened at an early date, and closed on April 1, leaving ample time, in the opinion of the board, for thorough organization for this year's crop.

An effort is to be made to have the three western provinces agree on a common form of contract. Such a uniformity, it was felt would make easier the formation of a common selling agency for the three pools.

R. M. Mangles, a trustee of the Alberta wheat pool, who was present, said in reply to a question that the idea of the wheat pools was to do away with the Winnipeg Grain Exchange which was organized, he said to buy from the producer at the lowest possible price and sell to the consumer at the highest price. "We are after the profits of the grain trade for the producer," he declared.

Want Elevators.

Alberta farmers are fully determined to own their elevator facilities, Mr. Mangles stated. Provision was made by which the trustees could deduct two cents per bushel for securing elevators, and Mr. Mangles suggested that this might be utilized, if the elevator companies did not care to give better terms in their next contract. There was considerable discussion of details of the contract and there was practically no criticism of the basic elements of the pool. "My own object," declared John Seale, "is to see that the blood-sucking vampire called the Grain Exchange put out of business."

Sixteen delegates were nominated for the presidency, but all withdrew except Colin M. Burnell, president for two years, and A. J. H. Poole, director for Neepawa district. A secret ballot was taken and it was announced that Mr. Burnell had been elected. The figures were not given.

Cattle Pool Succeeds.

Cecil Rice-Jones, general manager of the United Grain Growers, Limited, told the convention that in their new cattle pool scheme the company was now handling between 27 per cent. and 28 per cent. of all the cattle marketed in Western Canada, and if this could be increased to fifty per cent. the pool would be in a much more advantageous position. The pool had made money for its patrons and had exercised generally a good influence on the market. Mr. Rice-Jones said that in less than a year the pool had sent 9,000 cattle to the British and European markets and since July had handled 86,000 cattle on the Edmonton, Calgary and Winnipeg markets.

Last night, A. R. McMaster, M. P., addressed the convention on "a fiscal policy for Canada."

DOPE TRAFFIC HAS DECLINED

Imports of Narcotic Drugs Compared With Five Years Ago Quoted As Proof By Health Officials.

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—That the narcotic traffic in Canada is on the decline, especially in large cities where it was on the increase for years, is the opinion expressed by officials of the Federal Health Department who support their contention by figures showing imports of narcotics for five years ending with 1923.

An increasing measure of support from municipal, provincial and federal authorities throughout the Dominion, in the campaign of suppression is cited by departmental officials as one of the chief factors contributing to the satisfactory results obtained.

More stringent penalties for traffickers and addicts provided for in an act of Parliament passed last session, is credited by enforcement authorities with improving conditions by driving many of the small peddlars out of business and rehabilitating numberless victims of the drug.

During 1923 404 persons were convicted of infractions of the Act by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police acting on behalf of the Department of Health. These figures do not include prosecutions by municipal and provincial authorities. Many international smugglers were apprehended by the federal police and customs officers during the year.

Figures show that imports of cocaine fell from 12,322 ounces in the fiscal year 1919 to 2,300 in the fiscal year 1923; morphine from 30,087 in 1919 to 10,998 in 1923, and crude opium from 34,262 in 1919 to 1,272 in 1923.

BIG PASSENGER SHIPS SCARRED BY SEA FURIES

Numerous Small Craft Wrecked Or In Distress By the Heaviest Winter Storm in Years — Tidal Wave Hit the Coast of France.

CREW PERISHED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Beating toward their ports last night were many of the larger trans-Atlantic passenger ships, delayed one to three and four days by the icy gales which for more than a week have lashed the seas, tossing small craft to destruction and driving others aground on barren shores.

The storms, first felt by ships in mid-ocean and within 700 miles of American shores, now have moved eastward, and yesterday from London came reports of many vessels in distress, some sinking, others disabled and unable to make headway in the gales.

In the port of New York yesterday arrived the Lapland, from Southampton; the Laconia, from Liverpool via Halifax, and the George Washington, from Bremen, all showing signs of the battles they had had with the sea furies. The Majestic arrived at Quarantine from Southampton last night.

Expected arrivals tday were the Conte Verdi, from Naples; the President Van Buren, from London; the Esthonia, from Copenhagen, and the Suffren, from Havre.

Sailing Vessels Wrecked.

Wireless reports from these ships have indicated that the winter's first severe storm were the heaviest in years.

In the past week there have been three sailing craft reported wrecked and several steamers in distress near the shores of Canada and the United States. The British schooner Czarina pounded to pieces on the rocky coast of Newfoundland. Her crew was rescued in heavy seas by six daring sailormen from the steamer Cairnmona.

The T. M. Nicholson, a lumber schooner, was reported Monday to have been lost with all hands, off the coast of New England. The Perry Setzer, a four-master, carrying lumber from Jacksonville, Fla., to Fall River, Mass., went aground last night on Long Island. Her crew was taken off by Coast Guards. A schooner believed by officials to be of British registry, has been abandoned 700 miles east of New York.

Louisiana Rescued.

The old battleship Louisiana, in tow to the scrap heap, was abandoned several nights ago by the tugs. With six men aboard she drifted helplessly until picked up by rescue craft. Those aboard had suffered severely from the cold, but the old battler was none the worse for her buffeting.

The tanker Georgia was driven aground on the Florida east coast during the height of the storms and pulled off with difficulty. The Italian freighter Sorriso, reporting by wireless that she was disabled and in need of assistance 350 miles off Cape Hatteras, was picked up by other freighters and at last reports was being escorted to Bermuda.

French Coast Swept.

PARIS, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press).—A tidal wave and storms yesterday wrought havoc along the French Atlantic coast from Finisterre to the Basque country. A number of lives were lost and immense material damage resulted.

Reports from Biarritz, Quimper, Saint Malo, Parame, La Rochelle and Les Sables D'Olonne, on the Bay of Biscay, indicate that all these places were hard hit by the elements. Despatches from St. Nazairre say that during the height of the storm, which was between two o'clock yesterday morning and five o'clock, numerous small boats were thrown against the walls of the embankments and destroyed. At Les Sables D'Olonne, a number of vessels were torn from their anchors. One of them, a fishing boat, was sunk and its crew of six men perished.

The storm raged throughout yesterday. Several wireless appeals from the sea were received at Brest. One of these came from the steamer Tasmania, which was in trouble in Latitude 47.18 and 7.13 Longitude. The message failed to make known which of the several steamers of that name needed aid.

GAVE A DINNER AS A REMINDER

Eighteen Members Celebrate the Happy Old Days in Jail.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Eighteen members of Parliament, all of whom havt served pris on sentences for political offences, got together in a dinner at the House of Commons to recall the happy old days in jail.

The menu of the dinner, held Wednesday evening, carried a design of fetters overgrown with roses and a picture of a prison cell with the star of hope shining through the bars.

Among offences for which the members of parliament had served time were participation in militant suffrage disorders, passive resistance, conscientious objection to the war and anti-vaccination propaganda Both Susan Lawrence and Mrs. Pethick-Lawrence who were among the diners, have been jailed as suffragists.

TRE TRENT CANAL

American Tourists Keenly Interested in it.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Officials in charge of the exhibit place in the annual motorboat show by the department of railways and canals of Canada received fully a thousand inquiries regarding theTrent canal during the first day of the show, which opened Saturday.

The exhibit covers chiefly the Georgian bay district, and he is proving of great interest to owners of small craft, who wish to visit the Dominion by water route next summer. Views covering generally the Canadian canal districts are on exhibition.

TROOPS WERE REMOVED FROM MARION TO-DAY

MARION, Ills., Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press). — The removal of the troops from Marion was in prospect here early to-day, when the "peace meeting" in the hotel room of Adjt.-General Black broke up, and the representatives of the Ku Klux Klan element left for home after almost nine hours of continuous conference.

PUT MUSSOLINI IN HIS PLACE

Argentine Press Tell Italian Premier to Mind His Own Business.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan 10.—(United Press).—The Argentine Press has found it necessary to remind Premier Mussolini of Italy that dictatorial methods are not welcome in the western hemisphere. Mussolini, it is learned has announced his intention of circularizing Italion firms in foreign countries, urging them to employ Italian war veterans.

"La Prenba" declares that this is an example of a certain European political tendency toward the Americans which it cannot assist.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—A splendid example of Medical propaganda as so vividly described in the "Crime of the Century" has reached me from one of your readers. The article is called "driving out diphtheria."

Evidently by the writ, up it is of the same standard as other articles supplied by the Serum advocates. It has been said that "figures can lie and liars can figure." This was the answer given to the Toronto Star by a noted member of Toronto University when the figures were shown him as to the increase of deaths by insulin treatment of Diabetes.

Strange to say the deaths from Cancer, Diabetes, Consumption in Toronto are on the increase too.

As we have to get to facts and these from those whose business it is to give them out, we say without fear that Antitoxin, Insulin, Tubercu lin, and other serums are a menace to health.

Recently in the Supreme Court of Alberta, James O'Malley obtained after a four day trial damages for slander against one doctor for saying anti-Toxin would have saved one of the plantiff's clients.

This notwithstanding that the best medical men had testified for the defendant ,and plaintiff was not allowed to put in sworn evidence or call witnesses. This case shows that public opinion as expressed by a jury of Canadian citizen has the true value on toxins and those who so wonderfully endorse them.

Recently one of the best known medical men elected to public office in this city recently said that he was opposed to the Schick Test. So are many others who have not sufficient courage to come out boldly and condemn the methods of Scare mongers and Serum vendors.

Trusting you will give this the same publicity as accorded to our opponents,

Yours truly,
J. E. HULL.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—At the last meeting of the Board of Education, I stated that the attendance of pupils at the Queen Mary school during the month of December had been somewhat affected by a mild outbreak of chickenpox.

I notice that you question the correctness of my statement. I am not in the habit of making incorrect statements and the remark I made is absolutely correct.

The teachers of the Queen Mary staff received, during December, direct notices that eighteen of their pupils were away from school on account of chickenpox. I am pleased to say that fifteen of these have returned with doctors' certificates stating that they are now free of contagion. In five of the certificates chickenpox is specified.

You quote figures showing only four cases in the whole city during December. Such vigilance as this would force one to conclude that poor old Rip Van Winkle must have had the insomnia. I remain,

Yours very truly,
A. MOWAT.

NORTHERN CANDIDATES SEEK N. D. WARDENSHIP

Reeves Davidson, Van Volkenburg and Fowlds Have Strong Claims in United Counties—Lake Shore Municipalities Have Had Big Share of Honor.

CAMPBELLFORD, January 10.—The selection of a warden for the United Couties of Northumberland and Durham on the opening night of the Jannary session of the Counties Council on the 22nd is one in which this town and district have an unusual interest. There are three candidates in the field from this end of the county which, according to custom, is permitted to hold the honor for this year. These are Reeve Chas. H. Davidson of town, Reeve George S. Van Volkenburg of Seymour township and Reeve Walter Fowlds, of Hastings. The only other candidate mentioned so far is Reeve McColl, of Brighton township.

The town of Campbellford, the most important urban centre in Northumberland county, with the exception of Cobourg, has had the wardenship only once. That was thirty years ago, C. L. Owen, at that time reeve of Campbellford, being elected to the position in 1804. When J. A. Irwin was reeve he was a candidate for the honor, being at that time the youngest member of the counties council. He lost by a narrow margin. He had been out of the council the preceding year and his fact militated against him, as seniority of service, so long as it had been continnous, being one of the main factors in the election.

Charles H. Davidson is a veteran memberof the counties council, but he was not there last year. There is no question, either as to his popularity or his fitness for the office, so that he is likely to be one of the leaders when the vote is taken.

In 1914 Alex. Hume of Seymour township, was Warden, and the counties never had a better official in that position. That was the year that the Duke of Connaught, then Governor-General of Canada, paid his official visit to Cobourg, where he inspected the counties building, the corner stone of which had been laid in 1860 by his brother, the late King Edward, when the latter, as Prince of Wales, made a tour of Canada. As Warden it was part of the duty of Mr. Hume to take a prominent part in the welcome extended to the Duke.

Residents of the township of Seymour pride themselves on two outstanding claims. They maintain that they have the leading agricultural township in the two counties and that Seymour has had the Wardenship oftener than any other rural municipality. They are supporting the candidature of Reeve Van Volkenburg who is serving his seventh consecutive term as the township representtaive at Cobourg. Reeve Van Volkenburg enjoys the confidence of his colleagues in the counties council. In 1922, when the Wardenship came to Northumberland, he was a prominent candidate with Reeve Davidson of Campbellford, but both lost out after nearly 20 ballots had been taken, to Harry Phillips, reeve of Brighton village.

Hastings Has Claim.

Hastings has never had the honor of sending to Cobourg a representative who reached the Wardenship, but the ambitious village is hopeful that Reeve Fowlds will be able to set a new record. Mr. Fowlds is known as one of the hardest workers either in committee or on the floor of the council chamber, and perhaps no member has so many progressive measures to his credit. If any one of the three reeves above mentioned wears the gown of the Warden this year, the other two candidates will be among the first to offer their congratulations and the voters will also be willing to accept the result, convinced that the new official is efficient and to be trusted to look after the welfare of the people without regard to location.

Evidently the residents of the lake side of Northumberland have ambition above the average. Whatever virtues they may possess modesty does not appear to be on the list. M. E. Maybee, at present Northumberland's Federal representative, was Warden in 1920, from Murray township. In 1922 Harry Phillips, reeve of Brighton village, was elected Warden. Now the adjoining township of Brighton has a candidate. If the latter is successful this will mean that three Wardens have been chosen in succession from municipalities within speaking distance of each other.

CHOP BODY FROM TORONTO BAY ICE

John Pewtrees Believed Worried Over Real Estate Deal and Suicided

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—Frozen in the ice of Toronto bay a short distance from Mugg's Landing, the body of John Pewtress, aged sixty, missing real estate broker, was found last evening by police officers.

Pewtress had been missing since December 24, when he left his office on Church street. A note on his desk stated that he would never be back. Worry over a loss in a real estate transaction, police believe, was the cause of Pewtress's action. The police had to borrow axes to chop the body out of the ice.

EMPLOYMENT FAIR IN THE PROVINCE

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press.) — Summarizing conditions existing in provincial cities and towns the weekly bulletin of the Government employment service issued yesterday, described them as "only fair."

"The Christmas trade provided employment for a number of men and women, but this, of course, was of a temporary nature only," states the bulletin. "Men are still being sent to the bush, in some centres in large numbers. Orders for farm help are being filled from time to time. The heavy snowfalls for the past few days have provided employment for many of the unemployed."

A DISTRIBUTION OF FOODSTUFFS

LONDON, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press).—The final report of the Departmental Committee, of which the Marquis of Linlithgow is chairman, organized to investigate the distribution and prices of agricultural produce, declares that the problem of cheap and efficient distribution of foodstuffs is one of the most pressing and most important with which modern society is faced. It is, says the report, already engaging world-wide attention, and mention is made of the fact that similar enquiries are being conducted in a number of countries, including the United States, New South Wales and South Africa.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odour, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% kerosene (coil oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

CONSERVATIVE SWEEP NOT LIBERAL DEFEAT

Hartley Dewart Reaffirms Faith in Principles of Liberalism -- Blames Progressives.

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 10. Canadain Press. — Hartley Dewart, K.C., speaking last night at one of the largest Liberal rallies in the history of the local organization, declared that the Conservative sweep in Ontario last January was not a Liberal defeat, but rather a protest of the electorate against the misgovernment of the Drury-Raney-Doherty faction. Its reign, he believed, has happily passed for ever. Among the causes that had contributed to the somewhat chaotic conditions in Canadian politics was the entrance of the third "Progressive" group, which had introduced a wedge into the Federal and Ontario arena. This group, however, had proved an alliance without any bind to its cement.

Mr. Dewart deplored the defection of Rowell and others from the ranks of Liberalism. This was due, he said, to their placing personal political preferment before the consistent advocacy of Liberal principles.

MILLBROOK SOCIETIES HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

"Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge Received Three New Members—Charles Lunn Elected District Master of the Cavan Orangemen.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES.

MILLBROOK, January 10. — The annual meeting of the Cavan District L.O.L. was held in the Orange Hall, Millbrook, on Tuesday afternoon, the attendance being good considering the unfavourable state of the roads. The retiring District Master, H. Boddy, occupied the chair, and after the year's reports had been received the following officers were elected for 1924:

D.M.—Charles Lunn.
P.D.M.—H. Roddy.
D.D.—Wesley Fallis.
Chaplain—R. M. Paterson.
R.S.—J. Roddy.
Treasurer—M. Todd.
D. of C.—Hector Jewison.
Lecturer—W. Williamson.

Ladies' Aid Officers.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Grace Presbyterian Church was held in the church parlours on Saturday, when the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. H. W. Johnston.
1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. J. Hunter.
2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. W. E. Ball.
Secretary, Mrs. R. J. McKnight.
Treasurer, Mrs. J. R. Eakins.

The Aid has had a most successful year, their activities, each of which met with deserved success, including the serving of the annual dinner at the agricultural dining-hall on Fair Day, a fowl supper in November, and a bazaar in the Armouries in December an amount approximating $300.00 being cleared in each instance.

A gift of $30.00 was made to the church session toward current expenses, and many other responsibilities were undertaken, the officers and members deserving much credit for the careful forethought and unselfish labour with which they carried out the year's work.

Methodist Ladies Meet.

The home of Mrs. J. E. and Miss May Needham was the scene of a pleasant social gathering on Tuesday afternoon when the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church was entertained for their first meeting of the New Year, a fair number being in attendance.

The chair was taken by the president, Miss Needham, who conducted the business and devotional periods. The hymns chosen were from the works of the late Rev. S. Baring-Gould, whose death occurred last week in England. Previous to the opening hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," a brief sketch of the author's life was read and the fact noted that he began his literary career at the age of twenty, and continued it for seventy years, publishing his latest book in June of last year.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Rose Edmunds, the treasurer, Miss Duncan, read the minutes of the last meeting, and called the roll. The Scripture lesson was chosen from the 91st Psalm.

At the conclusion of the business session a brief programme was enjoyed, special numbers being vocal solos, "In the Garden" and "How Sweet is His Love," by Mrs. H. W. Johnston, and a reading, "Farmer Whipple, Bachelor," by Miss A. Hampton.

A delicious tea was served in the dining-room by Mrs. and Miss Needham at the close, and a social hour, during which music was furnished by Mrs. Johnston and others, brought a most successful and enjoyable gathering to its conclusion.

A hearty vote of thanks to the hostesses, and those assisting with the programme ,was moved by Miss Hampton, seconded by Mrs. Tucker, the warm handclap which followed showing how thoroughly it met with the approval of all present.

The Wide-Awakes C.G.I.T. group will furnish the programme and refreshments at the February meeting, the place of meeting to be announced later.

W.M.A, Annual Meeting

The following officers for the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of Grace Presbyterian church were elected at their last meeting, the annual gathering when the year's reports will be received being put off until the third Wednesday in January to allow all necessary data to be colected:

President, Mrs. (Rev.) C. S. Gervan; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. H. W. Johnston; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. J. D. Hunter; Secretary, Mrs. J. R. Eakins; Treasurer, Mrs. R. J. Doak; Bale Secretary, Mrs. W. T. A. Deyell; "Messenegr Secretary, Mrs. W. E. Ball; Expense Secretary, Mrs. H. Johnston; Auditor, Mrs. W. E. Russell; Finance Committee: Convenor Mrs. R. J. Doak, Mrs. Pritchard, Mrs. J. Kennedy and Miss Gardiner.

The work of the Strangers' Secretary and the Home Helpers' Secretary is divided among the officers who will jointly undertake what is needed in this regard, the amount of such work in a small place being light.

Rebekah Initiation

"Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge No. 176, held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening about sixty being in attendance—a good showing when the unfavorable state of the roads was considered. Three candidates, Misses Thelma Ball, Lillian Syer, and Florence Larmer, were presented for initiation in the Rebekah Degree, the newly-elected officers giving their respective charges in a most impressive manner.

The brief address given by Bro. (Rev.) G. S. Gervan when the degree work was completed, was inspiring, the Noble Grand, Sister E. Vance, expressing the feeling of all present when in thanking the speaker she explained that the lodge is always helped by the ideals which he sets before those in charge.

A delightful lunch was served at the close and a pleasant social time enjoyed. The installation staff from Peterboro and other points will be present at the next regular meeting, Tuesday, January 22nd., to install the officers for 1924.

Curling Scores

As a result of the first of the inter-rink curling matches for this season, rink No. 1, R. E. Edmunds, skip; J. Lancashire, D. Sheppard and D. Robinson were defeated by Rink No. 2, J. Steele, skip; A. McCorry, G. E. Burnham and Basil Richards, by a score of 29-4.

Rink No. 5, Ross Edmunds, skip; A. A. Smith, G. S. Gervan and G. Elson, lost to rink No 4, J. E. Allen skip; T. H. Bradley, R. Hutchison, and W. Thorn, the score being 12-10

Rev S. T. Tucker and son Ewart went to Toronto and attended the recital given by Paderewski in Massey Hall that evening, returning home on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dawson left for Peterborough on Saturday evening spending the week end and going on to Warsaw in time for the opening of his school on Monday morning.

The Continuation and Public Schools re-opened on Monday, the teachers, who have been holidaying at their respective homes, Miss Todd at Burk's Falls, Miss Anna Russell and Miss C. McConnachie, in Cavan and Centreville, and Misses K. Sutton and I. Handley, Millbrook, being on hand for their various rooms.

A PRESENTATION AT CAMPBELLFORD

Mission Circle Honor Mrs. Walter E. Scott-Personals

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 10.—The young ladies of the Mizpah Mission Circle of the Methodist Church, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bateson on Wednesday night, to spend the evening with Mrs. Walter E. Scott, (nee Miss Jean Kenyon) and also to present to her a half dozen silver coffee spoons

The address was as follows:

Mrs. W. E. Scott,
Campbellford.

Dear Friend, We have gathered to spent a social evening and also to express in some slight degree our appreciation of your efforts as a member of the young Ladies' Mission Circle of the Methodist Church. Your noble qualities of head and heart have done much to enliven our social gatherings, and your untiring zeal for the promotion of our work, will be an incentive to us to continue our efforts in the cause which is so dear to all of us.

Time and necessity bring many changes and should you be called upon, to remove from us, be assured dear Jean, that the best wishes of many friends will follow you to your new home.

Please accept this litte token of our appreciation and may we express the hope that it will serve as a memento of the pleasant associations among your friends of the Campbellford Methodist Mission Circle.

(Signed) Stella Keir, President; Eva Chessell, vice-president; Gladys Plumpton, treasurer.

Personal Mention

Mr. John Hay, Sr., and son Mr. Bert Hay of Seymour East, who have been spending a few days in Niagara, at the home of the former's son, Kenneth, returned home on Wednesday.

Mrs. I. T. Frederick, Grand Road, entertained a number of her friends at her home on Tuesday after noon and others on Wedesday afternoon.

Mrs. Neil Morrison, Rear street, entertained a few lady friends at bridge, on Wednesday night.

Miss Clemens of Bowmanville, is visiting her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dawson.

ALBERTA LEGISLATURE MAY HAVE 32 MEMBERS

CALGARY, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press).—At a meeting attended by representatives of every interest that claims membership in the organization, the Committee of Commerce and Agriculture passed a unanimous resolution that the Legislature of Alberta should be reduced to two members from every Federal electoral division after redistribution—approximately a House of thirty-two instead of the present sixty-one members.

A further resolution was passed setting out that these members should be elected in each constituency by preferential ballot.

NEW SOCIETY IS CALLED FRIENDS OF LOUIS RIEL

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press). — "The Friends of Louis Riel" is the name of a society just launched in Winnipeg and St. Boniface, with the object of erecting a monument to the leader of the Metisse movement of 1869-70 and 1885.

The Society announces its intention of first doing a great deal of necessary educational work to "clear up the historical data on the times of Riel."

EUGENE LAFLEUR BEEN RETAINED AS COUNSEL

REGINA, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press).—Eugene Lafleur, K.C., of Montreal, has been retained as counsel by the Saskatchewan Government to voice the protest of the Government against the Grain Futures Tax Act passed by the Legislature of Manitoba at its last session. The matter will soon come up for argument before the Supreme Court of Canada on February 5, it was announced by Col. J. A. Cross, Attorney-General, yesterday.

DECISIVE BLOW ON TWO FRONTS OBREGON'S PLAN

Mexican President Will Himself Give the Signal For Advance — Troops, Planes and Munitions Massed For Attack.

CAPITAL IS NORMAL.

WASHINGTON, Jan 10—A major offensive against the Guadalajara rebels in Mexico is to be launched at once by the Obregon forces, the Mexican Embassy here said in a statement yesterday outlining the military situation in Mexico.

"President Obregon," the statement said, "left Mexico City this morning for Irapuato, to personally give the signal for the advance. The attack will be against every unit of the rebel army under General Estrada and will be the plan of the federal forces to deal a decisive blow Troops, munitions and planes have been massed about Irapuato for several days in preparation for the drive

"Simultaneously an offensive will be launched on the east front, (the Vera Cruz rebels under General Sanuchez). Here, too elaborate preparations have been made to strike a decisive blow. Desperate efforts have been made by the Vera Cruz rebels to interrupt communication between Mexico City and the north so as to delay troops' movements of loyal federals from various States.

"A small band of rebels appeared at Sabinas, but General Perez dispersed them and is now pursuing them in the mountains.

"Pubic service continues normal between Mexico City and the north."

BANISH WITCHES FROM STORIES FOR CHILDREN

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 10.—(Canadian Press)—Dr. A. D. Blackader, Montreal, addressed the Hamilton medical association last night. He advocated better pay for teachers and smaller classes.

He said the development of sound bodies and strong minds in children required greatest attention and study especially to the nervous, restless children, these who are unrestrained, and the sullen type with little sense of humor. The imagination should be encouraged and controlled. Fairy taes of the right kind should be permitted but under no consideration were tales of goblins and witches to be permitted.

GROWTH OF THE BRITISH LABOR PARTY

LONDON, Jan. 10.—(Associated Press).—The Labor Party in England since 1900 has increased more than 21 fold its number of representatives in Parliament and more than 37 fold its total vote.

In 1900 the party elected nine representatives in Parliament and polled 118,003 votes. In 1923 it elected 192 members and polled 4,386,845 votes.

SOME LUMBERMEN ARE EXTRAVAGANT

OTTAWA, Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press).—"Slash" disposal was the question before the Federal-Provincial Forestry Conference at yesterday afternoon's session.

"Slash" is the term applied to the brush left upon the forest floor by lumber operators. That this brush was a frequent cause of forest fires and that it made such conflagrations hard to fight was the concensus of opinion expressed by the delegates.

Disposal of brush left after the marketable timber had been removed would cost the timber interests money and would have a direct bearing upon marketing. For this reason it was felt that any regulations compelling the disposal of "slash" should be applied uniformly in all provinces. Consideration was also given to the possibility of research evolving some use for the lumbering debris.

A NEW WAY TO MAKE RATEPAYERS PAY UP

SUDBURY, January 9. — Blind River has found a new way of making ratepayers pay up. Some years ago Council passed a by-law which required a ratepayer to have paid all back taxes before being eligible to vote, but until this year Council was always elected by acclamation.

This year there was a hot fight for Council, and all last week taxes were coming in ,while on election day the town's receipts went up $1,000, a lot of it being taxes due two and three years.

YOUNGEST M.P. IS 24 YEARS OLD

LONDON, Jan. 10.—(Associated Press).—The youngest member of Parliament as a result of the recent elections is the Hon. Charles A. U. Rhys, who won the Romford division. He is 24 years old, and has had no previous political experience. He is the eldest son and heir of Lord Dynevor and is an officer of the Grenadier Guards.

STAMP COLLECTORS MAKE PROTEST

MUNICH, Jan. 10.—(Associated Press).—Stamp collectors here have been complaining of the careless way in which stamps are cancelled. As a result postal authorities have ordered all clerks to do their work with great care, so stamps will not be rendered useless to collectors by having ink smudged all over them.

CANADIAN AMBASSADOR TO GO TO WASHINGTON

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 10. — (Canadian Press.)—Canada will be represented by an Ambassador at Washington within a short time, the Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals in the Dominion Cabinet, said yesterday. He declined to give any hint as to who would be selected for the office.

Over a Million People trade with us each week

MOST of them are women—thrifty housewives who "set a good table" but buy where they get the most for their money.

They trade at Dominion Stores.

Here in these stores, each a part of the greatest retail grocery organization in Canada, they shop—and save. Many are wives of poor men. Others are well-to-do. Yet, one and all, they are guided by a sturdy sense of thrift.

If you, too, would save on your grocery bill, shop at a Dominion Store, as these women do. The same high standard quality, the same goods, the same nationally known brands as elsewhere, but the price tag tells the story of Dominion Stores' economies and savings.

Three Hundred Stores! "There's One Near You!"

And whichever one you shop at—you'll save money.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 10, 1924.

A SHORT MEMORY.

A despatch from Regina, dated January 5th, states that three thousand German families are waiting to emigrate to Canada and the first batch will probably sail in February or March. Dr. Pressuc Sherber, manager of the Association of German Immigrants, states that every assistance to the scheme of settling these Germans in Western Canada is being offered by the authorities at Ottawa.

Surely, if the foregoing statements are true, the powers that-be at Ottawa must be afflicted with short memories to encourage in any way the immigration and settlement of Germans in any part of Canada, says the Kingston Whig. It is not so long ago that the flower of young Canadian manhood fought and bled and died to crush the menace to everything we consider good and desirable, which the name "German" stood for. Why should Canada be made a dumping ground for such an undesirable element? Are we, through our Immigration Department, in anyway justified in taking a stick to break our own backs? Our returned soldiers and the taxpayers who have to pay their share of the cost of a costly war will assuredly protest against such methods of procuring settlers.

A JUVENILE COURT.

Some discussion took place at the meeting of the Children's Aid Society the other day as to the necessity of a juvenile court in Peterborough for the hearing of cases in which juvenile offenders are involved.

The principle of a juvenile court is admirable, and in large centres where a multiplicity of cases arise every yar there is a real need for such an organization.

There is room to doubt, however, the present necessity in Peterborough of a court solely for the hearing of juvenile cases.

The number of young delinquents is not nearly large enough to provide work for a special court of this nature.

On the other hand the few juveniles who do get into trouble are assured of every consideration at the hands of the Police Magistrate, who can be relied upon to deal with such offenders with judgment and discretion.

Juvenile cases are heard in camera, no publicity is permitted, and having regard to all these circumstances there does not seem to be any urgent need of going to the expense of providing a juvenile court to hear a dozen or two cases a year.

There are many things Peterborough needs much more than a juvenile court.

BRITISH PREFERENCE IN IMMIGRATION.

The decision on the part of the Dominon Government as announced by Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Immgration, to provide cheaper fares for British immigrats coming to Canada will be heard with approval.

A British preference in immigration will be popularly received by the majority of Canadians, who naturally wish to see this country filled up with people of British birth rather than by settlers from other parts of the world.

British immigrants under the new scheme are to get twenty per cent. of their fare refunded to them on arrival in Canada, an advantage in their favour over passage over other immigrants.

This concession is expected to encourage the coming to Canada of many old country people and to help turn the tide of immigration preponderantly British.

There are many opinions as to the best immigration policy for Canada, and Hon. Mr. Robb must often be perplexed by the multiplicity of counsel thrust upon him.

But as to the desirability of endeavouring by any feasible means to bring suitable types of settlers from the British Isles there is no conflict of opinton.

Canadians must prefer to hear announcements about cheaper rates for British immigrants than they do to learn that a proposition is on foot to bring several thousand Germans into Western Canada.

CIVIC COMMONPLACES—A RECAPITULATION.

For the past few days the Examiner has discussed a different phase each day of civic administration, as outlined by the Citizens' Research Institute.

There was no attempt to present anything new or novel—as was explained in the first article. The facts were "what every taxpayer knows and usually lets it go at that, commonplaces tiresome to hear about and still more tiresome to act upon."

The five are repeated today in the hope that they may be filed for reference purposes by our civic rulers and possibly kept by many citizens as a reminder of their responsibility towards the city in which they live.

No. 1.—There is no use protesting against taxes when the expenditure producing the taxes has been authorized by the taxpayers or the taxpayers' representatives in the City Council.

No. 2.—When a city borrows money the taxpayers and the users of public services have to pay it back with interest.

No. 3.—Civic expenditure, and, therefore, civic taxation is bound to increase if the duties of nominating candidates, electing legislators and voting on money by-laws are matters of indifference to the majority of the citizens and taxpayers.

No. 4.—The greater the number of administrative departments the greater the difficulty of controlling expenditure and securing that thorough co-operation which is necessary to secure the greatest possible return in service from any given expenditure.

No. 5.—Centralization of purchasing power and centralization of purchasing control, given proper administration, save money.

Self-evident truths are a solid foundation for "policy" and action.

Is not the time come to dust off some of the commonplaces and put them to work?

SHOULD HAVE A REAL CHOICE.

Some years ago the municipal elector system in Peterborough was changed in order to prevent the undesirable practice followed by many electors of voting for only one or two candidates—in other words, of "plumping" for their choice.

There is much to commend in the regulation that requires an elector to vote for at least four Aldermen.

But when that change was drafted it was not anticipated that there would be so much apathy among citizens generally that a field of six aspirants would fight it out for five positions as was the case in the recent civic election.

With a small list of candidates the vote-for-four-men rule is far from satisfactory, as the majority of the electors who took the trouble to vote last week found out for themselves.

They had to vote for four or have their ballot spoiled, and the result was that many voters were forced to vote for candidates whom they would not under other circumstances have supported.

The remedy is not to change the system, but to arouse sufficient interest in municipal elections and civic government to ensure a field of candidates large enough to give the electors a real choice as to how they will vote.

The fact that four Aldermen must be voted for should be sufficient reason for a demand for more concern about the civic administration—at least sufficient concern to bring out more than half a dozen candidates.

COURAGE ALL UNKNOWN.

The world looks askance at the professional pugilist, says the Montreal Star. He is generally considered not a nice person to know, although the advent of Georges Carpentier, society idol of Paris, as an exponent of the "noble art" went far to minimize the ancient prejudice. Still, men who earn their living by battering their fellows into legalized unconsciousness are not held up as models of social service. It by no means follows that they cannot be men in the real sense of the word, however. One of the craft has just died, and in Billy Miske there was a good deal of the old heroic strain. He was told four years ago that he had Bright's disease and must retire from the ring if he wanted to have any chance of living. But he had just lost all his savings in an unfortunate deal. He had a wife and three children. "If I am going to die, it might as well be in the ring as in bed," he told the doctors. "Tell me what to do and I will beat this sickness." He went on fighting, knowing perfectly well that he was hastening his death, but sustained by the knowledge that he was also earning money in the only way he knew how to keep his wife and family from a pauper's fate after he had gone. The world hears a lot of courageous deeds, but there is just as much of human virtue and just as much that is admirable and inspiring in this sort of courage—the courage all unknown that greets the Great Unknown without fear for the sake of loved ones to be left behind.

THE INVESTOR'S PRAYER.

(Reprinted from the Quebec Daily Telegraph, Dec. 31st, 1923.)

To the Editor of the Quebec Daily Telegraph:

Dear Sir,—No doubt the papers throughout Canada today will be filled with optimistic letters from our prominent citizens, both in Government and financial circles.

All the prayers that will be offered for the New Year, are destined to inspire every Canadian with new energy and confidence to face coming events.

May I be permitted to make a sincere and humble prayer for a class which seems to have little or no representation, in any phase of commercial life, excepting that of supplying the capital for the development of our natural resources?

I want to say a word for the poor investor.

May the president and directors of companies, in whom we have had such confidence in the past, realize that the investing capital in Canada has received such fearful shocks and met with such disastrous losses through the incompetence or dishonesty of presidents, directors or officials of companies, that unless there is a concerted effort on the part of shareholders, to group together for their own defense and protection, it will be next to impossible to obtain capital for the creation of new business, unless the whole country is mortgaged to outsiders to obtain same.

May the Department of Justice of this country, cast aside sentiment and punish those who are responsible for the misappropriation of funds of our commercial and financial institutions and the misdirecting of our commercial enterprises into channels for self-interest.

May the Government that stands by and looks on when our country is being disrupted by promoting vultures, who are filling our companies with watered stock for their own personal benefit, be checkmated by legislation, not only in Provincial but in the Federal Government.

May our commercial and financial institutions be conducted in such a manner as to regain the confidence not only of the small and large investor, but also so that the hard-earned savings of the emigrant who is so badly required in this country, be properly safeguarded.

May the investor, a class without any general associations of protection, appreciate the efforts of a number of the leading brokers and citizens of this country, to attack and destroy the autocratic rule of men who forget that they owe their wealth and position to the small investor.

May the leading brokers of this country who are now espousing the cause of their investors and appealing to justice for the punishment of those who are responsible for the wrecking of our companies, be rewarded by the reinstatement of that confidence in Canada's future.

Such is the fervent prayer of

"AN INVESTOR."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Britain is to have a Labour Cabinet, and it looks as if Mackenzie King is having considerable labour re-constructing his.

A British Parliamentary report declares that betting is on the increase among women. However, there is no reason why the men should claim the sole privilege of picking a loser.

Toronto organizations resent the amount of publicity given the Ryan case by the evening papers of the Queen City. It must be admitted that the latter did not overlook a detail, however minute.

With Hon. T. A. Crerar and Hon. Chas. Dunning expected in Ottawa today, it may be said that there is a certain liveliness in the political situation

NEWS FROM KEENE AND THE DISTRICT

Otonabee Agricultural Society Concludes Another Year—News of Interest.

KEENE, Jan. 9. — The annual meeting of the Otonabee Agricultural Society will be held in the town hall, Keene, on Friday, January 18th, at one o'clock p.m., for the purpose of receiving and disposing of the report of the board of directors, for the election of officers for the ensuing year, for the revision of by-laws and for any other business in connection with the society.

Funeral Tuesday.

The funeral of Mr. Benjamin Kindred was held from the Methodist church on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A large concourse of friends gathered to pay their last tribute of respect. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The pallbearers were six members of the official board of the church, of which the deceased had held the position as secretary-treasurer, so faithfully, for 2 years. Following the service the remains were laid to rest in Pine Grove cemetery.

Agricultural School.

The Agricultural school re-opened on Monday with an enrollment of twenty-five (25) young ladies, and sixteen young men. Our junior Public school has an enrollment of fifty, while the continuation class numbers thirty (30) members, a total of one hundred and twenty-one (121) pupils attending school here this winter, which has added much to the life of the village.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—The average of prices for butchers was 15c to 25c a cwt. higher than on Monday, but being weighed before fed, this would perhaps bring prices to about a parity. Any exporters are being bought at 7½c to 7¾c a lb., and packers are buying a few heavies, 1,300 lbs. and over at the same prices.

Any choice vealers brought 12c up, and good calves went at 10c and 11c.

In the lambs the quality was none too good. Light lambs were in enquiry from 13c to 13½c and the heavier ones sold steady at 12½ to 13c for ewes. Choice butchers sheep are firm at 7c to 7½c a lb.

With about 4,000 hogs yesterday, packers are hoping to get the price down to $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b. The majority of sales on Tuesday was at $8 a cwt. Several cars of western hogs have come in this week.
